JOHN GRISHAM

#1 New York Times bestseller • Published in 40 languages • 375+ million books in print

23 October 2018

#1 New York Times bestselling author John Grisham returns to Clanton, Mississippi to tell the story of an unthinkable murder, the bizarre trial that follows it, and its profound and lasting effect on the people of Ford County.

October 1946, Clanton, Mississippi

Pete Banning was Clanton, Mississippi's favorite son - a decorated World War II hero, the patriarch of a prominent family, a farmer, father, neighbor, and a faithful member of the Methodist church. Then one cool October morning he rose early, drove into town, walked into the church, and calmly shot and killed his pastor and friend, the Reverend Dexter Bell. As if the murder weren't shocking enough, it was even more baffling that Pete's only statement about it - to the sheriff, to his lawyers, to the judge, to the jury, and to his family was: "I have nothing to say." He was not afraid of death and was willing to take his motive to the grave.

In a major novel unlike anything he has written before, John Grisham takes us on an incredible journey, from the Jim Crow South to the jungles of the Philippines during World War II; from an insane asylum filled with secrets to the Clanton courtroom where Pete's defense attorney tries desperately to save him. Reminiscent of the finest tradition of Southern Gothic storytelling, The Reckoning would not be complete without Grisham's signature layers of legal suspense, and he delivers on every page.

John Grisham is the author of thirty-two novels, one work of nonfiction, a collection of stories and six novels for young readers.

Susan Conley, ELSEY COME HOME

From the widely praised author of Paris Was the Place – a shattering new novel that bravely delves into the darkest corners of addiction, marriage and motherhood.

Upmarket women's fiction

Publisher: Knopf – January 15, 2019
Editor: Carole Baron
Agent: Stephanie Cabot
Material: Advance Readers Copy

- "I loved Elsey Come Home. The exotic setting, the characters Elsey meets along the way—her husband, her little girls, her dilemma. And the writing, spare and lovely. What more can I say—perfect." —Judy Blume
- "What a quirky little gem of a book Susan Conley has written. I'm still trying to figure out how she created a character so seemingly lost to herself without losing me in the process. There's genuine alchemy here." —Richard Russo
- "Elsey's voice is a triumph. It sings. The writing is exquisite and tells the story of someone who has lost herself to the point that the pain in her life threatens to divide her from the people she loves most. There is so much at stake here, and even the small moments resonate. I loved, loved this novel." —Lily King
- "Conley's slim novel illustrates the power of storytelling as a process for healing. What entices and endures here is the voice: dreamy, meditative, hypnotic, and very real." —Kirkus

When Elsey's husband, Lukas, hands her a brochure for a weeklong mountain retreat, she knows he is really giving her an ultimatum: Go, or we're done. Once a successful painter, Elsey set down roots in China after falling passionately for Lukas, the tall, Danish MC at a warehouse rave in downtown Beijing. Now, with two young daughters and unable to find a balance between her identities as painter, mother, and, especially, wife, Elsey fills her days worrying, drinking, and descending into desperate unhappiness. So, brochure in hand, she agrees to go and confront the ghosts of her past. There, she meets a group of men and women who will forever alter the way she understands herself but Elsey must risk tearing herself and Lukas further apart when she decides she must return to her childhood home—the center of her deepest pain—before she can find her way back to him. Written in a voice at once wry, sensual, blunt, and hypnotic, Elsey Come Home is a modern odyssey and a quietly dynamic portrait of contemporary womanhood.

Susan Conley is the author of the novel Paris Was the Place and The Foremost Good Fortune, a book that won the Maine Literary Award for memoir. Born and raised in Maine, her writing has appeared in The New York Times Magazine, The Paris Review, and Ploughshares.

Juliet Grames, THE SEVEN OR EIGHT DEATHS OF STELLA FORTUNA

A warm-hearted and epic novel that lays bare the costs of migration and the iron fist of the patriarchy—but also of the love and devotion that can sustain a family through its generations.

- “This quintessential American immigrant story feels important right now, and I highly recommend it.” —
Lisa See, author of *Snow Flower and the Secret Fan

Hundred-year-old Stella Fortuna sits alone in her house in Wethersfield, Connecticut, crocheting blankets and angrily ignoring her sister, Tina, who lives across the street. The sisters, once the best of friends, have not spoken for thirty years, not since the eighth time Stella nearly died. Born in a mountaintop village in southern Italy, Stella and Tina had grown up in abject poverty in the years between the two World Wars, abandoned by their father, who had left to seek his fortune in L’America, and forced to drop out of school after first grade to work in the olive groves. Tough, vivacious, and fiercely loyal, the inseparable sisters were foils for each other, Stella precocious and charismatic, Tina obedient and hard-working. But as Stella suffered ever more serious near-death experiences—beginning in their childhood with the time she was burned by frying oil (“the eggplant attack”)—the girls’ beloved mother, Assunta, became convinced her eldest daughter was cursed. Now, after a century of trauma, Stella has turned on those who she once thought loved her most. It is up to the family historian to unravel the life and deaths of Stella Fortuna and to connect the inexplicable dots in her dramatic story.

Michael Harvey, PULSE

A superhero origin story draws on mysteries of the universe to investigate a murder that defies all expectations

Metaphysical thriller

Publisher: Ecco US / Bloomsbury UK – October 23, 2018
Editor: Zack Wagman
Agent: David Gernert
Material: 1st pass pages

- “Harvey’s lethal imagination is cranked to eleven in this one . . . his best yet by far. Superb!” —Lee Child
- “Pulse is the rare crime novel that makes you think and feel – deeply so on both counts. Harvey tells a gripping, richly-textured story that’s full of characters who jump off the page and stay with you long after the book is over.” —Lou Berney, bestselling author of *The Long and Faraway Gone
- “An ambitious, brilliantly successful novel and a textbook example of how to make crime fiction and fantasy work as a team.” —Booklist starred review ★

Optioned for film by 21 Laps, the company behind Stranger Things and *Arrival

Boston, 1976. Sixteen-year-old Daniel Fitzsimmons is listening to his landlord describe a seemingly insane theory about invisible pulses of light and energy that can be harnessed by the human mind. He longs to laugh with his brother Harry about it, but Harry doesn’t know he’s there—he would never approve of Daniel living on his own. None of that matters, though, because the next night Harry, a Harvard football star, is murdered in an alley. Detectives “Bark” Jones and Tommy Dillon are assigned to the case. The veteran partners thought they’d seen it all, but they are stunned when Daniel wanders into the crime scene. Even stranger, Daniel claims to have known the details of his brother’s murder before it ever happened. The subsequent investigation leads the detectives deep into the Fitzsimmons brothers’ past and they find heartbreaking loss, sordid characters, and metaphysical conspiracies. Even on the rough streets of 1970s Boston, Jones and Dillon have never had a case like this.

Pulse is a novel laced with real danger and otherworldly twists—a master class by an endlessly gifted writer.

Michael Harvey is the author of seven previous novels, including Brighton and The Chicago Way. He’s also a journalist and documentarian whose work has won multiple News & Documentary Emmys, two Primetime Emmy nominations, and an Academy Award nomination. Raised in Boston, he now lives in Chicago.

Serena Kent, DEATH IN PROVENCE

The first entry in a clever, lighthearted mystery series—a delightful blend of Agatha Christie and Peter Mayle—set in modern Provence

Cozy mystery

Publisher: Orion (UK) – June 2018 / HarperCollins (US) – February 19, 2019
Editor: Jennifer Barth
Agent: Stephanie Cabot
Material: Final pass pages

For years, Penelope Kite put her unfaithful ex-husband and her ungrateful stepchildren first. Since taking early retirement from her job in forensics at the Home Office in England, she's been an unpaid babysitter and chauffeur for her grandchildren. Now, she's going to start living for herself and it's love at first sight when Penelope sees Le Chant d'Eau—the stone farmhouse tucked high in the hills above the Luberon valley, complete with a garden, swimming pool, and sweeping mountain vistas. Though her dream house needs major renovations, Penelope impulsively buys the property and moves to St. Merlot.

But Penelope's daydreams of an adventurous life in Provence didn't include finding a corpse floating face down in her swimming pool. The discovery of the dead man plunges her headlong into a Provençal stew of intrigue and lingering resentments simmering beneath the deceptively sunny village. Having worked in the forensics office, Penelope knows a thing or two about murder investigations. To find answers, she must carefully navigate between her seemingly ubiquitous, supercilious (and enviously chic) estate agent, the disdainful chief of police, and the devilishly handsome mayor—even as she finds herself tempted by all the delicacies the region has to offer. Thank goodness her old friend Frankie is just a flight away . . . and that Penelope is not quite as naïve as her new neighbors in St. Merlot believe.

Set against the exquisite backdrop of Provence, steeped in history, atmosphere, and secrets, Death in Provence introduces an irresistible heroine and a delightful new mystery series.

Serena Kent is the nom de plume of Deborah Lawrenson and her husband Robert Rees. They met at Cambridge University and pursued completely different careers, she in journalism and fiction; he in banking and music. They live in a house full of books in England, and an old hamlet in Provence which is also in dire need of more bookshelves.

- "One of those [books] you get lost and absorbed in" —National Public Radio
- "Larison has developed a pitch-perfect voice for his intrepid heroine and populated the story with a lively crew of frontier types...[This] is a winning tale of sexual identity in the Old West." —Publishers Weekly
- "Larison gifts Jess with a strong voice to narrate her own story.... his western epic has wide appeal" —Booklist
- "Told in Jessilyn's hard-hitting voice, [WHISKEY WHEN WE'RE DRY] has the resonance of a high lonesome ballad." —Library Journal
- "A thunderclap of originality, here is a fresh voice and fresh take on one of the oldest stories we tell about ourselves as Americans and Westerners. It's riveting in all the right ways." - Timothy Egan, New York Times bestselling author of *The Worst Hard Time

In the spring of 1885, seventeen-year-old Jessilyn Harney finds herself orphaned and alone on her family's homestead. Desperate to fend off starvation, she cuts off her hair, binds her chest, and sets off across the mountains to find her outlaw brother Noah and bring him home. A talented sharpshooter herself, Jess's quest lands her in the employ of the territory's violent, capricious Governor, whose militia is also hunting Noah—dead or alive. Wrestling with her brother's outlaw identity, and haunted by questions about her own, Jess must outmaneuver those who underestimate her, ultimately rising to become a hero in her own right.

John Larison earned an MFA from Oregon State University in 2007. During the eight years he was writing Whiskey When We're Dry, he worked as a fly-fishing guide, a college writing instructor, and a freelance contributor to outdoor magazines. He lives with his family in rural Oregon.

- “A tense and gripping read that plumbs the depths of grief and longing. Leave No Trace is as thrilling as a whitewater rapid and as dark as the Minnesotan wilderness itself.” —Amy Gentry, internationally bestselling author of *Good As Gone
- “Dark and atmospheric, with palpably vivid details and complex characters harboring plenty of secrets, Leave No Trace is the perfect combination of gorgeous prose and edge-of-your-seat storytelling.” —Kimberly Belle, internationally bestselling author of *The Marriage Lie
- “This novel deserves the top-spot on your reading list!”—Hannah Mary McKinnon, author of *The Neighbors

There is a place in Minnesota with hundreds of miles of glacial lakes and untouched forests called the Boundary Waters. Ten years ago, a man and his son trekked into this wilderness and never returned. Search teams found their campsite ravaged by what looked like a bear. They were presumed dead until a decade later...the son appeared.

Discovered while ransacking an outfitter store, the boy was violent and uncommunicative and sent to a psychiatric facility. Maya Stark, the assistant language therapist, is charged with making a connection with their high-profile patient. No matter how she tries, however, he refuses to answer questions about his father or the last ten years of his life. But Maya, who was abandoned by her own mother, has secrets, too. And as she’s drawn closer to this enigmatic boy who is no longer a boy, she’ll risk everything to reunite him with his father who has disappeared from the known world.

Peter Mendelsund, SAME SAME

The fiction debut from the LA Times bestselling author of What We See When We Read – a novel of ideas set in a mysterious institute in the desert.

Literary science fiction

Publisher: Vintage – February 5, 2019
Editor: Lexy Bloom
Agent: Chris Parris-Lamb
Materials: Awaiting 1st pass pages

In the shifting desert sands on the outskirts of a Middle Eastern city sits a mysterious Institute, where Fellows in every field of knowledge and endeavor under the (inhospitably hot) sun work on Projects and give Discourses(TM) and dedicate themselves to copying, cloning, replicating, and reproducing a world to which none of them seem to have any intention of returning. Same Same is Percy Frobisher's account of his tenure as a Fellow at the Institute, and his attempt to realize—or is it simulate?—his own audacious Project.

Imagining a world in which simulacra have as much value as the real -- so much so that any distinction between the two vanishes, and even language seeks to reproduce meaning through ever more degraded copies of itself—Peter Mendelsund has crafted a deeply unsettling novel about what it means to exist, and to create . . . and a future that may not be far off.

Peter Mendelsund is a designer and writer. He lives in Manhattan with his wife and two daughters.

Jennifer Miller & Jason Feifer, MR. NICE GUY

A deliciously entertaining battle of the sexes set in the glossy magazine world of New York City

- "I could not put this book down! I absolutely loved it." – Kevin Kwan, internationally bestselling author of *Crazy Rich Asians
- "Miller and Feifer hit all the beats of a satisfying rom-com while still managing to surprise... A fun and fast-paced look at the risk and value of real intimacy." – Kirkus Reviews
- "A provocative story of sexual exploitation, relationships, and at its core, the simple desire to be wanted. With multiple story lines and a Sex in the City vibe, this book is perfect for those looking for a war-of-words, clash-of-worlds summer read." – Booklist
- "[An] incredibly funny, fiendishly smart, deliciously NSFW romp you won't be able to put down." – Sascha de Gersdorff, Executive Editor, *Cosmopolitan
- "This pitch-perfect take on modern romance is far more than a guilty pleasure. It's also a timely battle of the sexes, taking aim at deep-seated assumptions about who wields the power—in the corner office, and in the bedroom." – Stacy London, fashion stylist, author, magazine editor

With dreams of becoming a famous writer, small-town guy Lucas Callahan moves to New York and snags an entry-level job at Empire magazine. One night at a bar, he meets a gorgeous brunette who takes him home. Little does he know that she works and writes for the same company—as the sex columnist. Lucas only discovers that he's slept with the infamous Carmen Kelly when he reads her printed take-down of their night together. Humiliated and furious, he pens a rebuttal and signs it, "Nice Guy." Empire publishes it, and the pair of columns go viral. Thus the magazine makes an arrangement: each week, Carmen and Lucas will sleep together...and write dueling accounts of their sexual exploits. The columnist/lovers soon become seduced by the city's rich and powerful, tempted by fame, and more attracted to each other than they're willing to admit. In the end, they will have to choose between ambition, love, and the consequences of total honesty.

Jennifer Miller is the author of three books, including The Year of the Gadfly (Houghton Mifflin Harcourt). Jason Feifer is editor-in-chief of Entrepreneur magazine. His humor writing has appeared in the New York Times, McSweeney's, The Awl, and Shape. They are married and live in Brooklyn. www.mrniceguynovel.com.

Stewart O’Nan, HENRY, HIMSELF

A stand-alone prequel to the beloved novel EMILY, ALONE, a member of the greatest generation looks back on the loves and losses of his past and comes to treasure the present anew in this poignant and thoughtful novel from a modern master storyteller

Literary fiction

Publisher: Viking – April 9, 2019
Editor: Paul Slovak
Agent: David Gernert
Materials: First pass pages

Praise for Emily, Alone:

- "O’Nan’s best novel yet . . . It’s heartbreaking stuff—I will confess I found myself sobbing at certain, often unexpected points . . . and yet the novel’s brilliance lies just as much with O’Nan’s innate comic timing."—The New York Times Book Review
- "Emily is as authentic a character as any who ever walked the pages of a novel . . . filled with joy and rue . . . an ordinary life made, by its quiet rendering, extraordinary."—The Boston Globe
- "Bracingly unsentimental, ruefully humorous....[an] unsparingly candid novel about the emotional and physical travails of old age." —Publishers Weekly starred review ★

Soldier, son, lover, husband, breadwinner, churchgoer, Henry Maxwell has spent his whole life trying to live with honor. A native Pittsburgher and engineer, he’s always believed in logic, sacrifice, and hard work. Now, seventy-five and retired, he feels the world has passed him by. It’s 1998, the American century is ending, and nothing is simple anymore. His children are distant, their unhappiness a mystery. Only his wife Emily and dog Rufus stand by him. Once so confident, as Henry’s strength and memory desert him, he weighs his dreams against his regrets and is left with questions he can’t answer: Is he a good man? Has he done right by the people he loves? And with time running out, what, realistically, can he hope for? Like Emily, Alone, Henry, Himself is a wry, warmhearted portrait of an American original who believes he’s reached a dead end only to discover life is full of surprises.

Stewart O’Nan is the author of sixteen previous novels, including City of Secrets; West of Sunset; The Odds; Emily, Alone; Songs for the Missing; Wish You Were Here; A Prayer for the Dying; and Snow Angels. His novel Last Night at the Lobster was a national bestseller and a finalist for the Los Angeles Times Book Prize. He was born, raised, and lives in Pittsburgh.

- Option publishers: Allen & Unwin (UK & BC), Rowohlt (Germany)

Chris Pavone, THE PARIS DIVERSION

A pulse-pounding thriller about a massive terror attack across Paris that's not what it seems to be – featuring Kate Moore – the unforgettable heroine of the Edgar Award-winning novel The Expats.

Thriller

Publisher: Crown US / Faber UK – May 7, 2019

Editor: Lindsay Sagnette

Agent: David Gernert

Materials: First pass pages

- "Thriller writing at its absolute best. With echoes of Graham Greene and John le Carré, Pavone's novel accomplishes that rare feat of being both a nonstop adventure ride and a smart, stylish and compelling meditation on family, courage, responsibilities, and the relationships we create, for good and bad, throughout our lives." — Jeffery Deaver, New York Times bestselling author of *The Cutting Edge
- "Sleek, cunning and breakneck, The Paris Diversion sweeps you into its frenetic rhythms from its first pages. With a sprawling cast of characters, with its scissoring plot twists, and especially with Kate—as rich and complicated a hero as you could hope for—it keeps you returning for more and more. A knockout." —Megan Abbott, author of Give Me Your Hand and *You Will Know Me
- "My head is still swimming after reading The Paris Diversion. Chris Pavone has constructed the perfect page-turner for our fraught times, a white-knuckle ride of international proportions where nothing is ever what it seems." —Olen Steinhauer, New York Times bestselling author of *The Middle Man
- "Since he exploded onto the scene with The Expats, Chris Pavone has quickly become one of the elite must-read can't-miss thriller writers working today. Grab The Paris Diversion and hold on for the ride." — CJ Box, #1 New York Times bestselling author of *The Disappeared

American expat Kate Moore—of Chris Pavone's Edgar Award-winning blockbuster debut, The Expats—drops her kids at the international school, makes her shopping rounds, and meets her husband Dexter at their regular café: a leisurely start to a normal day, St-Germain-des-Prés. On the nearby rue de Rivoli, Mahmoud Khalid climbs out of an electrician's van and elbows his way into the crowded courtyard of the world's largest museum in the epicenter of Western civilization. He sets down his metal briefcase and removes his windbreaker. When people start to scream, Kate must morph from wife and mother into fast-thinking spy and prove her relevance amidst the highest of stakes.

Chris Pavone is author of three national-bestselling thrillers: The Expats, which won both the Edgar and Anthony awards for best first novel and was translated into 20 languages; The NYT bestselling The Accident; and most recently The Travelers, an IndieNext bestseller that's being developed for film.

Olen Steinhauer, THE MIDDLEMAN

From the master of suspense, this gripping standalone follows the mysterious rise of a domestic terrorist group—and the secrets left in the wake of its dramatic fall

Espionage thriller

Publisher: St. Martin's Press – August 7, 2018
Editor: Kelley Ragland
Agent: Stephanie Cabot
Material: Finished books

One of Entertainment Weekly's hottest summer thrillers

- "The Middleman is smart and entertaining and consistently intriguing..." –Scott Turow, bestselling author of Presumed Innocent writing in *The New York Times Book Review
- "Steinhauer proves himself an equally adept chronicler of a world in which walls have come down and the most potent powers aren't necessarily political. Another must-read from a modern master." –Booklist starred review ★
- Steinhauer has written an unnerving and timely thriller with incredible pivots. From a perspective on activist/terrorist civilian organizations to an examination of Big Brother conspiracy plots, there's something here for everyone to grip – with white knuckles." – Library Journal starred review ★
- "A thought-provoking political thriller, a dark story for dark times." –The Washington Post
- "Steinhauer masterfully taps into that vein of uncertainty and disaffectedness." – Book Page
- "One of the most entertaining and thought-provoking novels of the year." – Christian Science Monitor

Olen Steinhauer's propulsive novel begins with the disappearances: hundreds—mostly young people—who cut their credit cards, toss out their cell phones, and abandon jobs, homes, and loved ones. Then come the rumors: that the disappeared have gone underground and joined the Massive Brigade, a left-wing group led by two revolutionaries who are forming The Resistance against the elitist, capitalist powers of America. And then comes the war—but not quite the war the Brigade expects. A tightly wound thriller and an intimate exploration of the people behind the politics.

*Olen Steinhauer, the New York Times bestselling author of several novels, including The Middleman, All the Old Knives, and The Cairo Affair, is a Dashiell Hammett Award winner, a two-time Edgar award finalist, and has also been shortlisted for the Anthony, the Macavity, the Ellis Peters Historical Dagger, the Ian Fleming Steel Dagger, and the Barry awards. Raised in Virginia, he lives in New York and Budapest, Hungary.*

David Auerbach, BITWISE:

A Life in Code

An elegant, timely memoir and a significant polemic on how computers and algorithms shape our understanding of the world and who we form a National Magazine Award-nominated writer and software engineer.

Memoir

Publisher: Pantheon – August 28, 2018

Editor: Dan Frank

Agent: Sarah Burnes

Material: Finished books

- "A valuable resource for readers seeking to understand themselves in this new universe of algorithms, as data points and as human beings." — The New Republic
- "Auerbach is the rare engineer who is also conversant with literature and philosophy, both of which he brings to bear on interpreting his experiences as a builder of these thinking machines...An eye-opening look at computer technology and its discontents and limitations." — Kirkus Reviews
- "David Auerbach's Bitwise is a book like no other--a profound memoir, a manifesto, and warning about the digital world he had a hand in making, and which is now remaking us in turn." — Jordan Ellenberg, author of *How Not to Be Wrong
- "Bitwise is a delightful journey through the history of personal computing. It succeeds brilliantly at conveying what it's like to be a coder and exploding common stereotypes. I couldn't stop reading." — Scott Aaronson, Professor of Computer Science at the University of Texas at Austin

As we engineer ever-more intricate algorithms to translate our experiences and narrow the gap that divides us from the machine, we willingly rub out our nuances and our idiosyncrasies--precisely that which makes us human. Bitwise is David Auerbach's thoughtful ode to the computer codes and languages that captured his imagination as a child, and a reflection of how he's both experienced and written the algorithms that have come to taxonomize human speech, knowledge, and behavior — and compel us to do the same. With a philosopher's sense of inquiry and an engineer's eye, Auerbach recounts his childhood spent drawing ferns with the programming language Logo on the Apple IIe, his adventures in early text-based video games, his schooling as an engineer, and his contributions to instant messaging technology developed for Microsoft and then to software built to sift through Google's data stores. His unsettling conclusion — that algorithms are standardizing and coarsening our own lives — is inescapable.

David Auerbach is a National Magazine Award-nominated writer and software engineer. He previously worked for Google and Microsoft. He has contributed to The Daily Beast, Slate, The Times Literary Supplement, The Nation, n+1, Bookforum, the MIT Technology Review, and many other publications. He lives in New York and blogs at waggish.org.

While doing research in the British Library, Judy Batalion, a granddaughter of Holocaust survivors, discovered an extraordinary book. Written in Yiddish and published in 1946 though now long out of print, Women in the Ghettos contained the lost accounts of dozens of young Jewish women who fought in the resistance against the Nazis. The “ghetto girls” paid off Gestapo guards, hid revolvers in loaves of bread and jars of marmalade, and helped build systems of underground bunkers. They flirted with Nazis, bought them off with wine, whiskey and home cooking, and shot and killed them. They helped the sick and taught the kids, they bombed German train lines and blew up Vilna’s water supply. While Judy grew up surrounded by stories from the Holocaust, she’d never read stories like these. She’s not alone in that: the tale of Jewish women who fought the Nazis is virtually unknown and the role of women in the original “resistance” is still widely under reported.

There has been no book in the English language that brings together the incredible and integral stories of Jewish female resistance fighters. A propulsive narrative history, Daughters of the Resistance will at last tell the true story of these incredible women.

Judy Batalion is the author of White Walls: A Memoir About Motherhood, Daughterhood and the Mess In Between. She has written for the New York Times, Vogue, the Washington Post and many other publications. Prior to her writing career, she was an academic and is fluent in both Yiddish and Hebrew.

Merve Emre, THE PERSONALITY BROKERS: *The Strange History of Myers-Briggs and the Birth of Personality Testing

An unprecedented history of the personality test conceived a century ago by a mother and her daughter – fiction writers with no formal training in psychology – and how it insinuated itself into boardrooms, classrooms and beyond around the world.

Publisher: Doubleday US - September 11, 2018/ William Collins UK – September 20, 2018

Editor: Yaniv Soha

Agent: Alia Hanna Habib

Material: Finished books

- “Merve Emre’s new book begins like a true-crime thriller, with the tantalizing suggestion that a number of unsettling revelations are in store...It takes a while to realize that Emre has gotten you hooked under arguably false pretenses, but what she finally pulls off is so inventive and beguiling you can hardly begrudge her for it. The Personality Brokers is history that reads like biography that reads like a novel — a fluid narrative that defies expectations and plays against type.” —New York Times
- "A brilliant cultural history of the personality assessment industry." —The Economist
- “An illuminating dual biography...Emre has dug deeply into published and archival sources to produce a deft, gracefully written account of Katherine Briggs and her daughter Isabel Myers...a discerning history of the quest for self-knowledge.” —Kirkus Reviews
- “[Emre] is excellent at recounting how the MBTI began to sweep American institutions in the 1950s. [A] fine study.” —Publishers Weekly
- “This is a sparkling biography—not just of a pair of remarkable women, but of a popular personality tool. Merve Emre deftly exposes the hidden origins of the MBTI and the seductive appeal and fatal flaws of personality types.” —Adam Grant, New York Times bestselling author of Give and Take, Originals, and Option B with Sheryl Sandberg
- “In the tradition of Hidden Figures, this brilliant book proves—yet again—that women were behind some of the most important scientific innovations of wartime and postwar America. I absolutely love it.” —Liza Mundy, author of the national bestseller Code Girls

The Myers-Briggs Type Indicator is the most popular personality test in the world. First conceived in the 1920s by an unlikely mother-daughter team, eventually it would travel across the globe. Drawing from original reporting and never-before-published documents, Emre takes a critical look at the test that became a cultural icon and examines our attempts to grasp, categorize, and quantify our personalities.

Merve Emre is Associate Professor of English at Oxford. She is the author of Paraliterary: The Making of Bad Readers in Postwar America. Her work has appeared in The New Yorker, Harper's Magazine, Bookforum, The New Republic, The Baffler, n+1, and the Los Angeles Review of Books, where she is senior humanities editor. The Personality Brokers* is an Amazon Best Pick for September 2018.

Publishing on the two-year anniversary of Trump's inauguration

Anyone who knows John Freeman, or follows him on social media (@FreemanReads), knows where he stands in today's political climate. While many around the world are engaged and continue to speak out, John is raging – against the innumerable social injustices that dominate headlines across the planet without pause and the seemingly unavoidable trend of normalization of these attacks thanks to time and exhaustion. In a short, powerful, visceral polemic, this highly-respected author and literary critic has channeled his razor-sharp intellect and poetic language into a series of fiery essays structured alphabetically:

A is for Apathy
B is for Body
C is for Citizen
D is for Decency
E is for Environment
F is for Fair
G is for Giving
H is for Hope....

WORDS MATTER delivers a message with a strong point of view but it also captures this moment in history that, for better or worse, is one that today's and the future's generations won't soon forget.

John Freeman is an American writer, literary critic and editor of Freeman's literary magazine. Formerly editor of the literary magazine Granta and president of the National Book Critics Circle, his writing has appeared in almost 200 English-language publications around the world, including The New York Times, The Los Angeles Times, The Guardian and The Wall Street Journal. He is the author of The Tyranny of Email, How to Read a Novelist, Tales of Two Cities, Tales of Two Americas and Maps – a poetry collection.

Lisa Halliday, ASYMMETRY

Publisher: Simon & Schuster, February 2018

Agent: Chris Parris-Lamb

- UK & BC rights to Granta at auction • Halliday is a 2017 Whiting Award winner
- Chosen by The Observer as a “new face of fiction for 2018” • Major NYT author profile
- ★ starred reviews in Publishers Weekly, Kirkus, and Booklist • Der Spiegel bestseller

- “Halliday’s prose is so strange and startlingly smart that its mere existence seems like commentary on the state of fiction... Halliday has written, somehow all at once, a transgressive roman à clef, a novel of ideas and a politically engaged work of metafiction.” —The New York Times Book Review
- “Exquisite...The moment “Asymmetry” reaches its perfect ending, it’s all the reader can do to return to the beginning in awe, to discover how Halliday upturned the story again and again.” —Washington Post
- “A brilliant and complex examination of power dynamics in love and war.” —Wall Street Journal

Told in three distinct and uniquely compelling sections, Asymmetry explores the imbalances that spark and sustain many of our most dramatic human relations: inequities in age, power, talent, wealth, fame, geography, and justice. “Folly,” tells the story of Alice, a young American editor, and her relationship with the famous and much older writer Ezra Blazer. By contrast, “Madness” is narrated by Amar, an Iraqi-American man who, on his way to visit his brother in Kurdistan, is detained by immigration officers and spends the last weekend of 2008 in a holding room in Heathrow. These two seemingly disparate stories gain resonance as their perspectives interact and overlap, with yet new implications for their relationship revealed in an unexpected coda. A stunning debut from a rising literary star, Asymmetry is truly original work that poses arresting questions about the very nature of fiction itself.

Lisa Halliday has worked as a freelance editor and translator in Milan, where she lives with her husband. Her short story 'Stump Louie' appeared in The Paris Review in 2005, and she received a Whiting Award for Fiction in 2017. Asymmetry is her first novel.

Maria Dahvana Headley, THE MERE WIFE

Publisher: MCD (Farrar Straus & Giroux), July 2018

Agent: Stephanie Cabot

- "Smart, tough modern flip of Beowulf, told through Grendel's mother." —Margaret Atwood
- "Headley's jabs at suburban smugness are fun . . . [and her] prose can be stark, lacerating, insightful." —Michael Upchurch, *The New York Times Book Review
- "The most surprising novel I've read this year. It's a bloody parody of suburban sanctimony and a feminist revision of macho heroism... Headley swoops from comedy to tragedy, from the drama of brunch to the horrors of war." —Ron Charles, *The Washington Post

For many people, the suburb of Herot Hall is paradise., replete with wildflowers planted in neat rows. But for those who live surreptitiously along Herot Hall's periphery, the subdivision is a fortress guarded by an intense network of gates, surveillance cameras, and motion-activated lights. For Willa—the wife of Roger Herot, heir of Herot Hall—life moves at a charmingly slow pace. She flits between mommy groups, playdates, cocktail hour, and dinner parties, always with her son, Dylan, in tow. Meanwhile, in a cave in the mountains just beyond the limits of Herot Hall lives young Gren and his mother, Dana, a former soldier who gave birth as if by chance. Dana didn't want Gren, didn't plan Gren, and doesn't know how she got Gren, but when she returned from war, there he was. When Gren, unaware of the borders erected to keep him at bay, ventures into Herot Hall and runs off with Dylan, Dana's and Willa's worlds collide.

Maria Dahvana Headley is a #1 New York Times-bestselling author and editor, most recently of the novels Magonia, Aerie, Queen of Kings, and the memoir The Year of Yes. With Kat Howard she is the author of The End of the Sentence, and with Neil Gaiman, she is co-editor of Unnatural Creatures. Her short stories have been shortlisted for the Shirley Jackson, Nebula, and World Fantasy Awards, and her work has been supported by the MacDowell Colony and by Arte Studio Ginestrelle, where the first draft of this book was written. She was raised with a wolf and a pack of sled dogs in the high desert of rural Idaho, and now lives in Brooklyn. www.mariadahvanaheadley.com.

Alice McDermott, THE NINTH HOUR

Publisher: FSG, September 2017

Agent: Sarah Burnes

One of Publishers Weekly Top 10 Literary Fiction Picks for Fall 2017 • Starred reviews from Booklist, Kirkus and Publishers Weekly • Film rights sold to Scott Rudin Productions

- “Like Alice Munro, McDermott is profoundly observant and mischievously witty, a sensitive and consummate illuminator of the realization of the self, the ravages of illness and loss, and the radiance of generosity.” —Donna Seaman, Booklist, starred review ★
- “Everything that her readers, the National Book Award committee, and the Pulitzer Prize judges love about McDermott’s stories of Irish-Catholic American life is back.” —Kirkus Reviews*, starred review ★
- “National Book Award winner McDermott (Someone) delivers an immense, brilliant novel about the limits of faith, the power of sacrifice, and the cost of forgiveness.” —Publishers Weekly*, starred review ★
- “National Book Award winner McDermott is simply one of the finest living Catholic writers. A generational novel sure to appeal to longtime McDermott fans, and to bring in new readers as well.” —The Millions’ Most Anticipated: The Great Second Half 2017 Book Preview

On a dim winter afternoon, a young Irish immigrant opens the gas taps in his Brooklyn tenement. He is determined to prove—to the subway bosses who have recently fired him, to his badgering pregnant wife—“that the hours of his life belong to himself alone.” In the aftermath of the fire that follows, Sister St. Savior, an aging nun and Little Sister of the Sick Poor, appears, unbidden, to direct the way forward for his widow and his unborn child. In Catholic Brooklyn in the early part of the twentieth century, decorum, superstition, and shame collude to erase the man’s brief existence, and yet his suicide, although never spoken of, reverberates through many lives—testing the limits and the demands of love and sacrifice, of forgiveness and forgetfulness, even through multiple generations.

Alice McDermott is the author of six previous novels, including After This; Child of My Heart; Charming Billy, winner of the 1998 National Book Award; At Weddings and Wakes; That Night; and Someone. That Night, At Weddings and Wakes, and After This were all finalists for the Pulitzer Prize. She is the Richard A. Macksey Professor of the Humanities at Johns Hopkins University.

Amy Meyerson, THE BOOKSHOP OF YESTERDAYS

Publisher: Park Row Books, June 2018

Agent: Stephanie Cabot

- “This delightful, propulsive debut is part cozy literary mystery, part family drama, and 100% heart. [A] page-turner in the best sense; book lovers...will be delighted.” —J. Ryan Stradal, New York Times bestselling author of *Kitchens of the Great Midwest
- “The Bookshop of Yesterdays captivates with its emotional honesty, fully realized characters, and precision of detail. The notion of a family’s loss, love, and healing gets an astute exploration; the deftly handled plot keeps the pages turning. Amy Meyerson is a writer to watch.” —Diane McKinney-Whetstone, bestselling author of Tumbling and *Lazaretto
- “A wistful story of how the world of books can weave itself into the tapestry of our lives, Meyerson’s beautiful debut is about love, family, and secrets, and a reminder that the one thing we can never escape is the past. Her affection for all things literary pours forth on every page and through a cast of characters every book lover will embrace.” —Charlie Lovett, New York Times bestselling author of The Bookman’s Tale and *The Lost Book of the Grail

Miranda Brooks grew up in the stacks of her eccentric Uncle Billy’s bookstore solving the fun scavenger hunts he created just for her. But on Miranda’s 12th birthday, Billy has a mysterious falling-out with her mother, and Miranda doesn’t hear from him again until 16 years later when she receives unexpected news: Billy has died and left her Prospero Books, which is teetering on the edge of bankruptcy. When Miranda returns home to Los Angeles and Prospero Books—now as its owner—she finds clues that Billy has hidden for her inside novels on the store’s shelves, in locked drawers, in mailed packages. Miranda finds herself drawn into one final scavenger hunt meeting people from Billy’s past, people whose stories reveal the terrible secret that tore her family apart.

The Bookshop of Yesterdays is a lyrical story about family, love, and the healing power of community. It’s a love letter to reading and bookstores, and a testament to how our histories shape who we become.

Amy Meyerson lives in Los Angeles and teaches writing at the University of Southern California, where she completed her graduate work. This is her first novel.

Writer and critic Carina Chocano blends formative personal stories with insightful and emotionally powerful analysis to understand how the stories the culture tells us about what it means to be a girl limits our lives and shape our destinies.

- "Carina Chocano's You Play the Girl reads like a war cry. With dazzling clarity, her commentary exposes the subliminal sexism on our pages and screens." —O, The Oprah Magazine
- "If Hollywood's treatment of women leaves you wanting, you'll find good, heady company in Carina Chocano's essay collection, You Play the Girl. Why, Chocano asks, does the ingenue have to choose between marriage and death?" —Elle
- "The cultural formulas that Chocano identifies are frustrating, but her readings don't deny them their fun...In the tradition of a long line of women writers, Chocano wants to make sense of this sort of enchantment and understand what kind of education it is offering up, and to whom." —New York Times Book Review
- "Carina Chocano is a first-rate cultural critic whose specialty is constructing dead-on feminist analyses of such sinister artifacts as the relentless 'Frozen' and the various horrifying iterations of Barbie. And Chocano demolishes the dismal shibboleth that feminists can't be funny, wielding abundant wit with a devastating sardonic edge." —Washington Post

Carina Chocano is a contributing writer to the New York Times Magazine. Her writing has also appeared in Vogue, Elle, Rolling Stone, and many others. A former staff film and TV critic at the Los Angeles Times, she has been a TV and book critic at Entertainment Weekly and a staff writer at Salon. She lives in Los Angeles.

Garry Kasparov, DEEP THINKING:
*Where Machine Intelligence Ends and Human Creativity Begins

Publisher: Public Affairs/John Murray, September 2017

Agent: Chris Parris-Lamb

North American rights to Public Affairs in a six-figure deal • UK Sunday Times bestseller • May 2017 marked the 20th anniversary of Kasparov's loss to IBM supercomputer Deep Blue

- "Thoughtful reading for anyone interested in human and machine cognition and a must for chess fans."
—Kirkus Reviews starred review ★
- "The great Garry Kasparov takes on the key economic issue of our time: how we can thrive as humans in a world of thinking machines."— Walter Isaacson, bestselling author of *The Innovators
- "Garry Kasparov's perspectives on artificial intelligence are borne of personal experience - and despite that, are optimistic, wise and compelling."— Charles Duhigg, bestselling author of *Smarter Faster Better

In May 1997, the world watched as Garry Kasparov, the greatest chess player in the world, was defeated for the first time by the IBM supercomputer Deep Blue. Machine intelligence had arrived at the point where it could best human intellect. In DEEP THINKING, Kasparov tells his side of the story for the first time—but more than that, he makes a unique contribution to the story of artificial intelligence, taking part in an urgent debate with philosophers worried about human values, programmers creating self-learning neural networks, and engineers of cutting-edge robotics. He surveys the questions facing a world that is becoming increasingly reliant on AI, making a reasoned and urgent case for why we should embrace it.

Garry Kasparov is a business speaker, global human rights activist, author, and former world chess champion. A frequent contributor to the Wall Street Journal, he is the author of two books, How Life Imitates Chess and Winter is Coming, each of which has been translated into more than a dozen languages.

Porochista Khakpour, SICK: A Memoir

Publisher: HarperPerennial, June 2018

Agent: Seth Fishman

Featured on 10+ “most anticipated reads of 2018” lists including Buzzfeed, Huffington Post, The Rumpus, The Millions • 3-page feature in The Observer among other strong UK press • Time magazine’s best memoirs of 2018

- “Humane, searching, and unapologetic. Khakpour takes us all the way in on her struggle toward health with an intelligence and intimacy that moved, informed, and astonished me.” —Cheryl Strayed, bestselling author of *Wild
- “To the list of brilliant fiction writers penning timeless memoirs—Nabokov, McBride, Wright, Styron, Ward, Gay, both Wolffs, to name a few—we now indelibly add the name Khakpour.” —Matthew Thomas, New York Times-bestselling author of *We Are Not Ourselves
- “Lucid, eloquent, and unflinchingly honest, Khakpour’s book is not just about a woman’s relationship to illness, but also a remarkably trenchant reflection on personal and human frailty. A courageously intimate memoir about living within a body that has ‘never felt at ease.’” —Kirkus Reviews
- “Khakpour writes honestly about her psychological struggle...Her remarkable story is one of perseverance, survival, and hope.” —Publishers Weekly

For as long as writer Porochista Khakpour can remember, she has been sick. Several drug addictions, three major hospitalizations, and over $100,000 later, she finally had a diagnosis: late-stage Lyme disease. Sick is Khakpour’s arduous, emotional journey—as a woman, a writer, and a lifelong sufferer of undiagnosed health problems—through the chronic illness that perpetually left her a victim of anxiety, living a life stymied by an unknown condition. Khakpour guides the reader through her illness by way of the locations that changed her course—New York, LA, New Mexico, and Germany—as she meditates on both the physical and psychological impacts of uncertainty, and the eventual challenge of accepting the diagnosis she had searched for over the course of her adult life. Sick is a candid, illuminating narrative of hope and uncertainty, boldly examining the deep impact of illness on one woman’s life.

Porochista Khakpour is the author of the Sick as well as the novels The Last Illusion (Bloomsbury, 2014) and Sons and Other Flammable Objects (Grove, 2007). Her writing has appeared in The New York Times, The Los Angeles Times, The Wall Street Journal, Al Jazeera America, Bookforum, Slate, Salon, Spin, CNN, The Daily Beast, Elle, and many other publications around the world.

David Lynch and Kristine McKenna, ROOM TO DREAM

Publisher: Random House, June 2018

Agent: Chris Parris-Lamb

North American rights to Random House in a major deal • UK & BC rights pre-empted by Canongate for six figures • New Twin Peaks series premiered in 2017

• 20 foreign deals • Jacket and title lettering designed by David Lynch

• 40 black & white photographs chosen by David Lynch from his personal collection

An unprecedented look into the personal and creative life of David Lynch—the visionary filmmaker, artist, and creator of Twin Peaks—through his words and those of his colleagues, friends, and family.

In this unique hybrid of biography and memoir that's as unusual as the man himself, Lynch opens up for the first time about a life lived in pursuit of his incredibly singular vision and the many heartaches and struggles he's faced to bring his unorthodox projects to fruition—sometimes successful, sometimes not. Lynch's lyrical, intensely intimate, and wholly unfiltered personal reflections riff off of preceding biographical sections, written by close collaborator Kristine McKenna and based on more than one hundred new interviews with surprisingly candid ex-wives, family members, actors, agents, musicians, and colleagues in various fields who all have their own take on what happened. This landmark book will offer a one-time, all-access pass into the mind of one of our most press-shy, enigmatic, and utterly original living artists.

David Lynch is the one of the most influential directors of the past 50 years. He has been nominated for three Academy Awards, and is the winner of the Palme d'Or at the Cannes Film Festival and the Golden Lion award at the Venice Film Festival. The French government awarded him the Legion of Honor.

Kristine McKenna is a journalist, critic, and art curator, and the author of two collections of interviews: The Book of Changes and Talk to Her.

Randall Munroe (creator of xkcd)

WHAT IF? *Serious Scientific Answers to Absurd Hypothetical Questions

Publisher: Houghton Mifflin Harcourt, September 2014

Agent: Seth Fishman

#1 New York Times Bestseller • #1 Bestseller on Amazon • #1 Non-fiction book in the UK • #2 bestseller on Der Spiegel list in Germany • More than 1,000,000 copies in print worldwide

Millions of people visit xkcd.com each week to read Munroe's iconic webcomic. His stick-figure drawings about science, technology, language, and love have an enormous, dedicated following, as do his deeply researched answers to his fans' strangest questions. Responses are masterpieces of clarity and wit, explaining everything from the relativistic effects of a baseball pitched at near the speed of light to the horrible ways you could die while building a periodic table out of all the actual elements.

THING EXPLAINER: *Complicated Stuff in Simple Words

Publisher: Houghton Mifflin Harcourt, November 2015

Agent: Seth Fishman

#1 New York Times bestseller • North American rights sold in a seven-figure deal

Have you ever tried to learn more about some incredible thing, only to be frustrated by incomprehensible jargon? In Thing Explainer, Randall uses line drawings and only the thousand (or, rather, "ten hundred") most common words to provide simple explanations for some of the most interesting stuff both on earth and beyond. "Brilliant...a wonderful guide for curious minds."—Bill Gates

Randall Munroe, a former NASA roboticist, is the creator of the webcomic xkcd and the author of xkcd: volume 0. The International Astronomical Union recently named an asteroid after him; asteroid 4942 Munroe is big enough to cause a mass extinction if it ever hits a planet like Earth.

- Xkcd publishers: John Murray Press (UK & BC), Knaus (Germany), Bompiani (Italy), Companhia das Letras (Brazil), Unieboek (Netherlands), Flammarion (France), Aguilar (Spain), Prah (Czech Republic), AST (Russia), Sigongsa (Korea), Hayakawa (Japan), Klidarithmos (Greece), Athenaeum (Hungary), Czarna Owca (Poland), United Sky (China), Commonwealth (Taiwan), Pegasus (Turkey), Saída de Emergência (Portugal), WSOY (Finland), WeLearn (Thailand), Heliks (Serbia), Modan (Israel), Volante (Sweden), Font Forlag (Norway), Ikar (Slovak Republic), Nha Nam (Vietnam), Loxodonta (Denmark), Aripaev (Estonia), PT Gramedia (Indonesia), Publica (Romania), Fokus (Croatia), Vivat (Ukraine), Al-Ahlia (Arabic)

Peter Thiel with Blake Masters, ZERO TO ONE: *Notes on Startups, or How to Build the Future

Publisher: Crown Business, September 2014

Agent: Chris Parris-Lamb

#1 New York Times bestseller • Sold to Crown Business for seven figures in a heated auction • Sales in 35 foreign territories • Huge bestseller in China

- “This book delivers completely new and refreshing ideas on how to create value in the world.”
—Mark Zuckerberg, CEO of Facebook
- “Peter Thiel has built multiple breakthrough companies, and Zero to One shows how.”
—Elon Musk, CEO of SpaceX and Tesla
- "The first and last business book anyone needs to read; a one in a world of zeroes." —Neal Stephenson, New York Times best-selling author of *Cryptonomicon

Every moment in business happens only once. The next Bill Gates will not build an operating system. The next Mark Zuckerberg won't create a social network. If you are copying these guys, you aren't learning from them. Progress comes from monopoly, not competition. Competition destroys profits for individuals, companies, and society as a whole.

Zero to One is about how to build companies that create new things. What valuable company is nobody building?

Peter Thiel, an entrepreneur and investor, co-founded PayPal and the data analytics firm Palantir Technologies. He made the first outside investment in Facebook, funded companies like SpaceX and LinkedIn, and started the Thiel Foundation, which nurtures tomorrow's tech visionaries. Blake Masters co-founded Judicata, a technology startup that builds tools for legal research and analysis.
