A TWO-PLACED HEART

By Doan Phuong Nguyen

"This highly readable verse memoir beautifully portrays the internal anguish of growing up and adapting to life in a new country." - School Library Journal, starred review

Bom can't believe that her sister doesn't see herself as Vietnamese, only American. She says she doesn't remember Vietnam or their lives there, their family there, their house and friends. How could her sister forget the terrible journey through Saigon and the airplanes and... everything?

And what about Bom? She remembers now, but how long will she keep her memories? She always found comfort in the sound of her father's typewriter. Clickity-clack, clickity-clack. So she has an idea. She'll write down all that she can remember: the time when her father was a spy, when her mother was nicknamed a "radio," when they were so hungry Bom couldn't walk well, when the family all said goodbye.

Bom will even tell her sister, and herself, about what it was like moving to Tennessee. The ESL classes, bullies, strange new foods, icy weather, friendships, and crushes--and how her family worked to keep their heritage alive.

She'll type one poem at a time, until they'll never forget again.

The TANGLED MYSTERIES Box Set

By Merrill Wyatt

The Tangled Mysteries middle grade series is perfect for fans of The Book Scavenger and The Westing Game.

If you told Sloane Osburn and Amelia Miller-Poe that they'd be hiding in their town cemetery from an evil mastermind, they would have been hard-pressed to believe you. If you also told them that person was intent on beating them to a cache of long-lost jewels using nothing more than a slingshot and wicked aim, they'd have been sure you got your facts wrong. Finally, if you told them they'd be doing all of this as friends...well, they would have been sure you needed medical attention.

THE MIDNIGHT PROJECT

By Christy Climenhage

Set in a precarious, pre-apocalyptic near-future, two scientists struggle to create a human adapted to live in the Midnight Zone, an ocean ecosystem beyond light.

Bees are dying all over the world, crops are failing, and disgraced genetic engineer Raina knows her research is partly to blame. Blackballed from the agricultural sector for trying to blow the whistle, she runs a bespoke reproductive assistance agency near bankruptcy with her best friend and business partner, Cedric.

When a mysterious billionaire offers them a contract to modify humans to live at the bottom of the sea to escape the crisis, they know it's a dangerous idea. It could land them in jail and might even cause ruin in the ocean. But accepting would let Raina pay back her father the money she owes, and doing something – anything – to help escape the consequences of the bee crisis and to redeem herself can't be a bad thing, can it?

When Cedric is attacked by genetically engineered predators, he realizes that the project in the hands of someone less skilled could be catastrophic. He and Raina agree to do it, although doubting the real motives of their billionaire benefactor. And the octopus-humans they create have their own agenda. As the bee crisis tips the world into global famine and political instability, Raina will have to choose between clinging to the life she's built and protecting the life she's created.

The OBSIDIAN SISTERHOOD trilogy

By Lydia Hawke

The first in a new action-packed trilogy publishing in back-to-back sequence in 2025 from the internationally bestselling author of BECOMING CRONE.

At 69 years old and with two martial arts black belts to her name, Sister Monica Barrett has never been one to back down from a fight. But the one that just landed on the ragged front lawn of the women's shelter she runs may be more than she's equipped to handle.

At first glance, the assailant in pursuit of a young woman seems like an all-too-familiar story. But this attacker has powers—he moves with uncanny speed, strikes with brutal accuracy, and isn't after the woman at all. Instead, he wants what she has: a flat, black stone with a spider's web embedded in it.

The instant Monica touches the stone, her world is turned upside down. Power surges through her and destroys her adversary—the kind of supernatural power that should belong only to the God she serves. A horrified Monica is determined to rid herself of the stone and whatever it holds, but with more attackers coming after her and the women she shelters, she needs to move fast.

Can Monica find where the stone came from before it falls into the wrong hands? Will it be safe to return it to its rightful place? Or has a nun of a certain age just inadvertently become the keeper of a dark power no human should wield?

The DEMONS OF ELYSIUM trilogy

By Jane Kindred

“VERY kinky romantasy!”

When desire rises, angels will fall.

Over the past century, Belphagor has made a name for himself in Heaven’s Demon District as a card sharp, thief, and charming rogue. Though he’s content with his own company, he enjoys applying the sweet sting of discipline to a willing backside—angel, demon, and even the occasional human. He’s not particular. But when a hotheaded young firespirit steals his purse—and his heart—all bets are off.

Vasily, a former rentboy and cutpurse from the streets of Raqia, has never felt safer than in the arms—and at the feet—of the Prince of Tricks. He’s just not sure if Belphagor returns his feelings. The attentions of a rich, angelic duke provide the perfect opportunity to find out whether Belphagor is willing to fight for him, but the foolish game backfires—spectacularly.

When the duke frames Vasily in an assassination plot, Belphagor will do whatever it takes to clear his lover’s name and expose the real traitor. Because for the first time in his life, the Prince of Tricks has something to lose.
