FRECKLES

A Novel

You are the average of the five people you spend the most time with.

When a stranger utters these words to Allegra Bird, nicknamed Freckles, it turns her highly ordered life upside down. In her current life as a parking warden, she has left her eccentric father and unconventional childhood behind for a bold new life in the city

But a single encounter leads her to ask the question she's been avoiding for so long: who are the people who made her the way she is? And who are the five people who can shape and determine her future? Just as she once joined the freckles on her skin to mirror the constellations in the night sky, she must once again look for connections.

Told in Allegra's vivid, original voice, moving from Dublin to the fierce Atlantic coast, this is an unforgettable story of human connection, of friendship, and growing into your own skin.

Five people. Five stars. Freckle to freckle. Star to star.

THE WISH

A Novel

If you had one wish...

Maggie hasn't told this story in years. More than two decades ago, she fell in love. She was sixteen and far from home, waiting to give her baby up for adoption. Bryce showed Maggie how to take photographs and he didn't judge her for the way her belly swelled under her jumper. They had the perfect first kiss. Theirs was a once-in-a-lifetime kind of love.

Now, as Maggie sits by the Christmas tree in her gallery telling her story, surrounded by the photographs that made her famous - the photographs Bryce never saw - her new gallery assistant asks her a question. If she had one wish, what would she wish for this Christmas?

Maggie always thought she knew the answer to that question. But before she can say 'I'd go back to that winter with Bryce', she stops herself. It is all she has ever wanted but suddenly here, on this dark night under the twinkling stars, there is something else she wants. She wants to find her baby.

... what would you wish for?

A heart-wrenching story about discovery and loss, THE WISH is a reminder that time with those precious to us is the greatest gift of all.

MALIBU RISING

A Novel

Malibu: August 1983. It's the day of Nina Riva's annual end-of-summer party, and anticipation is at a fever pitch. Everyone wants to be around the famous Rivas: Nina, the talented surfer and supermodel; brothers Jay and Hud, one a championship surfer, the other a renowned photographer; and their adored baby sister, Kit. Together the siblings are a source of fascination in Malibu and the world over—especially as the offspring of the legendary singer Mick Riva.

The only person not looking forward to the party of the year is Nina herself, who never wanted to be the center of attention, and who has also just been very publicly abandoned by her pro tennis player husband. Oh, and maybe Hud—because it is long past time for him to confess something to the brother from whom he's been inseparable since birth.

Jay, on the other hand, is counting the minutes until nightfall, when the girl he can't stop thinking about promised she'd be there. And Kit has a couple secrets of her own—including a guest she invited without consulting anyone.

By midnight the party will be completely out of control. By morning, the Riva mansion will have gone up in flames. But before that first spark in the early hours before dawn, the alcohol will flow, the music will play, and the loves and secrets that shaped this family's generations will all come rising to the surface.

MALIBU RISING is a story about one unforgettable night in the life of a family: the night they each have to choose what they will keep from the people who made them ... and what they will leave behind.

SIX WEEKS TO LIVE

A Novel

Jennifer Barnes never expected the shocking news she received at a routine doctor's appointment: she has a terminal brain tumor—and only six weeks left to live.

While stunned by the diagnosis, the forty-eight-year-old mother decides to spend what little time she has left with her family—her adult triplets and twin grandsons—close by her side. But when she realizes she was possibly poisoned a year earlier, she's determined to discover who might have tried to get rid of her before she's gone for good.

Separated from her husband and with a contentious divorce in progress, Jennifer focuses her suspicions on her soon-to-be ex. Meanwhile, her daughters are each processing the news differently. Calm medical student Emily is there for whatever Jennifer needs. Moody scientist Aline, who keeps her mother at arm's length, nonetheless agrees to help with the investigation. Even imprudent Miranda, who has recently had to move back home, is being unusually solicitous.

But with her daughters doubting her campaign against their father, Jennifer can't help but wonder if the poisoning is all in her head—or if there's someone else who wanted her dead.

IF I HAD YOUR FACE

A Novel

IF I HAD YOUR FACE plunges us into the mesmerizing world of contemporary Seoul - a place where extreme plastic surgery is as routine as getting a haircut, where women compete for spots in secret 'room salons' to entertain wealthy businessmen after hours, where K-Pop stars are the object of all-consuming obsession, and ruthless social hierarchies dictate your every move.

Navigating this hyper-competitive city are four young women balancing on the razor-edge of survival: Kyuri, an exquisitely beautiful woman whose hard-won status at an exclusive 'room salon' is threatened by an impulsive mistake with a client; her flatmate Miho, an orphan who wins a scholarship to a prestigious art school in New York, where her life becomes tragically enmeshed with the super-wealthy offspring of the Korean elite; Wonna, their neighbour, pregnant with a child that she and her husband have no idea how they will afford to raise in a fiercely competitive economy; and Ara, a hair stylist living down the hall, whose infatuation with a fresh-faced K-Pop star drives her to violent extremes.

Frances Cha is a graduate of Dartmouth College and the Columbia MFA program, and a former travel & culture reporter for CNN in Seoul. She currently lives in New York City with her family.

DARK AND SHALLOW LIES

A Novel

La Cachette, Louisiana, is the worst place to be if you have something to hide.

This tiny town, where seventeen-year-old Grey spends her summers, is the self-proclaimed Psychic Capital of the World--and the place where Elora Pellerin, Grey's best friend, disappeared six months earlier.

Grey can't believe that Elora vanished into thin air any more than she can believe that nobody in a town full of psychics knows what happened. But as she digs into the night that Elora went missing, she begins to realize that everybody in town is hiding something--her grandmother Honey; her childhood crush Hart; and even her late mother, whose secrets continue to call to Grey from beyond the grave.

When a mysterious stranger emerges from the bayou--a stormy-eyed boy with links to Elora and the town's bloody history--Grey realizes that La Cachette's past is far more present and dangerous than she'd ever understood. Suddenly, she doesn't know who she can trust. In a town where secrets lurk just below the surface, and where a murderer is on the loose, nobody can be presumed innocent--and La Cachette's dark and shallow lies may just rip the town apart.

Ginny Myers Sain lives in Tulsa, Oklahoma, and has spent the past twenty years working closely with teens as a director and acting instructor in a program designed for high school students seriously intent on pursuing a career in the professional theatre. # INDIVISIBLE

Mateo Garcia and his younger sister, Sophie, have been taught to fear one word for as long as they can remember: deportation. Over the past few years, however, the fear that their undocumented immigrant parents could be sent back to Mexico has started to fade. Ma and Pa have been in the United States for so long, they have American-born children, and they're hard workers and good neighbors. When Mateo returns from school one day to find that his parents have been taken by ICE, he realizes that his family's worst nightmare has become a reality. With his parents' fate and his own future hanging in the balance, Mateo must figure out who he is and what he is capable of, and how he can protect his family. With questions of identity and belonging, Mateo's story is something anyone can relate to.

Daniel Aleman's INDIVISIBLE is a remarkable story—both powerful in its explorations of immigration in America and deeply intimate in its portrait of a teen boy driven by his fierce, protective love for his parents and his sister.

Daniel Aleman was born and raised in Mexico City; his family moved to the United States when he was a teenager, and Daniel now lives in Toronto, where he went to college. This story is partially inspired by the separation, difficulties, and ultimately, the great opportunities his family encountered since making the decision to immigrate to the U.S. and Canada.

“A multifaceted scheme, mistaken identity, and a simmering romance will keep readers riveted and dying to know how it all unfolds. The exploration of the land’s religion and people’s conflicting understandings of it seems to be a reflection of the real world, lending the story a deeper commentary without sidelining the main plot. An excellent choice for fans of smart, independent female leads, intriguing fantasy worlds, and a race against the clock to defeat evil.”

—Booklist

“The plot is breathlessly fast, complete with creepy spirits, a satisfying romance, and complex but clear political twists and turns....Political, romantic, magical, timely, yet also traditionally appealing.”

—Kirkus

“Debut author Smith explores the power of sacrifice in this darkly romantic reimagining of the Brothers Grimm’s ‘The Goose Girl.’”

—Publishers Weekly

“This novel is a well-developed page-turner that will have fans of both the fantasy and mystery genres rushing to finish.”

Aina Solís has fought her way to the top of criminal ranks in the city of Kosín by wresting control of an assassin empire owned by her old boss, Kohl. She never has to fear losing her home and returning to life on the streets again—except Kohl, the man who tried to ruin her life, will do anything to get his empire back. Aina sets out to kill him before he can kill her.

But Alsane Bautix, the old army general who was banned from his seat in the government after Aina revealed his corruption, is working to take back power by destroying anyone who stands in his way. With a new civil war on the horizon and all their lives at risk, the only way for Aina to protect her home is to join up with the only other criminal more notorious than her: Kohl himself. As Bautix's attacks increase, Aina and Kohl work together to stop his incoming weapons shipments and his plans to take back the Tower of Steel. To defeat them both, Aina will resort to betrayal, poison, and a deadly type of magic that hasn't been used in years.

Through narrow alleys, train rooftops, and deep in the city's tunnels, Aina and Kohl test each other's strengths and limits, each knowing that once Bautix is dead, they'll still have to face each other. If she manages to kill him, she'll finally have the freedom she wants—but it might forever mark her as his shadow in a city where only the strongest survive.

- An original and revealing portrait of what it's like to be a doctor offering a clear plan to save American healthcare.

Praise for UNCARING:

"No one is better qualified to write about what ails health care than Robert Pearl. Uncaring ought to trigger a rethinking of the professional culture of American medicine." —Malcolm Gladwell, author of five New York Times bestsellers

"In UNCARING, Dr. Robert Pearl provides an X-ray examination of the medical profession and how it has both promoted and adversely affected American healthcare." —Eric Topol, MD, professor at Scripps Research and author of Deep Medicine

"How do so many young doctors who enter medicine filled with idealism and the desire to do good end up decades later as cynical professionals, caring about money, prestige, success—everything but the patient? Dr. Robert Pearl, in this riveting examination of the physician culture, diagnoses the pathologies in the system that too often strips the 'caring' out of health care." —Elisabeth Rosenthal, editor in chief of Kaiser Health News and author of An American Sickness

"Uncaring is a brilliant and incisive dive into physician culture, both its seamy underbelly and the moments that inspire. Pearl's vast experience as a physician steeped in the culture, and as leader of one of the largest healthcare systems in America, allows him to write with authority, yet in a personal and engaging way, and at the end to offer solutions. The result is a wonderful and compelling read."

UNCARING

How the Culture of Medicine Kills Doctors and Patients

Doctors are taught how to cure people. But they don't always know how to care for them.

Hardly anyone is happy with American healthcare these days. Patients are getting sicker and going bankrupt from medical bills. Doctors are burning out and making dangerous mistakes. Both parties blame our nation's outdated and dysfunctional healthcare system. But that's only part of the problem.

In this important and timely book, Dr. Robert Pearl shines a light on the unseen and often toxic culture of medicine. Today's physicians have a surprising disdain for technology, an unhealthy obsession with status, and an increasingly complicated relationship with their patients. All of this can be traced back to their earliest experiences in medical school, where doctors inherit a set of norms, beliefs, and expectations that shape almost every decision they make, with profound consequences for the rest of us.

UNCARING draws an original and revealing portrait of what it's actually like to be a doctor. It illuminates the complex and intimidating world of medicine for readers, and in the end offers a clear plan to save American healthcare.

Dr. Robert Pearl is the former CEO of The Permanente Medical Group. Named one of Modern Healthcare's 50 most influential physician leaders, Pearl is a clinical professor of plastic surgery at Stanford University School of Medicine and is on the faculty of the Stanford Graduate School of Business. His previous book, Mistreated, was a bestseller.

WILD SOULS

Freedom and Flourishing in the Non-Human World

Protecting wild animals and preserving the environment are two ideals so seemingly compatible as to be almost inseparable. But in fact, between animal welfare and conservation science there exists a space of underexamined and unresolved tension: wildness itself. When is it right to capture or feed wild animals for the good of their species? How do we balance the rights of introduced species with those already established within an ecosystem? Can hunting be ecological? Are any animals truly wild on a planet that humans have so thoroughly changed? No clear guidelines exist to help us resolve such questions.

Transporting readers into the field with scientists tackling these profound challenges, Emma Marris tells the affecting and inspiring stories of animals around the globe—from Peruvian monkeys to Australian bilbies, rare Hawai'ian birds to majestic Oregon wolves. And she offers a companionable tour of the philosophical ideas that may steer our search for sustainability and justice in the non-human world. Revealing just how intertwined animal and human life really is, WILD SOULS will change the way you think about nature—and our place within it.

Emma Marris is an award-winning journalist based in Oregon. She writes for The Atlantic, The New York Times, National Geographic and Outside Magazine, among many others. Her work has appeared in the "Best America Science Writing 2016" and won an award from the National Association of Science Writers for an essay about wilderness in Orion. # CHANGE

How to Make Big Things Happen

Most of what we know about how ideas spread comes from bestselling authors who give us a compelling picture of a world, in which "influencers" are king, "sticky" ideas "go viral," and good behavior is "nudged" forward. The problem is that the world they describe is a world where information spreads, but beliefs and behaviors stay the same. When it comes to lasting change in what we think or the way we live, the dynamics are different: beliefs and behaviors are not transmitted from person to person in the simple way that a virus is. The real story of social change is more complex. When we are exposed to a new idea, our social networks guide our responses in striking and surprising ways.

Drawing on deep-yet-accessible research and fascinating examples from the spread of Covid to the success of the Black Lives Matter movement, the failure of Google+, and the rise of political polarization, CHANGE presents groundbreaking and paradigm-shifting new science for understanding what drives change, and how we can change the world around us.

THE END OF FOOD ALLERGY

The First Program to Prevent and Reverse a 21st Century Epidemic

The problem of food allergy is exploding around us. But this book offers the first glimpse of hope with a powerful message: You can work with your family and your doctor to eliminate your food allergy forever. The trailblazing research of Stanford University's Dr. Kari Nadeau reveals that food allergy is not a life sentence, because the immune system can be retrained. Food allergies—from mild hives to life-threatening airway constriction—can be disrupted, slowed, and stopped. The key is a strategy called immunotherapy (IT)—the controlled, gradual reintroduction of an allergen into the body. With innovations that include state-of-the-art therapies targeting specific components of the immune system, Dr. Nadeau and her team have increased the speed and effectiveness of this treatment to a matter of months.

New York Times bestselling author Sloan Barnett, the mother of two children with food allergies, provides a lay perspective that helps make Dr. Nadeau's research accessible for everyone. Together, they walk readers through every aspect of food allergy, including how to find the right treatment and how to manage the ongoing fear of allergens that haunts so many sufferers, to give us a clear, supportive plan to combat a major national and global health issue.

Kari Nadeau, MD, PhD, is the director of the Sean N. Parker Center for Allergy and Asthma Research at Stanford University and is one of the world's leading experts on food allergy. Dr. Nadeau holds the Naddisy Foundation professorship in medicine and pediatrics at Stanford University and as well as both an MD and PhD from Harvard Medical School. Sloan Barnett is a lawyer, journalist, and the New York Times bestselling author of Green Goes with Everything: Simple Steps to a Healthier Life and a Cleaner Planet. - A new and exciting project from the health and science editor for the New York Times Opinion section
- For 2+ years, Sifferlin has been talking to patients, family members, and doctors in the Undiagnosed Diseases Network, a unique “clinic of last resort” that brings together top physicians at 10 prestigious research hospitals to serve patients with the most mysterious illnesses: conditions that other doctors can’t identify or treat. What makes an undiagnosable illness? What does it take to be heard and believed? And even when resources are unparalleled, are there limits to what medicine can know?

ALEXANDRA SIFFERLIN

UNDIAGNOSED

Everyone loves a medical mystery, and it’s no wonder why: an estimated 30 million people in America are living with an undiagnosed illness of their own. Since 2008, the National Institutes of Health (NIH) has funded a network of physicians focused on providing diagnoses and treatment for people with some of the most challenging medical cases. Sometimes referred to as “the clinic of last resort,” the Undiagnosed Diseases Network (UDN) includes 10 hospitals across the nation where teams of medical experts use imaging, physical exams, and advanced genetic sequencing to crack some of the rarest disorders. So far, doctors and scientists at the UDN have evaluated 1,029 people and diagnosed only 283.

In UNDIAGNOSED, we will encounter patients within the UDN, such as Maria Ruley, whose genetic tests only unlocked part of the explanation for her complex regional pain system, and whose young son may develop the same condition; patients who cannot access the resources of the UDN, such as Dr. Diana Cejas, a neurologist whose strange growth on her neck was ignored by doctors even though she was herself a med student at Howard University (the growth turned out to be cancerous); and groups of patients who come together online and in person to find answers for the misunderstood symptoms they have in common, such as COVID longhaulers. Together, these stories tell us a bigger story about how we share health information and innovation, and how and why diagnoses matter. The right diagnosis can be the most important piece of medical information a person can receive.

This book has never been more critical as the world is collectively living through a period of time marked by pandemic and medical confusion, where millions of people are experiencing bizarre and not always explainable symptoms. While the hunt for a diagnosis has long been an experience that millions of Americans and people worldwide are familiar with, the pandemic has created a new understanding, empathy, and interest in what it means to be unwell and how to get a diagnosis.

Before she joined the New York Times, Alexandra Sifferlin was deputy editor at Medium, running the Elemental blog and leading COVID coverage. Previously, she was the health and science staff reporter at Time, where she wrote cover stories on Zika, uterine transplants, the frontiers of longevity, and many other topics. She is originally from Minneapolis, Minnesota, and graduated from Northwestern University with a double major in Journalism and International Studies.

HOW TRUST WORKS

And the Science of How to Repair It

HOW TRUST WORKS (And The Science of How to Repair It) is a timely and important examination of one of the most essential factors in all successful relationships: trust. Dr. Kim will explain the two most powerful determinants of trust (perceived competence and perceived integrity) and why those determinants can be weighted so unevenly when we are deciding whether to trust or forgive someone—or not. We as humans are bad at determining the trustworthiness of other people, and we are even worse at defending our own trustworthiness when it comes under fire. Yet despite this shortcoming, and the fact that we are all keenly aware of how important trust is in all of our personal and professional relationships, surprisingly little substantive research had been done on the topic before Dr. Kim began his inquiries. In fact, the majority of our institutional knowledge at the time seemed to rely almost entirely on case studies and other anecdotes. Dr. Kim was forced to develop his own set of rigorous scientific tools that would help him analyze how people interact with one another in the face of conflict.

Dr. Kim will illustrate how the patterns he identified in the lab play out in the real world using both recent and infamously public examples of trust violations and attempts at repair. These examples range from why the American public was willing to overlook Arnold Schwarzenegger's sex scandal but never forgave Bill Clinton, to revisiting the 2017 Unite the Right Rally in Charlottesville and reactions to the police killing of George Floyd, including an examination of how different cultures can develop very different views about what constitutes an irredeemable transgression. We have never been in greater need of a serious conversation about trust and how to repair it, a conversation based on rigorous scientific research rather than mere conjecture.

A Professor of Management and Organization at the University of Southern California Marshall School of Business, Dr. Kim is a leading expert in the field of trust, betrayal and redemption. His work has been published in leading scientific journals, as well as in popular news outlets such as The New York Times, TIME, The Washington Post, The Atlantic, NPR, and others. Dr. Kim was born in Korea, and his family came to the United States when he was a child. He has an extensive international speaking circuit, and has given talks in Australia, France, Germany, the Netherlands, Turkey, Hong Kong, Japan, South Korea and Canada.

NASTY, BRUTISH, AND SHORT

A Philosopher's Field Notes on His Children

An irreverent, original and deeply humane philosophical investigation that will delight anyone who likes thinking and laughing. Imagine Randall Munroe's What If? meets Bertrand Russell's The Problems of Philosophy - plus kids.

NASTY, BRUTISH, AND SHORT tackles life's biggest questions with the help of the author's children. Inspired by kids, but not for kids, this brilliant book cuts a fresh path through the scary world of metaphysics and morals, using deft storytelling and dark humor to show what philosophy is; why kids are the best philosophers of all; how they can teach us to puzzle through revenge, rights, consciousness, the size of the universe and other daunting mysteries most grown-ups learn to ignore; and, finally, why the examined life is not only worth living but seriously fun.

Professor Scott Hershovitz is Director of the Law and Ethics Program and professor of law and philosophy at the University of Michigan. He holds a B.A. in philosophy and politics from the University of Georgia; a J.D. from Yale Law School; and D.Phil. from the University of Oxford, where he was a Rhodes Scholar. Professor Hershovitz served as a law clerk for Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg of the U.S. Supreme Court and the Hon. William Fletcher of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit. He has published influential articles on law and morality in leading scholarly journals, and he has lectured and taught widely at universities around the world

OUTRAGE MACHINE

Why Rational People Become Righteous, Scared and Angry on Social Media—and What This Means for Democracy

A noticeable shift has occurred in the last two decades. The prevalence of hate speech online. The turn toward authoritarianism and populism across the western world. Every day, it seems, we're hearing more angry voices and fearful opinions, we're seeing more threats and frightening news, and we're reacting faster and less rationally.

The cause is hidden in plain sight: for the first time, almost all of the information we consume is controlled and curated by algorithms designed to capture our emotional attention. This is the outrage machine. It is the wide-cast net of social media that is propelled by tech, has been exploited by all of us, and which has been allowed to steadily replace our newspapers, emergency communication systems, town halls, churches, and more. And this ubiquity has had unintended consequences.

OUTRAGE MACHINE reveals how to navigate a world that has been thoroughly disrupted by technology. It demystifies the underlying machinery that has come to control us and will help guide readers toward reflection rather than reaction. Pulling together 15 years of research and inquiry, Tobias Rose-Stockwell will give readers a language with which to comprehend what is happening to society, and offer new mental models for how to manage our time, our technology, and our attention, as well as big-picture recommendations for the way forward, how to redesign these platforms, and methods for fixing this broken system before it changes us for ever.

Tobias Rose-Stockwell is a writer, technologist and media researcher who explores the effects of social media on society and democracy. Tobias's work has been featured in major outlets such as FastCompany, Quartz, Medium, NPR, the BBC and many others. As a media researcher, he has advised the directors of Gannett, one of the largest news organizations in America, as well as local news outlets in the US, on digital strategy. Tobias was previously a guest lecturer at Stanford University on the topic of social enterprise design and technology ventures. He is currently a strategic advisor to Jonathan Haidt's organization, OpenMind, which focuses on depolarizing communities online.

SEE, SOLVE, SCALE

How Unconventional Thinkers Solve the World's Biggest Problems

We live in a world full of problems, and business offers a compelling path to solve them. For this reason, business isn't just for "businesspeople" anymore. Increasingly, it's the historians, philosophers, rocket scientists, and everyone else who are launching the most interesting businesses to solve problems big and small. That's why at Brown, everyone from English majors and future Fulbright scholars, to chemical engineering majors and art students at RISD, rank Danny's course as the most life-changing course on campus. They learned that you don't need to be a consultant or have an MBA to turn a solution to a problem into a lucrative new venture. In SEE, SOLVE, SCALE, he will first change how readers think about business—seeing an unmet need, finding a solution, and scaling it into an enduring business—before showing them how to put it into practice. Thousands of students have launched hundreds of successful companies after taking this course—a testament to the effectiveness of his method.

In the tradition of Ivy League courses turned bestselling books, SEE, SOLVE, SCALE will reach audiences familiar with the bestsellers Designing Your Life by Stanford's Bill Burnett and Dave Evans and The Lean Startup by Eric Reis.

Danny Warshay holds an MBA from Harvard and a BA from Brown. In addition to teaching, he is the executive director of Brown's Nelson Center for Entrepreneurship, which hosts leading business leaders like Bank of America CEO Brian Moynihan and AWAY luggage founder Stephanie Korey (both on the board). His contacts include bestselling business authors such as Clayton Christianson, Noam Wasserman, and Theresa Amabile.

Rob Dial has transformed millions of lives through his role as host of the Mindset Mentor post, with 3.5 million downloads a month. His book will use principles of neuroplasticity and mindfulness to help readers change their brains and break out of self-sabotaging patterns. He uses personal stories to demonstrate how to create routines and tools that will help readers to visualize and achieve their success.

Rob receives thousands of DMs from listeners thanking him for helping them break life-long patterns of self-sabotage to finally change careers, lose weight, overcome anxiety, and find meaningful relationships. Self-sabotage keeps us locked in behaviors like procrastination, perfectionism, workaholism, and saying yes to commitments we can't see through, ultimately preventing us from making progress toward our true goals. Our strongest emotions get the better of us, even with the best intentions. By drawing on principles of neuroplasticity and mindfulness techniques, you can change your brain and develop the willpower to break free of these self-sabotaging patterns.

In WILLPOWER WORKS, Rob will share the brain and personality science he has learned in years of study, the advice and tools that have worked for 1000s of coaching clients, and his personal journey of self-sabotage following the death of his alcoholic father while Rob was in his teens. Rob will promote his book through his podcast platform, which reaches 1.1M unique listeners per month with episodes featuring guests like Matthew McConaughey and Jay Shetty, and Facebook, where he has 2.6M followers and videos regularly go viral, such as “Your Job is a Waste of Your Life” with 99M+ views. He will also engage his network which includes Tom Bilyeu, Aubrey Marcus, Rich Roll, and more. His book would be his first foray into traditional media.

Rob started his career in sales at age 19 and worked his way up to owning and operating a multi-million-dollar office by age 24. After studying with leaders in the personal development field, he launched his podcast, The Mindset Mentor, in 2015. The Spa Dr's 7-Day Detox for Balanced Hormones and Glowing Skin

The question Dr. Cates receives time and again from patients and followers, no matter their age or the appearance of their skin: I've tried every product and procedure, but I'm still not getting the results I want, is there something deeper that I'm missing? Traditional thinking about skincare is preoccupied with quick fixes for signs of aging or putting a band aid on hormonal skin issues, like prescribing birth control for acne. Most women aren't taking the first, critical step to beautiful skin: hormone harmony.

In NATURAL BEAUTY RESET, Dr. Cates shares her expertise in the connection between hormones, skin and aging that has helped 1000s of patients in her decades-long career in holistic medicine. She will deep dive into the root causes of hormone imbalance and the impacts on women's overall health and appearance.

With Dr. Cates' hormone balancing program and unique 7-Day Detox for each season, women will learn how to eat, get their body moving, take care of their skin, eliminate toxins and use mindfulness to combat stress. By connecting with the natural rhythms of their own bodies and the world around them, women can stop feeling blah, balance their hormones, and start feeling confident in their skin again. Dr. Cates herself, approaching 50 with stunning skin, is proof this approach works.

Dr. Trevor Cates is the author of USA Today bestselling book Clean Skin From Within. # EVERYDAY TRAUMA

Remapping the Brain's Response to Stress, Anxiety, and Painful Memories for a Better Life

For the last 30 years, Dr. Tracey Shors has been researching the effects of stress and trauma on the brain—particularly the female brain. Her pioneering work has shed light on how we learn, how the brain generates new neurons, and how traumatic experiences—whether those experiences singularly intense and dramatic, like a car accident, or whether they are small and cumulative, like small daily harassments from a coworker—affect our ability to learn new skills and recover after we have experienced trauma. She has long been interested in the slight but impactful differences between how the male brain recovers and how the female brain recovers after trauma, and she designed some of the earliest studies into the subject.

EVERYDAY TRAUMAS shares for the first time in print her clinically tested program for stress recovery: MAP Training, a uniquely effective intervention that has been shown to reduce physiological and psychological symptoms of PTSD, stress and anxiety after just a few weeks of following the program. Dr. Shors's simple “sit, walk, sweat” program is firmly rooted in findings from her labs at Princeton and Rutgers, and has been shown to be effective with a wide range of participants, from victims of sexual trauma and women living in halfway homes, to Ivy League university students suffering from test anxiety.

Dr. Shors is a Distinguished Professor in the Department of Psychology and Center for Collaborative Neuroscience at Rutgers University. She previously spent six years at Princeton University as an assistant professor working on brain plasticity and sex differences in learning, and holds M.A. and PhD degrees from the University of Southern California, where she also did several years of post-doctoral laboratory work as a Research Associate in Neural, Informational, and Behavioral Sciences. MAP training has been featured on NBC Nightly News and in the New York Times, Psychology Today, The Washington Post, Huffington Post, and Shape magazine.
