GENERAL FICTION

THE QUIET CATHARSIS OF IVAN ISAENKO by Scott Stambach (St. Martin's Press, Summer 2016)

Comparison: A Prayer for Owen Meany by John Irving

Seventeen-year-old Ivan Isaenko is a life-long resident of the Mazyr Hospital for Gravely Ill Children—an asylum where adolescent victims of the Chernobyl legacy are housed and treated. Born severely deformed, yet mentally keen with an acrid wit, strong intellect, and a voracious appetite for books, Ivan is forced to interact with the world through the vivid prism of his mind. For the most part, every day is exactly the same for Ivan. And though it has its moments, life in the Mazyr Hospital is mundane and lackluster. That is until Polina—a recently orphaned leukemia patient—arrives at the hospital. Though Ivan at first resents Polina, he is eventually drawn to her, and the two forge a romance that is tenuous and beautiful and destined to end prematurely.

I LIKED MY LIFE by Abby Fabiaschi (St. Martin's Press, June 2016)

Comp: Jodi Picoult

A story of ghosts, guilt, and love that transcends death, I Liked My Life is a mother's final blessing for a family learning to move on without her. Maddy was a devoted stay-at-home mother until her apparent suicide, which leaves her husband, Brady, and her teenage daughter, Eve, to redefine their understanding of family without her. Maddy, however, isn't quite done with them. In an attempt to fulfill her family's needs, Maddy the ghost watches and meddles from beyond the grave, determined to find the perfect replacement wife and mother. She believes that the best candidate is Rory, a free-spirited schoolteacher whom Maddy maneuvers into Eve's confidences, and who harbors a tragedy of her own.

A GOOD FAMILY by Erik Fasnacht (St. Martin's Press, August 2015)

Comp: The Corrections by Jonathan Franzen

This stunning debut from a talented young writer is the story of a family that is falling apart—sometimes quietly, sometimes spectacularly. From Henry Brunson, who has left his family only to find that all the penthouses and nightclubs in Chicago's Viagra Triangle can't render him invincible; to his wife, Julie, who had abandoned her dance career for Henry, but is beginning to see the true cost of the sacrifices she made; to Charlie, their oldest son, who has just returned from Afghanistan with a constant ringing in his ears and a burden of guilt he's neither able nor willing to relinquish; to Barkley, the bumbling, awkward baby of the family, who is trying to hold them all together. Over the course of one year, the Brunsons will progress and regress, love and fight, live and die, and maybe, just maybe, relearn how to be a family.

Praise: “A Good Family is an intense, compassionate and very funny book. This is a sharply observed, deeply satisfying novel: a joy, a discovery.”—Audrey Niffenegger, author of The Time Traveler's Wife and Her Fearful Symmetry

FALLEN LAND by Taylor Brown (St. Martin's Press, January 2016)Comp: Cold Mountain by Charles Frazier

Set in the final year of the American Civil War, this debut introduces a young couple: Callum, a seasoned horse thief at fifteen years old, who came to America as an orphan from his native Ireland, and Ava, her father and brother lost to the war, who hides in their crumbling home until Callum rescues her from the bands of hungry soldiers pillaging the South. Pursued relentlessly by a murderous slave hunter, tracking dogs, and ruthless men, the couple race through a beautiful but ruined land, surviving on food they steal from abandoned farms and the occasional kindness of strangers. In the end, as they intersect with the scorching destruction of Sherman's March, the couple seeks a safe haven where they can make a home and begin to rebuild their lives. Dramatic and thrillingly written with an uncanny eye for glimpses of beauty in a ravaged landscape, Fallen Land is a love story at its core, and an unusually assured first novel.

BEACH TOWN by Mary Kay Andrews (St. Martin's Press, May 2015)

Comp: Dorothea Benton Frank

The next novel from New York Times bestselling author Mary Kay Andrews, about a struggling movie location scout who has one more chance to save her career, but the perfect Florida beach town she discovers comes with a formidable obstacle in the town mayor. Will true love find a foothold in the sleepy town before it's too late and disaster strikes? Told with Mary Kay Andrews' inimitable wit and charm, this is sure to be next year's summer beach read!

Praise: “A deft mixture of romance and humor in a story featuring a likable protagonist and cute critters: It’s a date Andrews fans won’t want to miss.”—Kirkus on Save the Date

NOOKIETOWN by V.C. Chickering (St. Martin's Griffin, February 2016)Comp: Wife 22 by Melanie Gideon

Equal parts racy, emotional, humorous and thought provoking, Nookietown is the story of Lucy, a forty-something divorcée who along with her married friend Nancy creates a service that sets up divorced women with their friends' under-sexed husbands, making everyone happy, for a while, until things quickly get very, very complicated. Lucy is a smart and hilarious Tina Fey-like character who gets herself into cringe-worthy situations as her moral compass goes haywire. When she finally gets exactly what she wants it might be at the cost of the comfortable life she made for herself.

PEOPLE WHO KNEW ME by Kim Hooper (St. Martin's Press, March 2016)

Comp: Chevy Stevens

People Who Knew Me is the story of Emily Morris, a young woman who falls in love, gets married, and then witnesses the decline of that marriage under highly original circumstances. Emily has an affair with someone she works with (the marriage is all but over, after all), and then finds out she's pregnant. She resolves to tell her husband, to leave him for the father of her child, but the world is split open by 9/11. Emily's world, as well, because her lover is killed in the attack. Emily stayed home from work that day, and it's amid terrible tragedy that she finds her freedom, as she secretly leaves New York City for California to start a new life as Connie Prynne. With urgency and suspense, the novel moves back and forth between the present and the past, as circumstances force Emily to confront her past for the good of her twelve-year-old daughter.

THE RIVER QUEEN by Nayomi Munaweera (St. Martin's Press, February 2016)

Comp: Jhumpa Lahiri

The next book from the award-winning author of Island of a Thousand Mirrors is the confession of a woman convicted of infanticide, who asks if she might be forgiven for this most heinous of acts. In the idyllic hill country of Sri Lanka, a young girl grows up with her loving family; but even in the midst of this paradise, terror lurks in the shadows. When tragedy strikes, she and her mother must seek safety by immigrating to America. Both love and loss fill her life, but even as she assimilates and thrives, the secrets and scars of her past follow her into adulthood. In this new country of freedom, everything she has built begins to crumble around her, and her hold on reality becomes more and more tenuous. When the past and the present collide, she sees no other choice than to commit her unforgivable final act.

Praise: “The paradisiacal landscapes of Sri Lanka are as astonishing as the barbarity of its revolution, and Munaweera evokes the power of both in a lyrical debut novel worthy of shelving alongside her countryman Michael Ondaatje or her fellow writer of the multigenerational immigrant experience Jhumpa Lahiri.”—Publishers Weekly on Island of a Thousand Mirrors

THE LIFE OF THE WORLD TO COME by Daniel Cluchey (St. Martin's Press, May 2016)

Comp: Joshua Ferris

The Life of the World to Come is a love story told slantwise featuring a heartbroken (and slightly neurotic) young lawyer, an ethereal soap actress, a prisoner on death row, and a dog named Rafael Uribe Uribe. Leo Bryce is a man in a quarter life crisis, but when he meets Fiona Haeberle, life seems to grant him a reprieve. Morbidity is exchanged for passion, and Leo heads to law school and thence to an advocacy group, trying to get inmates off death row. Life is heady. But when the perfect love affair stalls, teeters, and implodes, Leo is thrust into crisis. He immerses himself obsessively in the case he's working, that of Georgia inmate Michael Tiegs. Tiegs has some unusual theories about life—both this one, and the one to come—and he becomes an object of fascination to Leo even as he tries to get him off the hook. But can either man really save the other? And what kind of salvation is it that we're all in search of, anyway?

THE ADVENTURIST by J. Bradford Hipps (St. Martin's Press, April 2016)Comp: Up in the Air by Walter Kirn

In this searching, elegiac debut, J. Bradford Hipps examines the question of whether there can be a place in good literature for a novel about people who seek, and even find, existential fulfillment in their jobs. The narrator, Henry Hurt, is a lovesick, whip-smart, anxious but loyal software engineer at Cyber, a generic software security company housed in a bland office tower in the workaday downtown of an anonymous American Everycity. But while Henry struggles between desire and duty to the individuals above, around, and below him at Cyber—rather than to the corporation itself—the hard truth is that in this twenty-first century globalized economy, you're only as good as this quarter's performance. Will it be Henry and his cohort's last?

FISHBOWL by Bradley Somer (St. Martin's Press, August 2015)

Comp: Jonas Jonasson

Told through the lens of a goldfish named Ian, falling from the twenty-seventh floor balcony of an apartment building, this novel follows an eclectic cast of characters on a single day. There is the handsome grad student, his girlfriend, and his mistress; the construction worker who feels trapped by a secret; the building's superintendent who feels invisible and alone; the pregnant woman on bed rest; the shut-in; and the home-schooled boy, Herman, who thinks he can travel through time. As the goldfish passes each floor, he witnesses just a moment in the characters' lives, and through this unfolds their stories of love, new life and death, of facing the ugly truth of who one has been and the beautiful truth of who one can become, and the fact that sometimes taking a risk is the only way to move forward, for as Ian the goldfish knows, "an entire life devoted to a fishbowl will make one die an old fish with not one adventure had."

Praise: "Take the tumble with Ian. Perhaps like me you will fall, end over end, through these pages: expectant, engaged, enthused, curious, entranced, alarmed. EVERY ANXIOUS WAVE by Mo Daviau (St. Martin's Press, January 2016)Comp: Where'd You Go, Bernadette by Maria Semple

In this debut novel from Hopwood Award winner and playwright Mo Daviau, ex-indie rocker turned bar owner Karl Bender exclusively uses the wormhole in his apartment to send people back in time to attend rock concerts, until his friend Wayne decides to try to save John Lennon and Karl accidentally sends him back to 980 Manhattan rather than 1980. Now Wayne is stuck and Karl can't figure out how to bring him back. Enter the brilliant but prickly astrophysicist, Lena Gedulig. Karl and Lena's connection is immediate, but between the wormhole and a vibrant cast of characters both helping and obstructing them along the way, their journey won't be an easy one. This is a love story that spans from Manhattan in 980 AD to a waterlogged Seattle in 2031 and asks the questions: where would you go and who would you become if you could rewrite your past, and how do you hold on to love across time?

AGENTS OF THE INTERNET APOCALYPSE by Wayne Gladstone (Thomas Dunne Books, July 2015)

Comp: David Wong and Chuck Palahniuk

Following Notes from the Internet Apocalypse, this is the next installment of the trilogy that imagines the world without the internet, but for Gladstone, finding the Net has taken a backseat to winning over his ex-wife. But even though he follows her to Los Angeles, he still can't shake the demands of his followers when his former account of the Internet Apocalypse goes "paper viral." This newfound celebrity makes him a target for desperate online addicts, anarchic members of Anonymous, and shadowy government agents who have their own plans for him.

THE PRACTICAL NAVIGATOR by Stephen Metcalfe (St. Martin's Press, July 2016)

Comp: One Last Thing Before I Go by Jonathan Tropper

Michael Hodge is a man lost and looking to find his bearings. He is a struggling building contractor. He is an abandoned husband. He is the father of a seven-year-old boy on the autism spectrum. His mother is in the beginning stages of Alzheimer's and his girlfriend is married. A practical man, Michael remains surprisingly upbeat. But then, out of nowhere, his estranged wife, Anita, returns home wanting—Michael isn't sure what—a reconciliation? A role in the life of their son, Jamie? Can Michael help everyone in his life find happiness without sacrificing his own? He's not sure of that either. All he knows is that safe harbor, a sheltered haven for himself and the people he loves, is far away.

IMMACULATE HEART by Camille DeAngelis (St. Martin's Press, March 2016)

Comp: Mary Gaitskill

A lonely American reporter goes to Ireland for a funeral, discovering a story about a visitation from the Virgin Mary years earlier that could revitalize his faltering career. But there is more to the story than the townspeople are letting on. Surrounded by secrecy and confusion, the journalist must decide how much of what he's uncovering is the truth, how much of it is lies, and how much he can trust the four witnesses—one of whom he's become infatuated with. Immaculate Heart is a novel where nothing is certain and everything should be questioned. Camille DeAngelis will leave you guessing what is real and what is only just a vision.

WILL YOU WON'T YOU WANT ME? by Nora Zelevansky (St. Martin's Griffin, April 2016)

Comp: Candace Bushnell

Marjorie Plum isn't your average washed up prom queen. After all, her New York City prep school was too cool for a royal court. Yet, ten years after high school graduation, she is undeniably stuck in the past, and when her life takes an unexpected turn, she is forced to start over, moving in to a tiny box of an apartment in Brooklyn. Desperate to pay rent, she starts tutoring a precocious 11-year-old-girl, beginning a surprise-filled journey towards adulthood, where she learns about herself from the most unlikely sources: a rekindled childhood love, a grumpy (but strangely adorable) new boss, even her tutee. Ultimately, though, she is the one who must decide: who is the real Marjorie Plum?

Praise: "Will You Won't You Want Me? achieves that rare combination of razor-sharp wit and romance—a love story that's not afraid to be smart, satirical and wise. THE IDEA OF LOVE by Patti Callahan Henry (St. Martin's Press, June 2015)

Comp: Elin Hilderbrand

Screenwriter Harper needs to find a good love story to save his career and decides to pose as a historian interested in local folklore in order to learn people's stories. Then he meets Ella, a beautiful young woman who has lost her true love in a sailing accident; he drowned while saving her. Harper believes he has finally found his story, but Ella's picture-perfect story is a lie. Her husband left her, and in desperate need of a love story herself, Ella tells Harper the story of the life she wishes she had. Each time she tells more of the made-up version of her life she thinks, "one more time." But soon both are too deep into their lies to get out. Can two people come together for all the wrong reasons and still make it right?

Praise: "Patti Callahan Henry seamlessly combines mystery, family love, and personal journey all in one engrossing tale. THE TWO-FAMILY HOUSE by Lynda Cohen Loigman (St. Martin's Press, March 2016)Comp: The Memory Keeper's Daughter by Kim Edwards

Brooklyn, 1947: in the midst of a blizzard, in a two-family brownstone, two babies are born minutes apart to two women. They are sisters by marriage with an impenetrable bond forged before and during that dramatic night; but as the years progress, small cracks start to appear and their once deep friendship begins to unravel. No one knows why, and no one can stop it. One misguided choice; one moment of tragedy. Heartbreak wars with happiness and almost but not quite wins.

Praise: “The Two-Family House is a poignant yet fast-paced family saga. With insight and honesty, Lynda Cohen Loigman’s debut novel taps into our greatest joys and deepest fears. Loigman skillfully reveals the underbelly of a dark family secret as well as the shocking consequences that span decades and ripple through many lives. BETWEEN TWO FIRES by Mark Noce (Thomas Dunne Books, June 2016)

Comp: Hild by Nicola Griffith

The first book in an epic historical series set in Medieval Wales that follows Branwen, a Braveheart-like princess, caught between the love for her country and her love of a Robin-Hood like prince. Branwen, a descendant of the Old Tribes, a proud Pagan people whose women warriors and religion were based on Welsh mythology, becomes betrothed to a powerful Welsh warlord known as the Hammer King in an effort to unite Wales against their Saxon foes, but the Hammer King sees her only as a broodmare to sire his sons. So when Branwen finds herself falling for a young knight named Artagan, and the Hammer King throws Artagan into the dungeon, she must risk everything to free him and flee her husband's castle. Caught between her duty to her people and the love of a man she cannot have, Branwen must choose whether to preserve her royal marriage for the sake of her country, or to follow her heart.

I'LL SEE YOU IN PARIS by Michelle Gable (Thomas Dunne Books, February 2016)

Comp: Nancy Horan

After losing her fiancé in the Vietnam War, Laurel Haley takes a job in England, hoping the distance will mend her shattered heart. Laurel expects the pain might lessen but does not expect the beguiling man she meets or that they'll go to Paris, where the city's magic will take over and alter everything Laurel believes about love. Thirty years later, Laurel's daughter Annie is newly engaged and an old question resurfaces: who is Annie's father and what happened to him? The key to unlocking Laurel's secrets starts with a mysterious book about an infamous woman known as the Duchess of Marlborough. Annie's quest to understand the Duchess, and therefore her own history, takes her from a charming hamlet in the English countryside, to a decayed estate kept behind barbed wire, and ultimately to Paris where answers will be found at last.

THE DEBT OF TAMAR by Nicole Dweck (Thomas Dunne Books, September 2015)

Comp: Alyson Richman

Originally self-published, this USA Today bestselling novel is a historical family saga that spans the centuries from Inquisition-era Istanbul to 1950s Israel to modern-day New York. Nicole Dweck spellbindingly weaves together the histories of two families—one Jewish and one Muslim—revealing not only history’s lingering shadow but also its power to set us free. Loosely inspired by true events, and rich with love, historical detail, and spirituality, this enchanting saga will absorb readers from the very first page.

Praise: “A remarkable debut novel. Nicole Dweck skillfully weaves tales of love, sacrifice, and faith, all threaded into a compelling tapestry. The Debt of Tamar is an evocative and memorable look into the resiliency of the human spirit.”—Susan Meissner, author of A Fall of Marigolds

THE WINEMAKERS by Jan Moran (St. Martin’s Griffin, April 2016)

Comp: Lila Meacham

In 1956, when Caterina Rosetta inherits a vineyard in Montalcino, Italy from a grandmother she’s never known, she discovers a long-buried family secret—a secret so devastating, it threatens the future of everything her family has worked for. Many years before, the Rosetta family’s hard-won dreams of staking their claim in the vineyards of California came to fruition; but as an old murder comes to light, and Caterina discovers a tragedy that may destroy the man she loves, she realizes her happiness will depend on revealing the truth of her mother’s buried past.

Praise: “Utterly inescapable...Jan Moran...interweaves this romantic tale with a behind-the-scenes look at how one makes and sells perfume...The fascinating result is a tale that rivals Danielle Steele at her romantic best!”—Allegra Jordan, author of The End of Innocence on Scent of Triumph

THE LODGER by Louisa Treger (Thomas Dunne Books, October 2014)

Comp: Under the Wide and Starry Sky by Nancy Horan

Dorothy Richardson is existing just above the poverty line when she is introduced to the new husband of a childhood friend, an up-and-coming writer named H.G. Wells, or Bertie, as they call him. Not wanting to betray her friend, yet unable to draw back, Dorothy free-falls into an affair with Bertie. Then a new boarder arrives at the house—beautiful Veronica Leslie-Jones—and Dorothy finds herself caught between Veronica and Bertie. Amidst the personal dramas and wreckage of a militant suffragette march, Dorothy finds her voice as a writer. The Lodger is a beautifully intimate novel that is at once an introduction to one of the most important writers of the twentieth century and a compelling story of one woman tormented by unconventional desires.

Praise: “The Lodger is an evocative, beautifully written first novel. Set against the backdrop of the early twentieth century, Louisa Treger conjures up her characters and the turbulence of an era when women were fighting for emancipation with conviction. Dorothy Richardson’s journey to finding her own literary feet through her illicit relationship with the novelist H. G. Wells is moving and revealing. A very accomplished debut novel.”—Lucinda Riley, New York Times bestselling author of The Lavender Garden

PERFECT BETRAYAL by Season Vining (St. Martin's Griffin, August 2015)

Comp: Colleen Hoover

To the outside world, Taylor Hudson has it all: beauty, money, and social status. But Taylor's privileged life is far lonelier than it appears. Levi is the inside man on a job to steal fifteen million dollars from one of the town's wealthiest families, putting him on a crash course with Taylor. Neither of them believe in love, but lust. . .that's undeniable. Now they're locked in a wicked game of seduction and it's unclear who is playing who. But neither of them expected the affair to lead to the deepest connection they've ever experienced. Because beneath Taylor's perfect exterior lies a need for love that mirrors

Levi's own. As the heist approaches, how can Levi protect Taylor from the truth? Is he willing to give up everything to save the one girl who's made him want to be a better man?

Evie is about to embark on the perfect life. Beautiful, poised, and engaged to the son of a senator and a rising lawyer, she fits the part of trophy wife perfectly, except for one thing: her entire identity is a lie. Five years ago she created a new identity for herself, but it all crashes back when something she witnessed years ago comes back to haunt her. Now she's in danger of losing more than her social status. Determined to protect the careful life she's built for herself, Evie doesn't want anything to do with Riley, the criminal for hire who stole her heart years ago. But Riley has other ideas. He's never forgotten Evie, and to protect her, he steals her away. Hidden from the world, sparks begin to fly as old memories resurface and their passion reignites.

AMERICAN BLOOD by Ben Sanders (Thomas Dunne/Minotaur Books, November 2015)

Comp: Harlan Coben

The bestselling New Zealand author of The Fallen makes his American debut in this first in a crime series following Marshall Grande, an NYPD officer turned mob informant who is now living in the witness protection program in New Mexico. But when a young woman goes missing, he gets pulled into a dangerous investigation.

Film rights have sold to Warner Brothers with Bradley Cooper attached to star and produce.

Praise: “This novel has it all—great characters that are all too-real, switch-blade sharp writing, dialogue that would bring a smile to Elmore Leonard’s face and a plot that grabs a reader by the collar, squeezes hard and never lets go...This is one book that flat-out demands to be read. Just sit back and enjoy the ride. If you love a good thriller, then look no further than American Blood.”—Lorenzo Carcaterra, New York Times bestselling author of Sleepers and The Wolf

The first in a new series of scientific thrillers. Why are entire crews of fishermen mysteriously disappearing off the Central American coast? What do the disappearances have to do with the extinction of the dinosaurs? Off the coast of Honduras, a marine geologist is murdered to keep these questions unanswered. To uncover the truth in a race against the clock, two unsuspecting scientists are swept into a vortex of undersea adventure, biological mystery and political conspiracy. Their discoveries carry them back to the origin of life on Earth and to a frightening conclusion that threatens the very existence of humankind; a conclusion made all the more chilling by the story's basis on actual events occurring in the world today.

In 1995, the CIA made a breakthrough that they hid from the world because it would change everything in modern science—but some secrets can't stay hidden. A rogue force has learned how to make disembodied minds capable of lethal action. Ghosts have been weaponized, and now a Russian general has infiltrated the U.S. with a squad of "berzerkers"—an army that can't be killed because they're already dead. Only one person knew the general's plans, but she died in a car crash. The only person who can communicate with her is the cop who was at her side when she died—and now he must race to stop a force that could end life as we know it.

This is the first in Tetsuya Honda's bestselling Reiko Himekawa series, now numbering five novels, six TV and film adaptations, and selling over three million copies in Japan alone. At twenty-seven, Detective Reiko Himekawa of the Tokyo Metropolitan Police is unusually young to be a squad leader in the Homicide Division, but despite barriers created by age, gender, and lack of connections, she is oblivious to danger, mentally tough, and has an impressive ability to solve crimes. When a gruesomely slaughtered body wrapped in plastic is discovered among some shrubs in a park, Himekawa's team is assigned the case. As she begins her investigation, Reiko soon uncovers eleven other murders with a similar 'signature' and a reference to something called 'strawberry night,' a group that recruits victims and murderers on the internet. To solve this twisted serial killing and find the killer behind the gruesome murders, she must reach back into her own troubled past. To survive, she has to escape the group which has marked her as their next victim.

YOUNG ADULT/TEEN

UNSPOKEN: Shadow Falls: After Dark by C.C. Hunter (St. Martin's Griffin, October 2015)

The third and final breathtaking YA romance in New York Times bestselling author C. C. Hunter's Shadow Falls: After Dark trilogy. Despite her super-speed, inhuman strength, and enhanced senses, Della Tsang's new life as a vampire certainly hasn't been a walk in the park. Especially since she was 'reborn' and found herself bound to the mysterious, infuriating, and hunky Chase. But if there's one thing that's always kept Della going, it's her dream of being an elite paranormal investigator.

Praise: "Jam-packed with action and romance...Hunter's lifelike characters and paranormal creatures populate a plot that will keep you guessing till the very end. A perfect mesh of mystery, thriller, and romance. Vampires, weres and fae, oh my!"—RT Book Reviews on The Shadow Falls Series

UNGODLY by Kendare Blake (Tor Teen, September 2015)

As ancient immortals are left reeling, a modern Athena and Hermes search the world for answers in the third and final Goddess War novel by the acclaimed author of Anna Dressed in Blood. The assault on Olympus left them beaten and scattered and possibly dead. And they have to fight the Fates themselves, who, it turns out, are the source of the gods' illness. And sure, Athena is stuck in the underworld, holding the body of the only hero she has ever loved. But Hermes is still topside, trying to power up Andie and Henry before he runs out of time and dies, or the Fates arrive to eat their faces. And Cassandra is up there somewhere too. On a quest for death. With the god of death. Just because things haven't gone exactly according to plan, it doesn't mean they've lost. They've only mostly lost. And there's a big difference.

HELLO, I LOVE YOU by Katie M. Stout (St. Martin's Griffin, June 2015)

Grace Wilde comes from country music royalty in Nashville, but when things get difficult and she needs a fresh start, she escapes to the farthest place she can think of, a boarding school in Korea. She wants nothing to do with music, but when her roommate Sophie's twin brother Jason turns out to be the newest Korean pop music superstar, Grace is thrust back into the world of fame. She can't stand Jason, whose celebrity status is only outmatched by his oversized ego, but as the months go by and Grace adjusts to her new life in Korea, even she can't deny the sparks flying between her and the KPOP idol. Sweet, fun, and romantic, this young adult novel explores what it means to experience first love and discover who you really are in the process.

Praise: “A page-turning story about true love and the unbreakable ties of family; Hello, I Love You is an exciting debut about letting go of past pain and opening your arms to the future. ALL OUR BAD PARTS by Lily Anderson (St. Martin's Griffin, May 2016)

Stephanie Perkins meets 10 Things I Hate About You in this fresh, romantic debut loosely based on Shakespeare's Much Ado About Nothing. Trixie Watson has two very important goals for senior year: finally save enough to buy the set of Dr. Who figurines at the local comic books store and to place third in her class and knock Ben West—and his horrendous new mustache—down to number four. Trixie will do anything to get her name ranked over Ben's; after all, the battles of Watson v. West go all the way back to the infamous monkey bars incident in the first grade. The war is Trixie's for the winning, until her best friend starts dating Ben's best friend and the two are unceremoniously dumped together and told to play nice. Finding common ground is odious and tooth-pulling-painful, but Trixie and Ben's cautious truce transforms first into a tentative friendship and then maybe into something more. But when Trixie's best friend gets expelled for cheating and Trixie cries foul, they have to choose who to believe—and they might not pick the same side.

HEMINGWAY IN LOVE—His Own Story: A Memoir by A.E. Hotchner (St. Martin's Press, October 2015)

In June of 1961, A.E. Hotchner visited an old friend in the psychiatric ward of St. Mary's Hospital. It would be the last time they spoke—a few weeks later, Ernest Hemingway was released home, where he took his own life. Their final conversation was also the final installment in a story whose telling Hemingway had spread over more than a decade. In characteristically pragmatic terms, Hemingway revealed to Hotchner the details of the affair that destroyed his first marriage: the truth of his romantic life in Paris and how he lost Hadley, the true part of each literary woman he'd later create and the great love he spent the rest of his life seeking. And he told of the mischief that made him a legend: of a plane crash in the African bush, from which Hemingway stumbled with a bunch of bananas and a bottle of gin in hand; of F. Scott Fitzgerald dispensing romantic advice and champagne in the buff with Josephine Baker; of adventure, human error, and life after lost love. This is Hemingway as you've never known him—humble, thoughtful, and full of regret. Now, for the first time, he tells the whole story, mostly in Hemingway's own words. This is the intimate and repentantly candid chapter missing from the definitive biography of a literary giant.

THE PRIVATE HEINRICH HIMMLER: Letters of a Mass Murderer by Katrin Himmler; translated by Thomas S. Hansen (St. Martin's Press, March 2016)

At the end of World War II, it was assumed that the letters of Heinrich Himmler were lost. Yet sixty years after Himmler's capture by British troops and subsequent suicide, the letters mysteriously turned up in Tel Aviv and, in early 2014, excerpts were published for the first time, providing a rare, if jarring, glimpse into the family life of one of Hitler's top lieutenants while he was busy organizing the mass extermination of the Jews. His letters remove any doubt that he was the architect of the Final Solution, and a man who was much closer to Hitler than many historians previously thought. The letters in this edition were arranged by Katrin Himmler, a political writer and the great-niece of Heinrich and Marga Himmler while Michael Wildt, a renowned expert on the Nazi regime, provides historical context to the letters and their author.

EMBEDDED: The Hidden Biology of How the Environment Shapes Our Lives, Our Children, and Our Future by Daniel P. Keating (St. Martin's Press, July 2016)

In Embedded, Keating, a professor of psychology at the University of Michigan gives readers a full picture on the contentious and never-ending nature versus nurture debate by showing that nurture not only has a role to play in shaping us, but that nurture does in fact change our nature. This book and the author's research will forever change your view of who you are and the role played by your DNA in making you who you are. For the DNA we receive at the moment of conception we now know couldn't even take us out of the womb, let alone lead us through life. If it is not vastly adapted by the epigenome, based on input from the environment, we would not be born. We are not our DNA. We are, much more than we ever realized, the product of our environments.

THE SPIRITUAL CHILD: The New Science on Parenting for Health and Lifelong Thriving by Lisa Miller, Ph.D. (St. Martin's Press, May 2015)

Based on her cutting-edge research looking at the relationship between youth and spirituality, Dr. Lisa Miller shows how a child's positive, active relationship to spirituality is more likely to decrease incidents of depression, suicide, risky sexual behavior, and substance abuse than any other single factor in their life. Not only that, an active spiritual life during childhood can increase the thickness of a person's cerebral cortex, the region of the brain associated with interpretation, meaning, and a high IQ. Offering prescriptive advice for parents, Dr. Miller presents concrete ways to develop and encourage children's spiritual well-being, offering a pioneering new way to think about parenting our modern youth.

Praise: "Hundreds of books discuss parenting issues, but The Spiritual Child is a special resource with a focus on fostering children's spiritual lives. Perceptive, thought-provoking, and heavily researched, this is a valuable book for anyone interested in spiritual development in children, adolescents, and families."—Gretchen Rubin, #1 New York Times bestselling author of The Happiness Project

THE HEART HEALERS: The Misfits, Mavericks, and Rebels Who Created the Greatest Medical Breakthrough of Our Lives by James Forrester, M.D. (St. Martin's Press, October 2015)

At one time, heart disease was a death sentence. In The Heart Healers, world renowned cardiac surgeon Dr. James Forrester tells the story of the mavericks and rebels who defied the accumulated medical wisdom of the day to begin conquering heart disease. Dr. James Forrester is an Emeritus Professor and former Chief of the Division of Cardiology at Cedars-Sinai. In addition, he is a Professor of Medicine at the David Geffen School of Medicine at the University of California, Los Angeles (UCLA). Dr. Forrester developed the Forrester classification of hemodynamic subsets of acute myocardial infarction. In the early 1990s, Dr. Forrester led a team that developed coronary angioplasty.

POPULATION WARS: A New Perspective on Competition and Coexistence by Greg Graffin with Caroline Greeven (Thomas Dunne Books, September 2015)

Greg Graffin is a one-of-a-kind thinker who combines his punk rock ethos (he's the lead singer of the punk band Bad Religion) with scientific theory to present an original take on how not just human history but the history of earth's species have been defined and shaped by conflict. In many ways, he argues in Population Wars, that billion-year history of conflict predicts and shapes our lives. But if that's the case, then what freedom do you really have? What use is competition? What is the justification for environmental preservation? Is sustainability attainable? Drawing upon a vast array of topics, he shows how an awareness of the never-ending wars occurring around us (and in which we're often unwitting combatants) can help us take more control of how those conflicts play out.

TEN BILLION TOMORROWS: How Science Fiction Technology Became Reality and Shapes the Future by Brian Clegg (St. Martin's Press, December 2015)

Ten Billion Tomorrows brings to life a whole host of science fiction topics, from the virtual environment of "The Matrix" and the intelligent computer HAL in "2001", to force fields, ray guns and cyborgs. We discover how science fiction has excited us with possibilities, whether it is Star Trek's holodeck inspiring makers of iconic video games Doom and Quake to create the virtual interactive worlds that transformed gaming, or the strange physics that has made real cloaking devices possible. Mixing remarkable science with the imagination of our greatest science fiction writers, this book will delight science fiction lovers and popular science devotees alike.

LESSONS FROM TARA: Life Advice from the World's Most Brilliant Dog by David Rosenfelt (St. Martin's Press, July 2015)

From the author of the beloved Andy Carpenter mystery series and the memoir Dogtripping, Lessons from Tara is a sage and funny story of the author's first dog and what she taught him about life, love, and being a man. With lessons about dating and being able to share his emotions, to everyday stuff like who gets to use the pillow if several dogs are sleeping in your bed (clue: It's not the human) and why random barking will never be something that can be eliminated, Lessons from Tara is infused with David's trademark wry and self-deprecating sense of humor, and will move readers to tears and laughter.

Praise: "A story as poignant as it is hilarious."—Library Journal (starred review) on Dogtripping

A NATURALIST GOES FISHING: Casting in Fragile Waters from the Gulf of Mexico to New Zealand's South Island by James McClintock (Palgrave Macmillan, October 2015)

Jim McClintock, author of Lost Antarctica, takes us to some of the most breathtaking waters the world has to offer while capturing the drama and serendipity in the beloved sport of fishing. We follow him and his fishing buddies and professional guides, as he fishes off the marshy barrier islands of Louisiana, teeming with life but also ravaged by recent disasters like the Deepwater Horizon spill. We travel to the remote waters of New Zealand's Stuart Island, where the commercial fishing industry is fast disappearing; fish for gigantic Antarctic toothfish through a drilled ice hole at McMurdo Station; and scout for spotted bass on Alabama's Cahaba River, which has the highest diversity of freshwater fish in North America. As we take this global journey, we see how sea level rise, erosion, pollution, water acidification, and overfishing each cause damage. This strikingly beautiful narrative is a must read for anglers and nature lovers alike.

THE LAST THOUSAND: One School and the Future of Afghanistan by Jeffrey E. Stern (St. Martin's Press, January 2016)

In a book that will appeal to readers of titles like Three Cups of Tea and Behind the Beautiful Forevers, The Last Thousand examines the U.S.'s foreign policy through the lens of Marefat, a school tucked into a Kabul slum that stands as the pinnacle of American military intervention. The school's mission is to educate its community's youth—both boys and girls—and introduce them to a secular curriculum and the arts. Using its meager resources, it sends its alumni to America, Europe, and India to university. With the U.S. withdrawal, both the school and the Hazaras community will lose their protectors. In this narrative-driven account Jeff Stern tracks the final year of the U.S. presence in Afghanistan, showing the successes and failures in compelling, heartbreaking, and inspiring detail.

ALIBABA’S WORLD: How a Remarkable Chinese Company Is Changing the Face of Global Business by Porter Erisman (Palgrave Macmillan USA, May 2015)

In Alibaba’s World, author Porter Erisman, one of Alibaba’s first Western employees and its head of international marketing from 2000 to 2008, shows how Jack Ma, a Chinese schoolteacher who twice failed his college entrance exams, rose from obscurity to found Alibaba and lead it from struggling startup to the world’s most dominant e-commerce player. He shares stories of weathering the dotcom crash, facing down eBay and Google, negotiating with the unpredictable Chinese government, and enduring the misguided advice of foreign experts, all to build the behemoth that’s poised to sweep the ecommerce world today. And he analyzes Alibaba’s role as a harbinger of the new global business landscape—with its focus on the East rather than the West, emerging markets over developed ones, and the nimble entrepreneur over the industry titan. As we face this near future, the story of Alibaba—and its inevitable descendants—is both essential and instructive.

EXTREME OWNERSHIP: How U.S. Navy SEALs Lead and Win by Jocko Willink and Leif Babin (St. Martin's Press, October 2015)

Jocko Willink and Leif Babin are highly decorated Navy SEAL officers who served together in some of the toughest combat situations in the last ten years. Together they developed leadership lessons and organizational practices through years of experience, and they took those lessons and helped to write a doctrine for the next generation of SEALs as BUD/S instructors. Today, Babin and Willink apply these principles in the boardroom via their company Echelon Front. Across the country, they demonstrate how the SEAL approach to leadership that made them successful soldiers can help countless organizations and individuals achieve the highest level of success.

GOOD FOR THE MONEY: My Fight to Pay Back America by Robert Benmosche with Peter Marks and Valerie Hendy (St. Martin's Press, January 2016)

In 2009, at the peak of the financial crisis, AIG—an American insurance behemoth—was sinking fast. So when Bob Benmosche climbed aboard as CEO, it was widely assumed that he would go down with his ship. However, in mere months, he turned things around, pulling AIG from the brink of financial collapse and restoring it to a profitable enterprise. Good for the Money is an unyielding leader's memoir of spectacular resurgence after hitting rock bottom. With his brash, no-holds-barred business conventions, Benmosche restored America's faith in the industry and engineered one of America's most astonishing corporate turnarounds. His is a story of perseverance, told with refreshing irreverence in unpretentious terms.

THE REMARKABLE MR. TRUMP: The Life and Meaning of an American Icon by Michael D'Antonio (Thomas Dunne Books, January 2016)

In one way or another, Donald Trump has been a topic of conversation in America for almost forty years. No one in the world of business—not Bill Gates, Steve Jobs, or Warren Buffett—has been as famous as Trump for as long. First associated with high-profile real estate development in 1970s Manhattan, his name has since become synonymous with success defined by wealth and luxury. Add to the picture a kind of resilience that has allowed him to stage countless comebacks and truly a boundless level of optimism, and you get a figure so compelling that he cannot be dismissed simply because of his personality. Now, a revealing new biography by Pulitzer Prize-winning reporter Michael D'Antonio features firsthand interviews and detailed research, including with Trump himself.

THE GRAY RHINO: Why We Keep Missing the Most Obvious Threats and How We Can Get Out of Their Way by Michele Wucker (St. Martin's Press, February 2016)

A Gray Rhino is a high impact, highly likely crisis: a massive angry horned beast about to charge. Leaders ought to be better at preparing for and handling these seemingly obvious threats than surprise “Black Swan” catastrophes, but all too often, the opposite is true. In The Gray Rhino, president of the World Policy Institute Michele Wucker looks at recognizing large-scale problems well before they happen and planning for rather than reacting too late to them.

Praise: “As Michele Wucker warns us: It’s not if; it’s when. This is a book for our time, when we face multiple, evident existential threats...This book reminds us that denial will not save us, and provides strategies for navigating a way forward to survival by ferreting out the opportunities born of crisis.”—Mira Kamdar, author of Planet India
