THE AGELESS BRAIN

How to Sharpen and Protect Your Mind for a Lifetime

by Dale Bredeesen

From the bestselling author of THE END OF ALZHEIMER'S, comes a revolutionary new approach to preventing the onset of neurodegenerative disease and creating sustained brain health. For fans of Peter Attia, Michael Greger and Andrew Huberman.

One in ten people over the age of sixty-five have dementia, and 22 percent of older adults live with some form of cognitive impairment. But it isn't just the elderly who are afflicted; diagnosis rates are rising in younger adults, with women at a higher risk than men. For many—especially those with a genetic predisposition—this fate has seemed inevitable. Until now.

In THE AGELESS BRAIN, Dr. Bredeesen will share the latest, cutting-edge science on neurodegeneration, including how misunderstandings of the disease have hindered our efforts to treat it. He'll also share a preventative program that readers of all ages can put into practice to optimize their cognitive health now and sustain it for years to come.

Just as bestselling authors like Dr. Peter Attia and Dr. Michael Greger have offered essential guidance for maintaining overall health and longevity, Dr. Bredeesen has written the only book readers need to retain their vibrant minds and thrive for a lifetime.

Praise for Dr. Bredeesen:

-Maria Shriver, Today Show

"A monumental work. Dr. Bredeesen completely recontextualizes this devastating condition."

-David Perlmutter, NYT bestselling author of BRAIN MAKER

Dale Bredeesen, M.D., is internationally recognized as an expert in the mechanisms of neurodegenerative diseases such as Alzheimer's disease. After earning his M.D. from Duke University Medical Center, he served as chief resident in neurology at the University of California, San Francisco before joining Nobel laureate Stanley Prusiner's laboratory at UCSF as an NIH postdoctoral fellow. He held faculty positions at UCSF, UCLA, and the University of California, San Diego. OF MY OWN MAKING

A Memoir

By Daria Burke

We are not defined by our origin stories. We get to choose who we become.

Daria Burke's childhood growing up under the shadow of an absent father and a mother debilitated by drug addiction was marked by neglect and poverty. Despite these fractured beginnings, she forges a triumphant path out of Detroit and into fashion's C-Suite. After ten years of therapy, she believes her healing journey is complete.

When she discovers a photograph of the car accident that she believes altered the course of her early life, Burke is forced to confront the parts of her childhood she had avoided. This discovery sparks a four-year immersion into neuroplasticity, epigenetics, the impact of adverse childhood experiences on early brain development and ultimately, why some of us remain stuck in past trauma while others experience Post Traumatic Growth. She dives headfirst into an exploration of her trauma, grappling with the enduring grip of the past on the present and the mind's influence over the body.

More than a story of personal triumph, OF MY OWN MAKING is a soulful and scientific exploration of the power to shape one's destiny. In facing the stark reality of her past, Burke reminds us that every moment demands a choice, and that we owe it to ourselves to reparent our inner child and reclaim the lives we deserve.

Burke's lyrical account of a life lived with courage and intention offers an empathetic and hard-won perspective on the nature versus nurture debate and the power of acceptance. Part memoir, part methodology, it is a fearless rallying cry inspiring us to excavate and examine the stories that define our lives. Ultimately, the narratives that we craft with our own hands are the only ones that matter.

Daria Burke is an award-winning business leader, board director, investor, speaker, and advisor. Her creativity and impact have been recognized by Women's Wear Daily, Adweek, Forbes, Vogue, the CFDA, Town & Country, the Cut, and NYLON Magazine. She has written for Fast Company, The Huffington Post, Black Enterprise, and has appeared on The Today Show, The Melissa Harris-Perry Show on MSNBC and numerous podcasts. She is a graduate of the University of Michigan and the New York University Stern School of Business. Burke lives in Los Angeles and East Hampton.

WHAT'S GOING RIGHT

How to Build Mental Health in (and for) The Real World

By Dr. Paul Conti

A paradigm-shifting optimistic take on mental health by leading psychiatrist and author Dr. Paul Conti, based on his hugely popular podcast series hosted with Andrew Huberman on The Huberman Lab.

Inside each one of us is a powerful desire for balanced mental health. Dr. Conti refers to this as the “generative drive.” It is our pursuit of peace and contentment. You can never have too much peace and you can never have too much contentment.

In our busy, high-performing lives, we often find ourselves disconnected from this generative drive and overfocused on two competing drives: a drive for pleasure and a drive for aggression. A toxic pursuit of pleasure can look like drinking too much or making bad decisions. An overly assertive aggression drive can turn to negative self-talk that leads to anxiety and shame or an inability to get along with others that leads to loneliness.

Dr. Conti offers readers a proven offramp from these toxic pursuits of pleasure and aggression and an onramp toward a joyful life reconnected to their generative drive. He gives readers back their emotional power and agency to reach their fullest potential without burning out. And his unique and proven approach bolsters the outcomes of traditional medicines and therapeutic practices.

- UK/Commonwealth rights preempted by Ebury in a six figure deal!
- Dr. Conti’s first book, TRAUMA: The Invisible Epidemic, sold in 19 territories!

Paul Conti, MD is a celebrity-endorsed psychiatrist, renowned author and President of Pacific Premier Group PC, a comprehensive mental health clinic that provides therapy, coaching, and consulting services to individuals, families, and businesses in the United States and abroad. Dr. Conti graduated from The University of Pennsylvania and Stanford University School of Medicine. He completed his residency at Stanford and Harvard, where he served at the latter as Chief Resident. He has been featured on top podcasts with industry-leading hosts such as Peter Attia, Tim Ferriss, Andrew Huberman, Mel Robbins, Lex Fridman, Whitney Cummings, Tom Bilyeu, Rich Roll, Danica Patrick, and others.

THE DOORS YOU CAN OPEN

A New Way to Network, Build Trust, and Use Your Influence to Create a More Inclusive Workplace

By Dr. Rosalind Chow

A pioneering professor of organizational behavior at Carnegie Mellon argues that we must move beyond the standard mentorship model to embrace sponsorship, where we use our social networks and political capital on behalf of others.

Conventional wisdom tells to get ahead by extracting value from our social connections. But according to Dr. Rosalind Chow, this notion is both antiquated and useless in our society and workplace.

To increase the number of women and BIPOC employees in our organizations, particularly in senior roles, we need sponsorship, not mentorship. Sponsorship involves managing others' impressions or beliefs about a protégé or colleague. Our social networks can and should be used on behalf of others. And it helps us too. When we share information, elevate others and connect people with the help they need, our network becomes more equitable and more effective.

Based on decades of original research analyzing social hierarchies, corporate environments, and gender and race relations, THE DOORS YOU CAN OPEN makes a bold case for changing the way we network, empowering readers to cultivate more authentic supportive, diverse, and meaningful relationships.

Dr. Rosalind Chow is an associate professor of Organizational Behavior and Theory at Carnegie Mellon University. Chow is the founding faculty director for the Executive Leadership Academy (ELA), an executive leadership program aimed at addressing the challenges facing the advancement of Black leaders in Pittsburgh, PA. Chow's research is published in top psychology and organizational behavior journals and featured in articles in the Harvard Business Review and the MIT Sloan Management Review. She is a consultant and speaker for a variety of organizations, such as BNY Mellon Bank, Genentech, Intel, PNC Bank, the WNBA, and others.

NEVER DATE A BROKE DUDE & Other Essential Rules for Navigating Romance, Finance and Life by Pattie Ehsaei

From the creator behind “The Duchess of Decorum” TikTok (nearly 1m followers and over 7.1m likes), comes an essential guide to managing finances, dating advice, careers, and everything in between.

No two forces impact happiness and agency in life more than romantic relationships and finances. Even now, the modern woman is still at risk of losing control of her finances, and therefore her future, in one of three ways: 1) she never learns how to properly budget or invest because she believes that she somehow just won’t be good at it; 2) she lets her boyfriend or husband manage their joint finances because “men know more about these things”; or 3) she achieves financial freedom or success only to throw it all away “for love” by supporting some broke dude—meaning a guy who’s not only lacking the income but the effort to be her equal.

Pattie learned at a young age that whoever controls your money, controls you. A lawyer by trade, and former SVP of Mergers and Acquisitions at a major national bank, she has built her platform giving frank, hands-on advice to her followers via her TikTok, podcast and keynotes.

The lessons you’ll find in this book are born out of some of the most common questions Pattie has answered for her audience, such as:

- Hope is Not a Strategy
- A Proposal is Not a Life Goal
- You Can’t Afford That Purse
- You Need Credit—and You Need to Put Down the Credit Card
- You’re a Better Investor Than He Is
- Don’t Call It “Helping” With the Housework
- Never Merge Accounts
- Never Change Your Last Name
- “Bossy” Is a Compliment
- Apply for the Damn Job
- And, of course: Never Date a Broke Dude

Known as “The Duchess of Decorum” by her 985K+ TikTok followers, Pattie Ehsaei has established herself as one of the platform’s leading financial experts. A lawyer by trade and currently a Senior Vice President of Mergers and Acquisitions Lending for a major national bank, Pattie created her TikTok account as a way to provide education, advice, and techniques to help young folks, especially women, navigate work, finances, social settings, and more.

ON A MOVE: Philadelphia's Notorious Bombing and a Native Son's Lifelong Battle for Justice By Mike Africa Jr.

The riveting, insider's account of the day Philadelphia police firebombed a black neighborhood, and a portrait of the revolutionary Black civil liberties organization targeted that day - told by the man who grew up in the remnants of the movement.

Before police dropped a bomb on a residential neighborhood on May 13, 1985, few outside Philadelphia knew a Black-led peace organization had taken root there. Founded in 1972, MOVE's mission was to protect all forms of life from systemic oppression.

But in MOVE's lifestyle and in their advocacy for black Philadelphians, city officials saw a threat to the status quo. In 1978, MOVE clashed with police, leading to the unjust imprisonment of nine members, including Mike's parents. Six years later, the city bombed their west Philly headquarters and in the the resulting fire, eleven people were killed, including five children.

ON A MOVE is the first history of MOVE from someone within the organization. But it is not just a tragedy; it is also an unimaginable story of injustice and resilience. It is about coming-of-age as an activist, the strong ties of family, and, against all odds, learning how to take indignities on the chin and to work within the very system that created them. At once a harrowing memoir and an impassioned examination of racism and police violence, ON A MOVE testifies to the power of love and hope, in the face of astonishing wrongdoing.

Praise for ON A MOVE

"Passionate and unflinching... this impactful memoir isn't easily forgotten."
- Publishers Weekly

"A memorable portrait of a little-understood movement and its founders."

An award-winning University of Pennsylvania neuroscientist reveals the hidden calculations that shape our daily decisions—and how to make more fulfilling, impactful choices in our work, relationships, and lives.

Combining cutting-edge science with practical insight, this book shows how we can work more strategically with the value calculations in our brains to embrace new activities and behaviors, connect more meaningfully with others, and become more effective and innovative leaders.

HOW TO DISAGREE BETTER

By Dr. Julia Minson

An exploration of the practice and power of receptiveness to soften disagreement and help us live kinder, richer, and more impactful lives from the Harvard psychologist who has pioneered the field. Think DIFFICULT CONVERSATIONS meets QUIET.

Few human endeavors are accomplished alone. To achieve anything of value or importance - in our families, our careers, or our communities - we must rely on (and put up with) other people. And in this wonderfully diverse world full of people with different experiences, personalities, and desires, disagreement is inevitable. Disagreeing comes naturally to us, but most of us only have vague notions about how disagreement should work. Disagreeing well by practicing receptiveness is a skill we all can learn – and one that is more rewarding than most readers can even begin to imagine.

Drawing on two decades of original research in the psychology of disagreement, Dr. Minson will share the power of signaling openness and arguing receptively to prevent disagreement from becoming conflict, and in the process, shatter the misconception that being receptive towards others means silencing ourselves. She will show readers the forces that make disagreement so painful, and how to avoid and counteract them. And she will teach readers how to leverage the decision-making and creativity-enhancing benefits of disagreement, helping us live a life of less conflict, but not less influence.

- Sold to Jacob Surpin and Tracy Behar at Avery at auction for seven figures!

Julia Minson is an Associate Professor of Public Policy at the Harvard Kennedy School of Government, where she teaches popular courses on negotiations, conflict, and decision-making. She is a decision scientist whose primary line of research addresses the “psychology of disagreement.” Prior to coming to the Kennedy School, Julia served as an Adjunct Lecturer at the Wharton School, University of Pennsylvania, where she taught Negotiations at both the MBA and the undergraduate levels. She received her PhD in Social Psychology from Stanford University and her BA in Psychology from Harvard University.

THE RITUAL EFFECT

From Habit to Ritual, Harness the Surprising Power of Everyday Actions

by Michael Norton

In the tradition of bestsellers like THE POWER OF HABIT and GRIT, a renowned Harvard social psychologist demonstrates the power of small acts—and how turning habits into rituals can add joy and meaning to life.

Our lives are filled with repetitive tasks meant to boost productivity—what we know as habits. Over time, we do these activities automatically. But when we perform these habits mindfully—when we focus on the precise way an act is performed—we create a ritual. And as author and Harvard professor Michael Norton explains here, it's these rituals that make life worth living.

From fostering deeper relationships to comforting a speaker before a presentation, from savoring a meal to coping with grief, rituals produce an incredible array of psychological and emotional responses that are specific to whatever challenge we face. Countless successful entrepreneurs, politicians, athletes, and artists make effective use of rituals. Now, drawing on decades of original research, author Michael Norton reveals how shifting from a “habitual” mindset to a “ritual” mindset can both enhance performance and add meaning to your life.

Compelling, inspiring, and practical, THE RITUAL EFFECT takes us on a fascinating tour of the intention-filled acts that drive human behavior and shows us how to create simple rituals to imbue everyday life with a sense of purpose and joy.

- SELF Magazine's April Book of the Month

Praise for THE RITUAL EFFECT:

“A good-humored, gentle exhortation to transform the ordinary into the extraordinary and add a little magic to our lives.”
- Kirkus Reviews

“Brilliant... A really great guide to bringing meaning into the everyday.”
- Philippa Perry, bestselling author of THE BOOK YOU WISH YOUR PARENTS HAD READ

“If you are looking for purpose, better family dynamics, or simply a happier life, Michael Norton just might be the answer.”
—Arthur Brooks, bestselling author of FROM STRENGTH TO STRENGTH

“A masterclass... THE RITUAL EFFECT opens our eyes to the rituals we perform—and the ones we choose to create—which have the remarkable power to infuse the mundane with meaning and emotion.”
—Angela Duckworth, bestselling author of GRIT

Michael Norton is the Harold M. Brierley Professor of Business Administration at the Harvard Business School. He has studied human behavior as it relates to love and inequality, time and money, and happiness and grief. His TEDx talk, How to Buy Happiness, has been viewed nearly 4.5 million times. THE PROBLEM WITH PRETTY

Beauty, Bias, and the Surprising Science that Shapes Perception

By Allycin Powell-Hicks, Ph.D.

A ground-breaking examination of beauty, bias, and the science of how perception shapes our lived experience, especially for Black and brown women, from renowned life coach and body image expert. With actionable advice for taking back control and hacking perception, Dr. Ally will teach readers to reap the advantages of being perceived as more beautiful without changing who you are.

In her research and her direct coaching work with clients, Dr. Ally has seen just how possible it is to be treated as more beautiful, and even feel more beautiful, without changing our physical attributes. Perceptions of beauty are only partially informed by physical appearance. We have a lazy perceptual system that looks for patterns, and those patterns are often informed by a small visual cue and a lot of socially constructed assumptions. Knowing this, and the dominant assumptions, it's relatively easy to be perceived as pretty using simple visual cues that trigger "pretty" perception patterns (as detailed in this book).

Perhaps more important than hacking the perception of others, Dr. Ally outlines how to cultivate positive self-perception—which also has little to do with changes to your outward appearance. Her research has shown that when women felt more in control of their appearance, they felt more confident and rated themselves as more attractive, regardless of physical changes. In a separate study, she found that Black women who rated higher on feelings of closeness to their ethnic identity and culture also reported feeling more control over their appearance, resulting in higher confidence and less dependence on validation from mainstream beauty norms.

This is not a book about "how to be prettier." That's the last thing women need. As a Black woman who grew up in an affluent white neighborhood, and who has made her career in media, Dr. Ally knows too well the emotional costs of trying to fit into the dominant (white) narrative of what is considered pretty. She wants to help women escape that, for good.

THE PROBLEM WITH PRETTY is about bias, control, how perception shapes the experience of our lives, and what we can do about it.

Dr. Allycin Powell-Hicks is a Mental Health/Relationship Expert, television personality, and founder of the DOUX Consulting Group. Helping clients, couples, and corporations authentically align with themselves and their brands by using a blend of neuroscience and creativity is her true passion. Her research on minority women, cosmetic surgery, and the impact of media on body image has been presented at conferences around the world. Using this research, she directly impacts and improves the lives of others through workshops, radio, television articles, and hands-on coaching. She is a Lecturer at California State University Los Angeles, where she teaches gender psychology and the psychology of personality

For decades, Geneen Roth has been a trusted voice on how women's emotional lives play out on their plates. Her unique approach to storytelling and decades of experience teaching women have helped countless women heal from emotional trauma to transform their relationship with food. Geneen is poised to speak to a new generation of readers who've been socialized by their mothers to struggle with their relationship to food and their own bodies, sometimes to the point of being traumatized.

In LOVE FINALLY, Geneen confronts her own outdated thinking on intuitive eating and examines how adverse childhood experiences (ACE) manifest themselves in how we eat. Drawing from her relationship with her mother and 40+ years leading workshops and retreats, her new "Conclusion Process" connects the dots between the beliefs we form from childhood trauma and the challenges with food, our relationships, and ourselves we face today.

Everything You Need to Know About Your Reproductive Health (But Were Never Told)

By Karen Tang, MD, MPH

An inclusive and essential new resource for reproductive health—including period problems, pelvic pain, menopause, fertility, sexual health, vaginal and urinary conditions, and overall wellbeing—from leading expert and fierce advocate Dr. Karen Tang

Did you know that up to 90% of women experience menstrual abnormalities or pelvic issues in their lifetime? Yet these conditions are overwhelmingly misunderstood, misdiagnosed, or dismissed. The root causes for these issues, such as PCOS, endometriosis, fibroids, ovarian cysts, PMDD, or pelvic floor dysfunction, don't receive the stream of funding for research and new treatments that other conditions do, despite affecting up to half the population.

Dr. Karen Tang is on a mission to transform how we engage with our bodies and our healthcare. IT'S NOT HYSTERIA is a comprehensive guide to common conditions and potential treatment options, with practical tools such as symptom prompts and sample questions for your provider, to equip readers to take control of their gynecologic health.

Reproductive healthcare, from abortion to gender-affirming care, is under siege. The onus continues to fall on patients to find and advocate for the care they need. In the face of uncertainty and misinformation, IT'S NOT HYSTERIA is destined to become a new classic that educates and empowers women and those assigned female at birth.

WITCH DOCTOR: Reclaiming Magic and Intuition as a Path to Healing By Ellen Vora, MD

From acclaimed psychiatrist and author of the international bestseller THE ANATOMY OF ANXIETY, Dr. Ellen Vora, comes an engaging, research-driven explanation for all the ways our culture has reinforced our self-alienation, leaving women lost, overwhelmed, and paralyzed in the face of decisions.

Vora reveals how our intuition is the wisest guide to healing and offers practical advice for how we can tap into our innate "magic," showing how we can learn to listen to the voice inside to find greater peace and wellbeing.

Through personal anecdotes, client case studies and wider cultural examples, she breaks down the main causes of why we've lost touch with our intuition: modern medicine, food and drugs, the wellness industrial complex, the feminine need to be liked, and more. And she provides examples of how we can get back in touch with our intuition so that we can begin to heal.

ORDINARY MAGIC

The Science of How We Can Achieve Big Things with Small Acts

By Dr. Greg Walton

Discover simple psychological shifts that build trust, belonging, and confidence—from the co-director of the Dweck-Walton Lab at Stanford University. For readers of Adam Grant and Carol Dweck.

Who am I? Do I belong? Am I loved? The emotional questions we face can define our lives. When we approach these questions from a negative perspective, each new experience confirms our suspicions about ourselves. When we expect an interaction to go wrong, that expectation can make it so. That's spiraling down.

But as Dr. Walton shows, when we see these questions more clearly, we can answer them well. Known to social psychologists as wise interventions, these seemingly magical shifts in perspective can help us chart new trajectories for our lives. They help us spiral up.

Through vivid storytelling and insightful analysis of fascinating research, Dr. Walton explains the common anatomy of these tools and shows how we can use them to solve problems in every aspect of our lives.

Early Praise for ORDINARY MAGIC:

“By one of the great psychologists of our time, a book that shows us how we can answer the universal questions that define our lives: Can I succeed? Do I belong? Am I loved?”

—Carol Dweck, international bestselling author of MINDSET

“A manual for becoming a psychologically wiser human being by one of the most respected and sincere scholars I know. I cannot recommend this book more highly!”

—Angela Duckworth, international bestselling author of GRIT

Greg Walton, PhD, is the co-director of the Dweck-Walton Lab and a professor of psychology at Stanford University. Dr. Walton's research is supported by many foundations, including Character Lab, the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation, and the William and Flora Hewlett Foundation.
