SNOW & POISON

by Melissa de la Cruz

Love is stronger than poison in this lush retelling of Snow White.

Raven-black hair, red lips, and skin as white as snow—Lady Sophie has led a sheltered life... But that tale ends here. When Lady Sophie falls in love with the heir to the Spanish throne, a war breaks out. This is a lush historical fantasy with a heavy dose of romance and all the delicious excess of early modern European nobility.

THE MEMORY EATER

by Rebecca Mahoney

A teenage girl must save her town from a memory-devouring monster in this piercing exploration of grief, trauma, and memory.

For generations, a monster called the Memory Eater has lived in the caves of Whistler Beach, Maine, surviving off the unhappy memories of those who want to forget. The Harlows have kept the monster locked away and alive. When seventeen-year-old Alana Harlow inherits the family business she realizes the strange gaps in her memory aren't from an accident; her memories have been taken... eaten. And she's lost the knowledge of how to keep the monster contained.

THE MEADOWS

by Stephanie Oakes

A queer, YA Handmaid's Tale meets Never Let Me Go about a dystopian society determined to “reform” anyone who is LGBTQ+.

Everyone hopes for a letter to attend the Meadows, a secret place where only the best and brightest go. But the Meadows keeps a dark secret: its purpose is to reform the students inside, to show them that one way of life is the only way to survive. Anything else, they're told, will topple a society already on the brink of collapse.

THE YEAR LIFE WENT DOWN THE TOILET

by Jake Maia Arlow

A hilariously honest book about surviving middle school while navigating a chronic illness from the Stonewall Honor-winning author of Almost Flying. Twelve-year-old Al Schneider is too scared to talk about the two biggest things in her life: 1. Her stomach hurts all the time. 2. She's almost definitely 100% sure she likes girls. So she holds it in...until she can't. After nearly having an accident of the lavatorial variety in class, Al finds out she has Crohn's disease. Instead of solving her problems, it just makes them worse.

OPINIONS AND OPOSSUMS

by Ann Braden

Agnes has been raised not to question authority by her mom—but it’s hard, especially in religion class where her mom does not want her to make a stir. Why is so much Eve’s fault? Do we have to be so rigid in how we picture God? Fortunately, Agnes’ anthropologist neighbor, Gracy, has gotten Agnes thinking. When Agnes learns that some cultures picture God as a female, her mind is blown, and she feels freed to think—and write—about things from new perspectives.

THE BOTANY OF DESIRE YOUNG READERS EDITION

by Michael Pollan

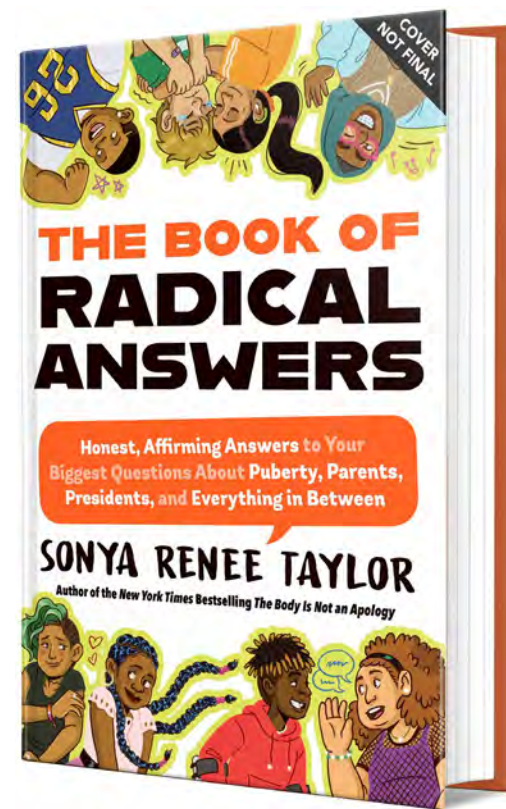

In this entertaining young readers edition of the environmental studies classic, Michael Pollan demonstrates how people and domesticated plants have formed a reciprocal relationship. He links four fundamental human desires—sweetness, beauty, energy, and control—with the plants that satisfy them: the apple, the tulip, coffee, and the potato. In telling the stories of four familiar species, Pollan illustrates how the plants have evolved to satisfy humankind's most basic yearnings. And just as we've benefited from these plants, we have also helped them to thrive.

HELLAWEEN

by Moss Lawton

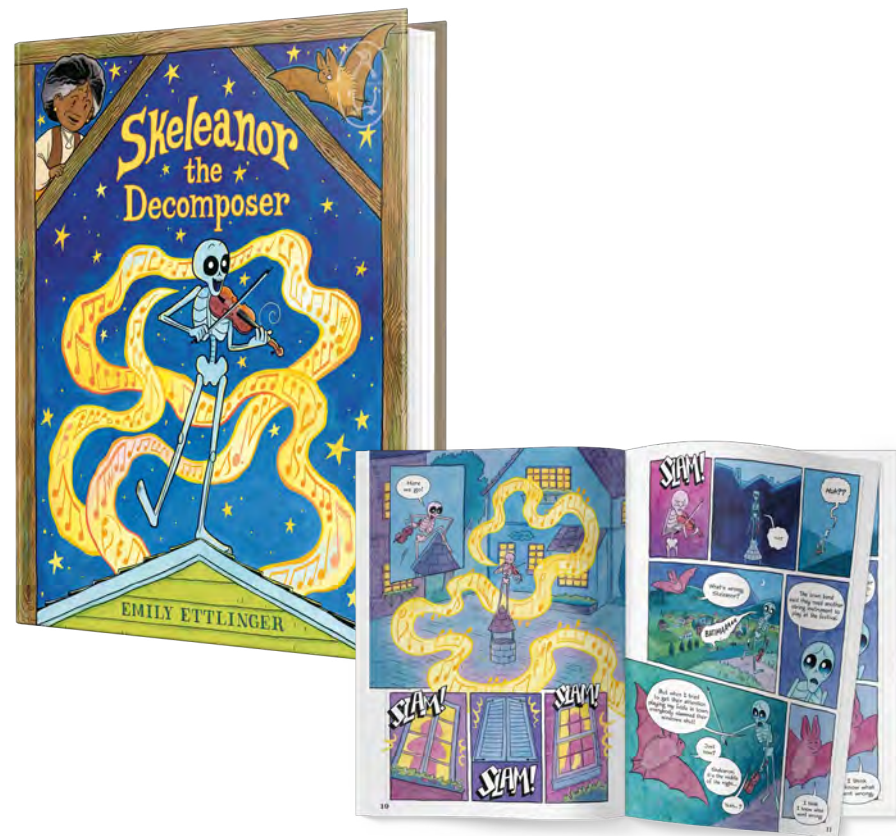

Learning to become a witch can be difficult. Luckily, Gwen has Sloane (a werewolf) and Miles (a vampire). Except they're not from this world... they're from the Hallowlands, a realm with monsters. With the help of a new wand and a grimoire, Gwen's hoping her friends will see that she's ready to return with them to the Hallowlands. But Gwen hadn't counted on running into Hiro, a local kid who's just a little too obsessed with monster-hunting, and his mission to rid his town of evil.

SKELEANOR THE DECOMPOSER

by Emily Ettlinger

Skeleanor loves music more than life itself. There's just one problem: She has a bit more rattle than rhythm at the moment. No matter what type of instrument she plays—from the fiddle to the xylobone—she always seems to scare the people of Little Casketon away. But with the Little Casketon Summershine festival coming up, and the town band missing a player, maybe Skeleanor could show people her skills and finally take center stage.

WANTS VS. NEEDS VS. ROBOTS

by Michael Rex

A timely companion to the popular Facts vs. Opinions vs. Robots, which makes tricky, but vital, concepts accessible. Do you know the difference between a want and a need? It can be a hard thing to understand, especially when you want something so much that you feel like you have to have it. The robots in this book are here to show you the difference as they make trades to get some things they really want (hooray!) but give away some things they need (oops!).

BEFORE, NOW

by Daniel Salmieri

Follow a child from babyhood to parenthood in this moving, meaningful book about family connections and opposites. Ava’s world is full of opposites: colorful sneakers on a gray sidewalk, thick books made up of thin sheets of paper, and dreams of huge spaces in her small head. Together, these opposites depict a full life, as Ava moves from girl to student to scientist, from daughter to mother to grandmother.

WHEN SANTA CAME TO STAY

by Billy Sharff;
Illustrated by Eda Kaban

The Grinch meets Snowmen at Christmas in this rollicking picture book that answers the question: Why can't Christmas last all year?

What happens when your Christmas cookies are too good? Santa comes... to stay! At first, it's fantastic: treats and toys and reindeer flights every day. Then Mrs. Claus arrives. And Baby Claus. And before long, the Easter Bunny and her babies! Soon, everyone's had a bit too much.

MEET YOUR WORLD SERIES

by Laurie Ann Thompson; Illustrated by Jay Fleck

An adorable, STEM nonfiction picture book series that encourages very young readers to learn—through gentle interactivity and play—about the animals who share their world. In each book, words and art inspire kids to act out animal actions that are not so different from their own habits. And robust backmatter offers even more facts and fun.

YOU ARE A HONEY BEE!

You might have heard the words “busy as a bee,” but what do bees actually do each day? Did you know bees clean their rooms, help feed baby bees, and build the honeycomb they live in?

YOU ARE A RACCOON!

You may have seen a raccoon scurry up a tree or across the road just before dark. Did you know that raccoons stay up at night playing, hunting, and eating when you go to sleep?
