IF I HAD YOUR FACE

A Novel

IF I HAD YOUR FACE plunges us into the mesmerizing world of contemporary Seoul - a place where extreme plastic surgery is as routine as getting a haircut, where women compete for spots in secret 'room salons' to entertain wealthy businessmen after hours, where K-Pop stars are the object of all-consuming obsession, and ruthless social hierarchies dictate your every move.

Navigating this hyper-competitive city are four young women balancing on the razor-edge of survival: Kyuri, an exquisitely beautiful woman whose hard-won status at an exclusive 'room salon' is threatened by an impulsive mistake with a client; her flatmate Miho, an orphan who wins a scholarship to a prestigious art school in New York, where her life becomes tragically enmeshed with the super-wealthy offspring of the Korean elite; Wonna, their neighbour, pregnant with a child that she and her husband have no idea how they will afford to raise in a fiercely competitive economy; and Ara, a hair stylist living down the hall, whose infatuation with a fresh-faced K-Pop star drives her to violent extremes.

Frances Cha is a graduate of Dartmouth College and the Columbia MFA program, and a former travel & culture reporter for CNN in Seoul. She currently lives in New York City with her family.

THE LIES THAT BIND

A Novel

It's 2 A.M. on a Saturday night in the spring of 2001, and twenty-eight-year-old Cecily Gardner sits alone in a dive bar in New York's East Village, questioning her life. As Cecily reaches for the phone to call her ex-boyfriend, she hears a guy on the barstool next to her say, "Don't do it—you'll regret it." Something tells her to listen, and over the next several hours—and shots of tequila—the two forge an unlikely connection. That should be it, they both decide the next morning, as Cecily reminds herself of the perils of a rebound relationship. Moreover, their timing couldn't be worse—Grant is preparing to quit his job and move overseas. Yet despite all their obstacles, they can't seem to say goodbye, and for the first time in her carefully constructed life, Cecily follows her heart instead of her head.

Then Grant disappears in the chaos of 9/11. Fearing the worst, Cecily spots his face on a missing-person poster, and realizes she is not the only one searching for him. Her investigative reporting instincts kick into action as she vows to discover the truth. But the questions pile up fast: How well did she really know Grant? Did he ever really love her? And is it possible to love a man who wasn't who he seemed to be? THE LIES THAT BIND is a mesmerizing and emotionally resonant exploration of the never-ending search for love and truth—in our relationships, our careers, and deep within our own hearts.

Emily Giffin is the author of nine internationally bestselling novels: Something Borrowed, Something Blue, Baby Proof, Love the One You're With, Heart of the Matter, Where We Belong, The One & Only, First Comes Love, and All We Ever Wanted. - An exuberant debut novel telling the story of two men swept up in refugee crises of the twenty-first century.

Praise for THE FIRE IN HIS WAKE:

“THE FIRE IN HIS WAKE addresses pressing themes of our times—migration, human rights, and the refugee crisis. Splendidly ambitious both in narrative scope and formal innovation.... Wolff has managed, with enviable dexterity and sensitivity, to tell the story of an African without reducing his humanity or pretending to comprehend or subliminate his suffering.”

—Nyul Lueth Tong, editor-in-chief of the Bare Life Review

“THE FIRE IN HIS WAKE is a work of extraordinary empathetic and imaginative power. With a lot of heart, and in vivid prose.”

—Thomas Chatterton Williams, author of Self-Portrait in Black and White

“At this dark hour of shuttered borders and hearts, can the novel still expose a human truth that finds no footing in statistics or news reports? With incandescent lyricism and wry fury, Spencer Wolff’s THE FIRE IN HIS WAKE builds to its remarkable answer: only by confronting the existential fullness of today’s refugees, migrants, and so many abandoned aspirants—the picaresque comedy alongside the tragedy—can we see that it is those of us living in the shadow of fences and walls who are truly adrift.”

—Greg Jackson, author of Prodigals: Stories

“A devastating and infuriating story written with compassion, style, and grace. Beyond the harrowing depictions of torture and war, this chilling tale of a heartbreaking life is, at its core, a struggle to come to terms with something much worse: the maddening hypocrisy at our borders, the violence that Western powers inflict on the stories of refugees who arrive at their doors.”

—Dina Nayeri, author of The Ungrateful Refugee

THE FIRE IN HIS WAKE

A Novel

THE FIRE IN HIS WAKE recounts the journey of Arès, a Congolese refugee left for dead in the wake of ethnic violence. Arès’ fate, like the fate of millions, sends him on a kinetic flight across northern Africa with Europe as his goal. When he reaches Rabat, Morocco, he binds himself to a desperate community of exiles and meets Simon, a young UN worker, whose journey is altogether different but no less fraught.

While Arès struggles to rebuild his life and come to terms with his past, Simon grapples with the moral compromises inherent in his profession and position. Part sweeping portrait of life in the Maghreb, part epic tale of hope and perseverance, THE FIRE IN HIS WAKE carries the reader from the administrative reckonings of the UN staff to the daily hazards faced by the refugees in the streets and on their risky crossings to Europe. When a storm gathers at the UNHCR, and the ghosts of the Congo’s violence unexpectedly surface in Rabat, the two men find themselves on a collision course, setting the stage for the novel’s unforgettable and genre-busting ending.

Spencer Wolff is a former UN worker in Rabat, Morocco, who has worked directly with refugee populations and has witnessed firsthand the pain and frustration of displaced persons. A photographer and filmmaker, Spencer is the recipient of an Overseas Press Club Award for his work at The New York Times, and his feature-length documentary STOP premiered at DOC NYC and was awarded a Silver Gavel by the American Bar Association. He holds a PhD in Comparative Literature from Yale University. He speaks French, Spanish, Italian, and German fluently, and is proficient in Portuguese. Spencer splits his time between New York and Paris.

THE RETURN

A Novel

Trevor never intended to move back to North Carolina, but when a mortar blast outside the hospital where he worked as an orthopedic surgeon sent him home from Afghanistan with devastating injuries, the dilapidated cabin he inherited from his grandfather seemed as good a place to regroup as any. Tending to his grandfather's beloved beehives while gearing up for a second stint in medical school, Trevor isn't prepared to fall in love. Yet from their very first encounter, his connection with Natalie can't be ignored. But even as she seems to reciprocate his feelings, she remains frustratingly distant, making Trevor wonder what she's hiding.

Further complicating his stay in New Bern is the presence of a sullen teenager, Callie, who lives down the road. When he discovers she was once befriended by his grandfather, Trevor hopes Callie can shed light on the mysterious circumstances of his grandfather's death, but she offers few clues — until a crisis triggers a race that will uncover the true nature of Callie's past, one more intertwined with the elderly man's passing than Trevor could ever have anticipated. In his quest to unravel Natalie and Callie's secrets, Trevor will learn the true meaning of love and forgiveness and that in life, to move forward, we must often return to the place where it all began.

DANIEL ALEMAN

INDIVISIBLE

A Novel

Mateo Garcia and his younger sister, Sophie, have been taught to fear one word for as long as they can remember: deportation. Over the past few years, however, the fear that their undocumented immigrant parents could be sent back to Mexico has started to fade. Ma and Pa have been in the United States for so long, they have American-born children, and they're hard workers and good neighbors. When Mateo returns from school one day to find that his parents have been taken by ICE, he realizes that his family's worst nightmare has become a reality. With his parents' fate and his own future hanging in the balance, Mateo must figure out who he is and what he is capable of, even as he's forced to question what it means to be an American.

Daniel Aleman's INDIVISIBLE is a remarkable story—both powerful in its explorations of immigration in America and deeply intimate in its portrait of a teen boy driven by his fierce, protective love for his parents and his sister.

Daniel Aleman was born and raised in Mexico City; his family moved to the United States when he was a teenager, and Daniel now lives in Toronto, where he went to college. This story is partially inspired by the separation, difficulties, and ultimately, the great opportunities his family encountered since making the decision to immigrate to the U.S. and Canada.

SPLINTERS OF SCARLET

A Novel

For Marit Olsen, magic is all about strategy: it flows freely through her blood, but every use leaves behind a deadly, ice-like build-up within her veins called the Firn. Marit knows how dangerous it is to let too much Firn build up—after all, it killed her sister—and she has vowed never to use her thread magic. But when Eve, a fellow orphan whom Marit views like a little sister, is adopted by the wealthy Helene Vestergaard, Marit will do anything to stay by Eve's side. She decides to risk the Firn and uses magic to secure a job as a seamstress in the Vestergaard household.

But Marit has a second, hidden agenda: her father died while working in the Vestergaards' jewel mines—and it might not have been an accident. The closer Marit gets to the truth about the Vestergaard family, the more she realizes she and everyone she's come to love are in danger. When she finds herself in the middle of a treacherous deception that goes all the way up to the king of Denmark, magic may be the only thing that can save her—if it doesn't kill her first.

Emily Bain Murphy was born in Indiana and raised in Hong Kong and Japan. She graduated from Tufts University and has also called Massachusetts, Connecticut, and California home. She is the author of The Disappearances and lives in the St. Louis area with her husband and two children.

But Alsane Bautix, the old army general who was banned from his seat in the government after Aina revealed his corruption, is working to take back power by destroying anyone who stands in his way. With a new civil war on the horizon and all their lives at risk, the only way for Aina to protect her home is to join up with the only other criminal more notorious than her: Kohl himself. As Bautix's attacks increase, Aina and Kohl work together to stop his incoming weapons shipments and his plans to take back the Tower of Steel. To defeat them both, Aina will resort to betrayal, poison, and a deadly type of magic that hasn't been used in years.

Through narrow alleys, train rooftops, and deep in the city's tunnels, Aina and Kohl test each other's strengths and limits, each knowing that once Bautix is dead, they'll still have to face each other. If she manages to kill him, she'll finally have the freedom she wants—but it might forever mark her as his shadow in a city where only the strongest survive.

THE LONELY HEART OF MAYBELLE LANE

A Novel

Eleven-year-old Maybelle Lane collects sounds. She records the Louisiana crickets chirping, Momma strumming her guitar, their broken trailer door squeaking. But the crown jewel of her collection is a sound she didn’t collect herself: an old recording of her daddy’s warm-sunshine laugh, saved on an old phone’s voicemail. It’s the only thing she has of his, and the only thing she knows about him. Until the day she hears that laugh—his laugh—pouring out of the car radio. Going against Momma’s wishes, Maybelle starts listening to her radio DJ daddy’s new show, drinking in every word like a plant leaning toward the sun. When he announces he’ll be the judge of a singing contest in Nashville, she signs up. What better way to meet than to stand before him and sing with all her heart?

But the road to Nashville is bumpy. Her starch-stiff neighbor Mrs. Boggs offers to drive her in her RV. And a bully of a boy from the trailer park hitches a ride, too. These are not the people May would have chosen to help her, but it turns out they’re searching for things as well. And the journey will mold them into the best kind of family—the kind you choose for yourself.

Kate O’Shaughnessy’s love of reading and writing stories began in early childhood and only grew stronger. She has been a chef, earned a fellowship with the Yale Sustainable Food Program, and backpacked around the world. She is a graduate of Yale University and lives with her husband in Berkeley, California. This is her debut novel.

Young Readers Edition: An Explorer's Race Across Antarctica

Prior to December 2018, no individual had ever crossed the landmass of Antarctica alone, without support, and completely human-powered. But Colin O’Brady was determined to do just that—even though ten years earlier a tragic accident raised doubts that he’d ever walk again normally. O’Brady’s quest drew him into a head-to-head battle with British SAS Captain Louis Rudd—also striving to be “the first.” Enduring Antarctica’s sub-zero temperatures and pulling a sled that initially weighed 375 pounds in complete isolation and through a succession of whiteouts, storms, and a series of near disasters, O’Brady journeyed 932 miles to a world first. Honest, deeply moving, filled with moments of vulnerability—and set against the backdrop of some of the most extreme environments on earth, from Mount Everest to Antarctica—THE IMPOSSIBLE FIRST reveals how anyone can reject limits, overcome immense obstacles, and discover what matters most.

SISTERS OF THE SNAKE

A Ria and Rani Novel

The law in Abai—the last known magical kingdom—does not look kindly on street thieves, but for eighteen-year-old orphan Ria, stealing isn't a choice of convenience: it's a matter of survival. So when she and her friend Amir devise a plan to steal priceless jewels from the kingdom's royal palace and use them to bribe their way into a new kingdom, it seems a new life may finally be within reach.

Then, while sneaking into the palace, Ria runs into the princess, and everything she knows about herself is turned on its head—because Princess Rani looks exactly like Ria, down to the freckle.

Running into her doppelgänger, Princess Rani doesn't see her long-lost twin or a dangerous, thieving intruder. She sees an opportunity: a chance to escape the tight confines of her gilded prison before her marriage, and a chance to find the wife of her late, beloved tutor, recently executed for treason, so that Rani can give her the valuable possessions he left behind. After Ria and Rani strike a deal to temporarily switch places, Rani discovers that her father's kingdom is not the place of prosperity she once thought, and that it's hurtling toward a dangerous war. Living with the Raja and the queen, Ria learns that they—her family?—have their own dangerous secrets, and that there's a treasonous conspiracy brewing in the royal court.

Neither life inside nor outside the palace walls are safe, and Ria and Rani are in a race against the clock to unravel a conspiracy and stop a war with wits and magic—or else allow the kingdom of Abai to sink into ruin.

Sarena and Sasha Nanua are twin sisters living in Ontario, Canada. They love reading books in their spare time and enjoy science fiction and fantasy novels. SPICE ROAD

A Novel

In the hidden desert city of Qalia, sixteen-year-old Imani dreams of joining the Council of Al-Zahim—the leaders who harness and protect her tribal nation's secret tea magic. In neighboring Taeel-Sa, an orphan named Kazi has become an assassin to realize humbler dreams: regular food and a place to sleep. So when he's offered unimaginable wealth to help a foreigner usurp Taeel-Sa's throne, he jumps at it. What he doesn't realize is he's about to change the continent of Alqibah forever—and turn Imani's dreams into a nightmare.

Upon seizing the throne, the new King invades Qalia, ruthlessly pursuing the source of the magic: a limitless power sealed in a magical vault beneath the city. The Council entrusts Imani with smuggling the vault's key far away from the besieged city, thwarting Kazi's attempts to secure it on behalf of the King. Furious, the King gives Kazi one chance to redeem himself: he must kill Imani and return the key.

But there are others who plot to steal it. If Imani and Kazi are to triumph, they'll both need help—and maybe magic of their own. Little do they know, the ancient magic that divides them is what ultimately links them.

Pitched during #DVPit as an Arabian Black Panther meets Game of Thrones, SPICE ROAD is a sweeping epic fantasy that will appeal to fans of Tomi Adeyemi and Sarah J. Maas.

THE GREAT INDOORS

The Surprising Science of How Buildings Shape Our Behavior, Health, and Happiness

Modern humans are an indoor species. We spend 90 percent of our time inside, shuttling between homes, offices, and schools. And yet, in many ways, the indoor world remains unexplored territory. For all the time we spend inside buildings, we rarely stop to consider: How do these spaces affect our mental and physical well-being? Our thoughts, feelings, and behaviors? Our productivity, performance, and relationships?

In this wide-ranging, character-driven book, science journalist Emily Anthes takes us on an adventure into the buildings in which we spend our days, exploring the profound, and sometimes unexpected, ways that they shape our lives. Drawing on cutting-edge research, she probes the pain-killing power of a well-placed window and examines how the right office layout can expand our social networks. She investigates how room temperature regulates our cognitive performance, how the microbes hiding in our homes influence our immune systems, and how cafeteria design affects what—and how much—we eat.

THE GREAT INDOORS provides a fresh perspective on our most familiar surroundings and a new understanding of the power of architecture and design. It's an argument for thoughtful interventions into the built environment and a story about how to build a better world—one room at a time.

Emily Anthes is an award-winning science journalist and author. Her work has appeared in The New York Times, The New Yorker, The Atlantic, Wired, Nature, Slate, Businessweek, Scientific American, The Washington Post, The Boston Globe, and elsewhere. CHANGE

Why It Fails, and How to Make It Succeed

Most of what we know about how ideas spread comes from bestselling authors who give us a compelling picture of a world, in which "influencers" are king, "sticky" ideas "go viral," and good behavior is "nudged" forward. The problem is that the world they describe is a world where information spreads, but beliefs and behaviors stay the same. When it comes to lasting change in what we think or the way we live, the dynamics are different: beliefs and behaviors are not transmitted from person to person in the simple way that a virus is. The real story of social change is more complex. When we are exposed to a new idea, our social networks guide our responses in striking and surprising ways.

Drawing on deep-yet-accessible research and fascinating examples from the spread of Covid to the success of the Black Lives Matter movement, the failure of Google+, and the rise of political polarization, CHANGE presents groundbreaking and paradigm-shifting new science for understanding what drives change, and how we can change the world around us.

WILD SOULS

Freedom and Flourishing in the Non-Human World

Protecting wild animals and preserving the environment are two ideals so seemingly compatible as to be almost inseparable. But in fact, between animal welfare and conservation science there exists a space of underexamined and unresolved tension: wildness itself. When is it right to capture or feed wild animals for the good of their species? How do we balance the rights of introduced species with those already established within an ecosystem? Can hunting be ecological? Are any animals truly wild on a planet that humans have so thoroughly changed? No clear guidelines exist to help us resolve such questions.

Transporting readers into the field with scientists tackling these profound challenges, Emma Marris tells the affecting and inspiring stories of animals around the globe—from Peruvian monkeys to Australian bilbies, rare Hawai'iian birds to majestic Oregon wolves. And she offers a companionable tour of the philosophical ideas that may steer our search for sustainability and justice in the non-human world. Revealing just how intertwined animal and human life really is, WILD SOULS will change the way you think about nature—and our place within it.

Emma Marris is an award-winning journalist based in Oregon. She writes for The Atlantic, The New York Times, National Geographic and Outside Magazine, among many others. THE END OF FOOD ALLERGY

The First Program to Prevent and Reverse a 21st Century Epidemic

The problem of food allergy is exploding around us. But this book offers the first glimpse of hope with a powerful message: You can work with your family and your doctor to eliminate your food allergy forever. The trailblazing research of Stanford University's Dr. Kari Nadeau reveals that food allergy is not a life sentence, because the immune system can be retrained. Food allergies—from mild hives to life-threatening airway constriction—can be disrupted, slowed, and stopped. The key is a strategy called immunotherapy (IT)—the controlled, gradual reintroduction of an allergen into the body. With innovations that include state-of-the-art therapies targeting specific components of the immune system, Dr. Nadeau and her team have increased the speed and effectiveness of this treatment to a matter of months.

New York Times bestselling author Sloan Barnett, the mother of two children with food allergies, provides a lay perspective that helps make Dr. Nadeau's research accessible for everyone. Together, they walk readers through every aspect of food allergy, including how to find the right treatment and how to manage the ongoing fear of allergens that haunts so many sufferers, to give us a clear, supportive plan to combat a major national and global health issue.

Kari Nadeau, MD, PhD, is the director of the Sean N. Parker Center for Allergy and Asthma Research at Stanford University and is one of the world's leading experts on food allergy. Dr. Nadeau holds the Naddisy Foundation professorship in medicine and pediatrics at Stanford University and as well as both an MD and PhD from Harvard Medical School. Sloan Barnett is a lawyer, journalist, and the New York Times bestselling author of Green Goes with Everything: Simple Steps to a Healthier Life and a Cleaner Planet. THE ENTREPRENEURIAL PROCESS

How Anyone Can Turn an Unsolved Problem into a Successful Business

We live in a world full of problems, and business offers a compelling path to solve them. For this reason, business isn't just for "businesspeople" anymore. Increasingly, it's the historians, philosophers, rocket scientists, and everyone else who are launching the most interesting businesses to solve problems big and small. That's why at Brown, everyone from English majors and future Fulbright scholars, to chemical engineering majors and art students at RISD, rank Danny's course as the most life-changing course on campus. They learned that you don't need to be a consultant or have an MBA to turn a solution to a problem into a lucrative new venture. In THE ENTREPRENEURIAL PROCESS, he will first change how readers think about business—seeing an unmet need, finding a solution, and scaling it into an enduring business—before showing them how to put it into practice. Thousands of students have launched hundreds of successful companies after taking this course—a testament to the effectiveness of his method.

In the tradition of Ivy League courses turned bestselling books, THE ENTREPRENEURIAL PROCESS will reach audiences familiar with the bestsellers Designing Your Life by Stanford's Bill Burnett and Dave Evans and The Lean Startup by Eric Reis.

Danny Warshay holds an MBA from Harvard and a BA from Brown. In addition to teaching, he is the executive director of Brown's Nelson Center for Entrepreneurship, which hosts leading business leaders like Bank of America CEO Brian Moynihan and AWAY luggage founder Stephanie Korey (both on the board). His contacts include bestselling business authors such as Clayton Christianson, Noam Wasserman, and Theresa Amabile.

MOVE, CONNECT, PLAY

The Art and Science of Acroyoga

The founder of AcroYoga International, Jason Nemer has taught AcroYoga is a movement practice that combines the balance and connection of yoga with the fitness and intensity of acrobatics, as well as the holistic healing power of physical therapy. People come to it because they have chronic pain and are looking for a long-term solution to manage it, they want to lose weight, gain muscle or increase their mobility, or they want to experience it with their friends or partners to deepen their relationships. Some even just want to have some fun together.

Much like the CrossFit community that propelled Dr. Kelly Starrett's Becoming a Supple Leopard to bestseller success, the people who practice AcroYoga are committed to and passionate about their practice. The success of Jason's self-published book, which he has never promoted in any real way, is evidence of this passion.

The co-founder of AcroYoga International, Jason Nemer has helped the practice and the franchise grow to thousands of teachers in more than 60 countries. HEALING SIBO

The 21-Day Diet Plan to Banish Bloat, Fix Your Gut, and Balance Your Weight

Even as millions of Americans suspect they're suffering from a gastrointestinal disorder, they may spend years in pain before they figure out just what's going on with their gut. And while irritable bowel syndrome (IBS) is commonly diagnosed, SIBO, a disorder with basically all the same symptoms, is not. So, what is SIBO? The acronym stands for Small Intestine Bacterial Overgrowth, a disorder in which bacteria that usually grow in other parts of the gut start to proliferate and take up residence in the small intestine. This causes a whole confluence of symptoms, ranging from bloating and cramps, to uncontrollable weight gain or weight loss, to even malnutrition when the bacteria eat up vital nutrients from our food. Even though several studies have shown that as many as 84 percent of patients with IBS also tested positive for SIBO, it remains understudied and underdiagnosed.

After decades of dealing with debilitating symptoms with no relief, Shivan Sarna's life changed when she was diagnosed with SIBO. As she eliminated her symptoms one by one through lifestyle changes and help from her physicians, she started to synthesize her personal experiences with Western and Ayurvedic medicine and dedicate herself to advocating for those suffering from SIBO, or those who think they could be. Now, in this groundbreaking book, Sarna shares her wisdom on treating and even curing SIBO, with information on what to eat and what to avoid, how to build a routine to manage your symptoms, and how to work with your doctor to find supplements and medications that promote healing. Sarna also includes her 21-day SIBO Specific Diet, which includes more than 40 recipes to put you on the path to recovery. Whether you're SIBO-diagnosed or SIBO-suspicious, this empowering guide will change the way you think about your gut and overall health.

Shivan Sarna is the founder of the SIBO SOS summit and created SIBO SOS as a one-stop online resource for people like herself. She is excited to share everything she has learned, and the diet plan she now follows as a result, because she knows it really works. She has been a host for the Home Shopping Network for twenty years. Sarna lives in Florida with her husband, her cat named Bell, four koi fish, and her adopted mom, Linda.

DR. TRACEY SHORS

EVERYDAY TRAUMAS

Training the Brain to Recover from Anxiety, Depression, and PTSD in 8 Weeks

For the last 30 years, Dr. Tracey Shors has been researching the effects of stress and trauma on the brain—particularly the female brain. Her pioneering work has shed light on how we learn, how the brain generates new neurons, and how traumatic experiences—whether those experiences singularly intense and dramatic, like a car accident, or whether they are small and cumulative, like small daily harassments from a coworker—affect our ability to learn new skills and recover after we have experienced trauma. She has long been interested in the slight but impactful differences between how the male brain recovers and how the female brain recovers after trauma, and she designed some of the earliest studies into the subject.

EVERYDAY TRAUMAS shares for the first time in print her clinically tested program for stress recovery: MAP Training, a uniquely effective intervention that has been shown to reduce physiological and psychological symptoms of PTSD, stress and anxiety after just a few weeks of following the program. Dr. Shors's simple “sit, walk, sweat” program is firmly rooted in findings from her labs at Princeton and Rutgers, and has been shown to be effective with a wide range of participants, from victims of sexual trauma and women living in halfway homes, to Ivy League university students suffering from test anxiety.

Dr. Shors is a Distinguished Professor in the Department of Psychology and Center for Collaborative Neuroscience at Rutgers University. She previously spent six years at Princeton University as an assistant professor working on brain plasticity and sex differences in learning, and holds M.A. and PhD degrees from the University of Southern California, where she also did several years of post-doctoral laboratory work as a Research Associate in Neural, Informational, and Behavioral Sciences. MAP training has been featured on NBC Nightly News and in the New York Times, Psychology Today, The Washington Post, Huffington Post, and Shape magazine.
