Lane knew little of her mother's mysterious family, but she quickly embraced life as one of the rich and beautiful Roanoke girls. But when she discovered the dark truth at the heart of the family, she ran...fast and far away. Eleven years later, Lane is adrift in Los Angeles when her grandfather calls to tell her Allegra has gone missing. Did she run too? Or something worse? Unable to resist his pleas, Lane returns to help search, and to ease her guilt at having left Allegra behind. Her homecoming may mean a second chance with the boyfriend whose heart she broke that long ago summer. But it also means facing the devastating secret that made her flee, one she may not be strong enough to run from again.

As it weaves between Lane's first Roanoke summer and her return, The Roanoke Girls shocks and tantalizes, twisting its way through revelation after mesmerizing revelation, exploring the secrets families keep and the fierce and terrible love that both binds them together and rips them apart.

THE DRAMA TEACHER

Koren Zailckas

Spring 2018

Rights: World

►Manuscript due Summer 2017

A twisty, compulsive new thriller featuring a deliciously devious unreliable narrator who will do anything to give her family a better life, by the New York Times bestselling author of Mother, Mother and Smashed. Gracie Mueller seems like an average person. Married, mother of two. Owns a house with her husband, Randy, in upstate New York. Life is balanced and (relatively) honest. But she has a lot to hide —she's not even a US citizen—and when Randy's failing career as a real estate agent makes finances tight, he leaves town for a better job, their home goes into foreclosure, and Gracie turns back to the creatively illegal lifestyle of her past to keep things afloat for her kids. After all, how many times can a woman lose everything?

An expert in fake identities, she becomes Tracey Bueller, who later becomes Mariana DeFelice. She's an architect and designer, a musician and an actress. After a deadly stint upstate when a friend asks too many questions, she leaves town for New York City, finding her way into the best school in Manhattan for her kids, where she gets a job as the drama teacher. But as she struggles to keep her web of lies spun taut and her secrets hidden, more questions about her past are raised. She never intended to be a cheat, a liar, a thief, or a killer; she just can't afford for anyone to know what she's done.

Written with the style, energy, and penetrating insight that made her memoir Smashed a bestselling phenomenon, Koren Zailckas' new novel confirms her growing reputation as a psychological novelist who can stand up to the best of them. You won't be able to stop turning the pages.

Koren Zailckas is an internationally bestselling writer, and has contributed to The Guardian, U.S. News & World Report, Glamour, Jane, and Seventeen magazine. She currently lives with her family in the Catskills Mountains of New York.

A Novel

Edan Lepucki

May 2017

Rights: World

►Manuscript available

A new novel of emotional danger, art, motherhood, and the intensity of female friendships, set in the posh hills above Los Angeles, from the New York Times bestselling author of California

When Lady decided to take a break from her husband, she hires a live-in nanny so that she can finish her book—but also so that she can possibly avoid her children. S, a young artist/student, arrives on her doorstep to interview for the job and instantly connects with both her sons, but soon begins to act in a way that causes Lady to question her reason for being there. This twisty, moody, bizarre, and confidently written second novel is a riveting exploration of female friendship that will further establish Lepucki as a major voice in literary fiction.

Praise for Edan Lepucki's California:

"In her arresting debut novel, Edan Lepucki conjures a lush, intricate, deeply disturbing vision of the future, then masterfully exploits its dramatic possibilities."

TELL ME HOW THIS ENDS WELL

David Samuel Levinson

► Manuscript available

"I'm only telling you this because you can't hear me, which means you can't be an accessory, should anything go wrong," he said, "but the other reason is that my brother, sister, and I — we — are planning on murdering our dad."

"Tell Me How This Ends Well is a wickedly funny, intelligent examination of the dynamics of a uniquely strange family, and David Levinson guides these characters through a plot that intensifies in such unexpected ways. A daring, memorable novel."—Kevin Wilson, author of *The Family Fang

"Like absolutely nothing I've read before, Levinson's brilliantly unsettling, fiercely funny novel takes on both dangerous intolerance in the near-future world, and in the confines of one wildly destructive family, where ties tighten like nooses and kith and kin can become like warring political systems. Affecting and hilarious, and filled with dark truths that gleam like jewels. I totally loved it."

—Caroline Leavitt, author of *Cruel Beautiful World

The Jacobsons are gathering for one last Passover. Eldest son Mo will host at his home in Los Angeles, with Edith (Thistle) arriving from Atlanta, and youngest son Jacob flying in from Berlin with his German boyfriend. They will gather around the table as a full family one last time. With a plot to murder their father.

The family is coming apart at the seams, and the three adult children find themselves in various states of crisis, the result, each claims, of a lifetime of mistreatment by their hateful, undermining father, Julian. The Jacobson offspring have begun to suspect that Julian is hastening their mother Ruth's demise, and years of resentment reach a climax as the siblings debate whether they will go through with the real reason for their reunion: an ill-considered plot to murder their father and end his iron rule once and for all. That is, if they can put their bickering, grudges, festering relationships with their partners, and distrust of one another to the side long enough to act. And God help them if their mother finds out...

Set in a very near future, where Israel is no more, and anti-Semitism and terror run rampant, TELL ME HOW THIS ENDS WELL, is a darkly comic, disturbingly prescient, and incredibly accomplished novel from an award-winning writer.

David Samuel Levinson is the author of the novel, Antonia Lively Breaks the Silence (Algonquin, 2013) and the story collection Most of Us Are Here Against Our Will. He has been nominated for the Pushcart Prize and has received fellowships from Yaddo, the Jentel Foundation, Ledig House, the Santa Fe Arts Institute, the Sewanee Writers' Conference, and the Marguerite and Lamar Smith Fellowship for Writers.

BEAUTIFUL ANIMALS

Lawrence Osborne

July 2017

Rights: World

► Manuscript due Fall 2016

The new novel from Lawrence Osborne, critically acclaimed author of Hunters in the Dark, The Ballad of a Small Player, The Forgiven and The Wet and the Dry.

On a hike during a white-hot summer break on the Greek island of Hydra, Naomi and Samantha make a startling discovery: a man, sleeping heavily, exposed to the elements, but still alive. Naomi, the daughter of a wealthy British art collector who has owned a villa in the exclusive hills for decades, convinces Sam, a younger American girl on vacation with her family, to help this stranger, but are her motives borne of altruism - he is, by all appearances, a refugee - or a more selfish desire to bring some excitement into her life? As the two young women learn more about the man and his past, their own burgeoning friendship takes a darker turn, and when a murder occurs on the island, a private investigator arrives and forces them to determine where their true loyalties lie.

In his new novel, a brilliantly atmospheric masterpiece that glows with the sparkling intensity of the Mediterranean sunshine, Osborne returns to the themes that made The Forgiven his breakout novel: the class tensions between wealthy white Europeans and the natives and immigrants who serve them, and the way a violent incident can cause reverberations both psychic and cultural that lay bare our own hypocrisies.

MEXICO

Josh Barkan

January 2017

Rights: World

► Galleys available

A powerful, deeply original short story collection about people living in Mexico whose lives are turned upside down by the violence and chaos of the drug cartels.

The characters in Josh Barkan's remarkable story collection MEXICO are ordinary people--everyday citizens, expats, and travelers visiting the country for their own reasons--who find themselves inexorably caught up in and impacted by the criminality and brutality of the Mexican cartels. In these pages readers will meet a tourist who is kidnapped off the street, a teacher whose students risk death if they fall in love with the wrong person, a chef who must cook for a gangster under pain of death, a plastic surgeon forced to alter a fugitive drug lord's appearance, and many more compelling and memorable characters suddenly thrust into harrowing, life-changing situations. But for all that the characters in MEXICO have their lives touched by crime, these are much more than simple "crime stories." Rather, they are complicated and deeply human tales that touch on universally recognizable themes such as a parent's desire to connect with their children, an idealistic belief in young love, and the struggle to maintain faith in a world full of hardship. Josh Barkan has a keen eye for detail and an authentic sense of place, polished over many years spent living in Mexico, and he brings this world to life with uncommon grace. As extreme as the events in these stories may be, they are always grounded in recognizable and relatable human characters. Readers will see themselves in these pages, which makes the unflinching portrait of drug violence all the more powerful.

Josh Barkan's fiction has received accolades and awards from the National Endowment for the Arts, the Grace Paley Prize for Short Fiction, Paterson Fiction Prize, Juniper Prize for Fiction, and the Lightship International Short Story Prize. He received his MFA from the Iowa Writers' Workshop and he has taught writing at Harvard, Boston University, and NYU. With his wife, a painter from Mexico, he divides his time between Mexico City and Roanoke, Virginia.

Soon to be a Netflix dramatic series written by Michael Chabon and Aleyet Waldman.

Expanding upon the authors' Pulitzer Prize and Polk Award for Journalism winning article, a deeper look into the story of a young rape victim, who was coerced by the police to rescind her accusation, and the two detectives who later found the rapist years later and thousands of miles away. A fascinating tale that reads like a thriller as the two female police officers work together to unravel the mystery of a methodical serial rapist. The characters—from Marie, the victim of the assault, to the two female cops who took down the rapist, to the perpetrator himself— are remarkable, and the page-turning story is the perfect engine for a broader exploration of rape culture, and what it will take to change the way we talk about and prosecute these crimes.

PHENOMENON

Betty Robinson and the Victory of the First Olympic Women

Roseanne Montillo

Fall 2017

Rights: World

► Manuscript due Fall 2016

Film rights have been sold to DreamWorks

Rosanne Montillo's Phenomenon details how Betty Robinson became the first woman to win an Olympic gold medal in track and field and the incredible challenges she surmounted to win her second.

Betty Robinson was a charismatic but unlikely athletic phenomenon, an aspiring dancer discovered running for a train at just sixteen, whose celebrated career, and life, almost came to an abrupt and tragic end in a fluke plane crash. Her heroic survival, rehabilitation, and return to the sport (and subsequent second gold medal victory) makes for an exciting, uplifting story of triumph over tragedy, framed by the grueling perseverance of the young women like Betty who were finally permitted to compete alongside male athletes at the international Olympic games.

Emerson literature professor Roseanne Montillo has won admiration and praise for her first two works of vividly detailed, cinematic narrative nonfiction: The Lady and Her Monsters, about the creation of Mary Shelley's literary masterpiece, and The Wilderness of Ruin, that followed the hunt for America's youngest serial killer and examined the relationship between troubled writer Herman Melville and his physician, Oliver Wendell Holmes. Among her many accolades, The New York Times has applauded Montillo's "lively narrative approach" and Publishers Weekly has dubbed her a "masterly storyteller." Now Montillo is bringing her emotionally direct narrative approach to a remarkable tale of one woman's resilience and strength, set against the backdrop of the 1928 and 1936 Olympic games.

“Beautifully written and rigorously researched, THE POWER OF MEANING speaks to the yearning we all share for a life of depth and significance. In a culture constantly shouting about happiness, this warm and wise book leads us down the path to what truly matters. Reading it is a life-transforming experience.”

—SUSAN CAIN, author of Quiet

“A riveting read on the quest for the one thing that matters more than happiness. Emily Esfahani Smith reveals why we lose meaning in our lives and how to find it. Beautifully written, evidence-based, and inspiring, this is a book I’ve been awaiting for a very long time.”

—ADAM GRANT, author of Originals and Give and Take; professor at the Wharton School

There is a myth in our culture that the search for meaning is some esoteric pursuit—that you have to travel to a distant monastery or page through dusty volumes to figure out life’s great secret. The truth is, there are untapped sources of meaning all around us—right here, right now. Drawing on the latest research in positive psychology; on insights from George Eliot, Viktor Frankl, Aristotle, the Buddha, and other great minds; and on interviews with seekers of meaning, Emily Esfahani Smith lays out the four pillars upon which meaning rests.

Belonging: We all need to find our tribe and forge relationships in which we feel understood, recognized, and valued—to know we matter to others.

Purpose: We all need a far-reaching goal that motivates us, serves as the organizing principle of our lives, and drives us to make a contribution to the world.

Storytelling: We are all storytellers, taking our disparate experiences and assembling them into a coherent narrative that allows us to make sense of ourselves and the world.

Transcendence: During a transcendent or mystical experience, we feel we have risen above the everyday world and are connected to something vast and meaningful.

Inspiring and story-driven, The Power of Meaning will strike a profound chord in anyone seeking a richer, more satisfying life.

Emily Esfahani Smith writes about culture, relationships, and psychology for the Atlantic, New Criterion, New York Times, Wall Street Journal, Newsweek, Daily Beast, and other publications. She holds an MA from the University of Pennsylvania in applied positive psychology. A native of Zurich, she grew up in Montreal and lives in Michigan.

SCARS OF INDEPENDENCE

America's Violent Birth

Holger Hoock

May 2017

Rights: World

► Manuscript available Fall 2016

From the J. Carroll Amundson Professor of British History at the University of Pittsburgh and editor of the Journal of British Studies, a magisterial, lavishly illustrated new work that rewrites the story of America's founding.

In SCARS OF INDEPENDENCE, Holger Hoock writes the violence back into the story of the American Revolution. American Patriots tortured Loyalists and imprisoned them in Connecticut mines; British troops massacred enemy soldiers, raped colonial women, and crowded half-starving prisoners on disease-ridden ships; both sides conscripted African-Americans, who suffered disproportionately as soldiers and slaves; and Washington's army waged a genocidal campaign against the Iroquois nation. In vivid, authoritative prose, Hoock also examines the moral dilemmas posed by this all-pervasive violence, as the British found themselves torn between unlimited war and restraint toward fellow subjects, while the Patriots ingeniously documented war crimes in an effort to unify the fledgling nation, ultimately erasing the trauma of the Loyalists in their midst.

While the war was fought primarily on the American front, it carried international ramifications:

Huge numbers of British soldiers served and died in the war and the British armada sent to America's east coast in 1776 represented the largest overseas invasion force in European history.

The conflict that started in America soon expanded into a worldwide war. By 1778, Britain and France (America's new ally) had already begun fighting naval battles off the Brittany coast. The British would have to juggle the demands of safeguarding the homeland against invasion, attacking French interests in the Caribbean, and protecting British outposts from the Mediterranean to West Africa and India.

The conflict shaped the way the British defined themselves and their empire. North's Act, passed in 1777, redrew the zones of law within the British Empire, ending the subjecthood of certain individuals in colonial British America and on the high seas. The law, meant to prevent American prisoners from challenging their detention in English civilian courts, ended up reifying the separation Britons increasingly felt from their fellow-subjects in other colonies.

60,000 Loyalists went into exile in the British empire after the war.

The loss of America was a catalyst for broader reforms in the British empire. Historians largely agree that the defeat "caused much introspective reflection, leading to a campaign for moral regeneration," and a shift toward a "humane, civilized, and regulated despotism" in an empire that was moving decisively east and toward majority non-white populations. At the same time, defeat in a war in which both former fellow-subjects and British skeptics had critiqued the country for abandoning humanitarian standards focused the attention of the political class and the wider public on the big moral questions facing their empire: slavery and abolition, and corrupt exploitation and crimes against humanity in British India. The British Empire's abolition of the slave trade in 1807, and of slavery itself in 1834, built on this moral reckoning.

Holger Hoock was born in Germany, studied at Freiburg im Breisgau and at Cambridge, and received his PhD in eighteenth-century history at Oxford.

THE GREAT QUAKE

How the Biggest Earthquake in North America Changed Everything

Henry Fountain

August 2017

Rights: World

► Manuscript due Fall 2016

In the bestselling tradition of Erik Larson's Isaac's Storm, a riveting narrative about the biggest earthquake in recorded history in North America-- the 1964 Alaskan earthquake that demolished the city of Valdez and obliterated the coastal village of Chenega- and the scientist sent to look for geological clues to explain the dynamics of earthquakes, who helped to confirm the then controversial theory of plate tectonics.

On March 27, 1964, at 5:30 pm, the biggest earthquake ever recorded in North America -- and the 2nd biggest ever in the Western Hemisphere, measuring 9.3 on the Richter scale -- struck just off the coast of Alaska, devastating coastal towns and villages and killing over 160 people in what was then a relatively sparsely populated region. In a riveting tale about the almost unimaginable brute force of nature, New York Times science journalist Henry Fountain, in his first trade book, re-creates the lives of the villagers and townspeople living in Chenega, Anchorage and Valdez, describes the sheer beauty of the geology of the region, with its towering peaks and 20-mile-long glaciers, and the impact of the quake on the towns, the buildings, and the lives of the inhabitants. George Plafker, a geologist at the University of California at Berkeley with years of experience scouring the Alaskan wilderness, is asked to investigate the Prince William Sound region in the aftermath of the quake, to better understand its origins. His work confirmed the then controversial theory of plate tectonics that explained how and why such deadly quakes occur, and how we can plan for the next one.

Henry Fountain has been a reporter and editor at The New York Times for two decades, primarily writing about science and technology. Prior to coming to The Times, Fountain worked at the International Herald Tribune in Paris, New York Newsday, and The Bridgeport Post.

DISASTER FALLS

A Family Story

Stéphane Gerson

January 2017

Rights: World

►Galleys available

“DISASTER FALLS is a meditation on family tragedy, facing up to both the thing itself and its consequences, in language whose restraint paradoxically allows the reader access to great depths of emotion. An immensely powerful book.”—SALMAN RUSHDIE

“I resisted DISASTER FALLS—afraid to enter its world of very nearly unendurable pain—but once I began reading I was pinned to the spot. This is a spare, lucid, wholly unsentimental, tender, devastating and devastatingly beautiful book.” —DANI SHAPIRO, author of Slow Motion and Devotion

In this piercing memoir, a father maps the contours of his grief and explores how his family navigates the unthinkable loss of eight-year-old Owen.

On a day like any other, on a rafting trip down Utah’s Green River, Stéphane Gerson’s eight-year-old son, Owen, drowned in a spot known as Disaster Falls. That same night, as darkness fell, Stéphane huddled in a tent with his wife, Alison, and their older son, Julian, trying to understand what seemed inconceivable. “It’s just the three of us now,” Alison said over the sounds of a light rain and, nearby, the rushing river. “We cannot do it alone. We have to stick together.”

DISASTER FALLS chronicles the aftermath of that day and their shared determination to stay true to Alison’s resolution. Gerson captures the different ways of grieving that threatened to isolate each of them in their post-Owen worlds and then, with beautiful specificity, shows how he and Alison preserved and reconfigured their marriage from within. Blending family history (including the “good death” of his father, which offers a very different perspective on mortality) and the natural history of the river, he provides an expansive, unflinching meditation on loss, our responsibilities toward our children, and the stories we tell ourselves in the wake of traumatic events.

Stéphane Gerson is a cultural historian of modern France and a professor of French and French studies at New York University. He lives in Manhattan and Woodstock, New York, with his family.

A Journey Through Anxiety
Andrea Petersen
May 2017
Rights: World
► Manuscript due Fall 2016

Andrea Petersen was first diagnosed with an anxiety disorder at the age of twenty, but she later realized that she had been experiencing panic attacks since childhood. Although having a name for her terrifying physical symptoms (a racing heart, difficulty breathing, and more) and fears was an enormous relief, identifying it was only the beginning of a journey to understand it—one that takes her from New England mountaintops to the back of a motorbike in Vietnam as she refuses to let anxiety rule her life.

In ON EDGE, Petersen harnesses her personal experience and expertise as a health reporter to explore the biological mechanisms of anxiety and the groundbreaking research that might point the way to new treatments. She excavates the role of genetics and the environment in mental illness by visiting with top neuroscientists, and by tracing her family history—from her grandmother, who, plagued by paranoia, once tried to burn down her own house, to her young daughter, in whom Petersen sees shades of herself. Along the way, she also illuminates the differences between anxiety in men and women, and introduces us to the people whose support has allowed her to make her life her own.

Andrea Petersen is a news editor and feature writer for the Wall Street Journal, covering everything from health, pharmaceuticals, and aging to travel, home, and family. She has appeared on CNBC, Fox News, and CBS This Morning.

George W. Bush

February 2017

Rights: World

► Manuscript due Fall 2016

A vibrant collection of oil paintings by President George W. Bush honoring the stories, sacrifices, and courage of America's military veterans, with a foreword by First Lady Laura Bush and an afterword by General Peter Pace, 16th Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Growing out of President Bush's own outreach as well as the ongoing work of the George W. Bush Institute's Military Service Initiative in support of veterans of Afghanistan and Iraq, Portraits of Courage brings together 65 full-color portraits by President Bush of some of the 2.5 million members of the US Military who have served the United States with valor and distinction since 9/11—and whom he has come to know personally since leaving office. Each painting in this lavishly produced hardcover volume is accompanied by the inspiring story of the veteran depicted, written in the President's voice, allowing readers to put a face to those who answered the nation's call and learn from their bravery on the battlefield, their journeys to recovery and the continued leadership and contributions they have to offer as civilians.

George W. Bush is the 43rd President of the United States, serving from 2001 to 2009. He previously served as Governor of Texas. He and his wife, Laura, now live in Dallas, where they founded the George W. Bush Presidential Center at Southern Methodist University. THE GREAT NADAR

Adam Begley

July 2017

Rights: World English (Translation rights: Georges Borchardt Inc.)

►Manuscript due November 2016

A dazzling, stylish biography of a fabled Parisian photographer, adventurer, and pioneer.

A recent biography begins, "Who doesn't know Nadar?" In France, that's a rhetorical question. Of all of the legendary figures who emerged from mid-19th-century Paris--a cohort that includes Victor Hugo and Baudelaire, Gustave Courbet, and Alexandre Dumas--Nadar may be the most innovative, the most restless, the most modern.

The first great portrait photographer, a pioneering balloonist, the first person to take an aerial photograph and launch an air mail service, Nadar was one of the first celebrity artist-entrepreneurs. A kind of 19th-century Andy Warhol, he knew everyone worth knowing and photographed them all, leaving for posterity psychologically compelling portraits of Manet, Sarah Bernhardt, Delacroix, Daumier, and countless others--a priceless panorama of Parisian celebrity.

Born Gaspard-Félix Tournachon, he adopted the pseudonym Nadar as a young bohemian, when he was budding writer and a cartoonist. Later he would install the name Nadar on the façade of his opulent photographic studio in giant script, the illuminated letters ten feet tall, the whole sign fifty feet long. Nadar became known to all of Europe and even across the Atlantic after he launched "The Giant," a hot air balloon as tall as a twelve-story building, the largest of its time. His ballooning exploits, which include a catastrophic crash that made headlines around the world, inspired his friend Jules Verne to create one of his most dynamic heroes.

THE GREAT NADAR illuminates a larger-than-life figure, a visionary whose outsized talent and canny self-promotion put him ahead of his time.

RUNNING ON HAPPY

Deena Kastor and Michelle Hamilton

Fall 2017

Rights: World

“As an athlete I’ve found aside from hard work, the greatest tools for success are optimism and gratitude. These practices have led to happiness and the routine pause to realize I’m living the life I love and dreamed of.” – Deena Kastor

When Deena Kastor was a senior at the University of Arkansas, she assumed her running career was over. She was frequently injured, psychologically burned out, and far more interested in what she was making in the kitchen than anything outside. But she wasn’t finished: when her coach encouraged her to give it one more try, she realized she’d had it all wrong: she was running on talent – something finite and unsustainable – and not running on physical, emotional, and psychological strength. Fast forward twenty years and Deena Kastor amassed 15 national titles in cross-country, track and marathon. She is the only athlete to hold every American record from 5K to the marathon and the only American woman to break the sub-2:20 barrier in the marathon. She also won the bronze medal in the women’s marathon at the 2004 Olympics in Athens.

What she learned, and what applies to every single one of us, is that the difference between positive and negative thinking is the difference between finishing (dare I say winning) the race and never making it to the course. RUNNING ON HAPPY by Deena Kastor and Michelle Hamilton is Deena’s story of how she found and built an entire life around positive psychology. This is an inspiration to runners everywhere, and applicable to anyone wishing to usher in more positive thoughts. Deena challenges us to look up, consider our surroundings, and dare ourselves to think better.

Deena Kastor has been on the cover of Runner’s World, Running Times, and Competitor magazines; featured in The New York Times, the Los Angeles Times and multiple other publications. She’s appeared on morning shows, including the Today Show, Good Morning America, Weather with Al Roker on the Weather Channel, KTLA, WGN-Chicago, and ABC7 Chicago. She also served as a commentator for the national broadcast of the New York City Marathon and local coverage of the Chicago and Los Angeles Marathons. She is sponsored by ASICS and Fleet Feet, and runs the ASICS Mammoth Track Club with her husband, Andrew Kastor. They live in Mammoth, CA.

Michelle Hamilton is a veteran health and fitness journalist and a contributing editor at Runner’s World magazine.

► Manuscript available

"The key is to weather the storm. It's gonna rain some days. That's how it is."

"The key is not to jet ski at night."

From the hip-hop impresario and social media guru DJ Khaled, a motivational collection of his "keys" to success.

Hip-hop artist/producer, businessman, and social media star DJ Khaled has amassed millions of followers in recent months for the motivational advice he offers up in the short videos he posts to social media. He refers to his pieces of uniquely phrased wisdom as "keys," always using the key emoji to signify their importance.

THE KEYS will share what DJ Khaled considers to be the major keys to success, some more intuitive ("Be honest but don't play yourself") than others ("Don't drive your jet ski in the dark"), which he'll illustrate with stories from his personal experience. He'll also get into the philosophy behind some of his famous catchphrases, which have spread like wildfire despite their enigmatic nature, including "another one," "securing the bag," "special cloth alert," "bless up," and more. And throughout the book will be "Mogul Talk" sidebars featuring insight gleaned from famous friends like Jay Z, Madonna, and Jimmy Kimmel.

As DJ Khaled says, "The key is to have all the keys," and THE KEYS will gather them and explain them, as you ride with DJ Khaled on your journey to success.

DJ Khaled released his most recent album, MAJOR KEY, in August. MAJOR KEY was a number one album in the US, top 10 in the UK, Canada, and Australia, and top 50 in other international markets, including Austria (number 30), Belgium (number 15), the Netherlands (38), and Norway (32). It contains collaborations with artists such as Jay Z, Meghan Trainor, and Drake.

DJ Khaled is a music industry mogul, executive, mega producer, and recording artist who has made dozens of chart-topping records with artists such as Kanye West, Jay Z, Drake, Chris Brown, Ludacris, and more. The creator of one of the most globally viewed Snapchat accounts, Khaled has nearly 6 million Snapchat followers, 3.1 million Instagram followers, and 2.8 million Twitter followers.

Robbie Robertson

November 2016

Rights: World

►Galleys available

“Robbie Robertson’s Testimony is a book of memories and wonders, a personal testament of a magical time in American music from someone who was there, at the center of it all, playing and casting spells and writing songs that helped define those great lost years. There’s history here, and anecdote, regret and reminiscence, a long fond look back at the trials and triumphs of finding your voice then holding your ground. The tone is easy, conversational, like reminiscing with a friend about things you never realized you were part of too. Robbie brings you along with him, keeps you right by his side first to last, just the way his songs do, drawing you close, spellbound by his easy sorcery. You can feel the music in every word.”

—Martin Scorsese

"Well, once I started, I couldn't put it down. It is such a well-paced, well-structured narrative. Robertson's voice is powerful and strong. He has harnessed vivid language to a clean, elegant, writing style, and the sense of honesty, openness, and completeness makes it so very compelling. The personal and the historic that he bears witness to is, of course, extraordinarily special. One of the best documents of our times. And one of the best books on rock and roll ever written." —Jann Wenner

"Nobody tells a story like Robbie Robertson. I can't think of a memoir that is more compelling, fascinating, or rich in history. Across every page you can feel his love, passion, and musical genius." —David Geffen

On the 40th anniversary of The Band's legendary The Last Waltz concert, Robbie Robertson finally tells his own spellbinding story of the band that changed music history, his extraordinary personal journey, and his creative friendships with some of the greatest artists of the last half-century.

OTIS REDDING An Unfinished Life

Jonathan Gould
May 2017
Rights: World
► Manuscript due Fall 2016

The definitive biography of Otis Redding, the artist many call the heart of American soul music, timed to the 50th anniversary of Redding's iconic performance at the 1967 Monterey Pop Festival.

When we think of Otis Redding, we remember his classic hits, from "The Dock of the Bay" and "Shake" to "Try a Little Tenderness" and "Respect," a song we often forget that he penned before Aretha Franklin made it famous. We know his music, yet we know very little about his life, which ended tragically at the age of 26, at the height of his career. According to Jonathan Gould, that knowledge gap is a shame, because while Redding might not have been as gifted as Ray Charles or as smooth as Sam Cooke, Otis-not Marvin Gaye, not James Brown, not Stevie Wonder--is "the purest distillation of what we talk about when we talk about 'soul.'" Now, in this biography, we'll finally get a fitting look at the unfinished life of the man some call "the King of Soul." That said, this book is not just about Redding and his music; it is also about the times from which they emerged. Gould never lets us forget that the boundaries between black musicians and white listeners were becoming porous at precisely the moment that racial tensions were at their highest—a theme that remains relevant today. His portrait of Redding is both a remarkable look at a long-misunderstood artist and a fascinating exploration of race and music in America in the 1960s.

Jonathan Gould is a writer and a former professional musician who studied with the eminent jazz drummer Alan Dawson and spent many years working in bands and recording studios.

LEADING LADY Sherry Lansing and the Making of a Hollywood Groundbreaker

► Manuscript due Fall 2016

The definitive biography of movie executive and philanthropist Sherry Lansing traces her groundbreaking journey to become the first female head of a major motion picture studio, shares behind-the-scenes tales from movie sets and Hollywood boardrooms, and explains what inspired her to walk away from it all to start the Sherry Lansing Foundation.

As the president of 20th Century Fox and CEO of Paramount Pictures, Sherry Lansing defied expectations, rising to the top of the ranks in a town notorious for its boys' club mentality. Her career was unprecedented at a time when most industry women were expected to become secretaries or starlets. But her determination, intelligence, and the kindness that became her trademark helped her to survive and thrive. She helped bring Oscar-winning movies and blockbusters to the silver screen—from Kramer vs. Kramer and Fatal Attraction (where she made the crucial decision to cast Glenn Close) to Forrest Gump, Titanic, Saving Private Ryan, and many others. Later, when she was at the top of her game, she left it all behind to start the Sherry Lansing Foundation, a renowned philanthropic organization that supports cancer research, public education, and other fundraising initiatives.

Written by The Hollywood Reporter executive editor and the 2013 Entertainment Journalist of the Year, Stephen Galloway, this is an entertaining and inspiring look at Lansing's life and career. Galloway's revealing portrait portrays a dynamic woman who was unafraid to push boundaries, change career paths, and achieve the life she wanted.

►Manuscript due Fall 2016

From the "Queen of Soap Opera" and creator of All My Children, One Life to Live, and Loving, the story of Agnes Nixon's rise to the top of the television industry in a time when the airwaves were ruled by men

Before there was Erica Kane, Adam Chandler, or Victoria Lord, there was Agnes Nixon, a young girl who dreamed up stories for paper dolls. Those tales she imagined--ones filled with ambitions, rivalries, and romances--would soon echo her own path to success. In a memoir as rife with as much drama as the epic soaps she penned, Nixon shares her journey as daughter of a broken marriage, who fought back against her father's wish that she take over the family mortuary business, and later became one of the most successful names in the TV industry.

Fans of Nixon's greatest creations, All My Children and One Life to Live, will delight at Nixon's own incredible life, as well as the behind-the-scenes insight she gave to daytime's most successful programs, including: the inception and casting of the iconic character Erica Kane, played by Susan Lucci; the story bible for All My Children, and how it became lost, and then locked away in a drawer for many years; and how Nixon positioned ABC to become the media giant it is today, despite pushback from her male counterparts. This candid glimpse behind the curtain of the soap opera industry will charm the millions of soap fans and lovers of good stories alike.

Agnes Nixon was a writer and producer, best known for creating the Emmy Award-winning soap operas All My Children, One Life To Live, and Loving.

►Manuscript due Fall 2016

A curated collection of the New York Times' travel column, "Footsteps," exploring classic authors' relationships to landmarks and cities around the world.

Before The Sun Also Rises, Ernest Hemingway roamed the streets of Madrid, eager for the heady scent of blood emanating from the nearby bullrings. Before spunky, redheaded Anne Shirley stole readers' hearts in Anne of Green Gables, L.M. Montgomery was captivated by the sunset sky of Prince Edward Island. And before readers were terrified by a tentacled dragon-man called Cthulhu, H.P. Lovecraft was enthralled by the Industrial Trust tower-- the 26-story skyscraper that dominates the skyline of Providence, Rhode Island.

Based on the popular New York Times travel column, FOOTSTEPS is an anthology of literary pilgrimages, exploring the geographic muses behind some of history's greatest writers. From the "dangerous, dirty and seductive" streets of Naples, the setting for Elena Ferrante's famous Neapolitan novels, to the "stone arches, creaky oaken doors, and riverside paths" of Oxford, the backdrop for Alice's Adventures in Wonderland, Footsteps takes a fresh approach to literary tourism, appealing to readers and travel enthusiasts alike.

"Jeff Wilser did not throw away his shot. He has written a remarkably fun and informative account of the brilliant 'bastard' from the Caribbean who created modern America. We still have much to learn from this remarkable founding father, and we owe Wilser a debt of gratitude for translating Hamilton's 'life lessons' into such an insightful and entertaining book."

HACKING GROWTH

How Today's Fastest-Growing Companies Drive Breakout Success

Sean Ellis and Morgan Brown

April 2017

Rights: World

► Manuscript due Fall 2016

This is the definitive playbook by the pioneers/creators of growth hacking, one of the hottest business methodologies in Silicon Valley and beyond, which drove the rapid growth of start-ups like Uber, Facebook, Airbnb, Dropbox, Yelp, LinkedIn, Pinterest, and more.

A highly accessible, practical method for growth that involves cross-functional teams and continuous testing and iteration, growth hacking does for marketshare growth what The Lean Startup did for product development and Business Model generation for strategy. Growth hacking focuses on customers-how to attain, retain, engage, and monetize them-rather than product.

Written by its pioneers, this book is a comprehensive toolkit that any company in any industry can use to implement their own growth hacking strategy: how to set up and run growth teams, how to identify and test growth levers, and how to evaluate and act on the results. It is for anyone looking to break out of the ruts of traditional marketing and become more collaborative and less wasteful, and achieve more consistent, replicable, data-driven results.

As the secret weapon behind the growth of the most successful start-ups, this methodology is proven to work. And it is increasingly being used at "traditional" companies, including IBM, Walmart, and Microsoft (where Satya Nadella has called it a key component of his strategy). Additionally, the authors are superstars and have been featured as the leading experts on growth hacking by the New York Times, Wall Street Journal, Wired, Fast Company, and more. Their website Growthhackers.com attracts 1.8 million unique users globally and receives 350,000 new visitors every month. Growth hacking has ambassadors organizing meet-ups all over the world (similar to Lean Start-Up groups), and they also host a bi-annual conference, which has become the center of thought-leadership, attracting executives of both Fortune 100s and the hottest start-ups.

Sean Ellis is CEO of Qualaroo and co-founder of GrowthHackers.com, the #1 online community built for growth hackers. Sean coined the term "growth hacker" in 2010, and is the producer of the Growth Hacking Conference. He regularly speaks to start-ups and Fortune 100s and has been featured in the New York Times, WSJ, WIRED, Fast Company, inc.com, and TechCrunch. Morgan Brown is a startup-marketing veteran, and the co-founder of growth hacking. RED TEAMING

How Companies Use Contrarian Thinking to Beat the Competition

Bryce Hoffman

May 2017

Rights: World

► Manuscript due Fall 2016

Adapted from the U.S. Army, a revolutionary new management concept on making critical thinking and contrarian viewpoints a key part of the planning process of any organization or business.

Most established companies live with the gnawing fear that there is another Uber out there just waiting to disrupt their industry. The cure for this paranoia or anxiety: red teaming. First set up by the U.S. military in the 1960s, red teams were used in war-gaming exercises during the Cold War; they were made up of American military officers tasked with assuming the role of their Soviet counterparts. They were supposed to think like Soviets and act like them, even referring to each other as “comrade” as they plotted the defeat of the decadent Americans and their European lackeys. The practice waned in the wake of the Cold War, though computer security experts continued to use red teaming as a tool for exposing hidden vulnerabilities in networks and software, assuming the role of hackers to try to breach their own security systems. Big companies such as Apple and Microsoft established red teams to help make their own software and systems more secure, and the practice soon became an industry standard.

Red teaming is both a set of analytical tools and a mindset. It is designed to overcome the mental blind spots and cognitive biases that all of us fall victim to when we try to address complex problems. The same heuristics that allow us to successfully navigate life and business also cause us to miss or ignore important information. We do not know what we do not know. The good news is that with red teaming, we can find out.

This book will be for entrepreneurs and decision makers who want to improve their decision making; aspiring managers and executives who need to know the latest cutting-edge management practices to get ahead in their careers; and government agencies, nonprofits, and civic groups who would benefit from factoring in contrarian thinking when they strategize and plan.

Bryce Hoffman is the author of the New York Times bestseller American Icon: Alan Mulally and the Fight to Save Ford Motor Company, which has sold over 80,000 copies in all editions. An award-winning investigative business journalist, Bryce is now a consultant training the executives and CEOs of some of America’s foremost businesses. THE MEANING REVOLUTION

The Power of Transcendent Leadership

Fred Kofman

Late fall of 2017 or early 2018

Rights: World

Fred Kofman, Vice President of Leadership and executive coach and "in house philosopher" at LinkedIn mixes economics, business theory, conflict resolution and mindfulness to illuminate a revolutionary approach to leadership that marries the existential to the practical.

Fred illuminates a path to transcendent leadership by dissecting real-world examples of rudderless companies and customer interactions gone horribly awry, from the disastrous tenure of Marissa Meyer at Yahoo! to the infamous Comcast representative who thought he was doing his job by obstinately refusing to cancel a subscriber's cable service. THE MEANING REVOLUTION will upend your way of thinking: your job is not your job; it's not enough to do your individual best and succeed. Readers will learn how to wake up to their own sense of meaning and be able to call others to pursue a noble purpose.

Luminaries, such as Arianna Huffington, Peter Senge, and Sheryl Sandberg have attested to the transformative effects of Kofman's teachings, which he shares with tens of thousands of people a year at companies such as Google, Cisco, Citicorp and Apple, helping those in the executive suite, the ranks of middle management, and the receptionist imbue their lives and jobs with meaning and dignity.

Fred's first book, Conscious Business, which was self-published ten years ago, sold 100,000 copies with little publicity, won numerous awards and became the go-to guide for a dignified, sustainable approach to business.

His co-writer and collaborator is Bronwyn Fryer, whose many successful accomplishments include working with Dan Ariely on Predictably Irrational. Formerly a senior editor at the Harvard Business Review, Fryer has written articles for The New York Times, Newsweek, Business Week, Wired, Fortune, Inc. and many other publications.

If you’re looking to create breakthroughs in your business and in your life this book is for you.” — Tony Robbins

As Subir Chowdhury makes clear, while improving a company's processes is vital, if you don't focus first on your people-your employees-the best processes in the world won't get you where you want to go.

In the bestselling tradition of The Fred Factor, bestselling author and quality guru Subir Chowdhury (The Power of Six Sigma) tackles a question that has haunted him in his consulting work with companies for years. Why is that some companies improve 50x, while others improve only incrementally? The ideas and training, after all, are the same. What is the difference? These are the questions he tackles in this compelling and empowering new book.

In THE DIFFERENCE, Subir Chowdhury looks at what distinguishes a company that adopts his quality training processes and improves 5x versus a company that adopts the same training and consulting, but increases their profits and quality 50x. The difference he claims, in this short, engaging, and insightful book, is the people in your workplace, on your staff, in your executive offices. The best processes and training programs in the world will not lead to world-class operations, unless a company first looks to the people who make up their workforce. Only by creating a caring mindset-a culture built upon straightforwardness, honesty, and openness; a management structure that thinks about the concerns of their people; a workplace that inspires accountability and engagement; and managers and employees who tackle the challenges they face with perseverance and resolve, can companies flourish and excel.

Subir Chowdhury is an enormously successful management consultant and quality guru who works with major Fortune 500 companies to improve their processes, operations, quality, and performance. He is the bestselling author of The Power of Six Sigma and The Ice Cream Maker.

SIDE HUSTLE

From Idea to Income in 28 Days

Chris Guillebeau

September 2017

Rights: World

►Manuscript due in Spring 2017

The author of the $100 Start-Up offers a roadmap for how to go from zero to profitable side hustle - defined as any entrepreneurial venture that one can do alongside their more stable and steady job - in just 28 days.

Today it seems like just about everyone wants to be an entrepreneur. But without a steady flow of income it can prove challenging to take the plunge. The Side Hustle is the solution for those wishing to pursue their passions, make extra income, and enjoy the freedom of entrepreneurship without the risks of giving up a steady pay check and going full throttle into the world of working for themselves.

In his travels, Chris talks with readers about entrepreneurship and living a freer, more adventurous life. And he's yet to meet one whose eyes didn't light up whenever he mentions the phrase "Side Hustle." That's because the allure of the side hustle is about much more than just making some extra cash. It's about the fact that in today's unstable business environment, the side hustle is the new job security.

In the style of $100 Start-Up, full of practical exercises and peppered with aspirational stories, this book shows readers how to brainstorm, choose, implement, launch, and refine their Side Hustle in just 28 days - with little to no budget, and without having to quit their current job. NEW SLATE.COM PODCAST: Starting in January 2017, Chris will launch his new daily podcast: "Side Hustle School" in partnership with Slate.com. Side Hustle School will run through the end of 2018 (at minimum) on the Slate.com site and will be promoted through their email lists and social.

The Power of Women at Work
Sallie Krawcheck
December 2016
Rights: World
►Galleys available

Picking up the women and success conversation where Sheryl Sandberg left off, Sallie Krawcheck shows women how to take their careers to the next level...by playing by a new set of rules that build on their natural strengths.

So much career advice for women addresses how to succeed in the static business world of yesterday and today. But that world, says former Wall Street powerhouse-turned-entrepreneur Sallie Krawcheck, is changing - and fast. In fact, we are on the brink of what Krawcheck calls the Fourth Wave of feminism, one that will usher in unprecedented opportunities for women in business. This all is being driven by the fact that the business world is evolving in ways that play to women's strengths. Because in the increasingly complex and connected world of tomorrow – one in which communication and collaboration rule the day - the skills and qualities needed for success are ones that women inherently possess. And by owning and investing in those qualities women have more power than ever.

Here Krawcheck draws on her experiences at the highest levels of business, both as one of the lone women at the top rungs of the biggest boy's club in the world, and as an entrepreneur, to show how women can tap into this growing power to elevate their careers: from getting the raise, to new takes on networking and mentoring, to navigating career breaks and curveballs to avoiding the biggest career mistake that most women don't know they are making.

At the same time, women have the opportunity to play a more significant role than they know in shaping their companies into places they want to work – or leave to start their own: by initiating the “courageous conversations” about true flexibility and diversity in the workplace, forging nontraditional career paths, and more.

Lighting the path to complete the revolution ignited by Gloria Steinem, Krawcheck shows how each one of us can ride the wave of this revolution to own our careers and our futures.

Sallie Krawcheck has been dubbed "The First Lady of Wall Street" and been named one of TIME magazine's "Global Business Influentials," one of Fast Company's "100 Most Creative People of 2014", and has appeared 9 times on the Fortune list of Most Powerful Women in Business. Her Elevate Network (www.ellevatenetwork.com) is global with a presence in the UK, Brazil, Spain, China, Taiwan, India, and South Africa.

THE FATE OF FOOD

Amanda Little

March 2018

Rights: World

► Manuscript due late Fall 2016

THE FATE OF FOOD is a worldly and utterly fascinating look at the race to secure our global food supply. Combining food science, innovation, and climate change, this will no doubt capture the attention of foodies, environmentalists, climate activists, concerned parents and health-conscious consumers alike.

Climate models indicate that food production globally will decline two to six percent every decade for the rest of this century, due to drought, heat, and flooding. These losses will double food prices by 2050, when world population is expected to reach 9 billion. In recent years, unprecedented sums of private and public investment have been driven into new methods of food production, including billions from companies outside the agriculture industry like Microsoft, Google, and IBM. The funding has given rise to a generation of entrepreneurs in fields as varied as plant genetics, aquaponics, big data, and robotics who are vying to build a better, smarter, more resilient food system, and create new ways to harness the sustenance it bears.

THE FATE OF FOOD profiles the most creative and controversial among these innovators. Journalist Amanda Little takes readers into the dairies in India where microchips embedded in cow flanks transmit real-time data about the animals' health and milk quality; into the fields of Nigerian farmers who are growing the world's first drought-tolerant rice, and more. She takes readers on a journey to Stanford University laboratory, where the flavors and textures of beef and chicken are simulated for the meatless "Beast Burgers" of the Google-backed startup, Impossible Foods. Weaving together portraits of these motley entrepreneurs, THE FATE OF FOOD tells one larger, arcing story about the race to secure the global food supply.

A Venn intersection of some of the most important nonfiction titles of the last decade, THE FATE OF FOOD has the investigative rigor of Eric Schlosser's Fast Food Nation, the wow-factor of Michael Lewis's The New New Thing, and the perspective-altering impact of Jeffrey Sachs' The End of Poverty.

Amanda Little is the author of Power Trip: The Story of America's Love Affair with Energy, and co-author of From the Ground Up: A Food-Grower's Education in Life, Love and the Movement That's Changing the Nation. Her articles on the environment, energy, and technology have been published in the New York Times Magazine, Vanity Fair, Rolling Stone, Wired, and The Washington Post. She has blogged for Forbes and The New Yorker, and teaches investigative journalism and creative nonfiction at Vanderbilt University.

WIRED TO EAT

Transform Your Appetite and Personalize Your Diet for Rapid Weight Loss and Amazing Health

Robb Wolf

March 2017

Rights: World

►Manuscript due Fall 2016

Robb Wolf, author of the bestselling The Paleo Solution, which sold 450,000 copies, reveals his groundbreaking 30-day program, based on the latest research, to help readers easily rewire their brains to control their appetite, regulate their blood sugar, and lose weight effortlessly, using a paleo-based, whole foods diet.

Having trouble losing weight? The latest research shows that it's not your fault! In WIRED TO EAT, former research biochemist, health expert, and bestselling author Robb Wolf reveals the groundbreaking studies that show why our bodies are wired to eat more and move less, essentially causing us to gain weight. In fact, we are wired to eat in a way that damages our gut, metabolism, and hormones, causing weight gain, radical blood sugar, and an increased appetite. The secret to rewiring your brain for health is managing your diet and your glucose tolerance levels--and figuring out if your body suffers from what Wolf calls a banana profile (someone who can eat healthy carbs), a cookie profile (someone who can eat refined carbs), or neither. Once you've determined this, you learn to personalize your nutritional program to your unique genetic and gut profile, regulating glucose levels and boosting your metabolism for effortless weight loss and improved health. Without the proper balance, your body is at increased risk for three epidemic-sized issues: diabetes/obesity, autoimmune disorders, and neurodegenerative disease. The book's 7-day jump-start program and specifically tailored 30-day whole food, paleo-based eating plan helps you drop the weight and rewire your brain once and for all. The book will also include 60 recipes by Julie and Charles Mayfield, bestselling authors of Paleo Comfort Foods cookbooks.

In a book that will appeal to Robb's existing, sizable paleo fanbase, as well as the general weight-loss market, readers will be able to take back control of their bodies and health in as few as 30 days.

Robb Wolf is the author of The Paleo Solution, a New York Times bestseller. It has been translated into nine languages and has sold over 450,000 copies since it was published in 2010, and it continues to sell more than 15,000 copies a year.

THE SALT FIX

Why the Experts Got It All Wrong and How Eating More Might Save Your Life

James DiNicolantonio

June 2017

Rights: World

►Manuscript due Fall 2016

A respected cardiovascular research scientist overturns conventional thinking about salt and explores instead the little-understood importance of it, the health dangers of having too little, and how salt can actually help you improve sports performance, crush sugar cravings, and stave off common chronic illnesses.

We all know the dangers of sugar and salt, but the danger attributed to the second crystal, according to Dr. DiNicolantonio, is having too little of it, not too much. Too little salt in the diet can lead the body into semi-starvation mode and cause insulin resistance, as well as cause you to absorb twice as much fat for every gram you consume. Too little salt in certain populations can increase blood pressure, as well as resting heart rate. We need salt in order to hydrate and nourish our cells, transmit nerve signals, contract our muscles, ensure proper digestion and breathing, and maintain proper heart function.

THE SALT FIX will explore how we got to demonize this historically treasured substance as well as what the current science really says about this misunderstood mineral and its effect on your health.

Dr. James DiNicolantonio is a cardiovascular research scientist and doctor of pharmacy. He has spent years researching the science behind this book. He is the author or co-author on more than 150 medical publications, including several high-profile articles related to nutrition. In the last year, his research has been found in the New York Times, The Telegraph, BBC News, The Globe, Daily Mail, Forbes, and many others.

Rights: World

In THE ACID WATCHER DIET, Dr. Jonathan Aviv, one of the leading authorities on the diagnosis and treatment of acid reflux disease, helps readers identify those silent symptoms and provides his proven solution for reducing whole-body acid damage quickly and easily.

Do you suffer from abdominal bloating; a chronic, nagging cough or sore throat; post-nasal drip; a feeling of a lump in the back of your throat; allergies; or a shortness of breath? If so, odds are that you are experiencing acid reflux without recognizing the symptoms. Even without the presence of heartburn or indigestion, more than 60 million people are suffering from acid-related disorders that are undetected or untreated--and leading to long-term health problems, including the rapid rise of esophageal cancer. Since there are no outward signs of acid damage and the typical symptoms might not be recognized, until now you might not have known how pervasive acid reflux is or that you have it.

Dr. Aviv's 28-day program includes a two-phase eating plan, menu guide, and recipes and works to immediately neutralize acid, stabilize pH levels, and relieve the inflammation at the root of acid reflux. Dr. Aviv's Power of Five rule will help readers discover the key foods that offer fast relief, and his Daily Six will reveal the foods to avoid (onion, tomato, citrus, and more).

Dr. James Greenblatt's strong, integrative approach to dealing with ADHD uses natural minerals to treat imbalances in the body so that any child (or adult) can flourish without being held back by ADHD symptoms.

In his practice, Dr. Greenblatt has seen the positive effects of treating individuals rather than simply prescribing medication for their ADHD symptoms. Structured around four phases of healing, FINALLY FOCUSED details the natural methods used to treat problems such as nutritional deficiencies of magnesium or zinc, dysbiosis (a microbial imbalance inside the body), sleeping difficulties, and food allergies, all of which--unbeknownst to many--can cause or exacerbate the symptoms of ADHD. By exploring each of these possibilities in Dr. Greenblatt's Plus-Minus Healing Plan, parents will finally be able to finally get the assistance they need in providing true wellness for their children, whether or not they're already on medication.

ADHD is a medical disorder, not a discipline problem, and this book will address each individual's unique pattern of biological weaknesses to get at the root of the issue.

Neuroscience, Faith, and a Search for the Soul

Jay Lombard

June 2017

Rights: World English only (Translation rights with Sterling Lord)

►Manuscript due Fall 2016

With cutting-edge research and provocative case studies, renowned behavioral neurologist provides insights to some of the most curious spiritual questions of mortality. For fans of When Breath Becomes Air and the work of Oliver Sachs.

Readers who liked Eben Alexander's Proof of Heaven will love the confluence of science and spirituality in THE MIND OF GOD. Like Oliver Sachs before him, Dr. Lombard employs case studies from his own behavioral neurology practice he's been honored as one of the top neurologists in NY to illustrate his arguments with story-driven poignancy. This book explores the science of what happens to us when we die and what that can tell us about God and our own spirituality. Here, Dr. Lombard addresses the timeless, existential questions with the most up-to-date scientific research: Why do so many people report similar near death experiences? Is the brain pre-programmed to believe in the afterlife? What's the nature of consciousness-and could it really be "lights out" after the brain dies? Where is the so-called seat of the soul? and will it survive to the next world? Will we experience reward or punishment after we die? Can we find proof of the immaterial properties of mind (thought and feeling) in brain imaging modalities such as MRI and PET scans? Is reincarnation real, and is there evidence for it in our brains and in our biology?

Dr. Jay Lombard, a board-certified neurologist, is the co-founder, chief scientific officer, and medical director for Genomind. The company is committed to discovering the underlying causes of neuropsychiatric disorders, and supports the development of personalized medicine for clinical practice.
