He works hard and has fallen – hard! – for Yetunde. Problem is bratty rich-kid Desmond likes Yetunde too. Where will Shade find the guts to tell her how he feels about her? The lovely Yetunde – Science major by day, kung fu fighter by night – has enough courage for both of them. But Shades has an enemy bigger than jerky Desmond. Enter The Deuce. He's cool, smart, strong. A rebel thirsty for power. Worst of all, he lives inside Shades, taking over his life any chance he gets. TONKO AND THE SIZA MASK

There's no hiding behind THIS mask!

Nestled below a strange rock-formation known as Star Mountain is Siza, a one-street, one-horse, many-cows town surrounded by maize fields, cattle farms, and one massively understocked grocery store (unless you love corn and milk). You can only get wif-fi at the Post Office and there isn't one single sneaker store. For Tonko, small-town life sucks ... And don't even get him started on all the cow pats! All Tonko wants is to go back to the city - UNTIL he finds his family's ancient Siza mask, allowing him to transform into his ancestors and harness their mystical powers. The Siza mask allows Tonko to transform into multiple ancestors including his grandfather, Msizi, a warrior with a shield forged from the sun's rays; his great-aunt Bombisani, a camouflaging prankster who bends 'n breaks the rules; and Uncle Ogya, who has the strength to bench press two cows, but the temper of a buffalo stung by a hornet! But family doesn't come without baggage. As Tonko becomes entangled in an intricate and powerful family legacy, he discovers that with great powers come great ... complications after he transforms into his great-uncle Felani, who puts the mega into megalomania and, unwittingly, opens a portal to the ancestral realm of Azania, releasing everything from cow zombies and shape-shifting leopards to granite baboons. Now, Tonko must learn everything he can about his ancestors (and himself) if he is to harness their powers to protect his new community, while Felani, now unleashed and growing in power, is plotting to get the mask back - just as soon as he escapes the Mr T bobblehead on the dashboard of a taxi!

TARZON OF THE EEPS

A cyborg's fight to save his jungle.

Planet Eep: home to the Eeps, a colony of stupid little battle robots who evolved to survive in their extraterrestrial jungle. The Eeps rebuilt Tarzon after finding his body, equipping him with self-regenerating biomechanics that grew as he grew. Just as Tarzon reached his early cyborg adulthood, humans invaded Planet Eep. Carrying blob technology, the humans' high-powered blobcrafts fired blob-lasers all over the planet. To them, Planet Eep is the perfect setting for a blob-themed amusement park. Tarzon and the Eeps look like primate-level tech compared to the humans' blobcrafts, but they'll tear anyone limb from limb to defend their jungle. Everything changes when Captain Jane Proter arrives. Her family's own centuries-old pre-colonial past gives her a possible link to understanding a supposed "savage" like Tarzon. Are the values she now defends as corrupted as she suspects? Tarzon's simple sense of right, wrong and love for the jungle may be the only hope to save the Eeps and their civilization.

Mike de Seve is the funniest writer I know – even his grocery lists slay me. He's also a double threat. Many writers – even animation writers – don't think visually. But Mike is an artist. He draws. He started out as a director. The whole episode plays out in his head without sound before he even turns on that redundant word-processor of his. It's funny without the dialogue. Then he goes and writes incredibly crisp, punchy and hilarious dialogue to boot. How does he do this?! What is his secret?! Only his barber knows ... every time I start a new script, I ask myself: What would Mike do?' – Rob David, Executive Producer and Vice-President, Mattel.

AFRONAUGHTS

Zero-gravity zeroes.

Keso is a cheeky, charismatic misfit kid living in your typical RURAL VILLAGE except ... it's a kaleidoscopic carnival of the quirkiest beings from across the universe ... And on an ASTEROID floating through deep, deep space ... He has a ride-or-die anthropomorphic goat BFF, aka Spot, a traditional dad set in his ways, a gangster-esque lil sis, Rue, and a Mom that's AWOL ... He spends his days having karaoke jam offs, running from rabid space chickens, and reluctantly working at his dad's barbershop, which serves the most bizarre clientele in the universe. Keso's universe is flipped upside down when a free ticket to the elite Planet Swagtopia - the Disneyland meets Met Gala of Space - comes up for grabs. A ticket that is awarded to the coolest kid on Instaglam. This puts Keso in conflict with his traditional father, who insists he takes over the barbershop. And if that is not enough, Keso will have to overcome space bullies, and his Instaglam Rivals like Egghead, who are determined to beat him to the exclusive ticket And then there's the small issue of ARDO, a menacing inter-dimensional Celestial AI hell-bent on conquering all of reality who Keso accidentally sets free. BEARENT

Because a bearent is lots more fun than a parent.

In this irreverent, wild and unpredictable illustrated humour book series, ten-year-old Iggy doesn't have a father, so he creates one by shaving a talking bear named Ziggy and dressing him in human clothes. Now Iggy is in control of his own 'adult'! Together with their friend Mika, they help others by going to outrageous lengths to infiltrate the hallowed, mysterious world of grown-ups. Electric clippers. A dress shirt. Sandals. A tie. Some slacks. A wig. That's all Iggy needed to make his own 'dad'. Oh, and a talking bear named Ziggy. Iggy grew up with Ziggy, who came out of the woods every day to play. They're both ten years old now. But at age ten, a bear is seven feet tall, 400 pounds and fully mature (not that there's anything mature about Ziggy!) When his fur is shaved off and he's dressed up in human clothes, Ziggy passes for a man. An odd-looking man, but a man. With his mom always working, Iggy has endless quality time with Ziggy. Having his own adult gives Iggy incredible power: the ultimate hack to infiltrating the uncharted, mysterious world of grown-ups. Together, Iggy and Ziggy use that power to right wrongs, help the helpless and do incredibly stupid, irresponsible things together. You know, the fun stuff!

DAD'S RED DRESS

Becoming a woman is tough enough ... without your dad becoming one too.

This quirky, pacy, and moving novel is a story of the relationship between a 13-year-old girl and her dad who is transitioning to the woman she wants to be. Like most teenagers, Jessie wants her family to be normal. Boringly normal. But this is what she's working with: her seven-year-old sister Laura wants to be an actual saint, her step-mum Eva makes erotic feminist installations. And her dad Frank becomes Mandy as soon as the front door closes. Which is fine, until someone finds out. This standalone novel is the first in a planned series. Book II, DAD'S WEDDING DRESS, is coming soon.

BIRCH BABIES

"They look cute, little birds. Fledglings. Don't be fooled. They have just as much personality as anyone you know, even if they hide it well."

This is a field guide, with much poetic licence and misguided imagination, to some of the birds that have hatched high up in the branches of the Birch tree ... Illustrated by Margaret Woods Moore, with stories by L.J. Sedgwick. BIRCH BABIES is a humorous and entertaining glimpse at the birds that share our parks and woodlands. An example: When Kylie was born, she came out of her egg bum first. Hence the name. This crow has a lovely wiggle and does a great version of the bees eight-loop dance. Sadly, she isn't living up to the promise of her name as she really can't sing very well. Her voice is great for scaring away spiders and flies though, so Juke likes to stay close to her at night.

PETAL PETUNIA: PIXIE PRIVATE EYE

Pixie to the rescue!

When mystery casts a shadow on Sunshine City, one quick-witted pixie is always on the case proving that tough comes in small, pink, festively-tropical packages. She might spend most days hanging out at Frank's Spiced Pineapple Cafe, and the most dangerous thing she's ever caught was the 10-foot wave at Star Dust Beach, but when a case lands, this wise-cracking private-eye is ready for anything. Petal is a cheery force of justice, armed with a berry slingshot, a semi-functional magic coat and a wit sharper than a unicorn's horn. Don't be fooled by her small size and big mouth, because Petal has an eye for detail, a mind for mysteries and a heart for action. She will do whatever it takes to solve the case, even if that means breaking a rule or two. But, if she has to break a rule, she will always apologise ... unless it's a really, really dumb rule. Petal has lived in Sunshine City her whole life and knows it like the back of her tropical-themed shirt. Whether it's a dreadlocked sasquatch who makes his own surfboards, a centaur who owns a trampoline emporium, or a giant grootslang who makes the spiciest smoothies in town, Petal has pals scattered all over the city. The only thing Petal loves more than solving mysteries, taking naps and sipping on pineapple smoothies is her loyal pet and vehicle, Dungie. Most of the city zip around on speedy ladybirds or dragonflies, but Petal prefers the calm amble of her dung beetle. Dungie might seem chilled, but when the poop hits the fan, she will always have Petal's back.

THE TILTED PENTAGRAM

In a world where Europe is ruled by the Church, a young woman hunted for witchcraft must find out the origin of her family's dark powers.

When second year Dresden University student Nell Blythe is accused of witchcraft in 1942, there is more at issue than a legal battle. For one, she's guilty. Well, not guilty, exactly: she hasn't the faintest idea about spells and has no idea where her abilities come from. But with her dead mother the most infamous witch in the Holy Roman Empire, fighting back can only end at the stake. Nell flees and is taken in by a group of heretics agitating for a second Reformation, but they are not the most dangerous company she has to keep. A powerful stranger with abilities like hers offers her a bargain: pieces of her mother's lost journal in exchange for completing five rituals that will reveal the origin and dark purpose of her powers. Desperate to discover more about the mother she never knew, she agrees. But as the lessons turn violent and her mother's writing grows ever more disturbing, she must choose between keeping her hands free of blood and uncovering the secrets her mother died for.

Matthew MacDevette studied in Stellenbosch, Cape Town, and Oxford before settling in Johannesburg where he happily remains with his wife and two terrible/wonderful cats. He spends most of his time on international development projects that try to make the best use of foreign aid in sub-Saharan Africa, and the rest writing novels that have nothing to do with that. Matthew is drawn to dark stories told with hope and humour, and can often be found trying to convince people to listen to The Offspring and watch LORD OF THE RINGS movie marathons.

THE BOY WHO NEVER GAVE UP

A boy's awe-inspiring journey on foot from war-torn Sudan to South Africa

In 1994, sixteen-year-old Emmanuel Taban walked out of war-torn Sudan with nothing, and nowhere to go. In the preceding months he was tortured at the hands of government forces, who falsely accused him of spying for the South Sudanese rebels and who made him convert to Islam. After a few weeks he managed to flee from the Islamic school where he was being kept but, yearning to be reunited with his family, he literally took a wrong turn and ended up in neighbouring Eritrea without any documentation. Too afraid to return to his home country, he set out on what would become a long and arduous journey to South Africa via countries like Ethiopia, Kenya, and Tanzania. Taban mostly lived on the street and along the way he faced many dangers, including corrupt border officials who took all his money, robbers and wild animals, but he refused to give up. At crucial moments when he thought all was lost, he was helped by Italian Comboni missionaries. Refusing to be a victim, Emmanuel Taban overcame extreme poverty, racism and xenophobia to become the man he is today. This heart-warming life story offers solace and inspiration in these trying times.

When the 17-year-old Emmanuel Taban arrived in Johannesburg, South Africa, from war-torn South Sudan with nothing, he had only five years of education behind him. Today he is a highly qualified pulmonologist, with a European Diploma in Adult Respiratory Medicine. Taban was the first pulmonologist in the world to perform a therapeutic bronchoscopy on a hypoxemic Covid-19 patient.

WHEN YOU DREAM

Every great dream starts with a dreamer. Megan's dream: to build an aircraft and fly it from Cape Town to Cairo!

In 2018 twenty inexperienced teenagers from various backgrounds were provided with hands-on experience in engineering and building an aircraft. They assembled a Sling-4 aircraft from start to finish within three weeks, under the guidance and supervision of a group of senior engineers. When they eventually take to the air more than a year later, 17-year-old Megan and her co-pilots undertake a journey full of adventure and nail-biting moments. They fly over war-torn Sudan, in Egypt they almost land in jail and officials refuse to give them permission to fly over Kenya. But at last, the triumphant team reaches Cairo ... just for tragedy to strike a few days later while the team are on their way back to South Africa. Megan's father and his co-pilot die when their support plane crashes near Tanzania. Megan however refuses to let her dream be compromised by this tragedy. Her dad would not have wanted that. After writing her record exams, she and two of her co-pilots retrieve their plane and complete the flight back to South Africa. WHEN YOU DREAM is a story of courage, commitment, hope and pain. An adrenaline-filled adventure that might sound far-fetched ... if it wasn't for the fact that it is true.
