Combining the feminist slant of Lean In and Bad Feminist with the humor and relatability of Why Not Me? and Am I There Yet?, Unladylike is a candid and utterly relatable guide on how to be a feminist in today's world. The authors explain the history and larger political context of the issues that face women in our patriarchal culture—such as the wage gap, white vs. intersectional feminism, gendered beauty standards, body image, and rape culture—and offers prescriptive, practical advice for how to handle the personal implications of being a feminist. They have partnered with up-and-coming illustrator, Tyler Feder, to bring a colorful and fresh look to the typical 1-color books on the subject.

Just like your best friend's bad-ass older sister or the upperclassman who always gives the best advice, Unladylike shows how to live a woke, feminist life, and addresses the feminist questions the next generation of women grapple with in their daily lives—How can I live my politics? How should I handle dating and sex? How do I support and not compete with my female friends? How can I get over my imposter syndrome? Unladylike answers all of these questions and more, empowering women and readying the world for a female future.

The authors are the former hosts of the hugely popular podcast Stuff Mom Never Told You (1.4 million monthly downloads, 800k monthly YouTube streams, and more than 200k subscribers). They have since retired their original podcast and launched a new show called Unladylike in January 2018, which investigates how women and girls live their lives beyond girl-power slogans and liberation lip service. Approximately 10 percent of their total monthly downloads for both shows originate in the UK and British Commonwealth.

CRISTEN CONGER is a former senior staff writer and host for HowStuffWorks.com. She is a contributing writer for Refinery29, and her writing has appeared on Jezebel, Huffington Post Women, MSNBC, and ABC News. CAROLINE ERVIN is a former editor at HowStuffWorks.com. She has a journalism background and researches and speaks on issues of sexuality, health, history, and pop culture—all through the lens of feminism and gender. TYLER FEDER is an illustrator and comedy writer. She has illustrated for Netflix, Comedy Central, and ESPN, and her work has been featured in Glamour and Brigitte magazines.

The Edge of Order is a stunning tour of the work of internationally known architect Daniel Libeskind and an investigation of a master artist's creative process. Daniel Libeskind is one of the foremost architects of our time, a self-proclaimed rebel celebrated for innovative, site-conscious designs, including the Jewish Museum Berlin and New York's World Trade Center Redevelopment. He has also emerged as one of architecture's most visible public ambassadors.

In The Edge of Order, Libeskind opens the door to his unique creative process, guiding us through a selection of his projects never before collected—both built and unrealized, major commissions and unexpected favorites—and revealing how he arrived at their designs through text and a rich array of visuals. With a voracious appetite for culture and history, and an encyclopedic memory, Libeskind draws on everything from Greek mythology to Emily Dickinson to the Marx Brothers to explain the way he thinks about buildings and cities.

Unlike almost every book by an architect of Libeskind's stature, this book is aimed at a general audience of creatives as well as architecture insiders. It's an audience he's reached before—his 2009 TED talk has over 750,000 views. Designed cover-to-cover by industry star Rodrigo Corral, and with more than 500 visuals, including new on-site photography, never-before-published sketches and blueprints, marginal drawings by the author, and artistic ephemera not found in your average architectural monograph (musical scores, etc.), this will be a beautiful and singular art object.

DANIEL LIBESKIND is the founder and principal of Studio Daniel Libeskind, founded in Berlin in 1989, now in New York City. He is an international figure in architectural practice and urban design, with more than forty projects worldwide, including major cultural institutions, universities, hotels, commercial centers, and residential work. He has taught and lectured at universities all over the globe, received numerous awards, and designed world-renowned projects, including the master plan for the World Trade Center in New York and the Jewish Museum Berlin.

The Truffle Underground

Ryan Jacobs

Clarkson Potter

On-sale date: 01/08/19

Manuscript scheduled for June 2018

Beneath the glossy veneer of star chefs and crystal-laden tables, a hidden world of intrigue, sabotage, and crime undergirds the elegance of truffles: Feuding factions plant poisoned meatballs in competitors' fields to eliminate rival truffle-hunting dogs. Crime syndicates steal research from the labs of scientists attempting to cultivate them, and unsuspecting foragers are held at gunpoint while bandits lift an entire month's worth of income from their trunks.

For readers of The Billionaires Vinegar, this book is a compulsively readable and deeply researched dive into the dark origins of the world's most valuable fungus—from the scientific mysteries of their growth to the story of the hapless French farmer who discovered the secret to cultivating them, to brutal crimes in the forests and the white-collar crimes that surround this secretive industry. Through it all, a question lingers: What, other than money, draws people to these dirt-covered knobs?

RYAN JACOBS is an investigative reporter and senior editor at Pacific Standard.
He has previously held positions at Mother Jones, Sierra, and The Atlantic.

In the modern world, influence is everything and personal branding equals influence. Brand You is the why-to, how-to handbook by personal branding agency cofounder and top expert Cynthia Johnson, for everyone who wants to develop and manage a personal brand. In nine succinct lessons, Johnson explains the process of going from unknown to influencer by achieving personal proof, social proof, recognition, and association.

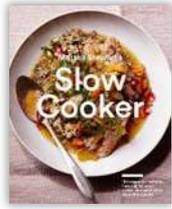

Johnson herself went from an on-staff social media manager to social media influencer, entrepreneur, and marketing thought-leader for Levi's, Vans, and Fortune 500 companies in just three years using her process of accelerated brand development, continuous brand management, strategic growth and pivoting, and monetization. She now has 1.5 million followers on Twitter and is the twelfth most followed marketing expert. She was named one of the top five personal branding experts in 2017 by Entrepreneur magazine, Inc. listed her as one of the 20 digital marketing people to follow, and Mashable named her the third most important marketer to follow on SnapChat (#CyninLA).

Fans of #GirlBoss and #AskGaryVee, who wonder how their favorite influencers found their voice and built their audiences, will find the answers here and discover that it's technical, creative, tactical, and much easier than they think.

CYNTHIA JOHNSON is the cofounder of the Los Angeles–based branding agency Bell + Ivy. She sits on the advisory board for nGage.social and is a frequent guest speaker at USC's Marshall School of Business, Stanford's Igniter program, and at Fortune 500 companies' executive retreats around the world (speaking at 70 events in 2 years).
