BORDERLINE, NARCISSISTIC
AND SCHIZOID ADAPTATIONS

ELINOR GREENBERG, Ph.D.

Borderline, Narcissistic, and Schizoid Adaptations demystifies the diagnosis and treatment of personality disorders. It offers clear and practical advice on how to differentiate and treat clients who have made Borderline, Narcissistic, or Schizoid adaptations. Elinor Greenberg begins with an overview of the topic of personality disorders, reframes these disorders as adaptations, and then explains the treatment interventions that work best for each type of adaptation. Later chapters describe how to do specific interventions that deal with commonly encountered treatment issues such as: such as: "How to undo a Narcissistic shame-based self-hating depression," "How to judge a Schizoid client's sense of interpersonal safety from their dreams," and "How to help Borderline clients reach their goals." Each type of intervention is explained in detail, ample clinical examples are given, as is how and when to utilize the method in the client's treatment. Both beginning therapists and experienced clinicians alike will find this book a useful resource that will expand their understanding and effectiveness with this often challenging group of clients.

Elinor Greenberg, Ph.D., CGP, is a psychologist and an internationally renowned Gestalt therapy trainer who specializes in teaching the diagnosis and treatment of Borderline, Narcissistic, and Schizoid adaptations. Dr. Greenberg is the author of many articles on this topic, including: "Healing the Borderline," "When Insight Hurts," "Undoing the Shame Spiral," and "Goals and the Borderline Client." She is Vice President of the New York Institute for Gestalt Therapy, adjunct faculty to the Gestalt Center for Psychotherapy and Training, and is an Associate Editor of Gestalt Review. In addition to her extensive Gestalt therapy credentials, Dr. Greenberg is a graduate of and former faculty member of The Masterson Institute, a post-graduate training institute where she taught and supervised students in a psychoanalytically-oriented object relations approach to the theory and treatment of personality disorders. She is a certified Ericksonian hypnotherapist and is in the National Registry for Certified Group Psychotherapists. Dr. Greenberg's hobby is the study of pre-psychoanalytic systems of personal growth, such as Kabbalah and the Western Mystery School tradition.

ILL-FATED FRONTIER

PERIL AND POSSIBILITIES IN THE EARLY AMERICAN WEST

SAMUEL A. FORMAN

ILL-FATED FRONTIER

SAMUEL A. FORMAN

"This is an important American origin saga and Samuel Forman is the right person to tell it." -Nathaniel Philbrick, bestselling historian

The melting pot America would become was barely simmering when an ill-fated attempt to settle land near Natchez brought together a volatile mix of ambitious Northern pioneers and their slaves, Spanish colonists, and Native Americans who had claimed the land as theirs for hundreds of years. An illuminating episode in American history comes to life in this account of an expedition gone wrong. It began with an optimistic plan to settle and expand in the new territory. It ended ignominiously, with the body of one of the expedition's leaders returning to New Jersey stored in a pickle barrel.

What happened in between—a cautionary tale of greed, incompetence, and hubris—lies at the center of this fascinating account by Harvard historian Samuel A. Forman. Endorsed by New York Times best-selling author Nathaniel Philbrick, it is a startling and frank portrait of a young America that examines the dream of an inclusive American experience and its reality—a debate that continues today.

General David Forman, a terror to his New Jersey, Loyalist neighbors, during the Revolutionary War obtained a large land grant in Natchez, then part of Spanish West Florida. He was to establish a plantation that would lure settlers and establish a new American presence. Staying behind in New Jersey David Forman appointed his older brother Ezekiel as leader of the expedition, his young cousin Samuel S. Forman as its business manager, and a former military aide as overseer of the enslaved African Americans who accompanied them. ...It did not go well.

When the expedition finally reached the new territory it found waiting Spanish colonials who felt the land was theirs and Native Americans who still maintained their sovereignty over the contested lands.

When Ezekiel Forman died unexpectedly, David Forman stormed from New Jersey into Natchez to take control of the unraveling situation. He would find that those awaiting him had other ideas about who the land belonged to, and would return to New Jersey quite dead and pickled in a barrel of rum. Rich in details that have escaped the usual tales of American growth and enterprise, this book shines new light on what it means to be an American.

Samuel A. Forman is an historian and Harvard University faculty member. Throughout his successful careers as physician, military officer and businessman, he has published and lectured on historical topics that inform current issues. His definitive American Founder's biography Dr. Joseph Warren – The Boston Tea Party, Bunker Hill, and the Birth of American Liberty won the American Revolution Round Table of Philadelphia's Book of the Year. He was inducted as an honorary life member into the Society of the Cincinnati on the basis of his historical writings.

"Authentic. Honest. Transparent... It has been a powerful transformation for Tim, and it can be for anyone that embraces his Own Your Sh!t rules and applies them to the four key areas of their lives."

– Doug Anthony, Tim Hortons Franchisee and former VP for Western Canada.

"It is rare to find people who have the courage to face events that have defined their lives and gain knowledge from them. To put those experiences in writing and share them with the world, as Tim has done, is an amazing accomplishment. His raw honesty about his own events and the ability to share them so that others may learn and improve their lives is a gift to be valued."

- Larry Lovis, author of Mapping Your Retirement Road: A No-Nonsense Guide to a Financially Better Life.

From the hand-me-downs of small town poverty to designer Italian suits, Tim Richardson looked like he had achieved the rags to riches dream—at least on the outside. But when a wake-up call from his beloved wife forced him to re-examine his life, Tim knew it was time for him to finally own his sh!t. Within these raw and vulnerable pages, Tim shares with you the story of the personal journey he made to shed seventy pounds, drop his self-destructive habits, and save his marriage and family. By remembering the morals his parents and grandfather instilled in him and pulling from the wisdom of his mentors, Tim created 15 Rules for owning your sh!t that reflect his four foundations of living a truly successful life: 1. Health/Wellness 2. Relationships 3. Money/Career 4. Spirituality. By the end of Own Your Sh!t, you'll understand how your past shaped who you are today, what matters most to you, and how to change the parts of your life that need their own wake-up call (or kick in the ass). MATT FITZGERALD

"Fitzgerald is going to go down as one of the most competent and prolific authors of books for serious runners covering just about every legitimate aspect of the all-important runner's lifestyle." -Letsrun.com

"A book that every endurance athlete should own...A page-turning read both for the narrative content and hard information...For all athletes drawn to pushing up against the red line to see what they've got." -LAVA magazine

Matt Fitzgerald has already made a name for himself in the endurance sport community with books like 80/20 Running, How Bad Do You Want It? and Iron War. He is an accomplished amateur runner, but if he follows the training, nutrition and lifestyle of an elite runner, just how fast could he go? He is approaching his mid-forties, so the time to do this is now. He at last has the financial means to do nothing but train. He accepts the goodwill of a friend who will let him crash at his apartment in the running mecca of Flagstaff, Arizona, and convinces the coach of Northern Arizona Elite, one of the country's premier professional running teams, to let him train with a roster of national champions and Olympic hopefuls for an entire summer leading in to the Chicago Marathon.

The results were astounding...Filled with a vibrant cast of characters, rigorous and gut-wrenching training, Matt's knowledgeable yet self-deprecating voice allows us to vicariously live out our own fantasies of having the opportunity to go all the way. Yet for the runners Matt trains with, it's no mere fantasy, but a calling and their individual stories enrich this inspiring narrative. Running the Dream is a chance for us all to experience a bit of this rarified and wild world, and to take away pieces of this amazing journey to try to achieve our own potential.

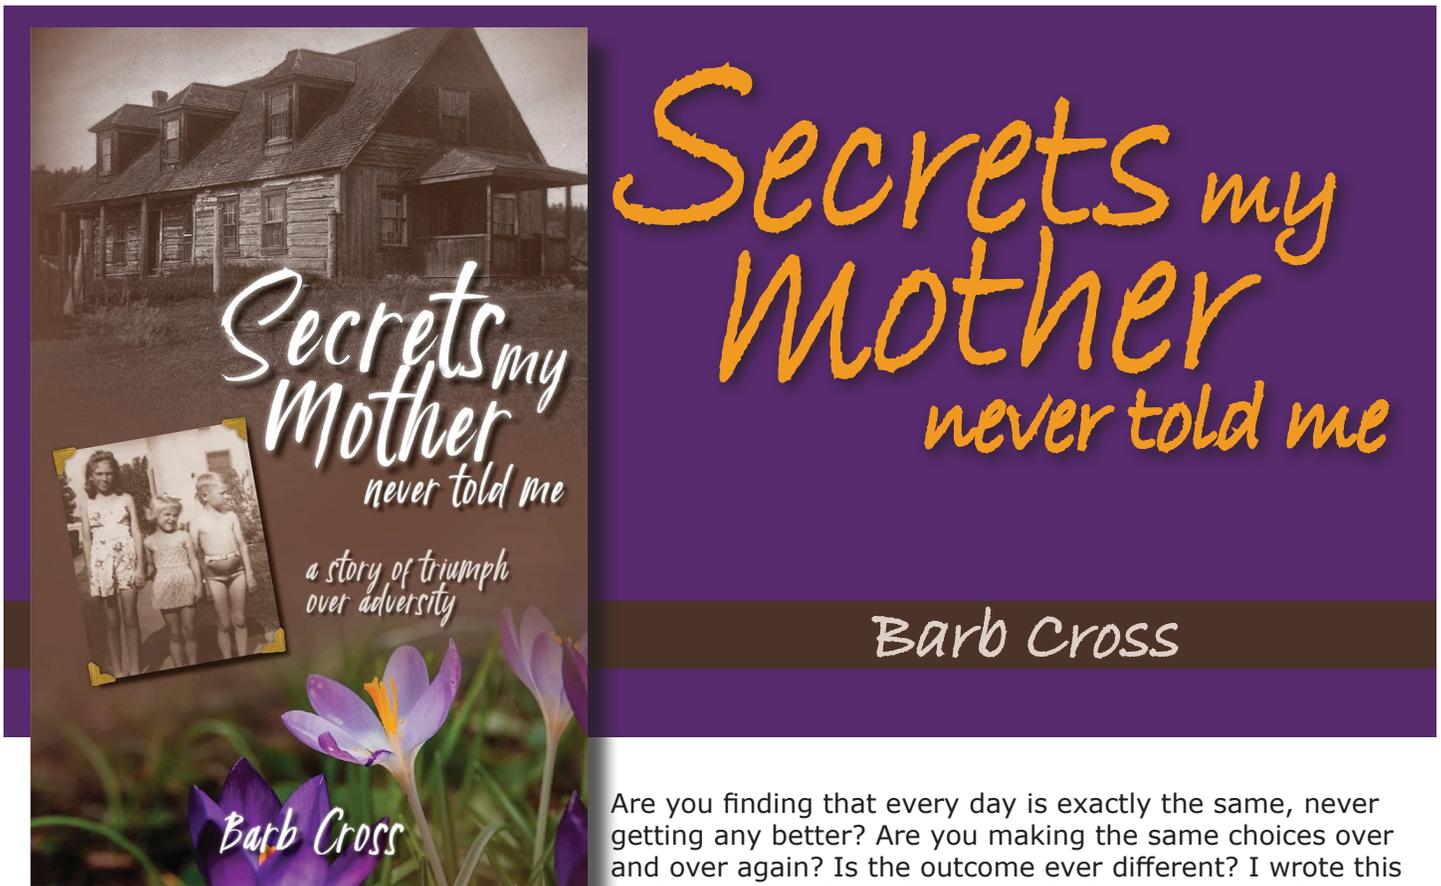

Matt Fitzgerald is an acclaimed endurance sports and nutrition writer and a certified sports nutritionist. He is the bestselling author of more than a dozen books on running and fitness, including 80/20 Running, How Bad Do You Want It, Racing Weight, and Iron War, which was longlisted for the William Hill Sports Book of the Year and Diet Cults, also available from Pegasus Books. # Secrets my Mother never told me

Barb Cross

Are you finding that every day is exactly the same, never getting any better? Are you making the same choices over and over again? Is the outcome ever different? I wrote this book in my mind a million times before I committed it to paper.

I wrote this to help you find a way forward, out of the repetition that's holding you back.

Stories can help guide us through life's many confusions. True stories can help us to realize that someone has done this successfully before; that we are not alone. The story of Loraine begins shortly after World War II, yet it continues to resonate in the face of today's challenges. Through her story, I hope to empower a new generation to seize their own potential rather than see themselves as a product of their limitations; as victims of circumstance.

Through courage and commitment, you can be the beacon the world needs to shine brightly in a period of continuous change. You can challenge yourself to be the best version of you and inspire others to embrace their true potential. You can be an example of a life well lived rather than a bystander waiting for the next disaster.

This story will provide the inspiration to realize you can succeed and feel accomplishment in your efforts. Please, join me on this journey.

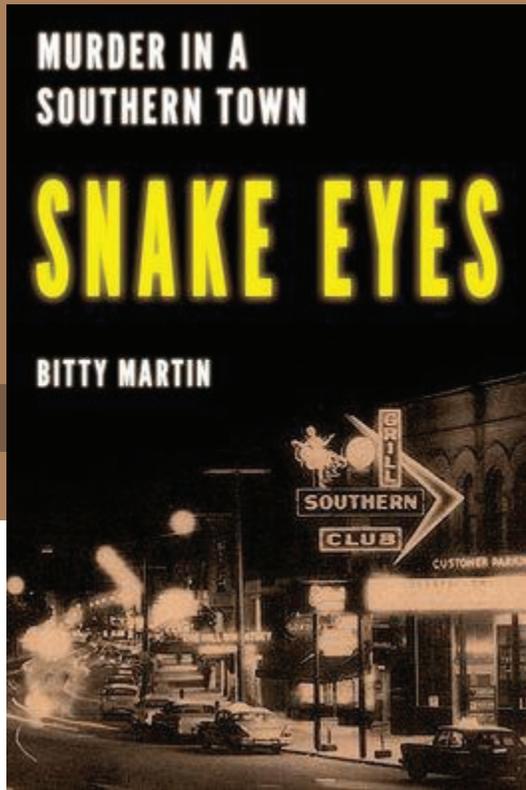

Barb Cross has spent her life holding on to stories she has been fortunate enough to receive. Now she shares these stories, hoping to inspire those who have also struggled. She was born and raised on a ranch near Williams Lake, BC, and now makes her home, with her husband David, in Red Deer, Alberta. She is mother to three children and grandmother to one. For ten years, she's dedicated her volunteer time raising awareness and funds for human organ donation. Secrets My Mother Never Told Me is her first book..

SNAKE EYES

BITTY MARTIN

By 1966, Hot Springs, Arkansas wasn't your typical sleepy little Southern town. Once a favorite destination for mobsters like Al Capone and Lucky Luciano, illegal activities continued to lure out-of-state gamblers, flim-flam men, and high rollers to its racetracks, clubs, and bordellos. Still, the town was shaken to its core after a girl was found dead on a nearby ranch. The ranch owner claimed it was an accident. Then the rancher was found to be the killer of another woman – his fourth wife.

The story begins when 13-year-old Cathie Ward was found dead after horseback riding at Blacksnake Ranch on the outskirts of Hot Springs, Arkansas. Frank Davis, the owner of the ranch, tells authorities Cathie's death is an accident. He claims her foot caught in a stirrup and she was dragged to her death despite his pursuit of the runaway horse. People who know the 42-year-old skilled horseman don't believe his story, and soon rumors of her rape and murder begin swirling around town.

The rumors reach a crescendo after Davis viciously guns down his fourth wife and mother-in-law in broad daylight outside of a laundromat. Davis is arrested and charged with first-degree murder. Soon after, Hot Springs authorities re-open the investigation into Cathie Ward's death.

Snake Eyes is the first book to examine this decades-old murder and cover-up, and the only in-depth account of the man who would become the town's most notorious villain. Featuring personal interviews, crime scene records, court documents, and Davis' own prison files, author and lifelong Hot Springs resident Bitty Martin reveals the true story for the first time.

Bitty Martin has worked in research, executive leadership, financial marketing and advertising in Hot Springs and was a member of the Little Rock, Arkansas, media community in print and TV sales with the Arkansas Times magazine, KATV – Channel 7/ABC affiliate and the Arkansas Democrat-Gazette statewide newspaper.

Returning to school to earn a nursing degree, Bitty became a registered nurse and has worked across America as a traveling operating room nurse for the past two decades. She is the founder of a private national nursing network for highly specialized rapid response nurses and is nationally known among America's 3.8 million nurses and nationwide staffing companies.

Bitty currently lives in her hometown, Hot Springs, and is a board member of the Garland County Historical Society, where she uses her love for Hot Springs historical research along with her media and sales background to benefit the community organization.

MARIE MACCAGNO

Marie Maccagno is passionate about walking, the great outdoors, and chocolate. In the spring of 2009, she made a commitment to walk 800 kilometers through Spain in the hopes she could eat all the chocolate she could find. What she didn't expect to find was herself. A walk that long gives a person a lot of time to think. Marie's mind dished out big lessons around forgiving her mother, entertaining the idea of possibly leaving her husband, and honoring herself as a parent. One step at a time is how Marie completed the Camino de Santiago and learned to love herself after all the years of inner self-hate.

"I can choose my own path: that's what Marie's journey has taught me. Her words will transport you to a place where you know you can choose too -- and that's a rare gift. When you read her book, you will be so glad you walked this path with her!"

-Michele Gunderson, Ph.D., Best-selling author and Breakthrough Story Expert

"Marie's book took me on a journey of her very personal quest - and I recognized myself in her story: difficult family relationships, questions about marriage, and not liking who I am. I am very grateful she did all the walking for me, and chose to share her wisdom in this powerful creative memoir!"

-Yvonne Basten, Executive Managing Director Calgary, eWomenNetwork Inc

Marie has been writing since she could make pencil squiggles on paper. She has an abiding curiosity and desire to explore. After walking the Camino de Santiago in northern Spain, Marie followed a path to reclaim her voice. Writing was her route to deeper healing and transformation. She is now a midwife for writers, supporting the birth of words and stories in writing retreats and one-on-one coaching. Marie has a gift for deep listening and nurturing the inner life of the writer, guiding each person to loving their words.

THE FRONTLINE CEO

TURN EMPLOYEES INTO DECISION MAKERS

WHO INNOVATE SOLUTIONS,
WIN CUSTOMERS, AND BOOST PROFITS

ERIC STRAFEL

FORMER CEO OF AVIALL
AND FOUNDER OF SUMMI7

THE FRONTLINE CEO

ERIC STRAFEL

The pace of the change in the world today is so great that no company can afford to wait to respond to new developments. They need intelligent, efficient decision making, and the most intelligent and efficient decision making doesn't come from executives -- it comes from the employees on the frontlines. Frontline employees are the ones who interact with customers and have the ability to see and respond to the shifting landscape before anyone else.

Almost every company still relies on a top-down leadership strategy, where a small nucleus of people makes the majority of the decisions and passes them down. This works fine for start-ups, when the business is so small that the leadership core has direct access to the situation on the ground. As a business grows, however, new layers of employees are introduced and the top-level executives at the decision-making core become insulated from the information they need to make the best decisions. Thus, they begin to lose touch with the basis of their company's success: the customer and the customer's needs. At the same time, these highest-level managers must oversee an ever-expanding set of employees and projects. How could they possibly juggle the growing business while still keeping their hand firmly on the pulse of their customers' needs? The answer is, simply, they can't.

Once a company reaches a certain size, to be able to continue to grow or, in some cases even to stay where they are, its leadership needs to reconsider its approach to strategy. While this problem is prevalent among large corporations, it also can negatively affect almost any size business that has graduated from the start-up phase and is thrown into the competitive waters, fighting to survive. Success goes to the ones that remain customer-focused and authentic to their purpose-- but many fail to make the transition.

The organizations that are best able to thrive, grow and increase profits during this era of rapid change will be the ones who not only realize that everyone, from the CEO down to the lowest level employee is a leader, but figure out a way to capitalize on that knowledge and use it to grow, The information in this book will show you how.

Eric Strafel's model of helping big corporations lead from the front lines developed over a 20-year period of practice and refining scalable leadership to the point where, in 2020, he was appointed Boeing's Head of Strategy and Innovation, a $20 billion department with 25,000 employees. He has received the Pros to Know Award in 2019 and The Patriot Award in 2013. He sits on the Board of Directors of the Texas Diversity Council. He holds an MBA from Carnegie Mellon, a BA of Mechanical Engineering from Binghamton University.

Unfear

Transform Your Organization

Unfear

Gaurav Bhatnagar and Mark Minukas

Two top experts on high-performing organizations show today's leaders how to reframe their own and their employees' relationship with fear and anxiety to create a learning culture of engaged workers at the top of their game.

Fear and uncertainty have been undermining performance and well-being in the workplace for as long as we have had workplaces. Worse, the ever-increasing speed of business, the economic slowdown and volatility we face due to Covid-19, as well as racial tensions and social inequality further exacerbate these emotions.

Here's a little-known fact of business: mismanaged fear is responsible for almost all of the dysfunction that most organizations experience. While fear can drive short-term results, it does so at the cost of high employee burnout and turnover. It also undermines long-term business performance. But we can't eradicate it entirely; it is inherent to the human condition. Winning organizations aren't fear-free; they know how to transform that negative energy into opportunities for learning and growth. They create resilient cultures of unfear.

In this timely and essential guide, McKinsey alumni Gaurav Bhatnagar and Mark Minukas present a proven approach to workplace anxiety that reduces stress, boosts well-being, and overcomes blocks that get in the way of success. It begins with changing our relationship with fear, and then developing strategies that improve outlook and performance, leading to greater profits, sustainable growth, and personal rewards. It's only possible with a culture of unfear.

Gaurav Bhatnagar is the founder of Co-Creation Partners and has dedicated more than two decades to helping companies thrive and achieve breakthrough performance. Since founding Co-Creation Partners in 2010, he has designed and led programs and workshops for private, public, and social-sector clients across multiple industries, including financial services, basic materials, manufacturing, healthcare, and technology.

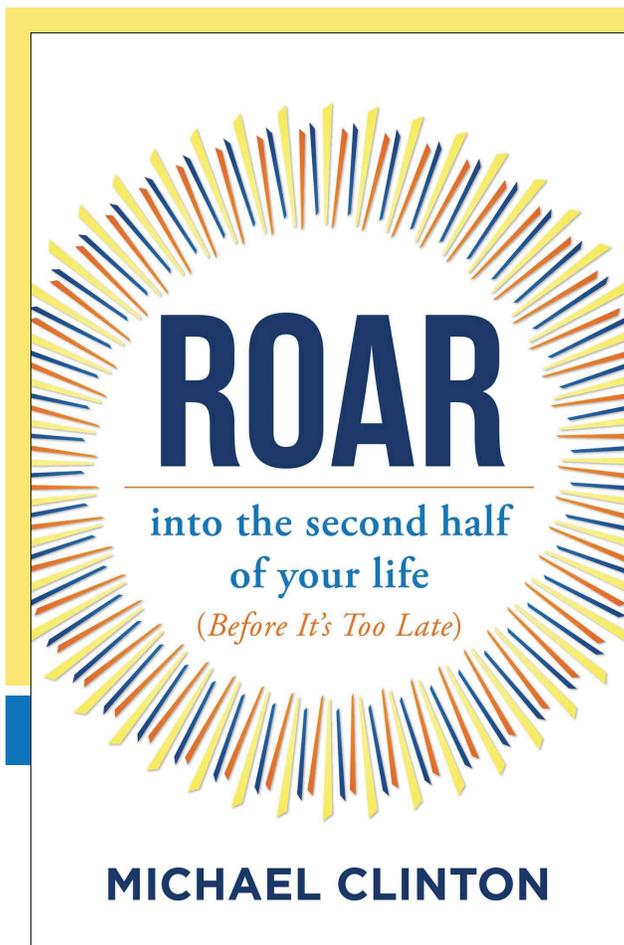

Mark Minukas is the managing partner of Co-Creation Partners. An engineer by training, he began his career as a Navy officer. In 2005, he brought his experience to McKinsey and Company. There, he mastered the technical aspect of organizational transformation and process improvement, as well as the cultural side of transformation. Since leaving McKinsey to join Co-Creation Partners, Mark has worked across multiple industries, including financial services, high tech, biotech manufacturing, IT services, and governmental offices, to deliver both top- and bottom-line improvements and build high-performing operations.

HOW TO RECRUIT,

THE NEWEST GENERATION
IN THE WORKPLACE

Managing Generation Z

ROBIN PAGGI & KAT CLOWES

A new generation is entering the American workforce—Gen Z, the age cohort born after 1996. Having grown up with smartphones, social media, emoji-speak, helicopter parenting, and no expectation of privacy, Gen Z has a unique culture and working style that can be baffling to their Millennial, Gen X, and Baby Boomer managers.

In Managing Generation Z, Robin Paggi, a veteran HR manager, and Kat Clowes, an educational consultant who has worked with hundreds of Gen Z'ers, join forces to give employers and managers a practical, easy-to-understand guide to the new generation defining the future of work. Based on Clowes's in-depth knowledge of Gen Z habits and Paggi's real-world experience of how generational miscommunications can cause expensive personnel problems, Managing Generation Z gives managers at all levels a plan for getting quality work from Gen Z employees while avoiding cultural clashes at the office.

Gen Z is highly educated, extraordinarily tech-savvy, eager to meet expectations, and loyal to employers, but many Gen Z workers have never been trained in the basics of professionalism, workplace communication, and the unwritten social rules older generations instinctively expect. Managing Generation Z teaches managers how to bridge the communication styles between Gen Z and older colleagues, how to train Gen Z staff to make work objectives clear, and how to evaluate and correct Gen Z employees so they will listen, accept, learn, and improve.

Like having an expert HR manager at your fingertips, Managing Generation Z is essential reading for both front-line supervisors and C-level executives who want to get the most from the newest generation in the workforce.

FRAGILE CONFIDENCE

Finding the Courage to Win at Work,
Live with Joy, and Lead with Compassion

By Homaira Kabir, MAPPCP

Why are so many competent women afraid or unwilling to take risks and speak up in the workplace? And why, despite the time, effort and money invested in women's advancement, has there been little to no change in women's representation in the C-Suite for more than a decade?

In FRAGILE CONFIDENCE, Homaira Kabir provides a psychological explanation (and solution) to these workplace quandaries that have been overlooked by most self-help books on women's leadership, and is missing in nearly all business leadership programs.

The book identifies two types of high confidence—Fragile and Optimal—with fragile confidence disproportionately affecting women and getting in the way of their success as they rise in seniority. As a result, many competent women live and work in a state of frustration, or are giving up on their ambitions—a sad loss of a large talent pool that can help businesses increase their bottom line. The hard-fought battle for women's empowerment has stalled and the solution lies in building Optimal Confidence.

Written in Homaira's empathetic voice, FRAGILE CONFIDENCE explains why competent women fall apart when criticized, suppress their own needs to meet those of others, continually seek out praise, let colleagues take credit for their ideas, and not go for the promotion they deserve. It will explain how these behaviors, which are rooted in feelings of low self-worth, are sabotaging women in the workplace (even though they may have fueled their success early in their careers).

The book offers strategies for letting go of common FC "addictions," such as the need for control, the "disease to please," or the desire to prove oneself by adopting a stereotypical male attitude. FRAGILE CONFIDENCE addresses the needs of two demographics: mid-career women who are burning themselves out trying to succeed and successful women who feel silenced by their male colleagues. These women are losing their confidence and at risk for making rash decisions they will regret or that will sabotage their potential.

Homaira was among the first to receive a MAPPCP, a dual master's degree in positive psychology (the science of a meaningful life) and in coaching psychology (the science of an optimal life) at The University of East London, England. While doing postgraduate research on women's confidence in the workplace, she discovered that those who possess Optimal Confidence (OC) have the most positive short- and long-term professional success and psychological wellbeing. Later, she developed a framework for OC that she tested in randomized, controlled trials with hundreds of professional women around the world. The results are the basis for her private practice, workshops, articles, and this book.

Through her extensive writing platform that reaches tens of thousands of women, including Happify.com (over 3 million users), Forbes.com (up to 20,000 views / article), and Thrive Global (cross-platform reach of 32 million), Homaira has expanded the conversation about women's confidence from one that no longer serves them to one that's aligned with a longing to pursue their vision of success, despite systemic barriers and biases.

BODY AWARE

Change Your Movement, Change Your Life

Weica Hornthal, MS, LCPC, BC, DMT

What most of the world doesn't know is that our bodies—and how we move our bodies—play a direct role in how we operate mentally and emotionally. How we move and how we engage in movement directly impacts our mental health.

When we change how we move, we literally change our lives. Our habits and behaviors are engrained not just in our minds, but in our bodies. When we address the body we have a greater ability to make lasting changes. Essentially, how you move your body determines who you are.

We live in a day and age where we are disconnected from our bodies. We rely on technology to remind us to move, and yet, if we listened, we could figure that out on our own. We have a mental health crisis, anxiety and stress are at an all time high, especially among our youth, and it's not a coincidence that we have also decreased the amount of movement in our days. We reserve movement to a yoga class or the gym, but there is potential for movement everywhere and thus potential to live more embodied and emotionally regulated lives.

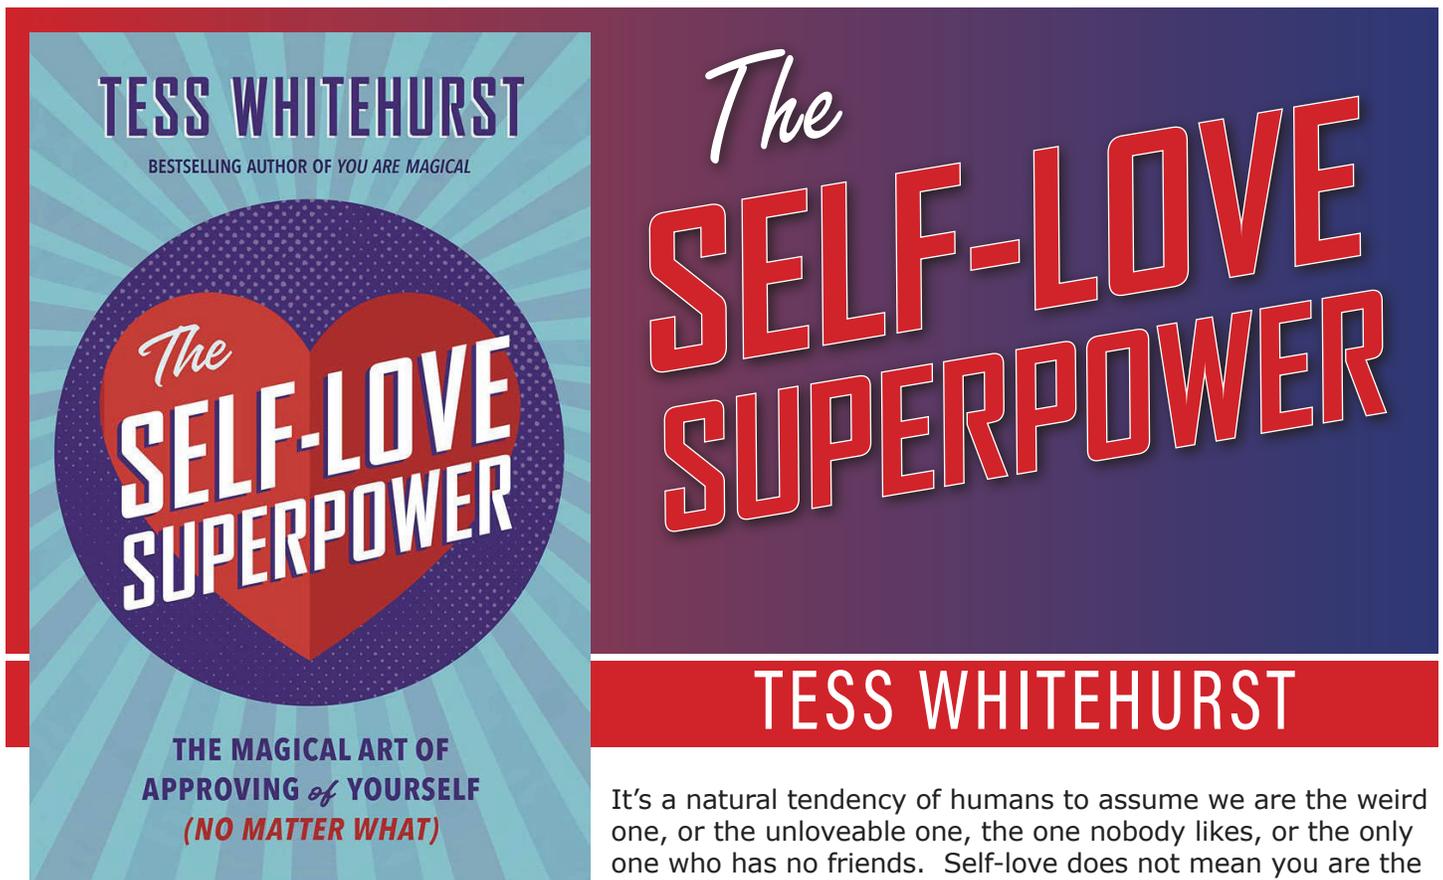

As "The Therapist Who Moves You," I have truly changed the way people see movement with regard to mental health. I have been recognized by Maria Shriver's Women's Alzheimer's Movement as a woman making a difference in the fight against Alzheimer's. I also won the 2018 Global Excellence Award in the Alternative Medicine and Holistic Health Category from Global Health & Pharma. Both of those distinctions reinforce my dedication and commitment to this work. As a licensed clinical professional counselor and a board-certified dance/movement therapist, I approach mental health from a body-centered perspective. Dance/movement therapy is a psychotherapy that takes the focus off verbal communication and puts the person in the driver's seat by accessing their most powerful tool for communication: the body. Dance/movement therapy, despite the name, is not about dance. A participant is not required to be a dancer, have any previous dance experience, or any coordination for that matter. It is about using movement, a core component of dance, to express our innermost thoughts, desires, and needs. Furthermore, it is about uncovering what is too deep to express through words alone.

While this may seem like new information, dance/movement therapists have known about this for decades and I want to share those trade secrets. Dance/movement therapy, while it places an emphasis on "dance," is more about the use of movement and the body's language as an inherent form of expression.

The SELF-LOVE SUPERPOWER

TESS WHITEHURST

It's a natural tendency of humans to assume we are the weird one, or the unloveable one, the one nobody likes, or the only one who has no friends. Self-love does not mean you are the best thing to ever arrive on the planet, the one who has all relationships figured out; or that the world owes you special favors.

Self-love means believing you have a right to be here exactly as you are, you are allowed to value your own happiness over what the world tells you about who you should be or what your life should look like. When we are able to encourage ourselves with love and don't demand perfection, we improve our performance, our relationships and life feels better!

- self-love helps you hear your intention clearly and bring about positive change in your world
- helps you respect and believe in yourself
- brings genuine excitement and enthusiasm for the things you care about

When you learn to love yourself, you can navigate the challenging aspects of this life and cultivate the pleasant and transcendent things. Learning to love yourself is a process. By the end of this book - each chapter contains practical action steps - you will be able to lean into challenge, breathe through pain, develop patience in impossible situations, respond to mistakes with love and forgiveness, and truly experience the joy you will find all around you.

Tess Whitehurst teaches magical and intuitive arts in live workshops and via her online community and learning hub, the Good Vibe Tribe Online School of Magical Arts. An award-winning author, she's written eight books, which have been translated into eighteen languages. ## Social-Emotional Learning Lab

A Comprehensive SEL Resource Kit

Victoria Poedubicky | Maurice J. Elias

Social-Emotional Learning Lab: A Comprehensive SEL Resource Kit provides students with concrete skills to help them think rationally in the emotionally charged, stressful situations that children face every day. This valuable resource helps school counselors, psychologists, and social workers, as well as educators and after-school program providers by giving students the tools and skills needed to deal with the stressors occurring in and out of school. Counselors and educators use this important tool to help students achieve personally, socially, academically, and vocationally. This curriculum is designed to complement and enhance any program that addresses both self-awareness and social skills by focusing on self-control, cooperative skills for working within groups, problem-solving, decision-making, and everyday skill application. The Lab can also function as a stand-alone in schools where there are no social-emotional programs being implemented. The Manual, the Decision-Making Guide, and the handouts to create your Lab Kit will assist you through the step-by-step process of initiating and implementing the SEL Lab in your setting. You will find all the forms, worksheets, games, and activity instructions you will need, available for photocopying, or you can download the Lab Kit materials. Note, the book is coil-bound. # THE GREAT WAR AND THE BIRTH OF MODERN MEDICINE

THOMAS HELLING, MD

A startling narrative revealing the impressive medical and surgical advances that quickly developed as solutions to the horrors unleashed by World War I.

The Great War of 1914-1918 burst on the European scene with a brutality to mankind not yet witnessed by the civilized world. Modern warfare was no longer the stuff of chivalry and honor; it was a mutilative, deadly, and humbling exercise to wipe out the very presence of humanity. Suddenly, thousands upon thousands of maimed, beaten, and bleeding men surged into aid stations and hospitals with injuries unimaginable in their scope and destruction. Doctors scrambled to find some way to salvage not only life but limb.

The Great War and the Birth of Modern Medicine provides a startling and graphic account of the efforts of teams of doctors and researchers to quickly develop medical and surgical solutions. Those problems of gas gangrene, hemorrhagic shock, gas poisoning, brain trauma, facial disfigurement, broken bones, and broken spirits flooded hospital beds, stressing caregivers and prompting medical innovations that would last far beyond the Armistice of 1918 and would eventually provide the backbone of modern medical therapy.

Thomas Helling's description of events that shaped refinements of medical care is a riveting account of the ingenuity and resourcefulness of men and women to deter the total destruction of the human body and human mind. His tales of surgical daring, industrial collaboration, scientific discovery, and utter compassion provide an understanding of the horror that laid a foundation for the medical wonders of today. The marvels of resuscitation, blood transfusion, brain surgery, X-rays, and bone setting all had their beginnings on the battlefields of France. The influenza contagion in 1918 was an ominous forerunner of the frightening pandemic of 2020-2021.

Thomas Helling, MD, is Professor of Surgery and head of General Surgery at the University of Mississippi in Jackson. He has vast experience in military medicine, trauma, and critical care. With this clinical experience and understanding of the evolution of military surgery, Helling lends a unique perspective to twentieth century combat casualty care. He lives in Jackson, Mississippi.

THE APPALACHIAN TRAIL

PHILIP D'ANIERI

The Appalachian Trail is America's most beloved trek, with millions of hikers setting foot on it every year. Yet few are aware of the fascinating backstory of the oddballs and obsessives who helped bring it to life over the past century.

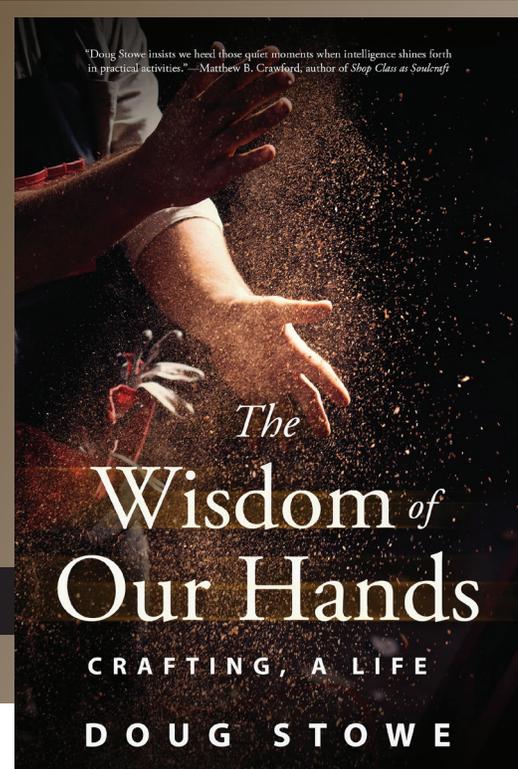

The conception and building of the Appalachian Trail is a story of unforgettable characters who explored it, defined it, and captured national attention by hiking it. From Grandma Gatewood—a mother of twelve who thru-hiked in canvas sneakers and a drawstring duffle—to Bill Bryson, author of the best-selling A Walk in the Woods, the AT has seized the American imagination like no other hiking path. The 2,000-mile-long hike from Georgia to Maine is not just a trail through the woods, but a set of ideas about nature etched in the forest floor. This character-driven biography of the trail is a must-read not just for ambitious hikers, but for anyone who wonders about our relationship with the great outdoors and dreams of getting away from urban life for a pilgrimage in the wild.

PHILLIP D'ANIERI teaches courses on the built environment at the University of Michigan. He worked in public radio journalism and state government before earning a PhD in urban and regional planning at Michigan. He lives in Ann Arbor.

The Wisdom of Our Hands

DOUG STOWE

"For decades now, Doug Stowe has been one of the most humane voices in education. He insists we heed those quiet moments when intelligence shines forth in practical activities. He shows that they hold clues to our nature that normally lie beneath the notice of our obsessive schooling and credentialing, but are indispensable to a good life." -Matthew B. Crawford, author of Shop Class as Soulcraft

Many of us live in a world of constant abstraction, immersed in our heads and our screens. But there is a deeper wisdom to be found in working with our hands in the real world. In The Wisdom of Our Hands, craftsman and educator Doug Stowe shows how working with our hands, either professionally or as a hobby, is essential for a full education and a full life.

Based on his 45 years as a woodworker and 25 years as a teacher of handcrafts, Stowe argues that human beings have a natural need to express themselves creatively through tangible work. The use of one's hands and whole body to make physical things and reshape our surroundings promotes both physical and mental health and fosters a sense of mastery in both young and adult students.

A life of craftsmanship offers the opportunity and obligation to define one's own values. Drawing on his experiences living and working in Eureka Springs, Arkansas, a town dedicated to handcrafts and arts, Stowe demonstrates how craft work can create community, forge deeper social bounds, and foster a saner attitude about the value of human labor and material goods.

Written for everyone who wants to reconnect with the deep experience of the human body at work, The Wisdom of Our Hands is a quietly radical call to spiritual (and physical) action.

Doug Stowe began his career as a woodworker in 1976, making custom furniture and small boxes. He lives on a wooded hillside at the edge of Eureka Springs, Arkansas and specializes in the use of Arkansas hardwoods. He is the author of 13 books and over 80 articles on woodworking. In 2001, Stowe began a woodworking program at the Clear Spring School, designed to integrate woodworking activities to stimulate and reinforce academic curriculum, restoring the rationale for the use of crafts in general education and demonstrating its effectiveness. In 2009 he was named an "Arkansas Living Treasure" by the Arkansas Department of Heritage and Arkansas Arts Council for his contributions to traditional crafts and craft education. Stowe also teaches at the Eureka Springs School of the Arts and the Marc Adams School of Woodworking and at woodworking clubs throughout the United States.

WITHOUT RESTRAINT

“ [an] ...exciting look into the world of skiing and mountaineering offered in WITHOUT RESTRAINT, as well as its beautiful depiction of the growth of a father-son relationship.”

Combining the thrilling extreme sporting adventure of Free Solo with the heartfelt honesty of growing up with autism depicted in Atypical, WITHOUT RESTRAINT is the story of a father’s unlikely discovery of his son’s prodigious talent for skiing that ultimately saved his son’s life.

Ryan DeLena’s childhood was a complicated one. His eidetic memory, penchant for brutal honesty, and defiance led to a diagnosis of Pervasive Developmental Disorder. When public preschools weren’t equipped to manage him, his father, Rob, and mother, Mary Beth, enrolled him in a private “therapeutic” school program, a decision that locked Ryan into an educational system that relied on destructive methods of behavior modification. Fortunately, when Ryan was seven years old, Rob made an impulsive decision to kill a few hours at a local ski hill. Within his first lesson, Ryan was barreling down black diamond slopes. Ryan’s newfound obsession—and Rob’s apparent death wish—led them to extreme ski runs around the world. With each conquest, Ryan blossomed, and Rob learned not only to appreciate his strengths, but also to understand and accept his quirks. Soon, Ryan was no longer a child with a disability; he was a world class ski mountaineer. Emboldened, Rob decided to fight the medical and educational industrial complexes over the decisions made about Ryan’s care—and won.

HEALING AFTER NARCISSISTIC ABUSE

DEBBIE MIRZA

If you have experienced Narcissistic Abuse, you may come to realize you are experiencing loss of joy, vitality and enthusiastic engagement with life. You may no longer be able to even notice the very things that once brought you pleasure in your life.

Your self-esteem and self-worth at times feels non-existent after receiving ongoing devaluing and demeaning behavior. Your physical body is affected, as well. Many survivors have health issues, often chronic conditions that affect how they are able to live and function in the world. Many find themselves becoming more reclusive after these relationships, feeling a new distrust of others and the world around them. It is common to have symptoms of complex PTSD, such as reliving traumatic experiences through flashbacks, feeling like you are on a continual state of high alert, being jumpy and sensitive to stimuli, having difficulty sleeping, feeling toxic guilt and shame, having a lack of emotional regulation, and feeling like you are permanently damaged or worthless.

If you have been with a narcissist, you have most likely been told that there are so many things wrong with you that you need to change in order for you to be deserving of love, kindness, and respect. Many survivors reach places inside themselves where they question if they are even worthy of basic kindness. This type of abuse can take you to depths of despair that make you wonder if you will ever be able to recover. "Is it even possible to heal after these relationships?" one woman in our support group asked. I have personally been to those depths of despair in my own life. I have experienced everything I mentioned above and more, as I am sure many of you have. I know this pain and confusion well.

This book will help you heal and rediscover the person you truly are.

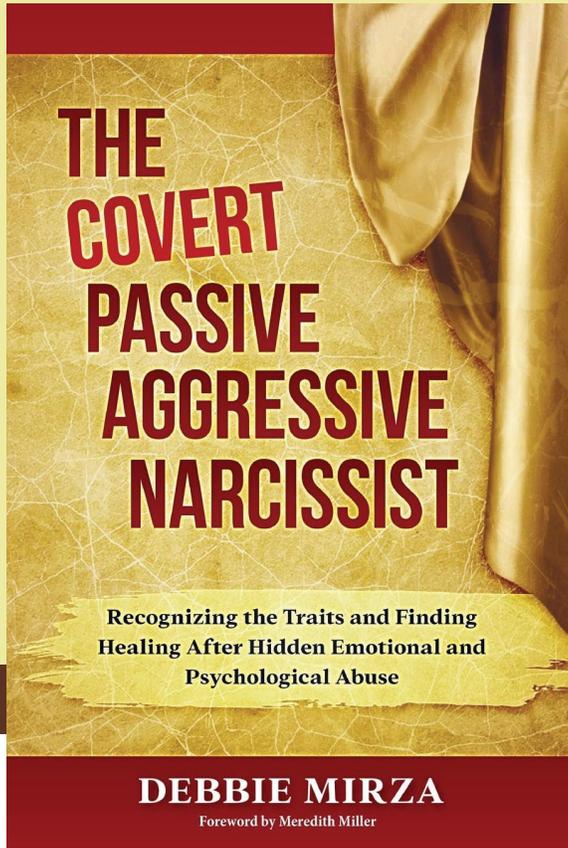

Debbie Mirza is a restorative coach, author, and singer/songwriter. She feels a deep calling to bring more peace, calm, and healing to the world through her music, books, and coaching.

In her coaching practice, she works with people who are coming out of relationships with covert narcissists. Her new book, The Covert Passive Aggressive Narcissist: Finding Healing After Hidden Emotional and Psychological Abuse explains the traits of the most insidious type of narcissist, how they affect you, and how to heal.

WIND, FIRE, AND ICE

The Perils of A Coast Guard Icebreaker in Antarctica

ROBERT M. BUNES, M.D.

In 1969, during the Viet Nam War, Robert Bunes MD volunteered to serve as a doctor aboard a United States Coast Guard icebreaker bound for Antarctica. As ship's doctor, he was an essential worker. His major responsibility was for the health and welfare of the crew.

Dr. Bunes specifically asked to be assigned to THE GLACIER because it was the largest, toughest and most powerful icebreaker in the free world. Operation Deep Freeze wasn't a glorious expedition. It was supposed to be a simple and modest mission. Part of the task was to open a channel for supply ships going to the US Naval base on the Antarctic Peninsula. It was also to provide logistical support for research scientists, including some that stayed on the ship.

The crew understood the deployment would expose them to certain inevitable and unavoidable risks such as sailing into iceberg filled, uncharted waters. The Coast Guard did not consider the mission particularly dangerous for a large icebreaker. But no deployment deep into the Weddell Sea should ever be considered "routine." Soon THE GLACIER found itself trapped in the ice, one hundred miles from open water. Ironically seventy miles and fifty years later from Sir Ernest Shackleton's ill-fated ship, THE ENDURANCE, and the most heroic and epic expedition in Antarctica's history.

It became apparent that THE GLACIER would have to winter over. One thing was certain, the crew's orders did not include wintering over in the cold, dark, Antarctic night.

ROBERT M BUNES, M.D grew up in a suburb of Minnesota and served his internship in California, where a doctor off-handedly advised him to join the Coast Guard in order to see exotic places. Public Health Service Doctors serving with the Coast Guard in 1969 did not receive an introductory military training. As medical professionals, they were not expected to always follow military protocol, however both doctors and the Coast Guard have the same goal: to save lives. Dr. Bunes has served faithfully in the Public Health Service for his entire medical career.

RUNNING THE DREAM

MATT FITZGERALD

Praise for Matt Fitzgerald:

"Anyone, whether pro or everyday exercisers, can use these tactics to push further" -Men's Journal

"Fitzgerald is going to go down as one of the most competent and prolific authors of books for serious runners covering just about every legitimate aspect of the all-important runner's lifestyle." -Letsrun.com

"A book that every endurance athlete should own...A page-turning read both for the narrative content and hard information...For all athletes drawn to pushing up against the red line to see what they've got." -LAVA magazine

Matt Fitzgerald has already made a name for himself in the endurance sport community with books like 80/20 Running, How Bad Do You Want It? and Iron War. He is an accomplished amateur runner, but if he follows the training, nutrition and lifestyle of an elite runner, just how fast could he go? He is approaching his mid-forties, so the time to do this is now. He at last has the financial means to do nothing but train. He accepts the goodwill of a friend who will let him crash at his apartment in the running mecca of Flagstaff, Arizona, and convinces the coach of Northern Arizona Elite, one of the country's premier professional running teams, to let him train with a roster of national champions and Olympic hopefuls for an entire summer leading in to the Chicago Marathon.

The results were astounding...Filled with a vibrant cast of characters, rigorous and gut-wrenching training, Matt's knowledgeable yet self-deprecating voice allows us to vicariously live out our own fantasies of having the opportunity to go all the way. Yet for the runners Matt trains with, it's no mere fantasy, but a calling and their individual stories enrich this inspiring narrative. Running the Dream is a chance for us all to experience a bit of this rarified and wild world, and to take away pieces of this amazing journey to try to achieve our own potential.

Matt Fitzgerald is an acclaimed endurance sports and nutrition writer and a certified sports nutritionist. He is the bestselling author of more than a dozen books on running and fitness, including 80/20 Running, How Bad Do You Want It, Racing Weight, and Iron War, which was longlisted for the William Hill Sports Book of the Year and Diet Cults, also available from Pegasus Books. # RUN LIKE A PRO

(even if you're slow)

MATT FITZGERALD

"Fitzgerald is going to go down as one of the most competent and prolific authors of books for serious runners covering just about every legitimate aspect of the all-important runner's lifestyle." -Letsrun.com

From one of the world's most respected and successful running authors, Matt Fitzgerald, this is the first book that rigorously describes current best practices in elite running, showing everyday runners how to adopt them within the limits of their physical ability, lifestyle and budget. Sidebars contributed by Ben Rosario, head coach of Flagstaff-based Northern Arizona Elite professional running team and one of the hottest running coaches today, are included throughout the book.

Most recreational runners, unlike amateurs in other sports do not often look to elites for guidance despite the fact that elites use the best science to improve their performance. They sequence their training, cross-train, perform 80 percent of their training at low intensity and adhere to an 80/20 balance.

RUN LIKE A PRO shows the reader how to master the art of pacing, improve stride and efficiency, recover, eat for maximum performance, and shares critical tips to think like a pro.

The book includes training plans for the 5K, 10K Half-Marathon, and Ultra-Marathon.

THE RUNNING BUM

What I Learned one Summer Living, Training & Racing
With a Team of World Class Runners Half My Age

MATT FITZGERALD

Running is, after all, a sport, and regardless of natural ability, men and women who develop a passion for it want to find out how much faster they can get.

Unable to come up with a reason why acclaimed endurance sports author Matt Fitzgerald should not chase the dream, he persuaded the coach of Northern Arizona Elite to accept him as a fully participating member of his roster of national champions and Olympic hopefuls for an entire summer leading up to the 2017 Chicago Marathon. Matt finished the race 144 overall and third in his age category with a new lifetime best.

But the true richness of Matt's Running Bum experience was in the journey itself. Matt formed close bonds with his elite teammates, all of whom were remarkable individuals. Matt Llano was the first openly gay professional runner in the United States. Rochelle Kanuho endured a traumatic childhood, briefly homeless as a teenager before bootstrapping her way to her current life situation. Futsum Zeinaselassie escaped to America from his war-torn homeland of Eritrea at age 13, speaking almost no English. Kellyn Taylor was training to become a professional firefighter at the same time she pursued her dream of making it to the Olympics while raising a daughter.

In the company of those extraordinary people, Matt experienced a lifetime of unforgettable moments in three short months as The Running Bum chronicles Matt's transformative journey as "fake professional runner." The book reads like a novel, featuring a strong sense of place, a vibrant cast of characters and a simple linear quest.

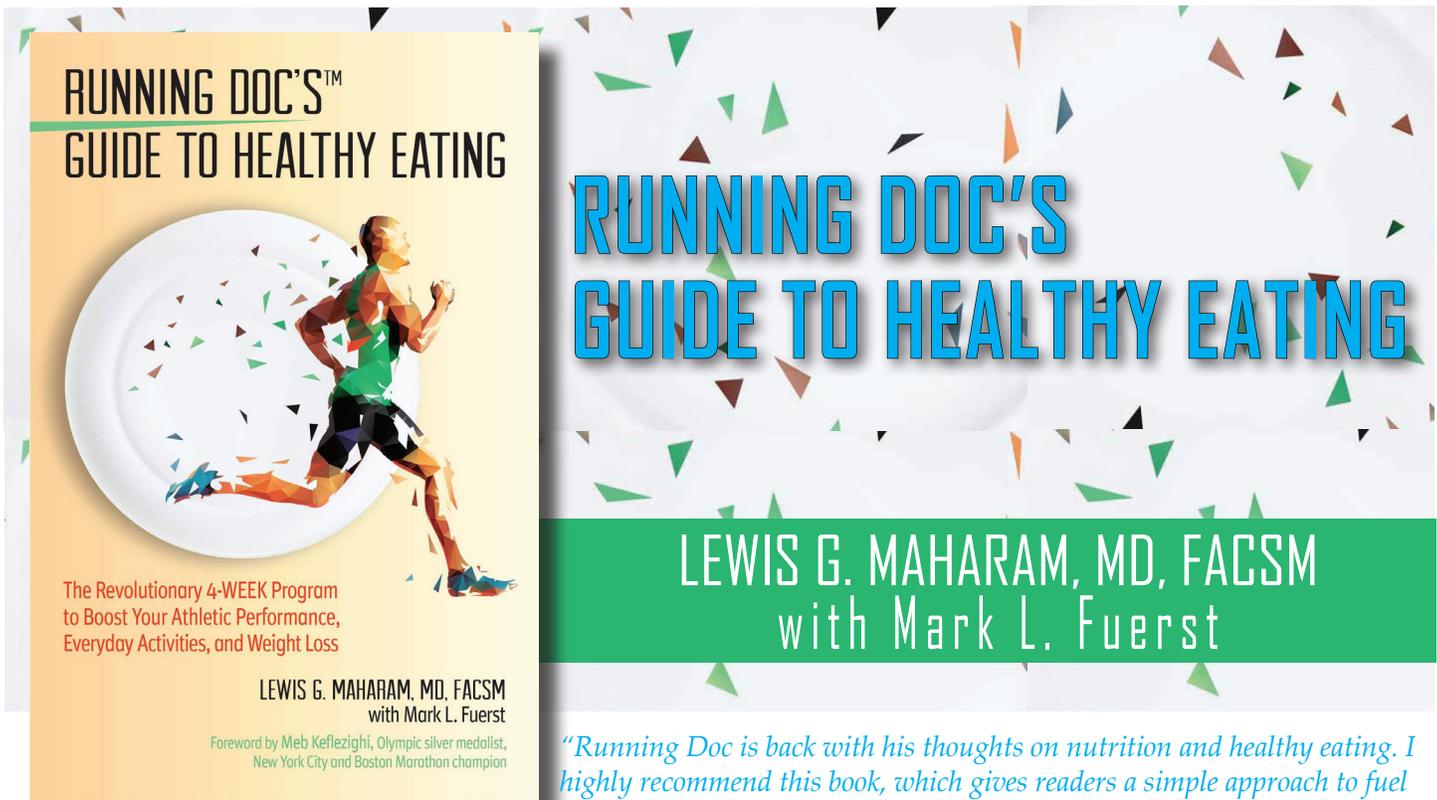

Matt Fitzgerald is an acclaimed endurance sports and nutrition writer and a certified sports nutritionist. “With this book, [The Running Doc] talks to you in a simple, easy to understand manner so you can eat healthy and perform better.” —Rod Dixon, four-time Olympian, Olympic medalist; two-time World Cross-Country medalist; New York City Marathon champion

In Running Doc’s Guide to Healthy Eating, readers will discover Dr. Lewis G. Maharam’s Fueling Plates Program. Developed in 2012, it has helped countless sofa spuds who just want to get off the couch and lose weight, marathoners competing for a place at the Olympic trials, and everyone in between, including recreational athletes who play tennis, soccer, basketball and other running sports. The Fueling Plates Program is designed to boost the performance of athletes, but can also improve the health of the average person, athletic or not.

Every day at Maharam’s busy New York City practice, in addition to treating sports injuries, he offers his patients nutritional advice. They ask him: “When should I eat before the marathon?” “Do I really need to drink eight glasses of water a day?” “What about sports drinks?” “Should I use Gingko?” “Glucosamine?” The questions come because the bulk of the sports-nutrition books make fueling your body sound like a scientific experiment. The Running Doc’s Guide to Healthy Eating explains why it’s time to ditch the difficult-to-use food pyramid put out by the USDA in favor of a hands-on experience of your actual plate – what Maharam calls Fueling Plates. It shows, step by step, how readers can apply the program to feel and perform better and have more energy. Those who are already exercising will get faster by eating to fuel their body more efficiently. Even everyday activities become easier with the Fueling Plates Program. Readers who are willing to take advantage of all that’s in the book, from what to eat to reduce muscle soreness after exercising to how much to drink to be hydrated, will transform their lives.

Dr. Lewis G. Maharam is the world’s premier running physician. He is medical director of Competitor Group’s Rock ‘n’ Roll Marathon series throughout the country and The Leukemia & Lymphoma Society’s Team in Training program. He also serves as Chairman of the Board of Governors, International Marathon Medical Directors Association.

Unraveling Bias

How Prejudice Has Shaped Children for Generations and Why It's Time to Break the Cycle

CHRISTIA SPEARS BROWN, PhD

Foreword by Soraya Chemaly award-winning author of Rage Becomes Her

Unraveling Bias:

Christia Spears Brown

We need only scan the latest news headlines to see how bias and prejudice harm adults and children alike--every single day. Police shootings that give rise to the Black Lives Matter revolution . . . rampant sexual harassment of women and the subsequent #MeToo movement . . . extreme violence toward trans men and women.

It would be easy to fix these problems if the examples stopped with a few racist or sexist individuals, but there are also biases embedded in our government policies, media, and institutions.

As a developmental psychologist and international expert on stereotypes and discrimination in children, Dr. Christia Spears Brown knows that biases and prejudice don't just develop as people become adults (or CEOs or politicians). They begin when children are young, slowly growing and exposed to prejudice in their classrooms, after-school activities, and, yes, even in their homes, no matter how enlightened their parents may consider themselves to be. The only way to have a more just and equitable world--not to mention more broad-minded, empathetic children--is for parents to closely examine biases beginning in childhood and how they infiltrate our kids' lives.

In her new book Unraveling Bias: How Prejudice Has Shaped Children for Generations and Why It's Time to Break the Cycle, Dr. Brown will uncover what scientists have learned about how children are impacted by biases, and how we adults can help protect them from those biases. Part science, part history, part current events, and part call to arms, Unraveling Bias provides readers with the answers to vital questions:

- How do biased policies, schools, and media harm our children?
- Where does childhood prejudice come from, and how do these prejudices shape children's behavior, goals, relationships, and beliefs about themselves?
- What can we learn from modern-day science to help us protect our children from these biases?

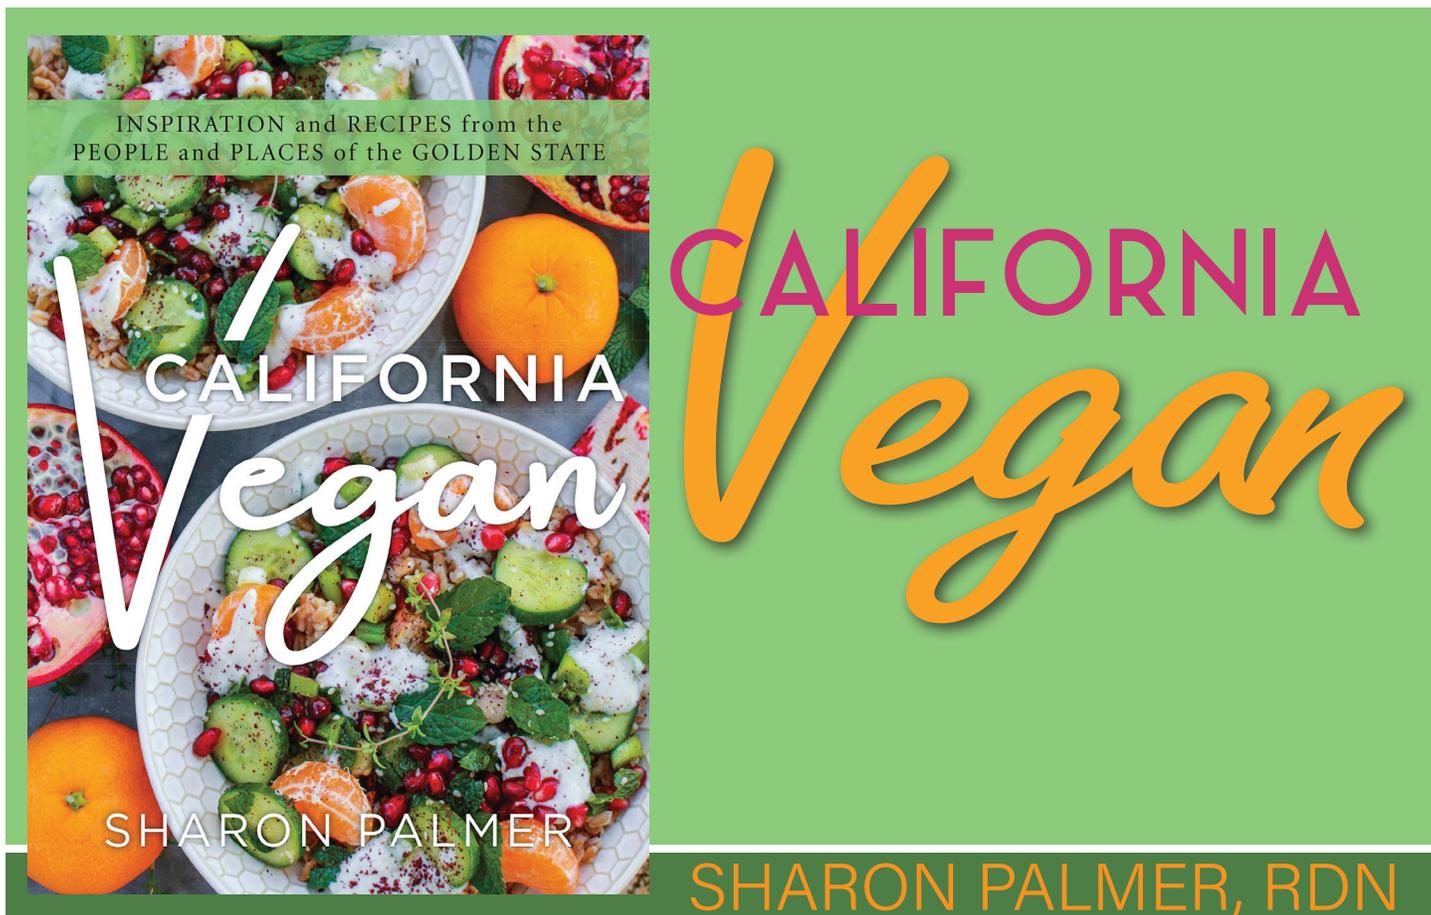

Few issues today are as critical as being aware of bias and prejudice all around us and making sure our kids don't succumb to them. To change lives and advance society, it's time to unravel our biases--starting with the future leaders of the world.

Christia Spears Brown, Ph.D., is a developmental psychologist and professor at the University of Kentucky. Her work on the impact of gender stereotypes on children and adolescents has been published widely in scientific journals and featured in numerous newspapers, magazines, local radio shows, NPR, and the CBS Evening News. She blogs regularly for Psychology Today in her column "Beyond Pink and Blue."

AUTOPSY OF A SUICIDAL MIND

EDWIN S. SHNEIDMAN

Autopsy of a Suicidal Mind is a uniquely intensive psychological analysis of a suicidal mind.

In this poignant scientific study, Edwin S. Shneidman, a founder of the field of suicidology, assembles an extraordinary cast of eight renowned experts to analyze the suicidal materials, including a ten-page suicide note, given to him by a distraught mother looking for insights into her son's tragic death. The psychological autopsy centers on the interviews conducted by Shneidman with Arthur's mother, father, brother, sister, best friend, ex-wife, girlfriend, psychotherapist, and attending physician.

To gain some understanding of this man's intense psychological pain and to examine what may have been done to save his tortured life, Shneidman approached the top suicide experts in the country to analyze the note and interviews: Morton Silverman, Robert E. Litman, Jerome Motto, Norman L. Farberow, John T. Maltsberger, Ronald Maris, David Rudd, and Avery D. Weisman. Each of the eight experts offers a unique perspective on Arthur's tragic fate, and the sum of their conclusions constitutes an extraordinary psychological autopsy.

This book is the first of its kind and a remarkable contribution to the study of suicide. Mental health professionals, students of human nature, and persons whose lives have been touched by this merciless topic will be mesmerized and enlightened by this unique volume. An epistemological tour de force, it will speak to anyone who is concerned with human self-destruction.

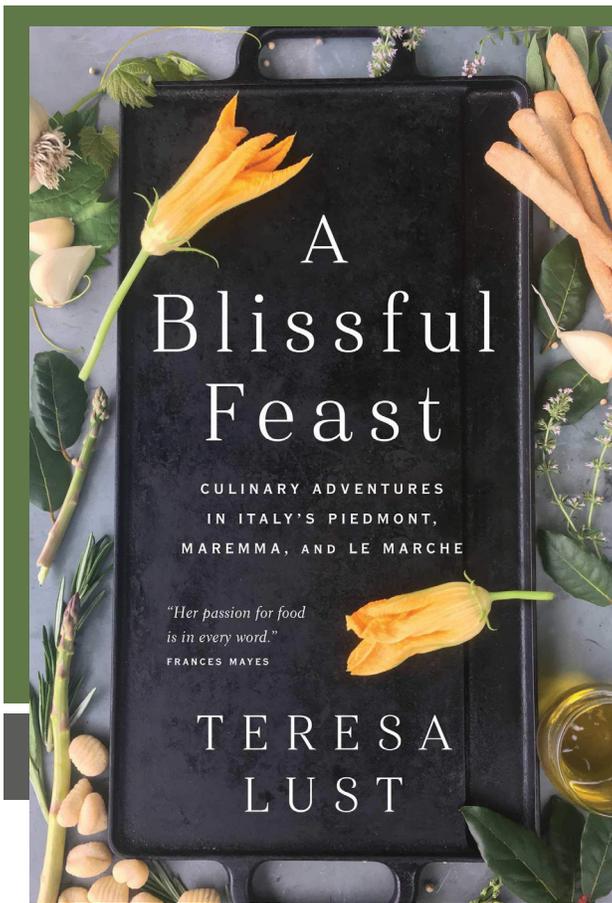

Edwin S. Shneidman was an American clinical psychologist, suicidologist and thanatologist. Together with Norman Farberow and Robert Litman, in 1958, he founded the Los Angeles Suicide Prevention Center, where the men were instrumental in researching suicide and developing a crisis center and treatments to prevent deaths.

In 1968, Shneidman founded the American Association of Suicidology and the principal United States journal for suicide studies, Suicide and Life Threatening Behavior. In 1970, he became Professor of Thanatology at the University of California, where he taught for decades. He published 20 books on suicide and its prevention.

A Blissful Feast

TERESA LUST

A delicious journey through Italy and a celebration of the relationship between family and food.

Moving from the Italian Piedmont to the Maremma and then to Le Marche, chef Teresa Lust interweaves portraits of the people who served as her culinary guides with cultural and natural history in this charming exploration of authentic Italian cuisine.

We learn how to prepare bagna cauda—a robust dipping sauce of anchovies, garlic, and olive oil—with Lust’s relatives outside Torino. We learn about making hand-stretched grissini, Italy’s iconic breadstick, the secrets of whipping up zabaione, a classic dessert of ethereal foam made with egg yolks, sugar, and marsala. Then there is acquacotta, a rustic soup that nourished generations of the area’s shepherds and cowhands. In the town of Camerano, an eighty-year-old woman reveals the art of hand-rolling pasta with a three-foot rolling pin.

Underpinning Lust’s travels is our journey from chef to cook, mirroring the fact that Italians have been masters of home cooking for generations, so they are an obvious source of inspiration. Today, more and more people are rediscovering the pleasures of cooking at home, and Lust’s account—and wonderful recipes—will help readers bring an Italian sensibility to their home tables.

Teresa Lust is the author of Pass the Polenta: and Other Writings from the Kitchen. She is a graduate of Washington State University and holds a master’s degree from Dartmouth College. Lust currently teaches Italian for the Rassias Center for World Languages at Dartmouth and teaches cooking classes. She lives in New Hampshire.

WHAT TO EAT

When You Want to

GET PREGNANT

NICOLE AVENA, PhD

Psychologist, nutrition expert and author Nicole Avena, PhD has conducted research on appetite and brain development for over 15 years, and in her new book, WHAT TO EAT WHEN YOU WANT TO GET PREGNANT, she shares her revolutionary new research on how nutrition impacts pregnancy and the ability to conceive. Her findings include these facts:

- The popular plant-based diets so many of us follow may actually include certain chemicals that can disrupt estrogen levels and interfere with fertility.
- Research suggests that prenatal environment can have a long-term effect on the health outcome of the baby, and there are many ways to help “prepare the womb” even before getting pregnant.
- Men’s nutrition is just as critical during this time as women’s, and there are ways men can boost their nutrition levels to enhance fertility
- ... and much, much more.

THE ULTIMATE College Student Health HANDBOOK

Jill Grimes, M.D. FAAFP

Gold Medal Winner of the 2020 Literary Titan Award!

The COVID pandemic has focused our attention on health like never before. Soon millions of students will begin or continue their college careers and be responsible for their own health and wellness. They will be dealing with anxiety, homesickness, hangovers and injuries. As a physician in the University Health Services at the University of Texas and mother of two college students, Grimes began writing helpful tips and creating first aid kits for common college ailments which steadily evolved into THE ULTIMATE COLLEGE STUDENT HEALTH HANDBOOK.

Not intended to replace your next doctor appointment, the book is armed with quality information to help students know when to seek medical help. It explains how to describe their condition, what questions to ask, and what dorm-friendly or off campus living tips might help before they are seen. Organized literally from head to toe, the book goes far beyond "Dr. Google" to provide the knowledge of evidence-based medicine every college student should know. It helps them plan for a worst-case scenario if they don't seek help; realize what you can do now to prevent seeing a doctor; understand the diagnostic and treatment options.

College students facing their first illness, accident, or anxiety away from home often flip-flop between wanting to handle it themselves and wishing their parents could swoop in and fix everything. Advice from peers and "Dr. Google" can be questionable. The Ultimate College Student Health Handbook provides accurate, trustworthy, evidence-based medical information (served with a dose of humor) to reduce anxiety and stress and help set appropriate expectations for more than fifty common issues.

The topics of tattoos, smoking, vaping, pot, piercings, and prescription drugs will also be tackled throughout the pages of this handbook, ensuring you, your roommates, and your friends have a healthy semester.

Jill Grimes MD FAAFP is a nationally recognized medical media expert, award-winning author and proud mom of two awesome collegiate daughters. After twenty years of private practice, Dr. Grimes now works at the University of Texas at Austin. She speaks at American Academy of Family Physicians, Pri-Med, and Harvard Medical School Conferences.

The All-American Crew

RUSSELL N. LOW

"Low is a talented storyteller who has woven engaging family tales into a greater American story of ten men from different lives and backgrounds who went to war and bonded into a tight crew, symbolic of an America that is uniquely able to forge strength from diversity." -Ted Gong, Executive Director and Founder, 1882 Foundation

On January 23, 1943, a B-24 Liberator bomber and its crew of ten men disappeared without a trace in New Guinea. Their families never knew what happened to them. Now, 80 years later, their long-forgotten letters and dusty photographs finally tell their story in The All-American Crew.

Stanley Low did not want to be a hero and would not have welcomed the description. A Chinese American kid from Salem, Oregon, who wasn't yet old enough to vote or drink beer, Stan joined the army because there was a war on and it was his duty. As Stan trains to become a bomber nose gunner and heads into combat, he experiences loneliness, racism, his first beer, his first romance, and the horrors of war. He also forms a tight bond with his crewmates, who come from every American ethnicity and walk of life, including Irish American pilot Scott Regan and Jewish American bombardier Jerome Lesser. The ten men of Stan's bomber crew—rich and poor, from old American families and recent immigrants—form an all-American crew whose dedication to the country and their team elevates them above their individual differences.

As the war heats up, Stan, his crewmates, and many other hastily trained bomber crews fly off dirt runways in the South Pacific, thousands of miles from the nearest allied base, fighting the forces of the Japanese Empire. The loss of life mounts at an alarming rate as many crews fail to return from missions. Those who survive quickly learn to fight. Now battle-hardened veterans, Stan and his crew fly toward their final rendezvous with destiny, willing to sacrifice everything for their country and each other.

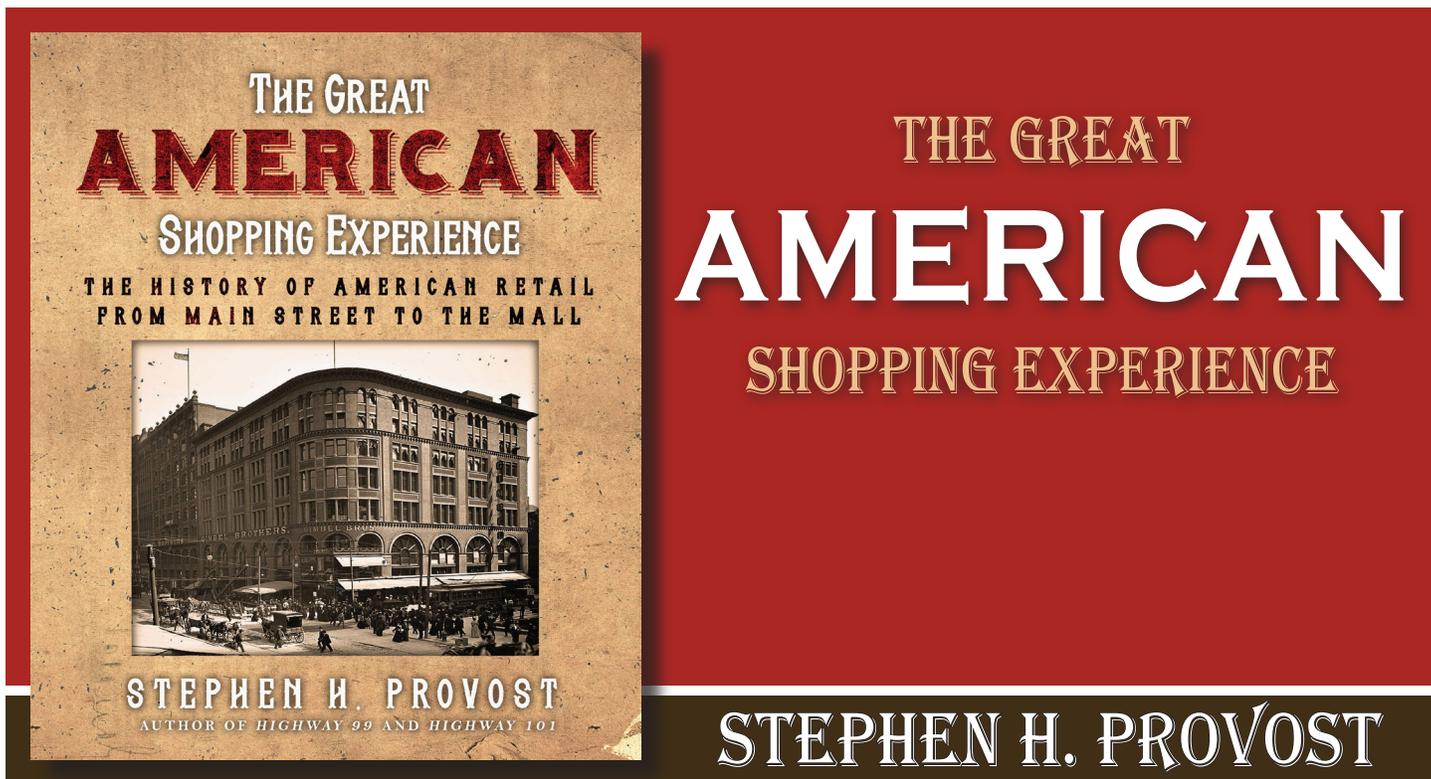

Celebrating American diversity and ideals of honor, bravery, and freedom, The All-American Crew is a magnificent true story of men at war.

Russell N. Low is the nephew of Stanley Low and a California-born fourth-generation Chinese American physician. Low is the author of Three Coins, which tells the story of his great-grandmother Ah Ying, who was enslaved as a child and trafficked to California, where she escaped from slavery with the help of her future husband, Hung Lai Wah, a worker on the transcontinental railroad. The story of Ah Ying, Hung Lai Wah, and their descendants has been featured on the History Channel, BBC Radio, National Public Radio, and the Voice of America, and is included in the California State Railroad Museum and the Smithsonian Museum of American History. Low lives in La Jolla, California.

A fun, nostalgic look at the great American stores of yesteryear and their rise and fall.

The wealthy and leisured lady of the 1920s shopped in a palatial downtown department store with a restaurant, beauty parlor, movie theater, and live orchestra—the harried suburban mom of today rushes her purchases through the self-checkout at the big box store. The Great American Shopping Experience explains how this transformation happened in a fascinating and entertaining history of the growth and decline of America’s massive retail empires.

From the humble 19th century dry goods store to the majestic department stores of the early 20th century to the shopping malls and outlet stores of today, The Great American Shopping Experience tells the romantic story of Americans’ relentless pursuit of the better bargain, surveying the changing fashions, social ideals, and marketing innovations that created shopping as we know it.

The Great American Shopping Experience also takes a nostalgic look back at the stores we loved, from the small regional stores that were gobbled up to the big chains that still survive today. If you’ve ever wondered what happened to your favorite store, The Great American Shopping Experience has the answers.

A popular history that is both fun and compelling, The Great American Shopping Experience tells an epic story of capitalism’s powers of creative destruction, the repeated transformation of American society, fortunes made and unmade—and the great times and amazing deals we had along the way.

HOLLOWED OUT

A WARNING About America's
Next Generation

JEREMY S. ADAMS

HOLLOWED OUT

America's teachers know something has gone terribly wrong. It's an open secret that civic and social decline has left our young people hollowed out—their reason undeveloped, their values uninformed, and their humanity diminished.

Digital hermits, students have little interest in marriage and family. They sometimes sneer at patriotism, often sympathize with riots and vandalism, and frequently despise the heroes who build the free, fair, and prosperous society they seek to dismantle. Often friendless and depressed, they eat alone, study alone, and even 'socialize' alone.

These problems have festered for years, but lockdowns and social distancing have magnified them, and educators are watching a generation slip from their grasp.

In Hollowed Out, Jeremy S. Adams, one of America's best high school teachers, reveals why America's students have rejected the wisdom, culture, and institutions of Western civilization. But though the cult of radical individualism has usurped personal responsibility, he insists there is still hope that parents, teachers, and other leaders can revive the souls of America's hollowed-out generation.

Jeremy S. Adams, a high school and college political science teacher, was named California Teacher of the Year in 2014. His writing on politics and education has been featured in the Los Angeles Times, the Washington Post, C-SPAN, the Huffington Post, the Seattle Times, the Sacramento Bee, and The Educator's Room. A graduate of Washington & Lee University and the author of three previous books, Adams is married to his high school sweetheart, Jennifer, and is the father of three children.

CREATE CONNECTIONS

Rhonda Williams, EdD

Sameen DeBard & Joseph Wehrman, PhD

Create Connections: How to Facilitate Small Groups

offers fun and insightful techniques and resources for developing the necessary skills to facilitate groups. While small-group work is the most time-efficient and functional way of developing non-cognitive competencies, direct instruction in teaching facilitation skills for those leading these groups is also necessary. Intention, purpose, thought, structure, and lesson planning are essential components to initiate a meaningful group experience.

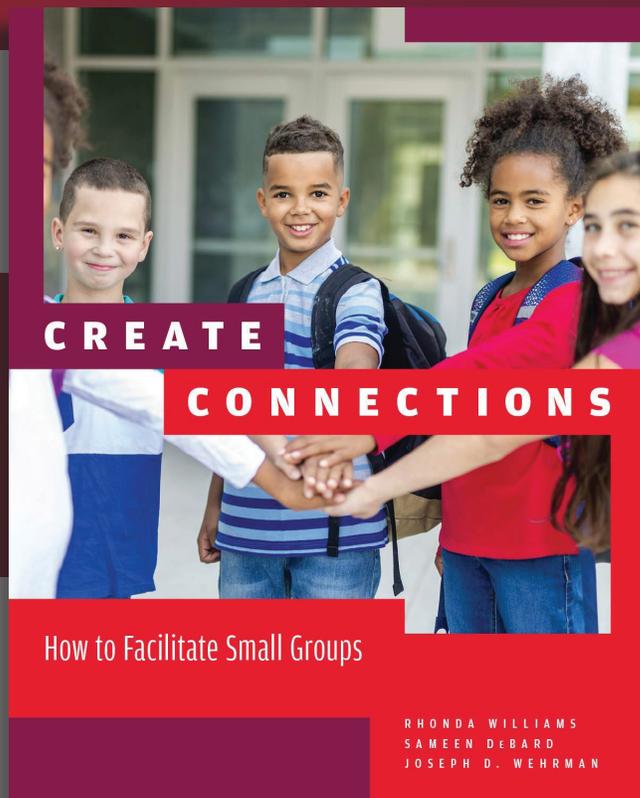

The focus of this book is to guide the facilitator on how to lead engaging activities that will be applicable in everyday life for the participants. Create Connections is designed to help school counselors, therapists and psychologists explore, in detail: group facilitator skills; member dynamics; and thought-provoking initiatives within the included lesson plans. People commonly assume that creating, developing and implementing a group is an easy task of simply convening a collection of like-minded individuals together. Rather than haphazard group development, we suggest a structured, intentional and purposeful group selection and process. This book is designed to help make the group-development process both enjoyable and productive. The more one front-loads the planning process, the easier it will be to create connections in your group.

Rhonda Williams, EdD is a professor in the Counseling and Human Services Department at the University of Colorado, where she serves as the School Counseling Program Coordinator. She has served as President-Elect and President in both Colorado and Kansas School Counselor Associations, and is currently the Executive Director of the Colorado School Counselor Association. She was recently awarded the inaugural Rhonda Williams Lifetime Achievement Award from the Colorado School Counselor Association. Dr. Williams continues to pursue her interest and research in experiential education, bullying behavior and adolescent and gender issues. She was the co-coordinator for the First Lady's Reach Higher Convening at the University of Colorado, Colorado Springs in the summer of 2016. Sameen Noorulamin DeBard has provided training for teachers and school counselors throughout the United States on effective facilitation skills for small groups and advisory programs. # Teach the ESSENTIALS of GOOD CHARACTER with THE ESSENTIALZ

Paul Cicchini

Kids think they need to be super to conquer the challenges holding them back from being heroic in everyday life. In Teach the Essentials of Good Character with The Essentialz®, kids will learn how to master simple but essential character skills like the 12 superheroes who are The Essentialz.

In this book, each of the characters represents an important trait to teach students how to be comfortable in their own skin. This program is not only fun and engaging, but dialogue-provoking as well. Kids learn that even superheroes have flaws, which makes it easy for students to identify with the characters.

In Teach the Essentials of Good Character with The Essentialz®, each character has an intriguing backstory, compelling personality traits or quirks, and a private challenge they must conquer that should be very familiar to the participants.

Paul Cicchini, Ed.S., NCSP, is a school psychologist in the Camden School District, Camden, New Jersey. He was mentored by Rutgers professor Dr. Maurice Elias, and is now one of the few school psychologists in the country who is certified in School Leadership/Character Education. Cicchini is the author of the novels Young Cyrano, Godsmacked, and The Essentialz. He emphasizes elements of character education in his stories. His love of superheroes is what inspired him to create these characters and write The Essentialz and to create the curriculum Teach the Essentials of Good Character with the Essentialz®

TEETERING

KEN REES

"Teetering gives a voice to some of the most underserved and misunderstood Americans today."
—FROM THE FOREWORD BY ROBERT L. JOHNSON, FOUNDER OF B.E.T.

TEETERING

Why So Many Live On A Financial Tightrope And What To Do About It

Economic instability and accelerating change are here to stay. To complicate that new reality, according to a study published in the Quarterly Journal of Economics, we are now living in a time in of the largest discrepancy between the top 1% and the rest of the population since the Gilded Age. TEETERING explains how to deal with unexpected debt and job and career adjustments experienced by the growing population of Tightropers, who are navigating their uncertain times. Tightropers consist of: millennials who are paying off student debt while overwhelmed by the cost of housing; mid-lifers, who are supporting aging family members, dealing with medical challenges, and financing their children's education in a shaky career economy; and entrepreneurs who are using their savings to cash in on their dreams.

Tightropers themselves are creative, responsible and resourceful heroes. TEETERING goes beyond the "unbanked" world and champions the need for a new generation of financial services based on technology innovation, Silicon Valley investment, and a reorientation of traditional financial institutions.

With its blend of grassroots insight from Tightropers themselves, compelling new research, and analysis that frequently challenges common assumptions, TEETERING adds an important perspective on increasing financial pressures that stress people at every level: millennials, hard-working middle class families, entrepreneurs, workers in the gig economy, and mid-lifers trying to fulfill the responsibilities of unexpected care-giving situations. All of whom live rich lives balancing family, community, and in many cases multiple jobs. They need fast-paced solutions to match the world in which they succeed.

KEN REES is widely profiled and quoted in national media including The Corner Office column of the NY Times, and business media such as CNBC. He is a high-profile influencer in the financial-technology community. He is founder, CEO and Chairman of the Board of Elevate, a financial-technology company he took public in 2017. Elevate is a leading provider of online credit in the US and UK and has originated over 7 billion in credit to over 2 million non-prime consumers. # We Need to Talk: A Memoir About Wealth

JENNIFER RISHER

We Need to Talk: A Memoir About Wealth

JENNIFER RISHER

"In an era of income inequality, her book, which offers discussion questions about money and wealth throughout, offers a starting point for an uncomfortable subject of increasing importance to everyone...candid and topical." -Kirkus Reviews

An enlightening, deeply personal story written with introspection and grace, We Need to Talk explores how financial success impacts friendships, children, charity, and family. You need to read this book.

-Scott Cook, co-founder of Intuit and member of the Giving Pledge

Too often we either envy or disparage the wealthy. Rarely do we think about them as 'just like us.' But in this heartfelt memoir, Risher walks us through both the advantages and the challenges that wealth cultivates. Ultimately, as she says, 'We are all ninety-nine percent the same.' In a particularly divided country, it is helpful to be reminded of the fact that most of our needs and aspirations—for security, for health, for connection, and for love—are the same regardless of our bank account. -Madeline Levine, PhD, author of The Price of Privilege, Teach Your Children Well, and Ready or Not.

When Jennifer Risher joined Microsoft in 1991, she met her husband, and with him became an extra-lucky beneficiary of the dot-com boom. By their early thirties, they had tens of millions of dollars. Today, there are millions of people like her. Jennifer's thought-provoking, personal story includes the voices of others in her demographic and explores the hidden impact of wealth on identity, relationships, and sense of place in the world. At a time when income inequality is a huge problem, our country's economic system is broken, and money is still a taboo subject even among those closest to us, this engaging, introspective memoir is essential reading: a catalyst for conversation that demystifies wealth and inspires us to connect.

Jennifer Risher was born in Seattle, Washington, grew up in Oregon, and graduated from Connecticut College. She joined Microsoft in 1991 where she worked as a recruiter and then as a product manager. She and her husband, David, have two daughters and live in San Francisco, where David is CEO of Worldreader, a nonprofit he cofounded with a mission to create a world where everyone is a reader. We Need to Talk is Jennifer's first book.

ADVOCATING OVERLORD

PHILIP PADGETT

"Advocating Overlord is a welcome reminder of what can be accomplished when allied nations' military and political leaders overcome national biases and rival- ries to recognize common interests."-Francis P. Sempa, New York Journal of Books

"Well there it is. It won't work, but you must bloody well make it," said the chief of Britain's military leaders, when he gave orders to begin planning for what became known as Operation Overlord. While many view D-Day as one of the most successful operations of World War II, most aren't aware of the intensive year of planning and political tension between the Allies that preceded the amphibious military landing on June 6, 1944. This intriguing history reveals how President Franklin D. Roosevelt, while on a fishing trip in the middle of World War II, altered his attitude toward Winston Churchill and became an advocate for Operation Overlord.

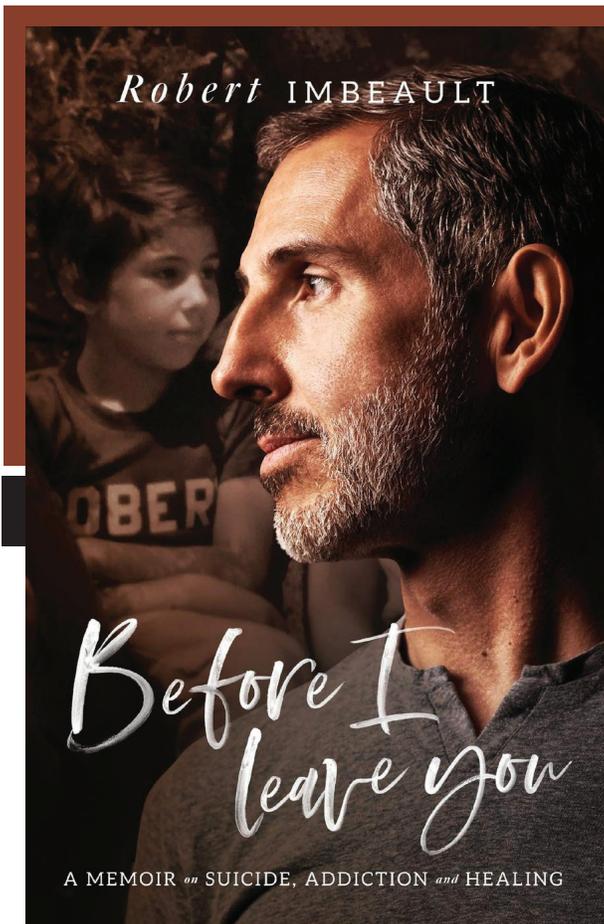

Philip Padgett challenges the known narrative of this watershed moment in history and illuminates the diplomatic link between Normandy and the atomic bomb. He shows how the Allies came to agree on a liberation strategy that began with D-Day—and the difficult forging of British and American scientific cooperation that produced the atomic bomb. At its core this story is about how a new generation of leaders found the courage to step beyond national biases in a truly allied endeavor to carry out one of history's most successful military operations.

Philip Padgett spent forty years working in national security and preparedness analysis in the military, government, and the private sector. As deputy intelligence adviser at the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, he supported negotiations for five international treaties and agreements. On contract, he has led integrated analyses for studies of the East-West military balance, nuclear doctrine and deterrence, NATO command and control, and arms control compliance monitoring. In his retirement Padgett joined the Federal Emergency Management Agency's Reserve Corps and assisted in national emergencies such as Superstorm Sandy.

For those who have experienced trauma, those who battle addictions, those who feel unworthy of their happiness - this book offers hope." -Mathew W Morrison*

"A savagely brilliant account of a man who chooses to make every wrong decision he can...and then turns it around. A searingly honest, compelling read for anyone who has ever struggled with mental health...or life." -Declan Hill, PhD, two-time international bestselling author

Between GRIT and GRACE

Sasha Shillcutt, MD

Women need to know it's okay to be kind and assertive.

Between Grit and Grace will show you that success comes when you are comfortable living in the space between grit and grace—grit meaning being resilient and taking charge of your life (socially-acceptable masculine attributes), and grace meaning showing others mercy (socially-acceptable feminine trait).

Author Sasha Shillcutt, MD, a nationally lauded, award-winning physician and speaker, will explain how to give yourself permission to disappoint nice people (and know that you are still a nice person anyway). You'll learn how to stop apologizing for showing your strength and grit, and embrace your grace, too. This is where personal peace lives.

Dr. Shillcutt, taught herself how to be a gritty, grace-filled leader and live authentically. Now, she wants to help other women be brave enough to do the same. Her passion is empowering and encouraging women to be brave enough in their professional and personal lives. She believes women cannot be too brave, too kind, too strong, too smart, too funny, too beautiful, or too authentic.

Using real-life stories—ranging from women in law and medicine to women in education—the book explains how women can be feminine and formidable. Leadership and lipstick are not mutually exclusive. You'll realize you can be bossy and caring, fearless and vulnerable, relentless and forgiving, smart and humble—and make it to the top. Across the space of ten chapters, you'll learn how to navigate the forces that have shaped the modern workplace while doing so with grit and grace. When a woman lives authentically—she succeeds.

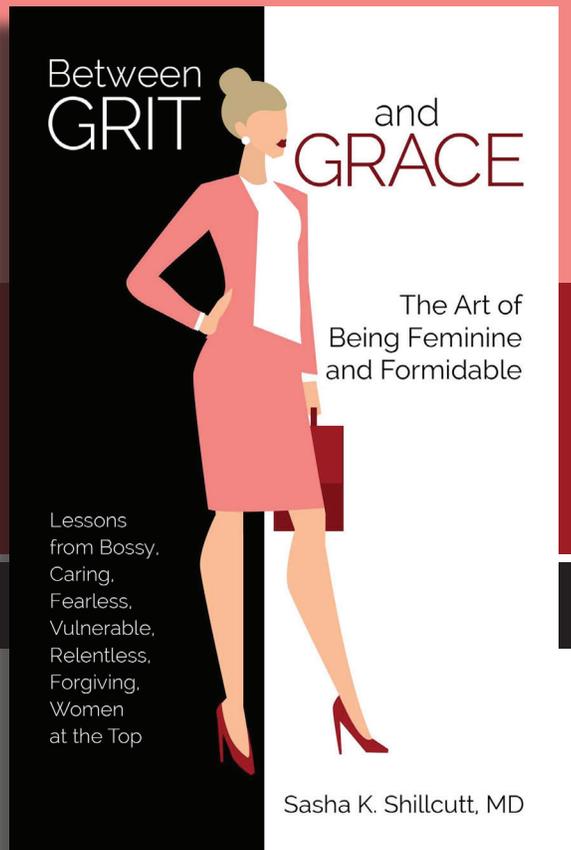

Sasha Shillcutt, MD, is a wife, mother, award-winning physician, clinical scientist, national educator, writer, and speaker. A board-certified cardiac anesthesiologist and tenured associate professor, she received a bachelors' degree in biology from William Jewell College, and her MD degree from the University of Nebraska Medical Center. After finishing a residency in anesthesiology during which she served as chief resident, she completed an executive fellowship in perioperative echocardiography at the University of Utah Medical Center. She has published close to 30 peer-reviewed scientific articles in professional journals including the prestigious New England Journal of Medicine and the Journal of the American Medical Association and contributed chapters to four books. In 2016, Sasha was awarded the national American Medical Association's Women Physician's Inspiring Physician Award by her peers.

In 1934, hundreds of jobless World War I veterans were sent to the remote Florida Keys to build a highway from Miami to Key West. The Roosevelt Administration was making a genuine effort to help these down-and-out vets, many of whom suffered from what is known today as post-traumatic stress disorder. But the attempt to help them turned into a tragedy. The supervisors in charge of the veterans misunderstood the danger posed by hurricanes in the low-lying Florida Keys. In late August 1935, a small, stealthy tropical storm crossed the Bahamas, causing little damage. When it entered the Straits of Florida, however, it exploded into one of the most powerful hurricanes on record. But US Weather Bureau forecasters could only guess at its exact position, and their calculations were well off the mark. The hurricane that struck the Upper Florida Keys on the evening of September 2, 1935 is still the most powerful hurricane to make landfall in the US. Supervisors waited too long to call for an evacuation train from Miami to move the vets out of harm's way. The train was slammed by the storm surge soon after it reached Islamorada. Only the 160-ton locomotive was left upright on the tracks. About 400 veterans were left unprotected in flimsy work camps. Around 260 of them were killed. This is their story, with newly discovered photos and stories of some of the heroes of the Labor Day 1935 calamity.

Willie Drye has been chasing stories since the early 1980s, first as a reporter and editor for newspapers in Georgia, North Carolina and Florida and then as an award-winning author and freelance journalist. # THE DEAD STAGE

DAN WEATHERER

"The Dead Stage - the period of time between completing the working draft of a stage play and placing it with an interested party." - Dan Weatherer

Dan Weatherer, an author turned playwright, learned quickly that there are practices playwrights can implement to dramatically increase the appeal of their work.

Inside, you'll find advice that will enable you to better tailor your work to the needs of the theatre industry, without having to compromise on style, content or subject matter. Dan discusses his early mistakes, and presents the advice of notable theatre professionals including the award-winning playwright, Deborah McAndrew, noted actor Matthew Spence, and London Horror Festival producer, Kate Danbury (along with many, many more!).

You'll also be able to read several of Dan's completed stage plays, which are presented in a preferred industry format, and often contain side-notes detailing the success (and failures) of said pieces.

From budgets to set design, run-time to cast size, if you ever felt the desire to write for the stage, following the advice presented in this book will help improve your chances of pairing your script with an interested party, hopefully making The Dead Stage pass almost unnoticed.

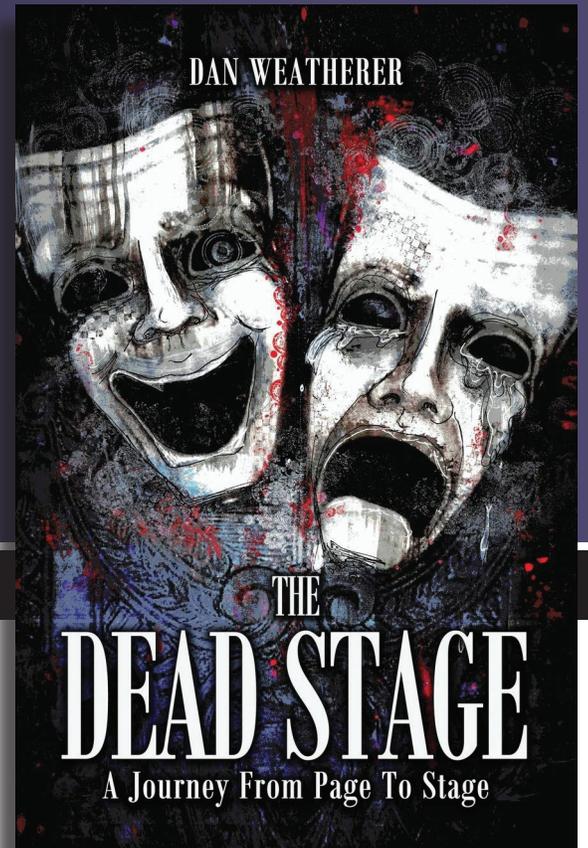

One of Dan Weatherer's first short story collections, The Soul That Screamed, was the winner of the Predators & Editors Readers' Poll 'Best Anthology in 2013. A further two collections Only the Good Burn Bright and Neverlight quickly followed. His first non-fiction book titled 'What Dwells Within', detailing the life's work of paranormal investigator Jayne Harris was released in 2015. Also in 2015, Dan was shortlisted for the prestigious position of Staffordshire Poet Laureate 2016-2018. In early 2017, Neverlight was shortlisted for the first annual Arnold Bennett Literary Prize. His fourth collection Just Eventide, was released in August of that year. 2017 also saw the release of Dan's historical novella, 'Crippen'. An accomplished playwright, Dan has been the winner of the Soundwork UK play competition, a finalist in the Blackshaw Showcase Award, and a two-time finalist of the Congleton Players One Act Festival. In 2019, Dan was nominated for a local Heroes award for his continued promotion of literacy and mental health issues in the city of Stoke on Trent. 2019 also saw the release of his non-fiction title Sounds of a Madman, where Dan discusses the issues surrounding living with Depression and Anxiety. The Necessary Evils was published late October, followed by Dan's debut novel, The Tainted Isle. Dan lives in Staffordshire with his wife Jenni and is a proud full-time dad to his daughter Bethany, and his son Nathan.

PASS THE POLENTA
and other writings from the kitchen

"How appropriately named is Teresa Lust – her passion for food is in every word of her evocative Pass the Polenta. I'd like to be at the table when her platters come around."

TERESA LUST

PASS THE POLENTA

TERESA LUST

"Food is not merely about calories and minimum daily requirements and metabolic pathways. At its very heart, food is about people."
-from Pass the Polenta

Likewise, people are at the heart of this warm, personal collection of food- and family-inspired essays by former professional chef and food historian Teresa Lust. An Italian immigrant grandmother who plucked chickens in the backyard; an introverted mushroom forager who collected chanterelles in the woods; a German auntie who learned to knead bread in a wooden bucket; an unassuming wine shop owner who, after closing, offers a bottle of Châteauneuf-du-Pape and a delightfully unpretentious way to value a wine--all are key ingredients in the zesty culinary heritage that Teresa Lust lovingly serves up. Like the creamy, sweet polenta that wooed her father into her mother's robust Italian family, this book is filled with a myriad of rich flavors, history, kitchen tips, and recipes. Lessons in life learned at the stoves of the many seasoned cooks in Lust's world, these wonderful true stories are an expression of art and love, family and self, soil and the seasons.

Teresa Lust is the author of Pass the Polenta: and Other Writings from the Kitchen, a culinary memoir drawn from family stories and her experiences cooking in farm-to-table restaurants along the West Coast and in New England. She holds a Master of Arts degree in Liberal Studies from Dartmouth College, with a concentration in creative writing. She went on to study the Italian language at Dartmouth and at private schools in Italy for many years. Teresa currently teaches Italian for the Rassias Center for World Languages at Dartmouth and gives cooking classes. She lives in New Hampshire with her husband and two children, their two chocolate labs, and a backyard flock of chickens. When Teresa's not in the kitchen, at her writing desk, or in the classroom, you can find her outside in the garden, or in the woods—on foot, on her bike, or on cross-country skis..

ALICE & GERALD

RON FRANSCCELL

"...the best true-crime book you read in 2019... reminds the rest of us who write in this genre how it ought to be done."

-Jeff Guinn, New York Times–bestselling author of Manson and The Road to Jonestown

"The dark, murderous secrets of Gerald and Alice Uden are almost Shakespearean. Ron Franscell has done amazing research and writing in this book."

-Skip Hollandsworth, author of The Midnight Assassin: The Hunt for America's First Serial Killer

Would you kill for love? True-crime master Ron Franscell tells the grisly story of a loving couple who killed at least four, and lived happily ever after--while cops desperately tried for decades to piece together a petrifying tale of murder and secrets. The appalling details are made even more vivid by the author's familiarity with the Wyoming times and places that formed the backdrop of his national bestseller The Darkest Night.

After Alice, a desperate young mother in a gritty Wyoming boomtown, kills her husband in 1974 and dumps his body where it will never be found, she slips away and starts a new life with a new love. But when her new love's ex-wife and two kids start demanding more of him, Alice delivers an ultimatum: Fix the problem or lose her forever. With Alice's help, he "fixes" the problem in an extraordinarily ghastly way ... and they live happily ever after. That is, until 2013, almost forty years later, when somebody finds a dead man's skeleton in a place where Alice thought he'd never be found.

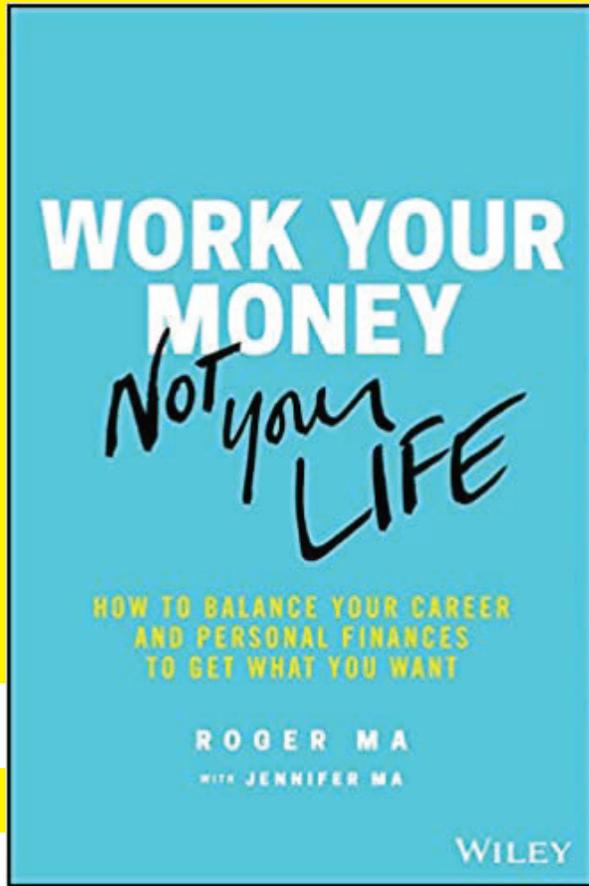

Featuring a femme fatale whose manipulative, cold-blooded character rivals Lady Macbeth, this page-turner by bestselling true-crime author Ron Franscell revisits a shocking cold case that was finally solved just when the murderers thought they'd never be caught.

Ron Franscell is the acclaimed author of numerous books, including both fiction and nonfiction. His true-crime work, Morgue: A Life in Death (coauthored with renowned medical examiner Dr. Vincent Di Maio), was a 2017 Edgar® Award finalist; his debut novel Angel Fire was listed by the San Francisco Chronicle among the 100 Best Novels of the 20th Century West. During thirty years as a newspaper journalist, Franscell won many national awards, including the prestigious national Freedom of Information Award by Associated Press, and a Best of the West Award from Investigative Reporters and Editors. He lives in San Antonio, Texas.

Life Lessons on the Sierra Trail

Life Lessons on the Sierra Trail

40 Years' Experiences in the John Muir Wilderness

Allen Clyde

A young man takes a summer job with a horse packer in the Sierra Nevada mountains—and receives a valuable education in the art of living—in a modern-day parable filled with love for horses, nature, and the majesty of the Sierras, based on the author's real-life experience of 40 years horse packing in the John Muir Wilderness.

Pablo is 18, a young man bound for college and a promising future, but also directionless and drifting toward the gang life. Pablo's mother, remembering his childhood love of horses back home in Mexico, arranges a summer job for him with podiatrist and commercial horse packer Dr. Clyde. Pablo finds himself far from the distractions of the city, leading pack horse trains through the stunning natural beauty of the John Muir Wilderness.

Along the way, Pablo receives a remarkable series of life lessons based on Dr. Clyde's 40 years' experience leading riders and hikers through the mountains. The guests that Clyde and Pablo encounter present many different models of how to live, both positive and negative, from arrogant know-it-all tourists to experienced and respectful outdoorsmen. As Dr. Clyde says, "You'll find in this world, Pablo, that some people make very poor decisions. Sometimes it adversely affects others and sometimes it negatively affects themselves big-time." Pablo and the reader learn that self-reliance, preparedness, and taking responsibility for one's own safety help develop a confident and responsible adult.

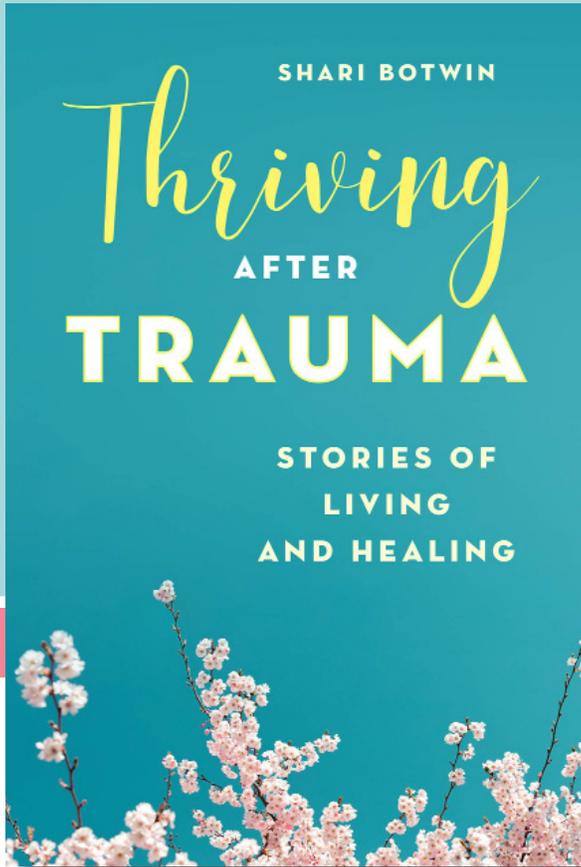

With lyrical descriptions of the natural splendor of the mountains and charming line drawings of horses and scenery, Life Lessons on the Sierra Trail is a celebration of the outdoor life and how it builds character.

Dr. Allen Clyde has operated a horse packing service in the Sierra Nevada's John Muir Wilderness for 40 years, transporting or delivering supplies to over 20,000 visitors. He is also a podiatric physician and surgeon. Dr. Clyde has served on the Fresno County (California) Board of Education for nearly 20 years. He lives in Clovis, California. Life Lessons on the Sierra Trail is his first book.

SHARI BOTWIN, LCSW

"Sharing her gift of translating the language and culture of psychological trauma to plain English, Botwin, a survivor herself, blends her personal anguish with the painful experience of others she counseled through the years. At its finest points this book not only informs but opens the soul."

-Bob Stewart, Freelance Journalist, New York Daily News, Philadelphia Inquirer, Daily Beast

Every year millions of men and women develop addictions, eating disorders, depression, and related illnesses due to trauma. Trauma victims are more likely to suffer from drug or alcohol abuse, to smoke, or to engage in other self-destructive practices in an effort to avoid emotions they cannot handle and cope the hopelessness, despair, and painful feelings often associated with traumatic experiences. But it doesn't have to be this way.

A change is finally happening. Society is talking about sexual assault and abuse, about PTSD and associated disorders. And as people begin to acknowledge the traumas they've endured, they seek assistance for overcoming their experiences so they may live full lives free from shame, guilt, and despair.

Thriving After Trauma discusses the many ways trauma victims have overcome the consequences of a wide-array of circumstances, including physical or sexual abuse, war-related injury, and loss due to tragedy, illness, and natural disasters. Real stories illustrate the many types of trauma people experience and the actions they took to help them survive, grieve, and move on. Letting go of the shame, guilt, anger, and fear associated with trauma is crucial to reclaiming a full life, and Shari Botwin provides insight into strategies such as journaling, bodywork, mindfulness, and using healing relationships, such as group therapy, to aid recovery. Any reader who has experienced trauma or knows someone who has will find comfort and hope in these pages, and a path forward to a full life

DETOX your THOUGHTS

ANDREA BONIOR, PHD

What do you do when you're stressed or anxious and even mindfulness and meditation don't help?

What if you know your dysfunctional thoughts aren't healthy or even valid, but you can't stop thinking them anyway?

How can you let go of a negative inner voice so ingrained in you that it feels like it IS you – and you're sure you'll never get rid of it?

We've all struggled with these issues at one time or another. They zap our joy, poison our peace of mind and wreak havoc on our relationships. But while most of us can recognize that these inner voices are doing us harm, the far harder part is to stop listening to them. How do you get this negative self-talk to quit, for good?

For many years, experts have advised us to try everything from reassuring ourselves, distracting ourselves or seeking pleasure in the form of "self-care." But an increasing amount of psychological research indicates that these techniques are all futile in the long run. Otherwise, why are we seeing epidemic rates of depression and anxiety disorders in the US that only continue to rise?

To the rescue comes DETOX YOUR THOUGHTS, by popular psychologist and BuzzFeed and Washington Post contributor Andrea Bonior, PhD. In her new book she identifies 14 mental traps that keep us locked in negative thinking but – most importantly – she illuminates a surprising path to get free of these harmful thoughts: It's all about taking away their ability to stick.

Andrea Bonior is a licensed clinical psychologist, media commentator, and author who specializes in the treatment of anxiety and relationship issues. She has served on the staff of four university counseling centers and has studied problems such as eating disorders, women's issues, alcohol abuse, depression, athletic performance anxiety, life transitions, and grief and loss. She has taught Abnormal Psychology for more than ten years at Georgetown and is the author of the Publisher's Weekly Best-Seller PSYCHOLOGY: ESSENTIAL THINKERS, CLASSIC THEORIES, AND HOW THEY INFORM YOUR WORLD and THE FRIENDSHIP FIX. Dr. Bonior is also a media commentator about the psychological and sociological aspects of pop culture and current events, and appears frequently in print, and in broadcast media. She is the voice behind the mental health advice column "Baggage Check" in the Washington Post Express, writes Psychology Today's "Friendship 2.0" blog and speaks nationwide to audiences about motivation, relationships, and emotional health.

BOURBON

THE RISE, FALL, AND REBIRTH
OF AN

AMERICAN WHISKEY

FRED MINNICK

Once and for all, America learns the likely inventor of its beloved bourbon.

Bourbon is not just alcohol -- this amber-colored drink is deeply ingrained in American culture and tangled in American history. From the early days of raw corn liquor to the myriad distilleries that have proliferated around the country today, bourbon has come to symbolize America. In Bourbon: The Rise, Fall, and Rebirth of an American Whiskey, award-winning whiskey author Fred Minnick traces bourbon's entire history, from the 1700s with Irish, Scottish, and French settlers setting up stills and making distilled spirits in the New World through today's booming resurgence. He also lays out in expert detail the critical role this spirit has played throughout the cultural and even political history of the nation -- from Congress passing whiskey-protection laws to consumers standing in long lines just for a glimpse of a rare bottle of Pappy Van Winkle -- complemented by more than 100 illustrations and photos. And most importantly, Minnick explores the mystery of who most likely created the sweet corn liquor we now know as bourbon. He studies the men who've been championed as its inventors over time -- from Daniel Boone's cousin to Baptist minister Elijah Craig -- and, based on new research and never-before-seen documentation, answers the question of who deserves the credit.

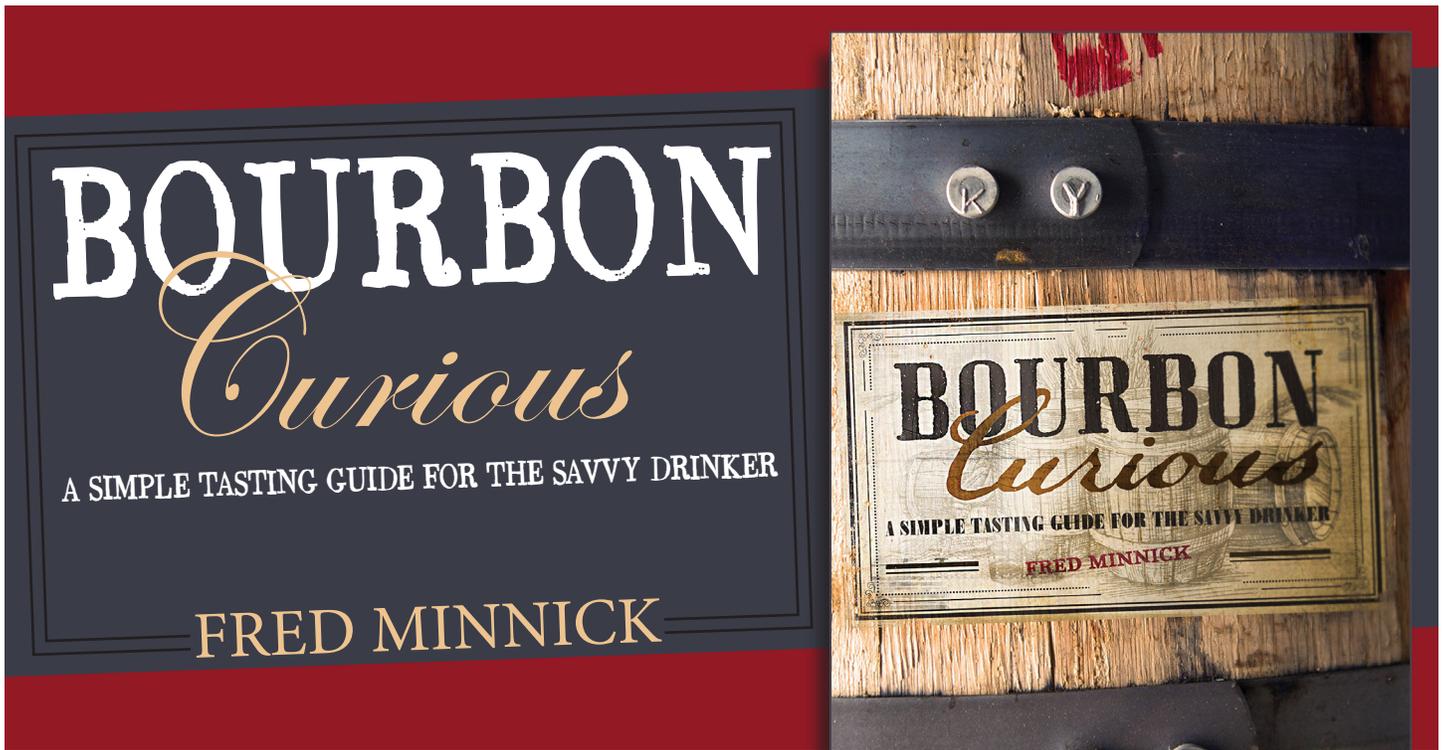

Fred Minnick is an award-winning author and spirits expert. His previous titles Whiskey Women, Bourbon Curious, and Bourbon: The Rise, Fall, and Rebirth of an American Spirit paved the way for the artisanal whiskey resurgence, and he is a frequent beverage contributor for major publications, including the Huffington Post and Parade. Fred is the Bourbon Authority for the Kentucky Derby Museum and speaks regularly at nationwide cocktail conferences. He lives in Louisville, Kentucky.

Best New Book for Whiskey Lovers*

In Bourbon Curious: A Simple Tasting Guide for the Savvy Drinker, award-winning whiskey writer and Wall Street Journal best-selling author Fred Minnick creates an easy-to-read interactive tasting journey that helps you select barrel-aged bourbons based on your flavor preferences. Bourbon Curious groups bourbon into four main flavor profiles--grain, nutmeg, caramel, and cinnamon. While many bourbons boast all four flavor notes, one delicious sensation typically overpowers the rest. This book reveals more than fifty bourbon brands' predominate tastes and suggests cocktail recipes to complement them. In addition, Minnick spends some time busting bourbon's myths, unraveling its mysteries, and exploring distiller secrets, disclosing the recipes you won't find on a bottle's label.

As bourbon becomes more ingrained in the culinary world, foodies and drink enthusiasts alike are looking for a basic understanding of America's spirit. Bourbon Curious will help curious minds take their first step in learning about this highly celebrated spirit.

MEAD

AND LORE OF HISTORY'S
OLDEST DRINK

FRED MINNICK

With fantastical narratives, home-brewing instructions, and original craft cocktail recipes, Mead is the ultimate exploration of the resurgent alcoholic beverage that is nearly as old as time itself.

Beloved by figures as diverse as Queen Elizabeth and Thor, the Vikings and the Greek gods, mead is one of history's most storied beverages. But this mixture of fermented honey isn't just a relic of bygone eras -- it's experiencing a cultural renaissance, taking pride of place in trendy cocktail bars and craft breweries across the country. Equal parts quirky historical narrative, DIY manual, and cocktail guide, Mead is a spirited look at the drink that's been with us even longer than wine.

Mead gives readers a fascinating introduction to the rich story of this beloved beverage -- from its humble beginnings to its newfound popularity, along with its vital importance in seven historic kingdoms: Greece, Rome, the Vikings, Poland, Ethiopia, England, and Russia. Pairing a quirky, historical narrative with real practical advice, beverage expert Fred Minnick guides readers through making 25 different types of mead, as well as more than 50 cocktails, with recipes from some of the country's most sought-after mixologists.

DRINK LIKE GREEK GODS, VIKINGS AND QUEENS: Making and Mixing Mead

By Fred Minnick,
Wall Street Journal-bestselling author and award-winning drinks author

Mead, the world's oldest alcoholic beverage.

Mead is consumed in Beowulf and many medieval-themed television characters drink it by the cup and sometimes the barrel. Mead's contemporary popularity is attributed to the HBO hit fantasy series Game of Thrones, set in a medieval-like timeframe, with Tyrion Lannister guzzling the drink in nearly every scene.

And as it happens, Game of Thrones' plot centers on seven kingdoms -- just as mead has been greatly influenced over the centuries by seven territories and peoples, including Greece, Rome, the Vikings, Poland, Ethiopia, England and Russia.

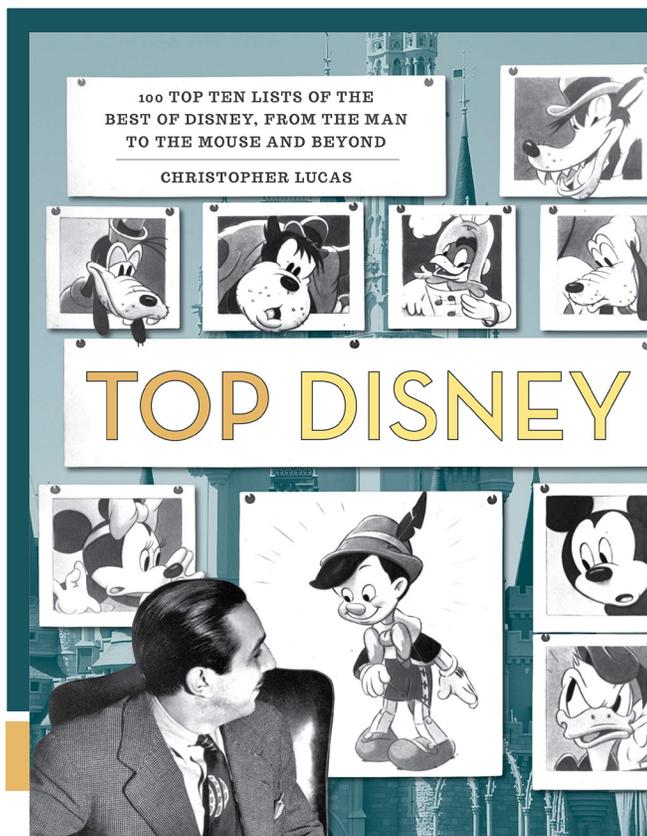

Mead is one of the fastest-growing alcoholic beverages in the United States, with mead-focused bars and meaderies opening throughout the country. In fact, the American Mead Makers Association reports mead sales increased 30% to 42% every year since Game of Thrones hit the screens. Furthermore, at-home and professional bartenders are brewing mead and mixing it with whiskey, rum, gin and vodka, making now the perfect time to capitalize on this incredibly versatile drink.

With rich history and easy-to-make recipes, Drink Like Greek Gods, Vikings and Queens: Making and Mixing Mead follows the formula of the drinks category's all-time bestsellers, using history to enhance drinking experiences - a history that is so surreal it almost feels like fiction. The British accepted mead as rent payments. Queen Elizabeth 1's mead consumption was so vast that brewers were commissioned to make it for her. It was valued as medicine, intoxication, and for religious use. Many Biblical scholars believe Jesus Christ drank mead..

Mead means fermented honey, but some mead makers add syrups, fruits, hops and even distilled spirits, giving the category more diversity than craft beer and the mixing flexibility of liqueurs. One could put a gallon of honey in a paint bucket, leave outside during the rain, wait for natural fermentation and call it mead.

The fact is, homebrewers make mead around the world, but this book focuses specifically on the techniques and recipes from the alcohol's most renowned kingdoms. For example, in a country not known for its alcohol-making prowess, Ethiopia brews honey and flavors it with gesho twigs, an aromatic hop leaf that's widely available in U.S. specialty grocery stores. Ethiopia's so-called Tej mead presents bitter and grapefruit notes, while Polish meads pack more honey than most and yields a heavy sweetness -- almost like eating a spoonful of honey.

The book offers more than 70 cocktail recipes using mead from the author and renowned bartenders. The recipes include the simple and multi-level step recipes, such as the two below.

TOP DISNEY

100 TOP TEN LISTS OF THE BEST OF DISNEY, FROM THE MAN TO THE MOUSE AND BEYOND

CHRISTOPHER LUCAS

Long before David Letterman made it a nightly ritual, groupings of ten seemed to be the most common form of list making (commandments, amendments, FBI most wanted, etc.) Top 10 lists abound for everything today, from movies and music to sports and politics. There is so much Disney history to cover, however, that it can't be contained in one simple list, thus "The 100 Top Ten of Disney."

There is not a person on Earth who hasn't come into contact with Disney in some way. Whether seeing a Disney film, hearing a Disney song, recognizing a Disney character or visiting a Disney park, the company's reach is global.

Top Disney collects the best of the best of Disney in a book of lists. From Walt himself and the beginning of his company, to his successors who have broadened the reach of the Disney brand well beyond where even Walt could have imagined it, this book covers every aspect of the 93 years of history that Disney has to offer. In it you will find information on everything from Oswald the Lucky Rabbit and Queen Elsa, to the billion dollar acquisitions of Marvel and Lucasfilm.

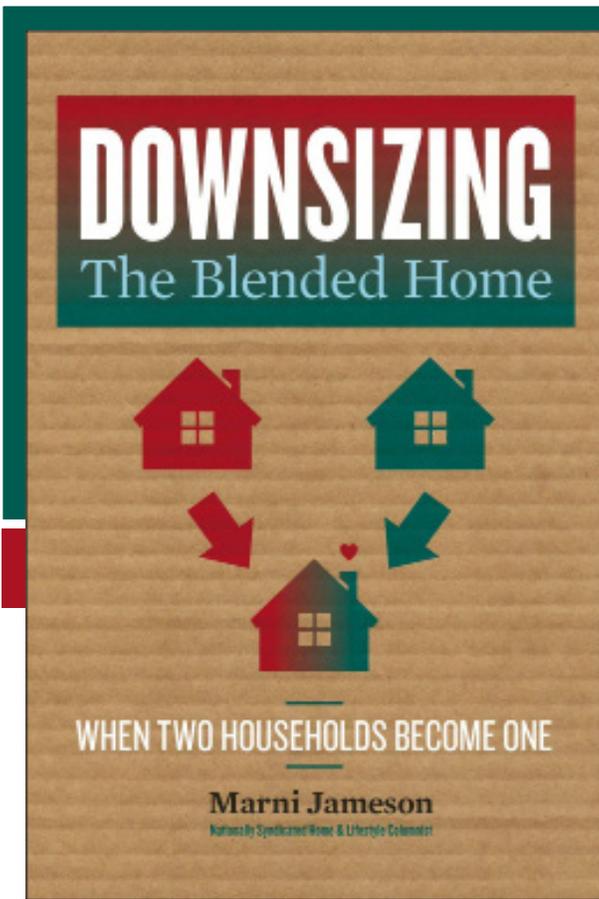

Written for casual and die-hard fans alike, The Top 100 Top Ten of Disney revisits some familiar characters, films, songs, rides, and personalities associated with Disney and uncovers some forgotten, obscure and overlooked parts of the company as well, such as the unlikely Disney films Victory Through Air Power (1943) and The Story of Menstruation (1946). It is laid out in easy to read "bite size" pieces that is one of those books that the whole family can enjoy and can be picked up and referred to again and again.

Christopher Lucas is a lifelong fan of all things Disney. His admiration for Walt, and the company he built, led Chris to create a one person show called "Of Mouse and Man" which has been performed in several colleges, theaters and civic centers. He is also the co-author of Seeing Home: The Ed Lucas Story, the critically acclaimed book released by Simon & Schuster and Derek Jeter Publishing in April 2015. Christopher lives in suburban New Jersey with his two young sons. His goal someday is to take a vacation somewhere that doesn't involve a visit to a Disney theme park.

DOWNSIZING

The Blended Home

Marni Jameson

When merging households, one plus one needs to equal . . . one. The path toward that fundamental fact, however, is not so easy. Since something's got to give—and you don't want it to be the relationship—Downsizing the Blended Home is here to help you meet the challenge of figuring out what to keep, what to let go of, and what to create together. With the same warm, narrative tone that made Downsizing the Family Home such a success—and using her own story of marriage and merger in midlife as a backdrop—Marni Jameson guides you through the turf wars and transitions, so you understand what matters and what doesn't, and can discover a style that suits you both. Along the way she interviews psychologists, designers, and couples who've made it through the process, passing along tips, tricks, and marriage-bolstering advice.

The wise advice includes:

- If you want to transform a space from me to we, the fastest, cheapest way is with paint.
- Look around you for the five or so nonnegotiable items that ground you, items that tether you so you're not adrift. Give those a place in your remodeled space and build on them.
- The old marital bed is a charged item, as are family photos of the former spouse or partner. A new bed is ideal, and new bedding is a must.
- Injecting a contemporary rug or piece of art, or a modern lamp or sculpture is a safe way to start moving toward modern in a room full of traditional furnishings.
- A blend in the master bedroom is especially important. If her bedroom is pink and purple, and his is burgundy and tan, a new gender-neutral color scheme is in order.
- Buying furniture together is a great way to invest in your look and your future. Start with something big in your combined style.

Marni Jameson is one of America's most-loved home and lifestyle columnists. Her humorous and helpful column appears in 25 papers nationwide, reaching 7 million readers each week. She has written for many magazines, including Woman's Day and Family Circle, and major metropolitan newspapers. # PURE GRIT

MARY CRONK FARRELL

"Details of many nurses' individual trials combine to form a memorable portrayal of their shared experience, one which will emotionally impact readers." -Booklist, starred review

"Primary source materials, especially the movingly matter-of-fact recollections of several of the nurses and personal snapshots, bring the story to life." -Kirkus Reviews

"Farrell doesn't spare her young readers any grim details . . . She includes the challenges these women faced and the joy they felt on returning home. As awful as history can be, now might be the right time to introduce the next generation to this important period." -The Washington Post

"In addition to photographs and helpful maps, the page layouts include facsimiles of the nurses' letters and diaries. Young readers who enjoyed Tanya Lee Stone's Almost Astronauts: 13 Women Who Dared to Dream will also appreciate this story of courageous women whose story was nearly forgotten." -School Library Journal

In the early 1940s, young women enlisted for peacetime duty as U.S. Army nurses. But when the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor in 1941 blasted the United States into World War II, 101 American Army and Navy nurses serving in the Philippines were suddenly treating wounded and dying soldiers while bombs exploded all around them. The women served in jerry-rigged jungle hospitals on the Bataan Peninsula and in underground tunnels on Corregidor Island. Later, when most of them were captured by the Japanese as prisoners of war, they suffered disease and near-starvation for three years. Pure Grit is a story of sisterhood and suffering, of tragedy and betrayal, of death and life. The women cared for one another, maintained discipline, and honored their vocation to nurse anyone in need—all 101 coming home alive.

The book is illustrated with archival photographs and includes an index, glossary, and timeline.

Mary Cronk Farrell is a former award-winning journalist and author of fiction and nonfiction books for children. She writes with passion about little-known people of history who face great adversity with courage. # TEN CRUCIAL DAYS

Washington's Vision for Victory Unfolds

TEN CRUCIAL DAYS

On December 25, 1776 the American Revolution seemed all but defeated just six months after the Declaration of Independence had been adopted. General George Washington's army had suffered a series of defeats in New York, retreated under British pressure across New Jersey, and then crossed the Delaware River to temporary sanctuary in Pennsylvania. This left the British army in a string of winter cantonments across the middle of New Jersey, the New Jersey state government in total disarray, and the Continental Congress fleeing Philadelphia, fearfully perceived to be the next British target. Loyalists in New Jersey felt empowered and Patriots felt abandoned. Washington needed not only a battlefield victory, but also to reestablish Patriot control in New Jersey.

and the Continental Congress fleeing Philadelphia, fearfully perceived to be the next British target. Loyalists in New Jersey felt empowered and Patriots felt abandoned. Washington needed not only a battlefield victory, but also to reestablish Patriot control in New Jersey.

The story of these ten crucial days is one that displays Washington's military and interpersonal abilities along with his personal determination and bravery to keep the Revolution alive through restoring the psychological confidence of the Patriots, while reducing that of his British political and military opponents. Throughout these ten days, Washington's efforts faced constantly changing situations, requiring modifications or completely new plans that fortunately often benefitted from elements of luck, such as the weather or British decisions, which he could not control.

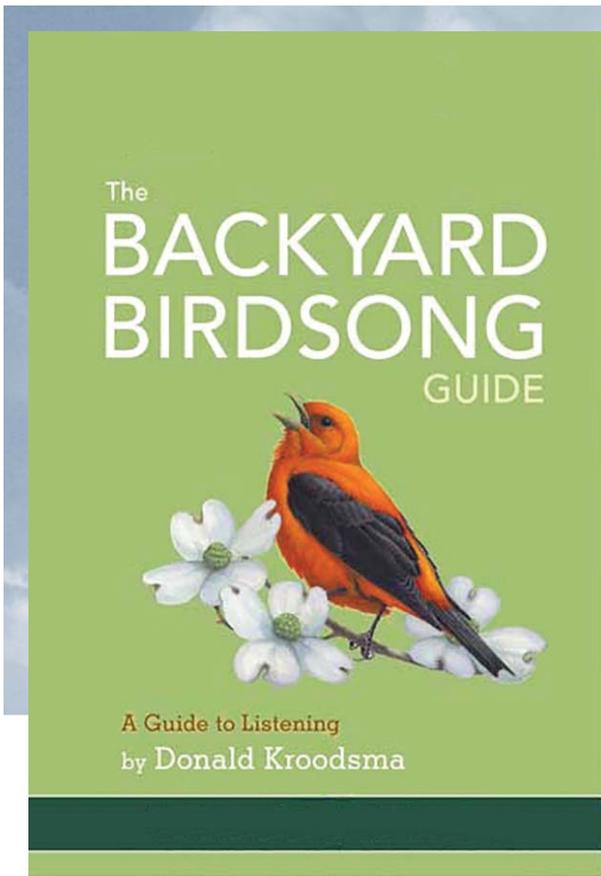

Join the winter patriots who marched with Washington, fought, and died in frigid temperatures during those "times that tried men's souls". Through meticulous primary source research and masterful storytelling, author William L. Kidder corrects the record and presents what we now know about how Washington exploited his enemy's hubris by leading his upstart army in daring maneuvers that humiliated His Majesty's forces in just ten short days that changed the course of history.

William "Larry" Kidder was born in California and raised in California, Indiana, New York, and New Jersey. He received his bachelor's and master's degrees from Allegheny College. A US Navy veteran, with service in Vietnam, he considers teaching to be both his vocation and avocation, continuing in retirement after having taught for forty years in public and private schools. For thirty years, Larry has been a volunteer historian, interpreter, and draft horse teamster for Howell Living History Farm. He is active in central New Jersey historical societies and is an avid member of the Association for Living History, Farm, and Agricultural Museums, the Washington's Crossing Roundtable of the American Revolution, the New Jersey Living History Advisory Council, and the Advisory Council for Crossroads of the American Revolution.

Finally Full, Finally Slim

Lisa R. Young, Ph.D., R.D.N.

Nutrition and portion-size expert Lisa R. Young shows readers how to use portion control to eat what they want while losing excess weight.

Researchers have spent the past few decades looking for the culprit to our ever-growing bodies, blaming everything from high-fructose corn syrup to too many simple carbs to restaurant dining. The “average American” is now 15 pounds heavier than the “average American” was 20 years ago. While we get fatter we remain confused about what we can or cannot eat, when, and whether we can ever eat a chocolate bar again--when the solution is so simple: Eat whatever food you want, in reasonable portions, and you will lose your excess weight and keep it off for good.

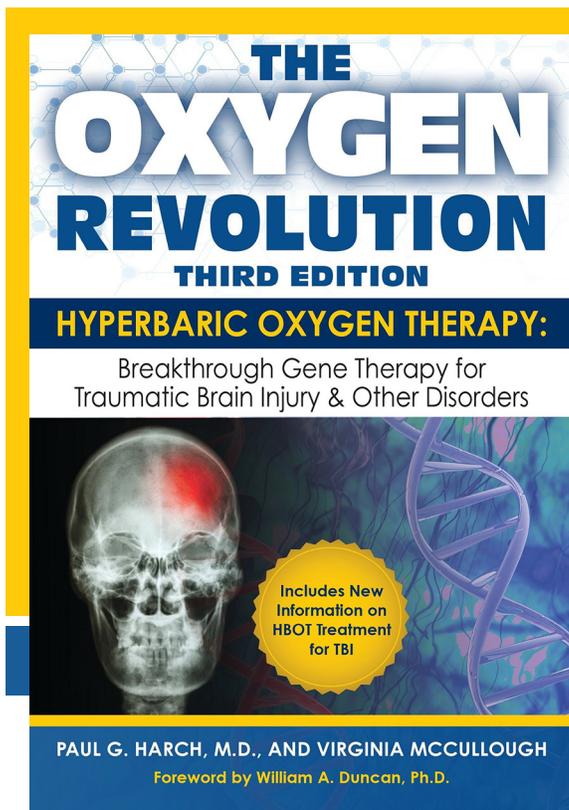

You can lose weight without spending hundreds (or even thousands) of dollars to join a weight-loss group, eliminating entire categories of food, or living on chicken breasts and steamed broccoli. You can continue to eat the foods you love AND slim down once you learn how to “right-size” your portions. You can teach your eyes to snap a “selfie” of the food on your plate and automatically know if your portions are the right sizes. Based on cutting-edge research, FINALLY FULL, FINALLY SLIM teaches you how you can easily slash an average 527 calories a day, without hunger or frustration. This step-by-step guide shows how--by making one small modification a day for 30 days--you can transform your urges, your thinking and your behavior toward food, leading you to permanent weight-loss success.

Dr. Lisa Young is an internationally recognized nutritionist and portion control expert. She is an adjunct professor of nutrition at New York University, author, international lecturer, and a media consultant. As a registered dietitian nutritionist in private practice, Young counsels adults and children on a wide variety of nutrition and health issues. Dr. Young received her doctorate and master’s degrees in nutrition from New York University and her bachelor’s degree in economics and health care administration from the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania. # THE OXYGEN REVOLUTION

PAUL G. HARCH, M.D.

NEW EDITION INCLUDES NEW RESEARCH ON HBOT AS A GENE THERAPY TO TREAT TRAUMATIC BRAIN INJURY AND OTHER DISORDERS.

Hyperbaric oxygen therapy (HBOT) is based on a simple idea—that oxygen can be used therapeutically for a wide range of conditions where tissues have been damaged by oxygen deprivation.

Inspiring and informative, The Oxygen Revolution, Third Edition is the comprehensive, definitive guide to the miracle of hyperbaric oxygen therapy. HBOT directly affects the body at the genetic level, affecting over 8,000 individual genes—those responsible for healing, growth, and anti-inflammation.

Dr. Paul G. Harch's research and clinical practice has shown that this noninvasive and painless treatment can help those suffering from brain injury or such diseases as:

- Stroke
- Autism and other learning disabilities
- Cerebral palsy and other birth injuries
- Alzheimer's, Parkinson's, multiple sclerosis, and other degenerative neurological diseases
- Emergency situations requiring resuscitation, such as cardiac arrest, carbon monoxide poisoning, or near drowning

For those affected by these seemingly "hopeless" diseases, there is finally hope in a proven solution: HBOT.

Paul G. Harch, M.D. is a hyperbaric medicine, diving, and emergency medicine physician and Diplomate of the American Board of Hyperbaric Medicine. The first President of the International Hyperbaric Medical Association and a semi-finalist for the National Institutes of Health Director's Pioneer Award, he has seen the positive effects of HBOT firsthand through the treatment of family members with stroke, dementia, and learning disability. A graduate of Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine and Director of the Louisiana State University School of Medicine's Hyperbaric Medicine Department, Dr. Harch currently divides his time between international consulting, lecturing, and his practice and research in the New Orleans area.

BEAT BY BEAT TO A BETTER SCRIPT

Jim Mercurio

THE
SCENE WRITING

Jim Mercurio

A professional screenwriter's master class in writing the most critical and challenging script element--the individual scene. No one comes out of a movie talking about structure. What audiences love and remember about a movie are great scenes. Marlon Brando in the back seat in On the Waterfront giving his "I could'a been a contender" speech. Meg Ryan's fake orgasm in Katz's Deli in When Harry Met Sally with the climactic punch line: "I'll have what she's having." In Super Bad, Jonah Hill professing "I love you" to his friend Michael Cera by touching his nose with a "boop." Great scenes will elevate your script from ho-hum to extraordinary--and from the slush pile to sellable.

In The Craft of Scene Writing, master screenwriter and writing teacher Jim Mercurio analyzes and systematizes the beats, conflicts, character moments, action, dialogue, and structure that create powerful scenes. Citing examples from scripts old and new, The Craft of Scene Writing breaks down how great scenes reveal character, advance the story, and emotionally connect with audiences, plus demonstrates how to use these techniques in your own scripts.

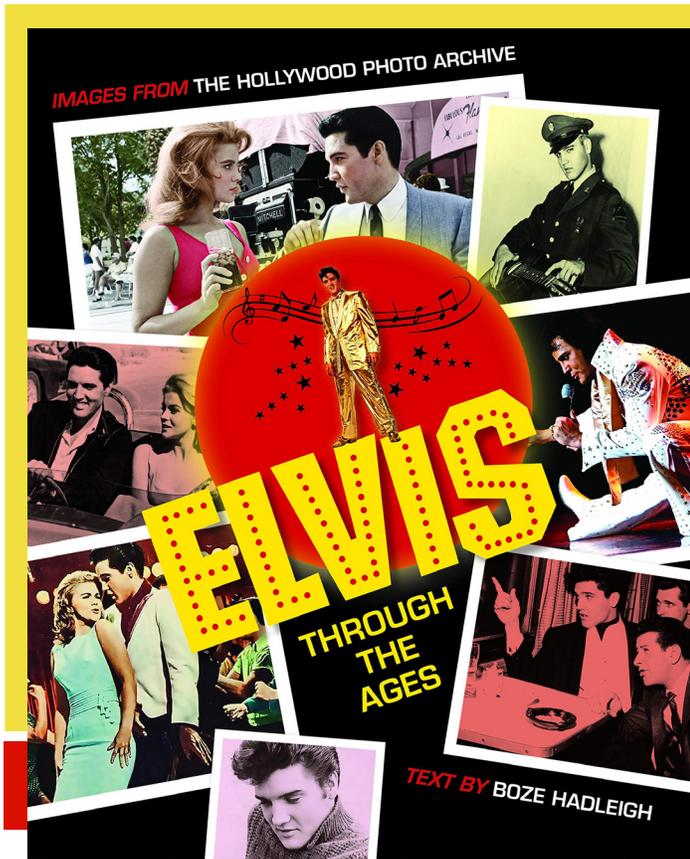

This incredibly detailed exploration of screenwriting technique will help beginning writers to write great scripts and experienced writers to gain a more complete mastery of their craft.

Jim Mercurio is a writer, author, screenwriter and filmmaker. He has directed or produced five feature films and has helped countless writers as a teacher, story analyst and script doctor. Jim is a former development executive, and has sold or written as work-for-hire several screenplays. He wrote and directed the bonus material for the film Making Hard Scrambled Movies--a two-hour seminar on making indie films--which The Washington Post called "a must for would-be filmmakers." Creative Screenwriting magazine ranked him as one of the top screenplay consultants in the country.

ELVIS

THROUGH THE AGES

BOZE HADLEIGH

From the beginning of his career to his death as the Hollywood icon Elvis Presley sang and enchanted thousands of people. Publicity photos and behind-the-scenes shots from the Hollywood Photo Archives include scores of long been forgotten or abandoned images in neglected studio archives. This book collects 100 of the rarest of the rare, seldom previously seen images of his career. For the Elvis fans who think that they have seen it all, this book will provide a new lens on a beloved American icon.

The Hollywood Photo Archive is not only a wonderful collection of cinematic history, it captures the collective memories of Hollywood. The gunmen, the gallants, the ghosts and the stars of the big screen are represented in an impressive archive of more than 180,000 pieces.

The collection has been assembled over forty years by Director Colin Slater. In Slater's early days, as he began to learn his craft, it was the great Directors, Wilder, Lean and Welles, who advised him to study and learn from the film stills. Slater went on to own an important public relations agency, The Adventurers, in association with the legendary Journalist and Film Executive, Fred Hift. Together with 500 stringers the company worked on almost every motion picture produced and released in the UK, gathering stills from the stars and press collateral from the studios. Added with Hift's lifetime of files the Hollywood Archive was born. The outstanding archive provides a treasure trove of prints for film buffs; delve in and discover wonderful film stills, celebrity portraits and heroic stage performances.

From the beginning of her modeling career in 1944 as Norma Jeane Mortensen to her death as the voluptuous Hollywood icon in 1962, Marilyn Monroe posed for thousands of modeling and publicity photos, scores of which have long been forgotten or abandoned in neglected studio archives. This book collects 100 of the rarest of the rare, seldom previously seen images of her brief modeling career, early days on the 20th Century Fox lot, then in candid between scene takes and traveling as a public figure as the wife of Arthur Miller and Joe DiMaggio. For the Monroe fans who think that they have seen it all, this book will provide a new lens on a beloved American icon.

Before the Wizard of Oz made her a star, the studios gave her a regimen of uppers by day and downers by night as well as orders about who to date and lunch with. Controlling her life, Judy transcended studio management and gave a brilliant performance of Dorothy even though she was just 17 at the time, beating out Shirley Temple for the part. At the time, Shirley Temple was even more well known than international star Charlie Chapman.

Judy Garland was a Star who lived a tragic life and her life story captivated fans, who delighted in the fact that they could live the tragedy vicariously.

Lucille Ball

COLIN SLATER

Before she played the buffoon as I love Lucy on everyone's TV set, Lucille Ball acted in over 100 feature films. As she turned to television, when many actors of the '50's would not, she introduced viewers to single episode series, joining in her on camera romps. At the same time she created her TV show, she was inventing modern TV. She introduced the three camera shoot, where the cameraman and the stage manager essentially became directors. And she invested in Star Trek, where three cameras tracking across side by side sets make this budget compliant for the networks.

THE QUOTABLE
JOHN WAYNE

CAROL LEA MUELLER

There is no one who more exemplifies the devotion to our country, its goodness, its industry, and its strength than John Wayne."-President Ronald Reagan

"No man's lifetime of work has better expressed the land of the free and the home of the brave. No man's lifetime of work has given proof to the world that our flag is still there. John Wayne is in truth a star-spangled man who so proudly we hail."-Frank Sinatra

"John Wayne is loved the world over as a man who represents independence, the love of freedom, and the hearty strength of character which made our country great. For audiences at home, John Wayne, through his films, remains an authentic folk hero. In this era of shifting moral values and cynicism, he has made a contribution of inestimable value to American culture and is deserving of this tribute [a Congressional Gold Medal] from the American people."-Gregory Peck

Perhaps best known for his classic movie lines, such as "Fill your hands, you sons-of-bitches!" from True Grit, the late actor John Wayne often displayed a spontaneous and biting wit when away from the screen as well. When a reporter from the Harvard Crimson sarcastically asked Wayne if he looked at himself as an "American Legend," for example, the Duke replied: "Well, not being a Harvard man, I don't look at myself any more than necessary." This small gem of inspiration contains Wayne anecdotes on God and country, the old West, friends and family, and acting, and concludes with quotes from others about John Wayne the actor and John Wayne the man.

Carol Lea Mueller is the editor and author of The Quotable John Wayne, The Quotable Winston Churchill, and Name That Boat!

The curriculum is designed in a thematic, game-like format where children, together with story characters, go on imaginary trips into the wilderness. For example, they travel to mountains, a desert, a rainforest, and the Arctic. They take a riverboat trip, go ocean sailing and snorkeling. The curriculum consists of self-regulation games, social stories, collaborative problem-solving and planning activities, movement games, and mindfulness. It includes audio tracks and reproducible worksheets. This curriculum can be implemented in group counseling, after-school programs, and summer camps.

BRAIDED IN FIRE

Black GIs and Tuscan Villagers
on the Gothic Line 1944

SOLACE WALES

Cultures and relationships are intertwined to become BRAIDED IN FIRE in Sommocolonia, a medieval Tuscan village in the Apennines directly on the highly fortified Third Reich's 'Gothic Line' stretching across northern Italy.

Only at Sommocolonia did attacking German troops break through that formidable line, with dire consequences to the inhabitants and their defenders, a handful of black GIs, who were outnumbered three to one by the Axis troops. In the desperate fight, Lt. John Fox sacrificed himself with supreme heroism. (He was posthumously awarded the Medal of Honor 52 years later.) Although the military action, (and tragic inaction of certain senior white officers), is described in detail, BRAIDED IN FIRE is not just military history, but tells of the human toll of war: the drama, the folly, the heartache – all present in grand measure for two peoples marginalized over the years for reasons of race and economic circumstances.

BRAIDED IN FIRE is a celebration of human dignity in desperate circumstances. This book is painted in a narrative befitting the beauty and rich hues of the Tuscan hills and its people, juxtaposed by the toils of a segregated America in black versus white, even while in Army green. Together these two worlds are BRAIDED IN FIRE with all of the passion, heartbreak, and violence of war, ultimately providing the reader with a redemptive peace, and cultural harmony.

Solace Wales is the former director of the International Child Art Center in San Francisco, Ms. Wales, and her artist husband have lived part of the year in Sommocolonia since the early 1970s. She has interviewed both the villagers in Italy and surviving Buffalo Soldier African-American veterans and their families across the United States. In 1997, she was invited by the White House to attend the long overdue ceremony where President Clinton recognized African Americans serving in WWII, including BRAIDED IN FIRE's protagonist, Lt. John Fox.

POLICE CRAFT

What Cops Know
About Crime, Community and Violence

ADAM PLANTINGA

Praise for 400 Things Cops Know:

"The author pulls no punches or keeps any secrets. "400 Things Cops Know" delves into topics not normally on most people's minds, but at some point things they may have wondered about ... an intimate look at what really happens in police work." -New York Journal of Books

"The new Bible for crime writers." -The Wall Street Journal

A veteran police officer gives his thoughtful, balanced views on police shootings, racial profiling, community relations, and every other aspect of policing--and he'll change what you think about the police.

From the author of the acclaimed 400 Things Cops Know, Police Craft is a thought-provoking and revelatory examination of policing in America, as seen by a working police officer. Adam Plantinga, a 17-year veteran sergeant with the San Francisco Police Department, gives an inside view of the police officer's job, from handling evidence and conducting interrogations to coping with danger, violence, and death. Not hesitating to confront controversial issues, Plantinga presents the police officer's views on police shootings, racial profiling, and relationships between police and the community--and offers reasoned proposals on what the police and the public can do better.

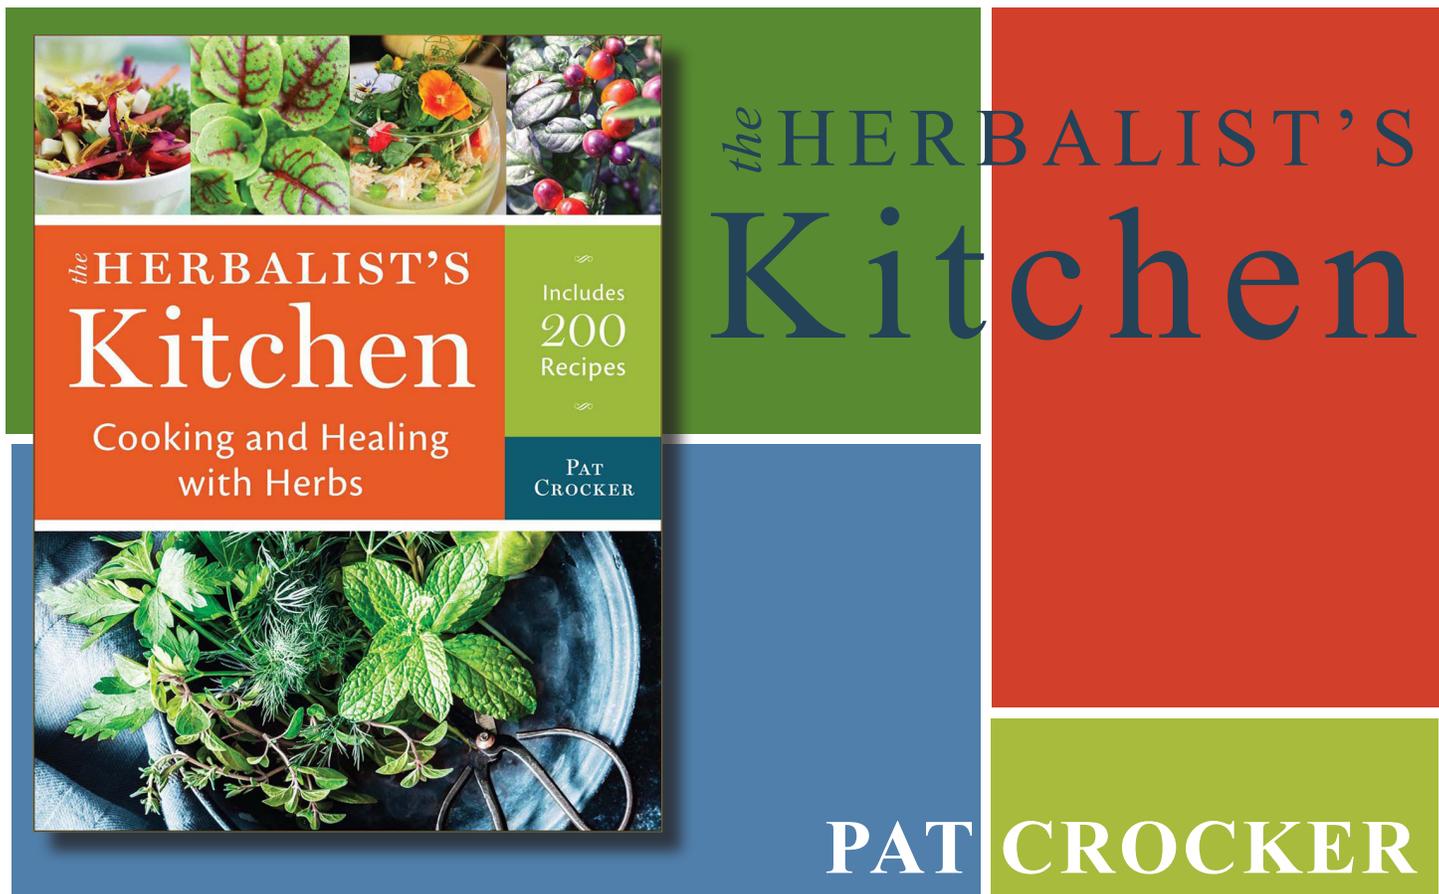

Hard-boiled, humorous, and compassionate, Plantinga wrestles with the complexities and contradictions of a job he loves in which he witnesses so much suffering. Transcending today's strident pro-cop/anti-cop rhetoric, Police Craft will give every reader a greater respect for the police and greater understanding of the job they do.

Adam Plantinga holds a B.A. in English with a second major in Criminology/Law Studies from Marquette University, where he graduated Phi Beta Kappa and magna cum laude in 1995. He has been a police officer for 17 years, and is currently a sergeant with the San Francisco Police Department. Plantinga's first book, 400 Things Cops Know, received rave reviews from star crime writers such as Lee Child, Edward Conlon, and Joseph Wambaugh and was hailed as "the new bible for crime writers" in the Wall Street Journal. Plantinga lives in the Bay Area with his wife and daughters.

Teaching Yoga Beyond the Poses

Sage Rountree and Alexandra DeSiato

New yoga teachers are often taught the poses but not themes or phrases that will make students come back and seasoned instructors often want a fresh approach or new theme to explore. Experienced yoga instructors Sage Rountree and Alexandra DeSiato give yoga teachers tools to find a genuine voice and tap into innate wisdom; offer ready-made, detailed themes to use in and provide guidance and useful, flexible templates for building a toolkit of authentic themes for future use. The workbook begins with a section on voice, authenticity, emulation, phrasing, practice, repetition, and finding inspiration. While offering guidance for new or experienced teachers so that they feel confident speaking from a place of authority and offering their students memorable themes, the authors explore what it means to be authentic and how teachers can approach authenticity without feeling overly exposed or turning their yoga classes into a therapy session. The second section of the book contains 54 complete themes in template form, so instructors can easily use them in a class. These themes are broken down in chapters such as: yoga philosophy, seasonal themes, meditations, quotes, and spiritual ideas and stories from other traditions that translate well to yoga. Each theme is explored in a way that allows teachers to add their own voice, take, and spin. The final section of the book includes gentle advice and prompts with 54 blank templates, so instructors can create their own themes. With a unique angle and a practical feel, this workbook will appeal to yoga teachers, teacher trainers, and at-home practitioners who are moving to the next level.

SAGE ROUNTREE, PhD, is a teacher trainer at the highest level and director of the yoga teacher trainings at the Carolina Yoga Company, which she co-owns. Da Capo / Perseus

According to a recent National Institute of Health study, yoga is a leading form of complementary health care. The Harvard Medical School Guide to Yoga— is a comprehensive guide to understanding an integrated approach to yoga. While there are many yoga books available on the market, most are based on an individual yogi's expertise. Our book relies on modern medical science to illustrate the benefits of yoga. It provides an indispensable, simplified 8-week yoga program that integrates the physical postures of yoga with self-reflection, yoga breathing, teachings, and meditation—an approach that is far more effective and comprehensive than just learning the postures alone.

What makes our program unique?

The Western approach to teaching yoga emphasizes the physical postures and positions. But there is far more to yoga than that. In fact, true yoga includes eight "limbs." These include two categories of ethical principles for how to be true to oneself and to others, breathing exercises, poses, and four levels of concentration and meditation. Scientific research and clinical experience have shown that an integrated approach that includes multiple yoga limbs does far more to improve physical and mental health than merely doing yoga exercises.

Our streamlined 8-week program features user-friendly, step-by-step exercises that are easy to learn and practice at home with minimal equipment. It also highlights major yoga themes that tie in many aspects of the classical 8-limbed practice such as breath control (pranayama), postures (asanas), guided meditation, and self-reflective writing exercises based on fundamental yoga principles such as self-compassion and kindness.

Marlynn Wei, MD, JD, and James E. Groves, MD, have a combined experience of over 30 years of yoga practice and 45 years of using yoga to treat patients with anxiety, depression, and addiction. Together they bring in-depth scientific research about the benefits of yoga for body and mind to readers in their simplified 8-week integrated yoga program. Medical School, HHP reaches millions of consumers each year, and will actively help promote The HMS Guide to Yoga

Glenn Miller

DECLASSIFIED

DENNIS M. SPRAGG

"... a remarkable feat of historical investigation, technical analysis, and cultural retrospective. ... provides the most compelling argument yet of what happened to one of America's most influential musical figures."

-Col. Matthew M. Hurley, U.S. Air Force (Ret.), and former USAF and division chief, ISR Doctrine and Policy

"With great dedication Dennis Spragg has extensively researched the stories that have long circulated about the disappearance of our father's plane during World War II. Finally, there is resolution to this long-standing mystery."-Jonnie Miller Hoffman, daughter and surviving heir of Glenn Miller

On December 15, 1944, Maj. Alton Glenn Miller, commanding officer of the Army Air Force Band (Special), boarded a plane in England bound for France with Lt. Col. Norman Francis Baessell. Somewhere over the English Channel the plane vanished. No trace of the aircraft or its occupants was ever found. To this day Miller, Baessell, and the pilot, John Robert Stuart Morgan, are classified as missing in action.

Weaving together cultural and military history, Glenn Miller Declassified tells the story of the musical legend Miller and his military career as commanding officer of the Army Air Force Band during World War II. After a brief assignment to the Army Specialist Corps, Miller was assigned to the Army Air Forces Training Command and soon thereafter to Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, in the UK. Later that year Miller and his band were to be transferred to Paris to expand the Allied Expeditionary Forces Programme, but Miller never made it.

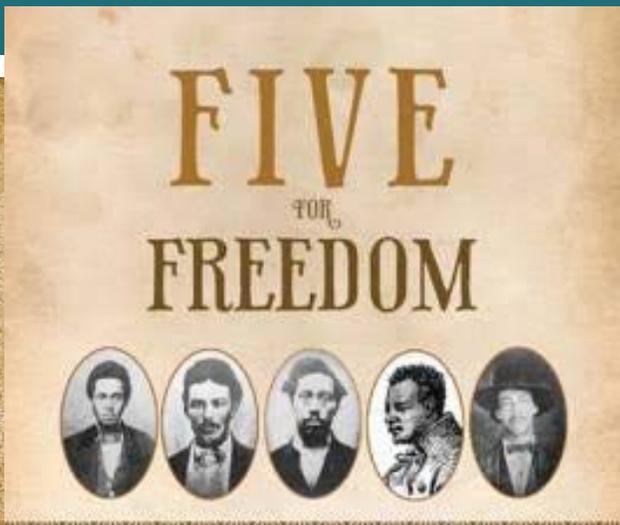

Miller's disappearance resulted in numerous conspiracy theories, especially since much of the information surrounding his military service had been classified, restricted, or, in some cases, lost. Dennis M. Spragg has gained unprecedented access to the Miller family archives as well as military and government documents to lay such theories to rest and to demonstrate the lasting legacy and importance of Miller's life, career, and service to his country.

Dennis M. Spragg is the senior consultant of the Glenn Miller Archive and the American Music Research Center at the University of Colorado-Boulder. A veteran broadcasting and media research professional, he is an internationally known expert on Glenn Miller who has been featured in the PBS television series History Detectives and a BBC Radio production.

THE AFRICAN AMERICAN SOLDIERS IN JOHN BROWN'S ARMY

EUGENE L. MEYER

FIVE FOR FREEDOM

EUGENE L MEYERS

Late on the evening of October 16, 1859, John Brown and his band of 18 raiders descended on Harpers Ferry at the confluence of the Potomac and Shenandoah Rivers. In an ill-fated attempt to incite a slave insurrection, they seized the federal arsenal, took hostages and retreated to a fire engine house where they barricaded themselves until a contingent of US Marines battered their way in on October 18. The raiders were routed, and several were captured. Soon after, they were tried, convicted and hanged.

Among Brown's raiders were five African Americans whose lives and deaths have long been overshadowed by their martyred leader and, even today, are little remembered. Two—John Copeland and Shields Green—were executed. Two others—Dangerfield Newby and Lewis Leary—died at the scene. Of the five, only Osborne Perry Anderson escaped and lived to publish the lone insider account of the event that, most historians agree, was a catalyst to the Civil War.

Five for Freedom is the story of these five brave men, the circumstances in which they were born and how they came together at this time and place. Their lives and deaths affected future generations, not just of their descendants, but of us all.

Eugene L. Meyer is a former longtime Washington Post reporter and editor who has also written for the New York Times, U.S. News & World Report, and many other national and regional publications. He is a contributing editor to Bethesda Magazine and edits the quarterly B'nai B'rith Magazine.

↓ DOWNSIZING The Family Home

Marni Jameson

It's a rite of passage almost no one will escape.

Yet few of us are prepared to sort and sift through a lifetime of possessions – either our own or those that belonged to a parent. The process overwhelms even the most stoic. Nostalgia grabs you and won't let go.

As a result, the task can take seniors who are downsizing or their adult children literally years to complete – if they ever do. Deciding what to keep, toss, sell or donate is far harder when dealing with a parent's home than your own because parental possessions often come loaded with lore, sentiment and unknown value. The result? Guilt, loss, and family feuds. However, with the right mindset, a strategy – and a sense of humor – the process can be accomplished responsibly, respectfully, and relatively quickly.

Marni Jameson understands this often painful process better than most, as she had to dismantle and handle the sale of her own childhood home. With her own story as a backdrop, DOWNSIZING THE FAMILY HOME guides the reader through the do's and don'ts for dealing with the emotional landmines associated with clearing out a parent's, or one's own home. As Marni sorted, sold and salvaged, she sought to determine how to sanely sort through the mire of parental possessions and come to a clear understanding of what matters, and how to calmly let go of the rest.

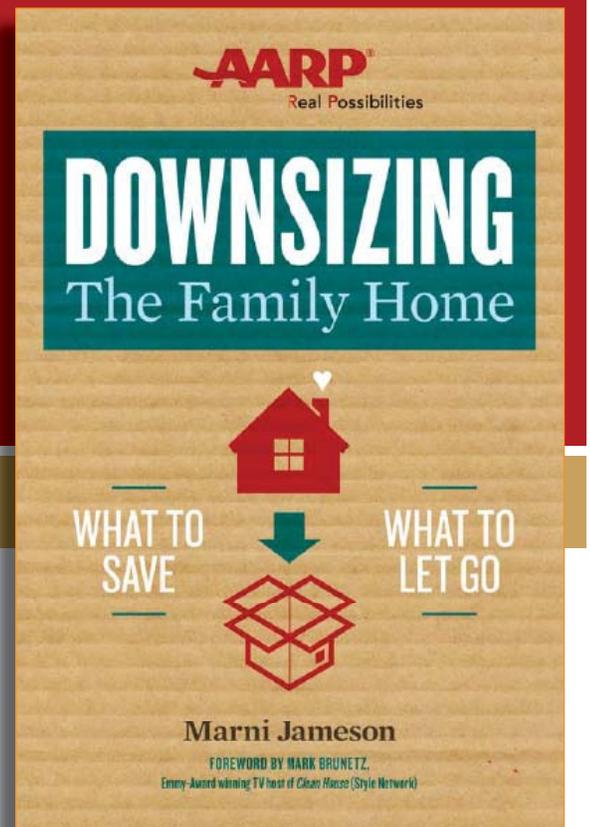

Author Marni Jameson is America's most-loved home columnist. Her humorous and practical column, At Home with Marni Jameson appears in 25 newspapers around the country and reaches 7 million readers each week. Marni also contributes to many major consumer magazines, including Woman's Day, Family Circle and Reader's Digest, and she is the senior health reporter for the Orlando Sentinel. She is frequently interviewed as a home expert by major TV shows having recently appeared on NBC's Nightly News and Fox & Friends.

Field Guide to Finding Mammals in North America

Vladimir Dinets

To see a fog shrew, should you go to Muir Woods National Monument? If you're planning to visit Yellowstone National Park, what animals can you expect to see? When should a photographer visit to get a shot of a gray fox?

A mammal finder's guide (rather than an identification guide), this book tells you how to look, where to go, and what you are likely to find there. Two main sections provide a choice of looking up information by place or by species: The first includes regions of North America, highlighting the best places to look for mammals. The species-finding guide has accounts of more than four hundred species of mammals, including detailed directions to specific parks, refuges, and other locations; the best times of day (or night) to look; and much more information specific to each mammal.

Vladimir Dinets grew up in Russia, moved to the US in the late 90's, and received a PhD in Zoology from the University of Miami for his research on songs and dances of crocodiles and alligators. He studies complex animal behavior and the natural history of rare, little-known animals traveling in more than a hundred countries for research. His books about nature and his travel diaries have been popular in Russia for over twenty years. Dragon Songs, his first popular book in English, came out in 2014 and got a Gold Star from Publishers Weekly, as well as excellent reviews.

Searching for Augusta

The Forgotten Angel of Bastogne

MARTIN KING

Searching for Augusta

The Forgotten Angel of Bastogne

MARTIN KING

In December 1944, Augusta Chiwy, a Belgian Congolese nurse, was visiting her family in Belgium. This is her story.

A story about the only African woman who volunteered to save American lives in World War II. It is unprecedented and has never been revealed until now. Untold millions who saw and read Band of Brothers can now know the whole story of what really occurred to other American soldiers and civilians in Bastogne during that arduous Winter of 1944/45. This is the other side of war, where duty was assumed and not appointed.

Tom Brokaw called the World War II generation the "greatest generation." Recent books and films have caused an almost insatiable thirst for deeper World War II knowledge and eye witness accounts. Living in a fragmented, conflicted society, people need heroes. Heroes that unite people in the common goal of respect for all humanity regardless of gender or ethnic origin. We need reminding that conflict can produce other heroes with other motivations. Not the transient idols of entertainment, nor the disappointing icons of the sports world, but genuine heroes that sacrifice their comfort, security, and personal safety to a purpose far greater than their own lives—freedom and world peace.

This is a love story about three people - a doctor, a nurse and the historian who uncovered their encounter. Searching For Augusta is not a typical love story. There are no dinners by candlelight. No dancing till dawn. No hours of conversation over glasses of fine wine. No flowers. No favorite song. There was simply no time for that...

Martin King is a British Military Historian, Author, and Lecturer. Widely regarded as a leading authority on European Military History, General Graham Hollands referred to him as the "Greatest living expert on the Battle of the Bulge". His campaigning work for World War Two veterans recently came to the attention of leading military personnel at the Pentagon who invited him to present his latest work 'The Tigers of Bastogne'. In 2015 his documentary feature 'Searching for Augusta' received the Emmy Award for Best Historical Documentary. He lives in Belgium near Antwerp where he spends his time writing, lecturing, working with veteran organizations and visiting European battlefields.

The Emotionally Intelligent Manager

HOW TO DEVELOP AND USE THE FOUR KEY EMOTIONAL SKILLS OF LEADERSHIP

"David and Peter take the 'mystery' out of Emotional Intelligence and allow the business person to find and practice ways of becoming a better and more effective leader using the knowledge and practice of emotions..." -Janet Matts, Leadership Practice Director, Johnson & Johnson.

"...a marvelous work helping to legitimize emotions in the workplace." -Richard E. Boyatzis, professor, Department of Organizational Behavior, Case Western Reserve University, and coauthor, Primal Leadership: Realizing the Power of Emotional Intelligence

We have long been taught that emotions should be felt and expressed in carefully controlled ways, and only in certain environments and certain times. This is especially true when at work, particularly when managing others. It is considered terribly unprofessional to express emotion while on the job, and many of us believe that our biggest mistakes and regrets are due to our reactions at those times when our emotions get the better of us.

David R. Caruso and Peter Salovey believe that this view of emotion is not correct. The emotion centers of the brain, they argue, are not relegated to a secondary place in our thinking and reasoning, but instead are an integral part of what it means to think, reason, and to be intelligent. In The Emotionally Intelligent Manager, they show that emotion is not just important, but absolutely necessary for us to make good decisions, take action to solve problems, cope with change, and succeed. The authors detail a practical four-part hierarchy of emotional skills: identifying emotions, using emotions to facilitate thinking, understanding emotions, and managing emotions—and show how we can measure, learn, and develop each skill and employ them in an integrated way to solve our most difficult work-related problems.

Peter Salovey is an American social psychologist and current President of Yale University. He previously served as Yale's Provost, Dean of Yale Graduate School of Arts and Sciences, and Dean of Yale College. Salovey is one of the early pioneers and leading researchers in emotional intelligence.

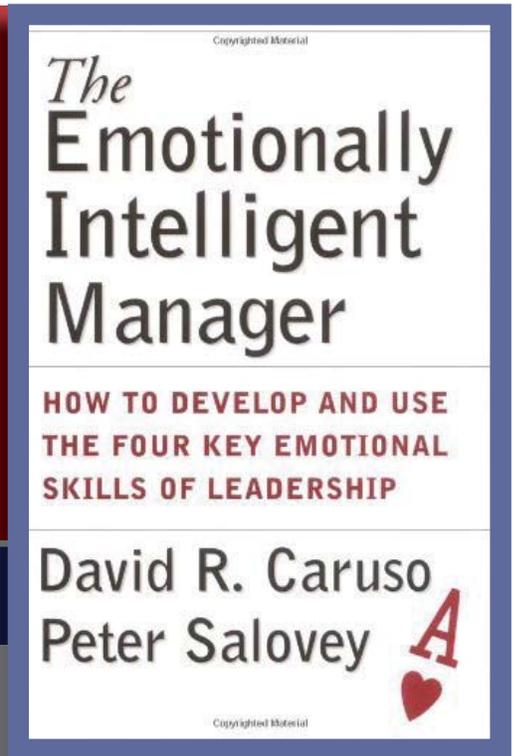

David Caruso, Ph.D., is a management psychologist who develops and conducts emotional intelligence training around the world. He is the special assistant to the dean of Yale College. David received a Ph.D. in psychology from Case Western Reserve University and was a National Institute of Child Health and Human Development predoctoral fellow. He was then awarded a National Institute of Mental Health fellowship and spent two years as a postdoctoral fellow in developmental psychology at Yale University.

The Secret Life of Sharks

A Leading Marine Biologist
Reveals the Mysteries of Shark Behavior

A. PETER KLIMLEY

The Secret Life of Sharks

A. PETER KLIMLEY

Marine biologist Pete Klimley swims with the sharks. He was one of the first scientists to free-dive among sharks, and he has spent nearly thirty years studying shark behavior, sometimes swimming in schools of several hundred sharks. From his firsthand observations he has learned that sharks are not the vicious man-eaters that we imagine, but fascinating animals with complex behaviors.

Most people who think of sharks at all think immediately of great white sharks. But there are more than four hundred species of shark. Dr. Klimley has studied several species, most notably the great white and the hammerhead. (He describes the great white as the athlete among sharks, and the hammerhead as the Ph.D. of the shark world.) In The Secret Life of Sharks Dr. Klimley reveals the significant discoveries he made about hammerhead navigation and great white eating habits. By studying hammerheads gathered around underwater seamounts, Dr. Klimley learned that hammerheads rely on sophisticated tracking of ocean-floor magnetism to navigate. His long-term study of great white sharks off the California coast demonstrated that these huge sharks prefer to eat seals and sea lions because of the energy contained in their fatty bodies. They are selective eaters, not the man-eaters we expect, and they sometimes go weeks between meals. But Dr. Klimley did observe a ritualized behavior that great whites practice in order to avoid deadly disputes over prey that one shark has captured and another wants.

Although we have learned a great deal about shark behavior, says Dr. Klimley, there is much that we do not know. Unfortunately we are destroying these magnificent creatures of the deep through overfishing and degradation of the oceans. Already some populations of sharks have declined steeply.

Vividly written by one of the foremost authorities on sharks, The Secret Life of Sharks is a fascinating account of some of the world's most magnificent animals.

A. Peter Klimley, Ph.D. is Adjunct Professor & Director of Biotelemetry Laboratory Department of Wildlife, Fish, & Conservation Biology at UC Davis. He has been studying sharks for decades, and his experiences with a variety of species, including the much-feared great white shark, have shed light on natural behaviors rarely witnessed by others. Known as Dr. Hammerhead for his groundbreaking work on hammerhead sharks in the Gulf of California, Klimley refutes claims that sharks are "mindless killing machines." They are very complex, even social animals.

Face Cards for Emotional Awareness

118 Activities for Understanding Yourself and Others

Tad A. Vogl

Face Cards for Emotional Awareness

119 Activities for Understanding Yourself and Others

Tad A. Vogl

This innovative counseling tool features a deck of 54 illustrated cards showing facial expressions of various emotions. The cards help students learn “the language of emotions” as they reflect on their feelings and life experiences. A facilitator’s manual provides implementation guidelines and 119 suggested activities. The activities are flexible and provide a collection of starting points to help promote personal growth and trusting relationships with others.

The 119 Face Card activities are identified for use with middle school or high school students or both. Some activities work best in one-to-one settings. Others can be used with either individuals or with different size groups. Each activity focuses on one of the following themes: Reflection, Prediction, Empathy, Cooperation, or Problem Solving.

What sets Face Cards apart from other seemingly similar products is that instead of pairing each expression with a specific word, Face Cards “speak for themselves.” An expression that says “worry” to one person might say “pensive” to another, or even “queasy” to a third. Words have definitions. Pictures can mean almost anything.

Tad A. Vogl, Ed.D., has spent much of the last twenty years working with special needs populations, from adult psychiatric patients, to troubled youth living in residential treatment facilities and attending alternative schools. In addition to the development of Face Cards, Dr. Vogl has written Navigating the Glass Maze: Phenomenological Interviews with Graduate Students of Adult Education Diagnosed with Attention-Deficit/Hyperactivity Disorder.

FINDING VOICE

Treating Selective Mutism and Social Anxiety

Robert L. Schum

The goal of this book is to provide well-practiced procedures that are accessible to families, teachers and therapists, who have had limited experience with selective mutism. The major part of this book is focused on intervention techniques, providing suggestions and guidance on action items available to the important people in these children's lives. It is based on a foundation of evidence and knowledge about communication, behavior change, and anxiety disorders.

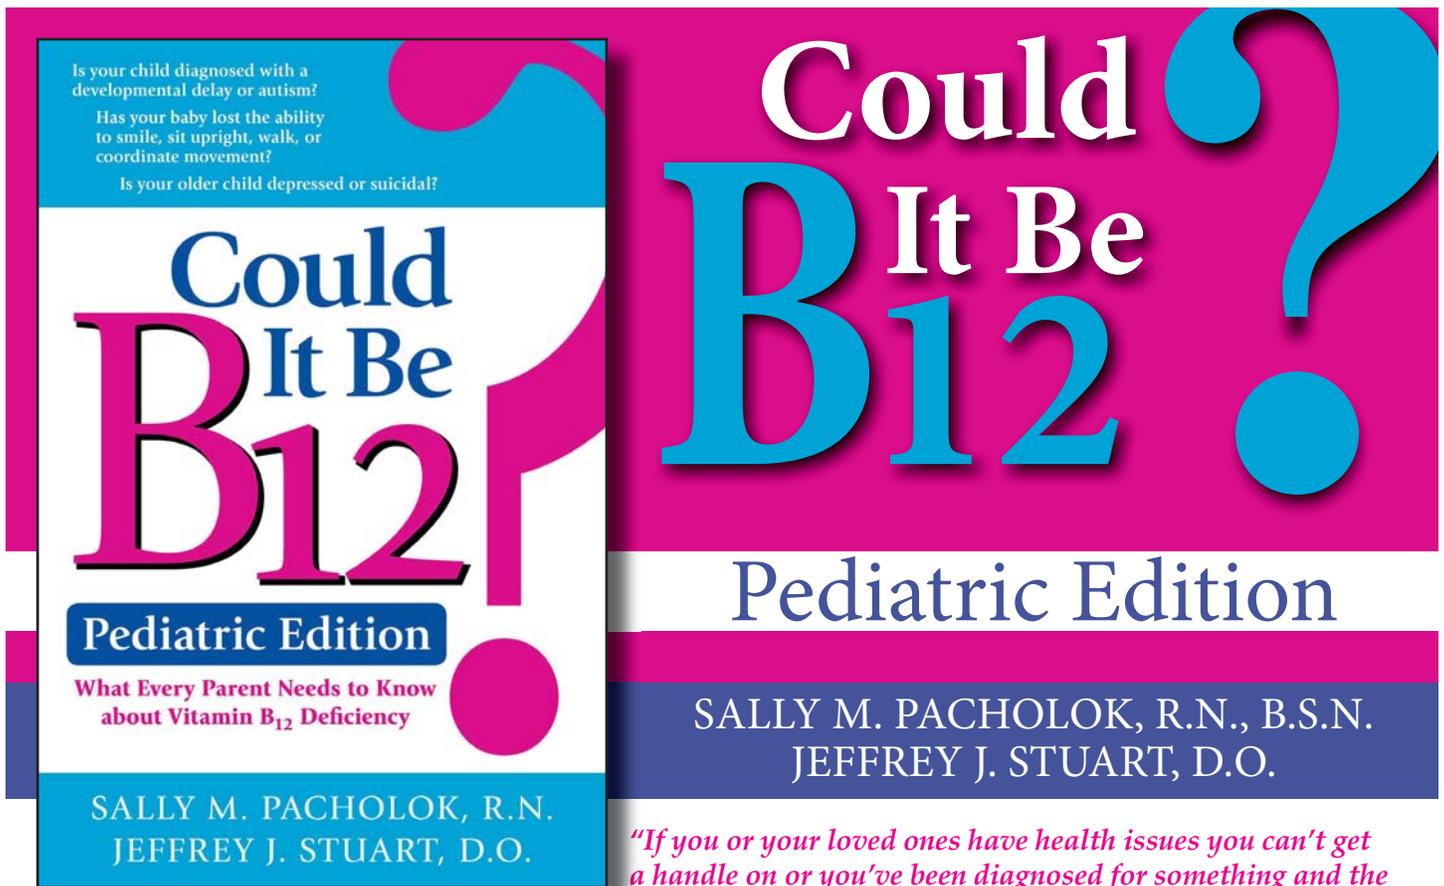

This book is not a manual for treatment of selective mutism in a rote manner. Some psychological and communication disorders might be treated with a manualized procedure, but this is not one of those disorders. The behavioral variations and rate of progress varies widely among children with selective mutism. Case examples and anecdotes abound in this book. They are chosen to show the variety of ways children express selective mutism. These variations limit a manualized response. Rather than serving a menu to the reader, this book teaches how to create different menus, based on the tastes of the children and their parents. Because there is limited research in the treatment of selective mutism, we must rely on an analytical approach to clinical experience, examining what seems to work and why it works.

Robert Schum, Ph.D., clinical psychologist, is professor of pediatrics at the Medical College of Wisconsin and was previously the director of the Wendell Johnson Speech and Hearing Clinic at the University of Iowa. Dr. Schum served as chief of the Section of Psychology at Children's Hospital of Wisconsin in Milwaukee. He is a member of the American Psychological Association as well as the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association.

Dr. Schum has presented more than 100 workshops and is the author of many articles and chapters, including "Clinical Perspectives on the Treatment of Selective Mutism" which was published in the Journal of Speech-Language Pathology and Applied Behavioral Analysis (2006). The focus of Dr. Schum's clinical services, teaching and research is the assessment and treatment of children who have communication disorders. He is active in providing psychotherapy to children who have selective mutism.

Today there is a wealth of new breast cancer research, providing many of the long-sought answers to our questions about what prevents, triggers, promotes, and heals breast cancer. These studies are being published from universities all around the world and provide direct evidence of toxin exposures and nutrient deficiencies that create the environment for breast cancer cell development. # LISTENING TO A CONTINENT SING

"Listening to a Continent Sing...is both an inspiration and a bundle of gifts waiting to be unwrapped."
-Wall Street Journal

Join birdsong expert Donald Kroodsma on a ten-week, ten-state bicycle journey as he travels with his son from the Atlantic to the Pacific, lingering and listening to our continent sing as no one has before. On remote country roads, over terrain vast and spectacular, from dawn to dusk and sometimes through the night, you will gain a deep appreciation for the natural symphony of birdsong many of us take for granted. Come along and marvel at how expressive these creatures are as Kroodsma leads you west across nearly five thousand miles—at a leisurely pace that enables a deep listen.

Listening to a Continent Sing is also a guided tour through the history of a young nation and the geology of an ancient landscape, and an invitation to set aside the bustle of everyday life to follow one's dreams. It is a celebration of flowers and trees, rocks and rivers, mountains and prairies, clouds and sky, headwinds and calm, and of local voices and the people you will meet along the way. It is also the story of a father and son deepening their bond as they travel the slow road together from coast to coast.

Beautifully illustrated throughout with drawings of birds and scenes and featuring QR codes that link to audio birdsong, this poignant and insightful book takes you on a travel adventure unlike any other—accompanied on every leg of your journey by birdsong.

A retired biology professor at the University of Massachusetts, Donald Kroodsma's work on bird song is legendary. His book The Singing Life of Birds won the 2006 John Burroughs Medal Award and the American Birding Association's Robert Ridgway Distinguished Service Award for excellence in publications pertaining to field ornithology. In 2003 the American Ornithologists' Union called him the "reigning authority on the biology of avian vocal behavior." Kroodsma received his Ph.D. at Oregon State University and has traveled all over North and South America researching bird song.

Thinking Parent, Thinking Child

Turning Everyday Problems Into Solutions

SECOND EDITION

Myrna B. Shure

"Based on many years of research and development, the book carries on the tradition of Benjamin Spock as a resource for giving self-confidence to parents and support to their children." -James G. Kelly, PhD, Professor emeritus, psychology, University of Illinois at Chicago

If you want to prepare your child to become a happy, successful, functional adult, this book is a must." -Sam Goldstein, PhD, Coauthor, Raising Resilient Children

In this new edition, internationally acclaimed author Dr. Myrna B. Shure shows how to apply "I Can Problem Solve" techniques to the top concerns of parents and children from preschoolers through preteens. With updated research, three completely new chapters, and numerous new problem-solving scenarios, the book offers a sensible way for parents to help their children learn how to think, not what to think.

The important lessons presented in this book go far beyond how to manage or control specific problems. Instead, you'll be able to help your child find her own best solutions to problems -- ranging from getting her homework done to test anxiety to teasing to being teased to peer pressure.

Thinking Parent, Thinking Child gives you tools to help your kids become less aggressive, inhibited, and fearful, and more cooperative, empathic, and better able to handle life's frustrations and disappointments.

Myrna B. Shure, PhD, is professor emeritus in the Department of Psychology at Drexel University in Philadelphia. She is the creator of the I Can Problem Solve program—a school-based social and emotional learning/violence prevention program published by Research Press. # THE NUCLEAR TERRORIST

- A nuclear power reactor is a nuclear bomb-fuel factory. Unskilled nuclear terrorists can build a nuclear bomb-fuel reprocessor in less than six months and reprocess enough spent fuel rods to build the Nagasaki bomb in one month.
- Terrorist nukes are shockingly easy to build. When a grapefruit-size chunk of bomb-grade uranium dropped on the same-size chunk from a height of six feet, the impact produces one-half the Hiroshima bomb-yield.
- Despite the fact that 15 out of 19 9/11 hijackers were Saudis, we are selling the Saudis nuclear reactors, i.e. nuclear bomb-fuel factories. We're selling them to India too.
- George W. Bush's administration was packed with officials who, in their private lives, brazenly profited off nuclear rogues such as Iran, North Korea and Saudi Arabia. Donald Rumsfeld worked for a firm, which sold nuclear reactors to North Korea. Dick Cheney's firm, Halliburton, helped build up Iran and Iraq's energy sector.
- US nuclear weapons labs and power plants are shockingly unprotected. At US nuclear weapons sites mock-intruders successfully smuggle out nuclear bomb-fuel in 50% of their attempts, at one 80% of the time.
- In Pakistan, highly trained al Qaeda-Taliban units are blowing up nuclear facilities. Targets in the US include New York City's Indian Point Nuclear Power Plant, and the Sandia Nuclear Weapons Lab in San Francisco. They can do the same here, yet we do nothing to prepare.

ROBERT GLEASON has dedicated nearly 30 years to researching the threat of nuclear terrorism and the possibility of nuclear annihilation. He was recently featured in the History Channel special "Prophets of Doom." He has also had a successful career as an acquisitions editor in New York publishing. Stephen King, Robert Heinlein, Harold Robbins, Father Andrew Greeley, Margaret Truman, Jack Anderson, Whitley Strieber, Ice-T, Reggie Jackson, and Former Secretary of Defense Casper Weinberger are among the notables and bestselling authors that Gleason has signed up and edited.

The Art of Coloring WOOD

BRIAN MILLER and MARCI CRESTANI

If you're a woodworker looking to take your skills to a higher level of craftsmanship, how about coloring your wood with chemicals and dyes instead of stains. Unlike stains that can trap light and obscure grain patterns, chemicals and dyes, when handled properly, are one of the best methods for enhancing a wood's color or accentuating the grain pattern. A classic technique that's been practiced for centuries, coloring wood is a sure way to infuse a "wow" into your woodworking efforts.

With expert guidance by Brian Miller, a professor of Wood Technology, The Art of Coloring Wood removes the intimidation of working with chemicals and dyes and is the perfect entry point for anyone looking to move on from simple stains to learn the art of coloring wood for dramatic effect.

The Art of Coloring Wood focuses on the six most popular woods used by woodworkers and outlines the unique characteristics with regard to coloring each. The Art of Coloring Wood also covers the supplies needed and contains chapters on the different chemicals and dyes that will make your woodworking shine.

Miller provides a simple approach that makes the process easy to understand. Each chapter offers recipes, insights, and many "a-ha!" moments that make learning about chemicals and dyes both fascinating and within easy reach. With sidebars offering tips, mistakes, and countless nuggets of information, The Art of Coloring will have you understanding the methods and reasons for coloring your wood so you can finish your project with style and flair.

Brian Miller entered the finishing business in 1975 and eventually started his own contracting company specializing in wood finishing and custom painting. He became hooked on coloring wood and taught himself all about chemicals and dyes while spending countless hours experimenting with recipes. After a tour of the legendary Gamble House in Pasadena, Brian expanded into historical preservation work, restoring several Greene & Greene homes, including the interior and exterior of the famed Blacker House as well as Charles Greene's personal home and the woodwork on several homes of Frank Lloyd Wright. Since 2002, he has been an adjunct faculty member in the Woodworking Technology department at Cerritos College in Norwalk, CA, where he teaches a wood finishing course he designed. # HANDMADE

Creative Focus in the Age of Distraction

HANDMADE

Creative Focus in the Age of Distraction

Gary Rogowski

"A rich life's worth of journeys both at the workbench and upon the trail, Handmade can show us the way out of the woods, sure, but even better, it teaches us that maybe in the woods is the place to be." -Nick Offerman, woodworker and author of Paddle Your Own Canoe

In an era when there are countless competing claims on one's attention, how does one find the internal focus to be creative? For master furniture craftsman Gary Rogowski, the answer is in the act of creative work itself. The discipline of working with one's hands to create unnecessarily beautiful things shapes the builder into a more complete human being.

In the tradition of Zen and the Art of Motorcycle Maintenance and Shop Class as Soulcraft, Rogowski's Handmade is a profound meditation on the eternal value of manual work, creativity, human fallibility, and the stubborn pursuit of quality work. Rogowski tells his life story of how he became a craftsman and how years of persistent work have taught him patience, resilience, tolerance for failure, and a love of pursuing beauty and mastery for its own sake.

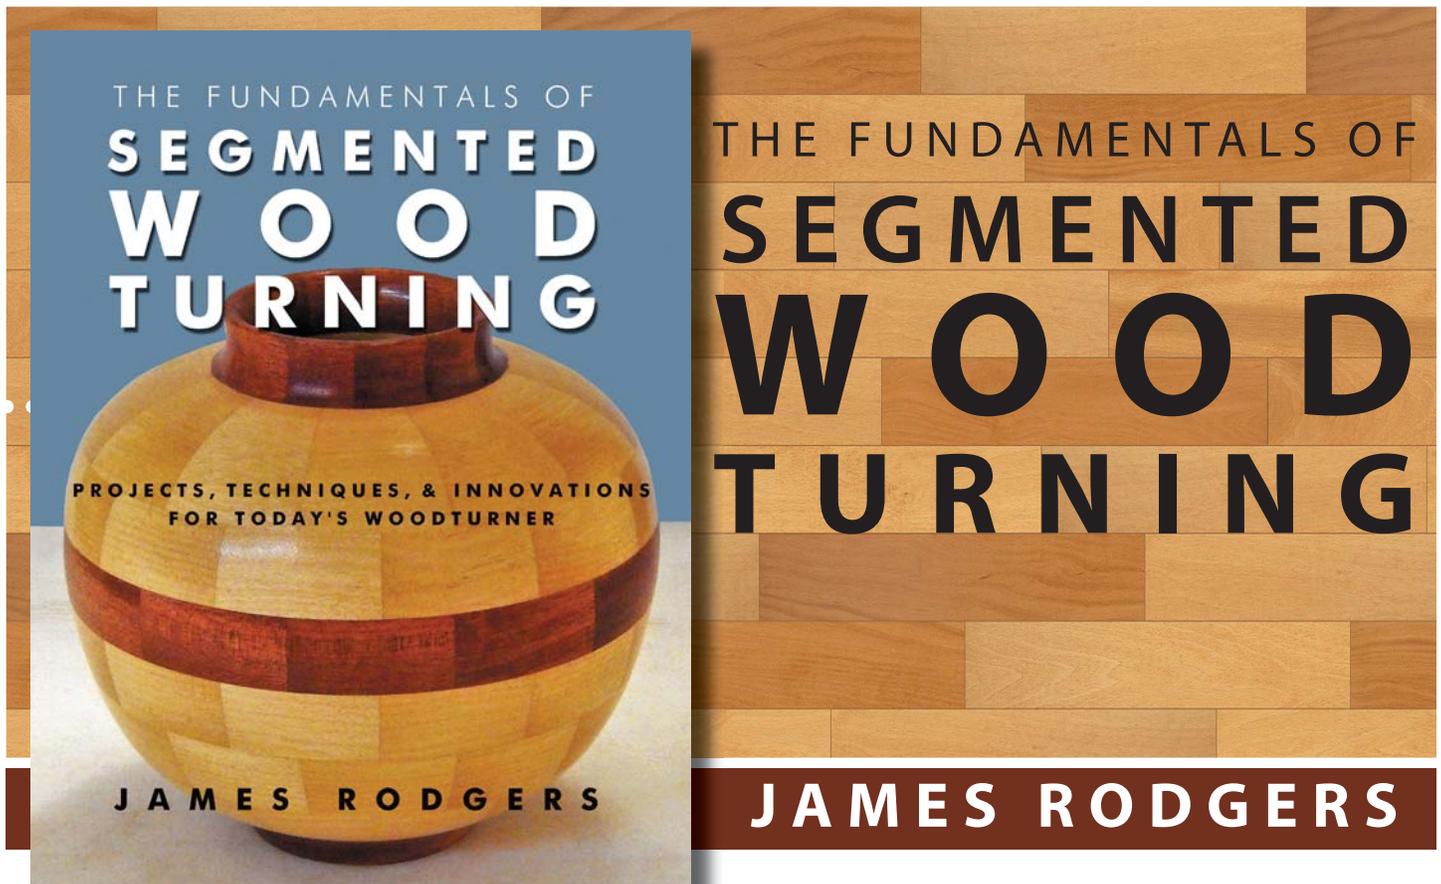

Part autobiography, part guide to creativity, and part guide to living, Handmade is a book for craftspeople, artists, and anyone who seeks clarity, purpose, and creativity in their work -- and it's the perfect antidote to a modern world that thinks human labor is obsolete.

Gary Rogowski is a furniture maker, designer, teacher and author. Since 1974 he has built public and private furniture commissions for clients and galleries nationwide. He is a former contributing editor to Fine Woodworking Magazine and has written hundred of articles and several books, including the bestselling Complete Illustrated Guide to Joinery. He is also a playwright, novelist, and essayist. Rogowski has taught and lectured throughout the United States and in the United Kingdom, Ireland, and Germany. In 2015, he gave the first-ever lecture in English at the Ecole Boulle in Paris. Rogowski is the founder and director of The Northwest Woodworking Studio: A School for Woodworkers, in Portland, Oregon. In 2015 he founded a nonprofit organization, Woodworking Ideas Northwest to mentor high school students at the bench.
