

WHEN THEY BURNED THE BUTTERFLY

WEN-YI LEE

In this fierce, glamorous adult fantasy debut, Silvia Moreno-Garcia meets Fonda Lee, with the feverish intensity of R.F. Kuang's Poppy War trilogy.

Singapore, 1972: Newly independent, a city of immigrants grappling for power in a fast-modernizing world. Here, gangsters are the last conduits of the gods their ancestors brought with them, and the back alleys where they fight are the last place where magic has not been assimilated and legislated away.

Loner schoolgirl Adeline Siow has never needed more company than the flame she can summon at her fingertips. But when her mother dies in a house fire with a butterfly seared onto her skin and Adeline hunts down a girl she saw in a back-alley barfight—a girl with a butterfly tattoo—she discovers she's far from alone.

Ang Tian is a Red Butterfly: one of a gang of girls who came from nothing, sworn to a fire goddess and empowered to wreak vengeance on the men that abuse and underestimate them. Adeline's mother led a double life as their elusive patron, Madam Butterfly. Now that she's dead, Adeline's bloodline is the sole thing sustaining the goddess. Between her search for her mother's killer and the gang's succession crisis, Adeline becomes quickly entangled with the girls' dangerous world, and even more so with the charismatic Tian.

But no home lasts long around here. Ambitious and paranoid neighbor gangs hunt at the edges of Butterfly territory, and bodies are turning up in the red light district suffused with a strange new magic. Adeline may have found her place for once, but with the streets changing by the day, it may take everything she is to keep it.

THE Scarlet Ball

NGHI VO

Pick a face, pick a fate.

Judith Ban, former convent girl, courtesan, and failed thief, is on the lookout for her next identity. The daughter of a Vietnamese adventuress and a French naval officer, she's no stranger to wealth or to danger, but when she arrives in New York, nothing prepares her for the secrets of the city's legendary Four Hundred, or for the women who build their power at its heart through blood-soaked, gold-etched rituals of demonic marriage.

In this magical Gilded Age, Judith makes a deal with the matriarch of the vaunted Howard clan. In exchange for a house and enough money that she never has to run again, she finds herself standing in for the missing Howard granddaughter, who was about to make her debut when she disappeared. As herself, she's a desperate girl on the run. With Miss Iphigenia Marshall's face stitched over her own, she's white, rich, and about to risk body, mind, and soul in the deadly serious games that determine which girls will find a match—and which will be devoured. If she can keep her wits and her life, her reward will be a husband with undreamt-of power who will be hers to command... so long as she can keep his infinite hungers fed.

In over her head and with no one but an unreliable demonic handmaid to guide her, Judith must contend with rival debutantes snapping at her heels, matrons watching for every mistake, and demon lords ready to destroy her if she puts one foot wrong. To survive, she will have to charm her way through the New York season, and seduce a storm in the shape of a man before the night to which everything has been leading: the final Scarlet Ball where the demons choose their brides.

Award-winning author Nghi Vo returns to an earlier era in her magical America with a new standalone novel that does for Edith Wharton what her acclaimed debut The Chosen and the Beautiful did for F. FLESH AND BONE

CHARLOTTE MARTEN

Charlotte Marten's debut, FLESH AND BONE, a contemporary dark academia novel set in a magical medical school that combines THE ATLAS SIX's instantly compelling cast of characters (and web of queer sexual tension) with INK BLOOD SISTER SCRIBE's upmarket fantasy mystery.

It's New Year's Eve at Hastings College of Physiological Magic, and the popular, powerful magician Nash Carmichael is dead in the library. The four students left at school over winter break—self-destructive hedonist Cameron Nash, old-money golden girl London McLeod, genius prodigy Saima Ansari, and Miguel Arias, Nash's secret (and secretive) boyfriend—are forced to work together to solve the murder and clear their names. Each of them knew a different version of Nash: the heir apparent, the eye candy, the manipulative cheater. And, of course, one of them killed him.

As suspicions mount and investigators arrive, the four must unwind the threads of motivation, love, and betrayal connecting them and Nash. The search for truth takes them outside the school and into magic's high society, from neuroendocrine nightclubs to haunted ancestral mansions to magical torture chambers where no one can hear you scream. Which of the four is guilty? And in a system designed to keep power in the hands of the powerful, can anyone ever be truly innocent?

Charlotte Marten is a biomedical researcher who attended Brown University, and is currently a PhD student at the University of Edinburgh.

HOUSE OF WASPS

BRIANNA FENTY

HOUSE OF WASPS, a new work of romantic horror from debut author Brianna Fenty. Set in a world reminiscent of Europe during WWII, and centering an unhinged “I can make her better / I can make him worse” relationship, it combines the atmosphere of Alexis Henderson, the dark romance of Brynne Weaver, and the anatomical body horror of Tamsyn Muir in a fever dream of a novel that’s equal parts Gothic and gory.

Saint. Surgeon. Sorcerer. Sadist. Many words have been used to describe Dr. Peregrine Alsarad, but none ring truer than addict. Not to alcohol or drugs, but to his own medical magic.

Enslaved by the destructive side of Brutalism—a magical science that requires self-mutilation to wield and the ingestion of parasites to recover from—Perry is desperate to find a way to sever himself from his power and the sins of his past. When his illegal research is discovered, he’s exiled from the academy he calls home and given one last chance to redeem himself by accepting a new assignment: to report to the isolated

House of Wasps and unravel the curse of the Killows.

Like her mother and sisters before her, Bliss Killow is doomed by a mysterious affliction and fated to ride the last stallion in her family’s herd off the estate’s highest cliff into the sea, ending their equestrian dynasty and plunging the family fortunes into ruin. Diagnosing her disease will prove Perry’s greatest challenge yet. Faced with a demonic horse who hungers for human flesh, a beautiful heiress who can’t feel pain, and the lavish cliffside manor riddled with generations of bloody secrets, Perry can only be sure of one thing: He won’t be getting out alive.

AUTHOR BIO:

Brianna Fenty is Long Island native and marine ecologist who received her Master of Science at the University of Aberdeen. A chronic wanderer with a heart split between Iceland and the Scottish Highlands, which inspired the setting for HOUSE OF WASPS, she now lives in New York and spends her time writing, yelling at Congressmen to save the whales, and working as a biotech logistics coordinator.

SAINTS AND MADWOMEN

JENNIE MELAMED

FINGERSMITH meets THE CRIMSON PETAL AND THE WHITE in Jennie Melamed's SAINTS AND MADWOMEN, an upmarket historical novel that brings the classic Victorian melodrama to fresh and unashamedly queer new life.

An impoverished mining brat from the Black Country, Emmy Baker is rescued from the streets of London by the owner of London's finest flogging house. Angelically beautiful, stubbornly impulsive, and romantically and sexually unmoved by the boorish men in her path, Emmy is tempted out of her independent courtesan's life and into a marriage of convenience that vaults her into society's upper echelons—and unexpectedly brings her face to face with the woman of her dreams.

Lily Temple is an orphaned vicar's daughter, raised in her wealthy aunt's home on charity until she surprises everyone by making the match of the season. On the surface the perfect rector's wife, her plain and steadfast exterior hides forbidden passions: for music, laudanum, arson...and, perhaps most disturbingly, women. When she meets her brother-in-law's stunning and mysterious new wife, those passions can no longer be suppressed. The resulting affair threatens to shatter the foundations of both their worlds.

A sweeping narrative that transports its readers from brothels to ballrooms, from manor to madhouse, and from scandal to salvation, SAINTS AND MADWOMEN turns Jennie Melamed's exquisite prose and clear-sighted feminist gaze back towards a vividly realized past.

AUTHOR BIO:

Jennie Melamed's previous novel GATHER THE DAUGHTERS (Little, Brown, 2017) was translated into five languages, named a best book of the year by The Guardian and Booklist, shortlisted for the Arthur C. Clarke Award, and longlisted for the Dublin International Literary Award. She lives in Seattle with her husband and their two dogs.

SILVER AND LEAD

SEANAN MCGUIRE

Seanan McGuire's New York Times bestselling and Hugo Award-nominated October Daye series continues as Toby Daye is thrust once again into danger... and this time she has more than ever to protect.

Something is rotten in Faerie. In the aftermath of Titania's reality-warping enchantment, things are returning to what passes for normal in the Kingdom in the Mists—until it's discovered that the royal vaults have been looted, and several powerful magical artifacts are missing. None are things that can be safely left unsecured, and some have the potential to do almost as much damage as Titania did, and having them in the wrong hands could prove just as disastrous

At least the theft means that Sir October "Toby" Daye, Knight errant and Hero of the Realm, finally has an excuse to get out of the house. Sure, she's eight and a half months pregnant, but that doesn't mean she can't take care of herself. But with the sea witch offering to stand godmother to Toby's child, maybe there are greater dangers ahead for Toby and her family than it appears....

Old enemies will resurface, new enemies will disguise themselves as friends, and Queen Windermere must try to keep her Hero on the case without getting herself gutted by the increasingly irritated local King of Cats. Sometimes, what's been lost can be the most dangerous threat of all.

AUTHOR BIO:

Seanan is the author of the October Daye, InCryptid, and Indexing series of urban fantasies; the Newsflesh trilogy; the Parasitology duology; and the "Velveteen vs." superhero shorts. THROUGH GATES OF GARNET AND GOLD

SEANAN MCGUIRE

After Nancy was cast out of the Halls of the Dead and forced to enroll at Eleanor West's School for Wayward Children, she never believed she'd find her door again, and when she did, she didn't look back. She disappeared from the school to resume her place in the Halls, never intending to return.

Years have passed. A darkness has descended on the Halls, and the living statues who populate them are dying at the hands of the already dead. The Lord and Lady who rule the land are helpless to stop the slaughter, forcing Nancy to leave the Halls again, this time on purpose, as she attempts to seek much-needed help from her former schoolmates.

But who would volunteer to quest in a world where the dead roam freely?

And why are the dead so intent on adding to their number?

Seanan McGuire's New York Times-bestselling and Hugo Award-nominated InCryptid series continues with a whirlwind adventure....

After four generations of caring for the Price family, Mary Dunlavy has more than earned a break from the ongoing war with the Covenant of St. George. Instead, what she's getting is a new employer, in the form of the anima mundi, Earth's living soul made manifest, and a new assignment: to hunt down the Covenant agents on the East Coast and make them stop imprisoning America's ghosts.

All in a day's work for a phantom nanny, even one who'd really rather be teaching her youngest charges how to read.

One ghost can't take on the entire Covenant without backup, which is how she winds up on a road trip with the still-mourning Elsie and the slowly collapsing Arthur, both of whom are reeling in their own way from the loss of their mother. New allies and new enemies await in Worcester, Massachusetts, where the path of the haunting leads.

With the anima mundi demanding results and Mary's newfound freedom at stake, it's down to Mary to make sure that everyone gets out of this adventure alive.

THE WICKER KING AND OTHER STRANGE GODS

BRIAN MORELAND

A bone-chilling folk horror collection from the author of The Devil's Woods and Tomb of Gods, The Wicker King and Other Strange Gods is a new twist on rural folk horror; Unsuspecting outsiders find themselves trapped in waking nightmares and struggling to just survive. In the feature novella, The Wicker King, a dark detective thriller, five missing girls have been discovered buried in a Kansas cornfield. A strange wooden idol watches over their graves. The clearing in the tall corn appears to be more than a serial killer's burial ground. It's an altar. FBI Agent Cass Belliveau, who experienced her own nightmare with a child abductor when she was a girl, has dedicated her career to locating missing children. Some of her cold cases date back many years. Cass maintains one small hope: a sixth girl abducted recently by a farmer is still missing. Agent Belliveau teams up with Homicide Detective Dante Shaw to investigate the occult ritual murders and search for the sixth missing girl. Their lone suspect, the corn farmer who abducts girls to bury in his soil, speaks of another killer out there who's far more deadly than himself. In and around the isolated town of Crows' Haven, the superstitious farming community fears the cornfields after sundown.

In the vein of True Detective, The Wicker Man, and Children of the Corn, Moreland's novella combines a dark suspense police procedural with an eerie folk legend and white-knuckle action. "Night-Mare," is a harrowing ghost story. After his two best friends accidentally murder a woman at their fishing cabin in the Ozarks, do-gooder Mike Tanner makes the difficult choice to help his desperate buddies dispose of the body. They think they've gotten away with the crime, But their victim was no ordinary woman.

"Beyond Hell's Patch" set in West Virginia, 1956, escaped convict Jud Radcliff flees the tortuous hell of Hillock Penitentiary and finds refuge in an abandoned farm house. There, the murderous convict encounters an evil menace worse than himself and his tormentors.

In "Offspring," a desperate woman travels to the pine barrens of New Jersey to a mystical place where whatever you wish for comes true. That is, for those willing to give something of themselves in return. In "The Traveling Christmas Carnival," after a blizzard blows into a small Wisconsin town, a winter carnival magically appears at the local park. A European troop of clowns pass out flyers. For one night only, the townspeople are invited to enjoy a fun time at the carnival - a thrill ride of terror on the darker traditions of Christmas.

The collection closes with "The Corn Maidens," set in Nebraska during the Great Depression. Hannah Creed, a girl with a unique ability, is banished from her God-fearing farm town. On her journey through corn country with her pet billy goat, Hannah comes across a small, hidden village that welcomes her and her goat with open arms. But Hannah has a secret and, if the truth comes out, will the friendly villagers banish her?

Growing up, Isa never felt at ease in the repressive former mining town, even before she realized she was bisexual—but after the deaths of two of her childhood friends, Slater went from feeling claustrophobic to suffocating. Isa took off before the town could swallow her, too, even though it meant leaving behind everything she knew, including her last surviving friend Mason.

When Isa's abusive father kicks the bucket, she agrees to come back just long enough to collect the inheritance. But then Mason, son of the local medium, turns up at the cemetery with a revelation and a plea: their friends were murdered by a supernatural entity, and he needs Isa to help stop the evil—before it takes anyone else.

When Isa begins to hear strange songs on the wind, and eerie artwork fills her sketchbook that she can't recall drawing, she's forced to stop running and confront her past. SWORD CROSSED

"Clever, sparkling, and perfectly indulgent, Swordcrossed feels like stepping into a party already in full swing. Everything is possible; everything is wondrous. This is fantasy romance at its very best" -Grace D. Li, author of Portrait of a Thief

"Marske is an extraordinary talent who writes compelling characters, entertainingly awful families, and love stories like nobody else" -Everina Maxwell, author of Winter's Orbit

Brimming with steamy romance, magic and intrigue, Swordcrossed is a dazzling queer fantasy from the internationally bestselling author of The Last Binding trilogy.

Low stakes. High heat. Sharp steel . . .

Mattinesh Jay, dutiful heir to his struggling family business, needs to hire an experienced swordsman to serve as best man for his arranged marriage. Sword-challenge at the ceremony could destroy all hope of restoring his family's wealth, something that Matti has been trying—and failing—to do for the past ten years. What he can afford, unfortunately, is part-time con artist and full-time charming menace Luca Piere.

Luca, for his part, is trying to reinvent himself in a new city. All he wants to do is make some easy money and try to forget the crime he committed in his hometown. He didn't plan on being blackmailed into giving sword lessons to a chronically responsible—and inconveniently handsome—wool merchant like Matti.

However, neither Matti's business troubles nor Luca himself are quite what they seem. As the days count down to Matti's wedding, the two of them become entangled in the intrigue and sabotage that have brought Matti's house to the brink of ruin. And when Luca's secrets threaten to drive a blade through their growing alliance, both Matti and Luca will have to answer the question: how many lies are you prepared to strip away, when the truth could mean losing everything you want?

A RESTLESS TRUTH

Magic! Murder! Shipboard romance!

Maud Blyth has always longed for adventure. She expected plenty of it when she volunteered to serve as an old lady's companion on an ocean liner, in order to help her beloved older brother unravel a magical conspiracy that began generations ago.

What she didn't expect was for the old lady in question to turn up dead on the first day of the voyage. Now she has to deal with a dead body, a disrespectful parrot, and the lovely, dangerously outrageous Violet Debenham, who's also returning home to England. Violet is everything that Maud has been trained to distrust yet can't help but desire: a magician, an actress, and a magnet for scandal.

Surrounded by the open sea and a ship full of suspects, Maud and Violet must first drop the masks that they've both learned to wear before they can unmask a murderer and somehow get their hands on a magical object worth killing for—without ending up dead in the water themselves.

A Restless Truth is the second entry in Freya Marske's beloved, award-winning Last Binding trilogy, the queer historical fantasy series that began with A Marvellous Light.

A POWER UNBOUND

FREYA MARSKE

Secrets! Magic! Enemies to. . .something more?

Jack Alston, Lord Hawthorn, would love a nice, safe, comfortable life. After the death of his twin sister, he thought he was done with magic for good. But with the threat of a dangerous ritual hanging over every magician in Britain, he's drawn reluctantly back into that world.

Now Jack is living in a bizarre puzzle-box of a magical London townhouse, helping an unlikely group of friends track down the final piece of the Last Contract before their enemies can do the same. And to make matters worse, they need the help of writer and thief Alan Ross.

Cagey and argumentative, Alan is only in this for the money. The aristocratic Lord Hawthorn, with all his unearned power, is everything that Alan hates. And unfortunately, Alan happens to be everything that Jack wants in one gorgeous, infuriating package.

When a plot to seize unimaginable power comes to a head at Cheetham Hall—Jack's ancestral family estate, a land so old and bound in oaths that it's grown a personality as prickly as its owner—Jack, Alan and their allies will become entangled in a night of champagne, secrets, and bloody sacrifice . . . and the foundations of magic in Britain will be torn up by the roots before the end.

A MARVELLOUS LIGHT

*"Marske's debut is a delightful blend of Edwardian fantasy and romance, with enough twists and questions to have readers clamoring for the next in the planned series." -Library Journal, *Starred Review

"A charming, lovingly crafted adventure full of peril, romance and wit, illuminated by sparkling turns of phrase and a pervasive sense of humour." -A. K. Larkwood, author of The Unspoken Name

Red White & Royal Blue meets Jonathan Strange and Mr. Norrell in debut author Freya Marske's A Marvellous Light, featuring an Edwardian England full of magic, contracts, and conspiracies.

Robin Blyth has more than enough bother in his life. He's struggling to be a good older brother, a responsible employer, and the harried baronet of a seat gutted by his late parents' excesses. When an administrative mistake sees him named the civil service liaison to a hidden magical society, he discovers what's been operating beneath the unextraordinary reality he's always known.

Now Robin must contend with the beauty and danger of magic, an excruciating deadly curse, and the alarming visions of the future that come with it—not to mention Edwin Courcay, his cold and prickly counterpart in the magical bureaucracy, who clearly wishes Robin were anyone and anywhere else.

Robin's predecessor has disappeared, and the mystery of what happened to him reveals unsettling truths about the very oldest stories they've been told about the land they live on and what binds it. Thrown together and facing unexpected dangers, Robin and Edwin discover a plot that threatens every magician in the British Isles—and a secret that more than one person has already died to keep.

Freya Marske is one of the co-hosts of Be the Serpent, a Hugo-nominated podcast about SF, fandom and literary tropes, and her work has sold to Analog and been shortlisted for Best Fantasy Short Story in the Aurealis Awards. She lives in Australia

THE CITY IN GLASS

NGHI VO

A Publishers Weekly Top 10 Fall 2024 SF&F pick

In this new standalone novel, Hugo Award-winning author Nghi Vo introduces a beguiling fantasy city in the tradition of Calvino, Mieville, and Le Guin.

A demon. An angel. A city.

The demon Vitrine—immortal, powerful, and capricious—loves the dazzling city of Azril. She has mothered, married, and maddened the city and its people for generations, and built it into a place of joy and desire, revelry and riot.

And then the angels come, and the city falls.

Vitrine is left with nothing but memories and a book containing the names of those she has lost—and an angel, now bound by her mad, grief-stricken curse to haunt the city he burned.

She mourns her dead and rages against the angel she longs to destroy. Made to be each other's devastation, angel and demon are destined for eternal battle. Instead, they find themselves locked in a devouring fascination that will change them both forever.

Together, they unearth the past of the lost city and begin to shape its future. But when war threatens Azril and everything they have built, Vitrine and her angel must decide whether they will let the city fall again.

The City in Glass is both a brilliantly constructed history and an epic love story, of death and resurrection, memory and transformation, redemption and desire strong enough to reduce a world to ashes and remake it anew.

At the Publisher's request, this title is being sold without Digital Rights Management Software (DRM) applied.

Nghi Vo is the author of the novels Siren Queen and The Chosen and the Beautiful, as well as the acclaimed novellas of the Singing Hills Cycle, which began with The Empress of Salt and Fortune. The series entries have been finalists for the Nebula Award, the Locus Award, and the Lambda Literary Award, and have won the Crawford Award, the Ignite Award, and the Hugo Award. Born in Illinois, she now lives on the shores of Lake Michigan. She believes in the ritual of lipstick, the power of stories, and the right to change your mind.

Rhys McGowan and his sometime rival and current boyfriend David Aristarkhov perform an evocation during one of their secret society meetings, David acting as scryer and Rhys as magician. After the Society meeting, the two meet up with Moira Delacroix, Rhys’ wife and David’s best friend. Over dinner, Rhys tells his partners that he’s going to attempt an intense medieval rite meant to make a sorcerer more powerful.

Rhys invests a substantial amount of the Society’s endowment in high-risk investments while assigning himself a generous salary that allows him to act as High Priest full time. He turns to high-risk magic in order to bind himself to the dark spirits who serve him. Commanding a spirit court that large and unruly is demanding, but Rhys manages it. Under the strain, he starts becoming more irritable and withdrawn. When a bloody animal sacrifice is performed in Boston the Society immediately comes under suspicion and Rhys, under investigation, takes it upon himself to figure out who committed the crime.

As Rhys continues obsessively investigating the culprit behind the sacrifice, and signs begin to point to one of his own friends, Nathan. When Nathan is arrested, the Society is destabilized further. On Christmas Eve at an isolated house in Vermont, Rhys hungry demons descend upon the people Rhys loves the most. Rhys realizes he’s bitten off more than he can chew. After surviving the miserable ordeal in Vermont, the magicians return to Boston. Rhys, David, and Antoni elect to share the power of the High Priesthood as a triumvirate and celebrate Rhys’ 27th birthday, reflecting on how sometimes love is stronger than the will to power.

"This series is delightful, with wonderful characters - strong writing and a mystery that ties everything together. Treat yourself." -P Van Wie, Amazon Reader, 5 stars

When one of Lainie Lovett's closest friends suspects her husband of cheating on her, she turns to Lainie for help. He insists he's innocent, but he's seen leaving the Other Woman's house—shortly before the Other Woman turns up dead, apparently killed after pigging out on Happy's Hamburgers. Now he's suspected of murder, and he begs Lainie to clear his name. How can she say no? His wife is the goalie of the Rockettes, Lainie's soccer team.

Lainie has to make sense of the victim's blasé family and back-stabbing pals. Add to this the mysterious green car that keeps appearing in front of Lainie's house, the romantic ups and downs of her flaky sister-in-law, the subtle pressure she's feeling from her boyfriend, and kickoff week—the start of a new school year for Lainie and her fellow teachers. She also has to figure out why the victim, a devout vegetarian, would consume all those fast-food hamburgers.

Whether it's affection for family and friends, passion for teaching, enthusiasm for soccer, panic over a possibly straying husband, or a soul-deep craving for a greasy meat patty on a toasted bun... Ultimately, everything is about love. And love, Lainie learns, can cause a whole lot of trouble.

“Great mystery story! ...When Lainie is falsely accused of aiding with a murder, she finds her life upside down. She’s forced to take a leave of absence from her job as a fourth grade teacher, and she’s suspended from playing on her soccer team. This all makes her start investigating who actually did the killing. It makes for a suspenseful story, and I had to stick with it to find out what happens. I recommend it.” -LB, Amazon Reader, 5 stars

The party celebrating Lainie Lovett’s father-in-law’s birthday gets exciting pretty quickly when one of the guests keels over just as the magnificent golf-themed birthday cake is being served. That he happens to be the most obnoxious guest at the shindig leaves the other guests less than shattered by his sudden passing. But when it’s determined that he didn’t die of natural causes, and a few of the guests, including the guest of honor himself, arouse suspicion, Lainie’s in-laws ask her to step in and clear her father-in-law’s name. Meanwhile, Lainie’s daughter Karen, who has fallen madly in love with one of the waiters also under suspicion, needs Lainie to exonerate him, as well. In honor of her husband’s memory, her daughter’s love life, and that spectacular birthday cake, with its chocolate golf balls and candy clubs, Lainie must figure out who murdered the party guest—while trying to avoid getting clubbed, herself.

Summertime, and the living should be easy. School's out, and fourth-grade teacher Lainie Lovett is on vacation, spending her mornings running sports clinics for children and her evenings playing with the Rockettes, her recreation-league soccer team. But things get a whole lot less easy when one of Lainie's teammates urges her to visit Sunrise Village, an assisted-living residence for the elderly, where various items have gone missing: a ring, a jewelry box, a bottle of prescription medicine...and George Vandercloop's considerable fortune, which he'd kept stuffed inside his mattress and which disappeared the night he died. Plenty of people at Sunrise Village had access to his apartment—his neighbors, the staff, his relatives, and the newly hired director of maintenance, who may just be the long-lost son of the Rockettes' distinctly un-motherly coach. Who stole George's money? And if he didn't die of natural causes, who killed him?

Lainie doesn't need another mystery to solve, but Sunrise Village needs Lainie. The place teems with romantic intrigue, rivalries, gossip, raptures over the dining room's chocolate cake—and possible crimes. Lainie will do her best to uncover the truth. But will she still be among the living when the assisted-living establishment is done with her?

Did one of the aggressive Super Moms who run the organization pocket the money? What's going on with the cute new gym teacher at Hopwell? And what's the deal with the secretary's husband and his odd hairdo? Most important, will Lainie survive long enough to find the money in time to save the Faculty Appreciation Luncheon?

One evening after soccer practice, she's startled to spot the husband of one of her teammates canoodling with another woman in a local eatery. She's even more shocked when he turns up dead the next day. And more shocked yet when she winds up under suspicion as an accessory to murder. But Lainie is smart and she's stubborn. Mammoths at the Gates

NGHI VO

The Hugo and Crawford Award-Winning Series!

The wandering Cleric Chih returns home to the Singing Hills Abbey for the first time in almost three years, to be met with both joy and sorrow. Their mentor, Cleric Thien, has died, and rests among the archivists and storytellers of the storied abbey. But not everyone is prepared to leave them to their rest.

Because Cleric Thien was once the patriarch of Coh clan of Northern Bell Pass--and now their granddaughters have arrived on the backs of royal mammoths, demanding their grandfather's body for burial. Chih must somehow balance honoring their mentor's chosen life while keeping the sisters from the north from storming the gates and destroying the history the clerics have worked so hard to preserve.

But as Chih and their neixin Almost Brilliant navigate the looming crisis, Myriad Virtues, Cleric Thien's own beloved hoopoe companion, grieves her loss as only a being with perfect memory can, and her sorrow may be more powerful than anyone could anticipate. . .

Nghi Vo was born in central Illinois, and she retains a healthy respect of and love for corn mazes, scarecrows, and fifty-year floods. These days, she lives on the shores of Lake Michigan, which is less a lake than an inland sea that she is sure is just biding its time. Her short fiction has appeared in Strange Horizons, Uncanny Magazine, PodCastle, Lightspeed, and Fireside. Her short story, "Neither Witch nor Fairy" made the 2014 Otherwise (formerly Tiptree) Award Honor List. Nghi mostly writes about food, death, and family, but sometimes detours into blood, love, and rhetoric. She believes in the ritual of lipstick, the power of stories, and the right to change your mind.

SEANAN McGUIRE

Antsy is the latest student to pass through the doors at Eleanor West's School for Wayward Children.

Along the way, they will travel from a world which hides painful memories that cut as sharply as its beauty, to a land that time wasn't yet old enough to forget—and more than one student's life will change forever.

Mislaid in Parts Half-Known is a story that reminds us that getting what you want doesn't always mean finding what you need.

UNDER THE SMOKE STREWN SKY

A. DEBORAH BAKER

The series finale of the 4-book Up-and-Under series, written by bestselling author Seanan McGuire under an open pseudonym.

Since stumbling from their world into the Up and Under, Avery and Zib have walked the improbable road across forests, seas and skies, finding friends in the unlikeliest of places and enemies great in number, as they make their way toward the Impossible City in the hope of finding their way home.

But the final part of their journey is filled with danger and demise. Not everyone will make it through unscathed. Not everyone will make it through alive.

The final part of the enchanting Up-and-Under quartet reminds us of the value of friendship and the price one sometimes pays for straying from the path. No-one's safety can be guaranteed under the smokestrewn sky.

A. Deborah Baker is one of Seanan McGuire's pseudonyms. Seanan is a native Californian, which has resulted in her being exceedingly laid-back about venomous wildlife, and terrified of weather. When not writing urban fantasy (as herself) and science fiction thrillers (as Mira Grant), she likes to watch way too many horror movies, wander around in swamps, record albums of original music, and harass her cats.

The Fogg River Seminary, a girls' school in a small Illinois town, is supposed to be just another stop on Maryse and Vasyl's endless travels. They've made lucrative use of Maryse's "foreign" looks in their melodramatic séance act—and an act is all it is. Then, during their performance, a blizzard sweeps in and cuts them off from town completely. In the freezing halls, there's a voice speaking the secrets of the dead, and Maryse has no choice but to listen...because this time, the voice is real.

ADRIFT IN CURRENTS CLEAN AND CLEAR

SEANAN MCGUIRE

Giant turtles, impossible ships, and tidal rivers ridden by a Drowned girl in search of a family in the latest in the bestselling Hugo and Nebula Award-Winning Wayward Children series from Seanan McGuire.

Nadya had three mothers: the one who bore her, the country that poisoned her, and the one who adopted her.

Nadya never considered herself less than whole, not until her adoptive parents fitted her with a prosthetic arm against her will, seeking to replace the one she'd been missing from birth.

It was cumbersome; it was uncomfortable; it was wrong.

It wasn't her.

Frustrated and unable to express why, Nadya began to wander, until the day she fell through a door into Belyrreka, the Land Beneath the Lake--and found herself in a world of water, filled with child-eating amphibians, majestic giant turtles, and impossible ships that sailed as happily beneath the surface as on top. In Belyrreka, she found herself understood for who she was: a Drowned Girl, who had made her way to her real home, accepted by the river and its people.

But even in Belyrreka, there are dangers, and trials, and Nadya would soon find herself fighting to keep hold of everything she had come to treasure.

And someone is killing them.

There are so many of them that it's easy for a few disappearances to slip through the cracks. But they aren't limitless.

In the name of the moon, the lunar divinities must uncover the roots of the plot and thwart the true goal of those behind these attacks—control of the Impossible City itself.

A WITCH'S LEGACY

CATHY WALKER

"...Walker delivers another homerun with books two of the Salem Witches series. Witches fighting an ancient evil taken to another level. I was hooked from start to finish, frantically devouring the book to know more. Well done!" -Amazon reader

"This was just as good as the first. It's smooth reading and you feel like you are a part of the characters. Can't wait to start the third tonight!! Thank you Cathy for an amazing series!" -Amazon reader

In a distant past the magician, Seabhac, fought a deadly battle on a cliff high above the raging sea. Hovering on the point of death, he managed a final thrust of magic and escaped to Avalon to pass his knowledge to his apprentice, Ainevar. Driven to protect the endangered druid magic, Ainevar fled Seabhac's attacker and began a course of events that wind through history and take root in modern day Salem. It took a hefty bribe to convince New Yorker Cassandra Raines to decorate her brother's new house. Especially since the house is located in Salem, Massachusetts and Cassandra has an aversion to magic. Her arrival in town embroils Cassandra in ritual murders, latent powers gone awry, and Salem's attractive police chief, Samson Wilder, who harbors his own history of magic, curses, and deadly secrets. Past and present collide when the legacy of evil that has stalked Salem for centuries returns with a vengeance.

A WITCH'S LAMENT

CATHY WALKER

Sometimes, the past refuses to stay buried.

Salem, Massachusetts, has managed to build a thriving industry of tourism on the foundations of its dark past. But, beneath the seaside charm, bewitching shops, and seasonal surge of wannabe-witches and thrill-seekers, the ancient darkness still lurks.

Oblivious to the brewing danger, Skye Temple buys a historic house in the witch capital of the world and on her first day uncovers a skeleton and ancestral diaries in her new home's library. In escalating events of magic and murder, Skye discovers her true bloodlines and a familial birth task that involves guarding a powerful knife.

Police officer Jerome Phips has been searching for answers to his mother's disappearance for 30 years. She'd vanished during a ritual, and none of the other coven members had information about that night. So, when he receives the phone call about a skeleton and its location, his heart beats with hope and fear that he might finally know the truth.

As information unfolds and danger heightens, Jerome discovers Skye's relationship with one of the people present during the disastrous ritual. Though anger and blame make it difficult to work together, Jerome and Skye must overcome emotions to prevent the darkness from returning and fulfilling its own long-awaited task.

The Cold War is back—but for some it never ended.

Sarah Ridgeway is living the life she's always envisioned. She has a devoted husband, a loving daughter, and a comfortable home. The path to reach it, however, has not always been smooth. For twelve years her husband, Bryce, served in the Army, deployed to some of the world's worst trouble spots. After his service ended with a combat injury, the future had seemed precarious, but with Sarah's support and that of his wealthy family, combined with his exemplary service record, he is elected to congress.

When videos of his bravery go viral, he quickly becomes a national hero. The timing could not be more fortuitous. The presidential primaries are heating up, and Bryce's party is desperate for a fresh candidate to challenge the vulnerable incumbent.

Amid the whirlwind, Sarah senses something amiss. Since the attack, Bryce has been forgetful and acting strangely. Could it be the stress? she wonders. Might the recent explosion have aggravated his combat trauma? For the first time ever, she finds herself doubting a man she has always trusted. Confessing her fears to her closest friend, together they quietly search for answers. What they uncover is stunning: the man who might soon be president has a deeply held secret. A secret that will likely destroy Sarah's life—and certainly lead the nation to ruin.

The BURNING LAND

DAVID O. STEWART

The Burning Land, Book 2 of the Overstreet Saga, brings the reader back to the Civil War and its aftermath, when Americans fought each other over what the nation would become—a time of adventure, excitement, opportunity, and agonizing loss.

From bestselling historian and storyteller, David O. Stewart, The Burning Land follows a turbulent romance through the feverishly troubled times during and after the Civil War. Richly developed characters embody the struggles that remade the nation as Henry Overstreet, a carpenter, aims up the social ladder in Waldoboro, Maine, in his pursuit of Katie Nash. But the lovers' path runs through family tragedies and America's bloodiest war—one fought to redeem the nation's soul and free a people. Often separated, they use quiet and devoted letters to capture each other's heart as Katie wins teaching jobs usually reserved for men and Henry serves faithfully in Maine's legendary Twentieth Regiment. Rising to sergeant through furious battles at Fredericksburg and Gettysburg, Henry's two-week leave allows them to marry on the Fourth of July, 1864, and know a very few days of bliss.

Their trials, however, only multiply. Katie helps nurse Henry back from a grisly battlefield wound, but he recoils from the prospect of settling back in small-town Waldoboro. Dreaming of new horizons and an expansive future, Henry uproots their young family for booming Chicago. But little goes right in the overnight metropolis, testing their love and faith as never before.

After many years as a trial and appellate lawyer, David O. Stewart became a bestselling writer of history and historical fiction. His first novel, The Lincoln Deception, was about the John Wilkes Booth Conspiracy. Sequels include The Paris Deception, set at the Paris Peace Conference in 1919, and The Babe Ruth Deception, which follows Babe's early years with the Yankees. Released in November 2021, The New Land began the Overstreet Saga.

BOOK TWO

Josephine, Devi, and Mac's story continues. Devi and Mac are falling in love, but a complication comes along in the form of Mac's pregnant ex-wife. As for Josephine, with the excitement of unmasking the Brookside thief and Devi's being shot now over, she's finding Brookside Retirement Community (aka Babbling Brook) as dull as she initially expected it to be. Until, that is, she gets involved with a man who suspects her of being a criminal mastermind. Finding love at this late date is something Josephine never expected, and it's her Edward Hopper painting that plays matchmaker.

BOOK THREE

Josephine Bartlett is back, joined by a colorful cast of friends: her partner in mystery-solving, Lill Fitzel, flamboyant ex-beauty queen, Myrtle Grabinowitz, former attorney/current novelist, Philip-pa Scott Williamson, Brookside's thief, Edna Prisant, good friends Devi and Mac McElroy, and last, but not least, love-interest Norman Neumann. When new resident, Lottie Watson, loses at Naked Poker, she tells a bizarre story about her husband disappearing in the LA airport. Josephine and Lill, intrigued enough to investigate, discover there are more ominous goings-on than a simple disappearance. Meanwhile, Josephine ignores the mysteries of her own heart.

BOOK FOUR

A forty-year-old art heist with repercussions in the present is the catalyst for yet another adventure for the Naked Poker Club. Newlyweds Josephine and Norman are moving into their new home in the Brookside Retirement Community when they receive a letter containing a clue to a forty-year-old heist that netted paintings worth over one hundred million dollars. Norman, who has spent a career recovering stolen art, can't resist the appeal of the mysterious clue which leads to another adventure for Josephine and friends.

BOOK FIVE

Maddie Scott is a mystery. To herself as well as to the Babbling Brook Naked Poker Club bunch. Josephine and Norman met Maddie after they helped Maddie's adoptive mother, return stolen art worth over three hundred million dollars. The return of the art generated publicity which poses a risk to Maddie from angry collectors her adoptive father scammed with fake paintings. Seeking safety, Maddie moves to Cincinnati. There, Maddie, who knows nothing about her past, begins to unravel clues, as a mysterious man hovers in the background. The rest of the Babbling Brook bunch each contribute to Maddie's quest in their own unique way: Myrtle with her snooping and swoops of inspiration, Lillian with a hat, Devi and Mac with friendship and a home, and Josephine and Norman with unwavering support.

BOOK SIX

It's the holiday season, but someone is playing the Grinch at the Brookside Retirement Community. Hurtful rumors circulate about Josephine's best friends, altering the mood from joyous to troubled. Then even more disturbing events are brought to the attention of Josephine and Lill. Once again their mystery solving skills are called upon to stop the rumors and to save their fellow residents from a pair of determined scam artists.

If you enjoy Richard Osman's books, you might also enjoy getting acquainted with another group of friends who live in a retirement community.

Once again, Josephine and Lill are on the lookout for a mystery, but all that presents itself is the plaster dog that has fled Brookside Retirement Community and is now flitting about the world sending post-cards to its owner. But then, Josephine remembers the odd Naked Poker story told by one of the more unpleasant residents. That resident has since moved on, but that doesn't mean the hints she may have murdered her first husband have moved on with her.

Josephine and Lill begin to investigate, but soon decide the most likely explanation for the man's disappearance was that after a night of heavy drinking, he took a wrong turn on the way home and ended up in the Ohio River. They arrange for a couple with sonar equipment to search the part of the river where they suspect the car might be. Instead, a different vehicle is discovered, and it contains a body. They're not about to walk away without learning more about that body and, most especially, how it got there.

From a bestselling and award-winning author who has sold over 2.5 million books comes a love story that poses the question--Is it better to have loved and lost, than never to have loved at all?

Hannah King and her two children, Mae and Lillian, are facing their first Christmas without their beloved husband and father, who passed only six months ago. Hannah is determined to display strength for her girls, stifling her emotions until she is alone at night crying herself to sleep. She is working through the grief she feels over the absence of her father, but something about her mother has changed, and the transformation has Mae fearful to make a commitment to John Byler. Her mother robotically goes through the motions of daily living, but she is a shell of the woman she used to be. Mae walks away from her relationship with John, knowing her mother's grief must be far worse than her own. She isn't going to let that happen to her.

John Byler is in love with Mae, but his admission to her about his feelings causes her to stop seeing him without any explanation. He can only assume that she doesn't love him the way he loves her.

Can Hannah see past her own grief and convince her daughter that it is better to have loved and lost, than never to have loved at all? And is Mae willing to take a chance on love?

RETURN OF THE MONARCHS

BETH WISEMAN

Janelle Herron isn't interested in having a boyfriend. She wears black clothes, dark makeup, and sees herself metaphorically as a caterpillar who hopes to transform into a butterfly someday. She hopes that she will grow into a vision of herself that she can live with, and she has her reasons—reasons that only her parents are aware of—but that doesn't include having a romantic relationship. But when she sees a handsome Amish man being harassed by bullies, she gets involved and becomes friends with Thomas Schrock. He's safe. They can never be together romantically because he's Amish.

Thomas Schrock is intrigued—and a little embarrassed—when a Goth-looking young English woman intervenes in a one-sided fight Thomas is about to be lured into by three bullies. Janelle is spunky, brave, and might even be pretty behind all the dark makeup she wears. She is easy to talk to, fun to be around, and as they spend more time together, he begins to understand some of the reasons she dresses the way she does. Walter was eighty-two when he died--the first time. His visit to Heaven was glorious as he reunited with his wife, daughter, and other family and friends, relationships that a full life had nourished. But God tells Walter that he can’t stay in Heaven, that Walter has more to do on Earth before he returns Home for good. Leaving those he loves, as well as the love of God, seems unbearable.

The Lord tells Walter that he will return to his earthly existence right away with renewed health and pain-free. God explains to Walter that He will relay messages to him, words that he might not understand but that are intended for the betterment of the recipient.

Walter awakens in his hospital bed feeling like a man of twenty but wondering if he’d dreamed the entire ordeal. When he begins to hear God’s messages for others, he follows through, although his own doubts and fears lead him to worry whether he is handling the callings correctly. As a series of events unfold, Walter is happy when things come together for the strangers he seems to have helped, but he starts to become bitter. The two most important people in his life are hurting, and God isn’t helping either one of them.

As Walter’s faith is tested, will his own bitterness block the voice of God that carries with it a special message for Walter’s loved ones?

GOOD FORTUNE

C.K. Chau

A whip-smart and charming debut novel that brilliantly reimagines Pride and Prejudice, set in contemporary Chinatown, exploring contemporary issues of class divides, family ties, cultural identity, and the pleasures and frustrations that come with falling in love.

When Elizabeth Chen's ever-hustling realtor mother finally sells the beloved if derelict community center down the block, the new owners don't look like typical New York City buyers. Brendan Lee and Darcy Wong are good Chinese boys with Hong Kong money. Clean-cut and charismatic, they say they are committed to cleaning up the neighborhood. To Elizabeth, that only means one thing: Darcy is looking to give the center an uptown makeover.

Elizabeth is determined to fight for community over profit, even if it means confronting the arrogant, uptight man every chance she gets. But where clever, cynical Elizabeth sees lemons, her mother sees lemonade. Eager to get Elizabeth and her other four daughters ahead in the world (and out of their crammed family apartment), Mrs. Chen takes every opportunity to keep her investors close. Closer than Elizabeth likes.

The more time they spend together, the more conflicted Elizabeth feels...until a shocking betrayal forces her to reconsider everything she thought she knew about love, trust, and the kind of person Darcy Wong really is.

C.K. Chau is a Chinese American writer based out of New York. She holds a master's degree in English Literature from Hunter College. When she isn't writing, she likes to watch old films and daydream about her next meal. Her writing has previously appeared in sunstruck magazine and Bright Wall/Dark Room, among others, under another name.

On a sunny September morning, the creatures first appear. Shur sees one of them hovering outside the window in history class: it looks like a giant butterfly, at first too beautiful and strange to seem like a threat. But when emergency alerts light up everyone's phones around her, she realizes something very, very wrong is happening outside. These... things are everywhere.

By the time Shur makes it back to her house with her brother, Keene, and their two best friends, it's clear they must face whatever comes next on their own. A terrifying species the world's never seen before has suddenly emerged, and few living things are safe. As the creatures swarm and attack outside, life for Shur and her friends becomes a survival game. They board the windows, stockpile supplies, and try to make sense of the news reports for as long as the power stays on.

Yet nothing can prepare them for what follows. The butterflies are only the beginning. The next onslaught will be deadlier, and even closer to home.

SLEEP NO MORE

Book 17 of October Daye Series

SEANAN MCGUIRE

The 17th novel of the Hugo-nominated, New York Times bestselling October Daye urban fantasy series.

October is very happy with her life as the second daughter of her pureblood parents, Amandine and Simon Torquill. Born to be the changeling handmaid to her beloved sister August, she spends her days working in her family's tower, serving as August's companion, and waiting for the day when her sister sets up a household of her own. Everything is right in October's Faerie. Everything is perfect.

Everything is a lie.

October has been pulled from her own reality and thrown into a twisted reinterpretation of Faerie where nothing is as it should be and everything has been distorted to support Titania's ideals. Bound by the Summer Queen's magic and thrust into a world turned upside down, October has no way of knowing who she can trust, where she can turn, or even who she really is. As strangers who claim to know her begin to appear and the edges of Titania's paradise begin to unravel, Toby will have to decide whether she can risk everything she knows based on only their stories of another world.

But first she'll have to survive this one, as Titania demonstrates why she needed to be banished in the first place—and this time, much more than Toby's own life is at stake.

Seanan McGuire lives and works in Washington State, where she shares her somewhat idiosyncratic home with her collection of books, creepy dolls, and enormous blue cats. When not writing—which is fairly rare—she enjoys travel, and can regularly be found any place where there are cornfields, haunted houses, or frogs. A Campbell, Hugo, and Nebula Award-winning author, Seanan's first book (Rosemary and Rue, the beginning of the October Daye series) was released in 2009, with more than twenty books across various series following since. Seanan doesn't sleep much.

THE INNOCENT SLEEP

Book 18 of October Daye Series

SEANAN MCGUIRE

The 18th novel of the Hugo-nominated, New York Times bestselling October Daye urban fantasy series.

For one bright, shining moment, Tybalt, King of Cats, had everything he had ever wanted. He was soon to set his crown aside; he had married the woman he loved; he was going to be a father. After centuries of searching for a family of his own, he had finally found a way to construct the life of his dreams, and was looking forward to a period of peace—or at least as much peace as is ever in the offing for the husband of a hero.

Alas for Tybalt and his domestic aspirations, fate—and Titania—had other ideas. His perfect world had been complete for only a moment when it was ripped away, to be replaced by hers. Titania, Faerie's Summer Queen, Mother of Illusions and enemy of so many he holds dear, has seized control of the Kingdom, remaking it in her own image. An image which does not include meddlesome shapeshifters getting in her way. Tybalt quickly finds himself banished from her reality, along with the Undersea and the rest of the Court of Cats.

To protect his people and his future, Tybalt must find the woman he loves in a world designed to keep her from him, convince her that he's not a stranger trying to ruin her life for no apparent reason, and get her to unmake the illusion she's been firmly enmeshed in. And he'll have to do it all while she doesn't know him, and every unrecognizing look is a knife to his heart.

...For Tybalt, King of Cats, the happily ever after was just the beginning.

Some sticky situations have a sweet solution.

In a Jam

SMALL TOWN TROUBLE book 1

CINDY DORMINY

Andie Carson has to do three things to inherit her grandmother's lottery winnings--sober up, spend a month running her grandmother's Georgia coffee shop, and enter homemade jam in the county fair. If she can't meet those terms, the money goes to the church, and Andie gets nothing. She figures her tasks will be easy enough, and once she completes them, Andie plans to sell the shop, take the money, and run back to Boston.

After a rough breakup from his crazy ex-fiancée, Officer Gunnar Wills decides to take a hiatus from women. All he wants is to help make his small town thrive the way it did when he was a kid. But when wild and beautiful Andie shows up, Gunnar's hesitant heart begins to flutter.

Gunnar knows that Andie plans to leave, but he's hoping to change her mind, fearful that if her coffee shop closes, Main Street will fold to the big-box corporations and forever change the landscape of his quaint community. But convincing her to stay means getting close enough to risk his heart in the process. Even though Gunnar makes small-town life seem a little sweeter, Andie has to decide if she's ready to turn her world upside down and give up big-city life. One thing's for sure--it's a very sticky situation.

Cindy Dorminy writes about love when it's least expected. Quirky dialogue and sassy, southern heroines are a must in her romances. When she's not in her she-shed working on her next novel, she enjoys walking her dog, gardening, and weightlifting. She shares her house with her musician husband, an awesome daughter, and a miniature dachshund who would eat all the food if he could figure out how to open the refrigerator. After suffering an allergic reaction at the fall festival, Jackie blabs the true reason for her visit.

The Foster Wife

CINDY DORMINY

"The Foster Wife: Helping Men Find Their Forever Homes" was an enjoyable read from beginning to end. Because of its quirky premise, the story will undoubtedly top readers' lists, and I could easily see the rom-com being adapted for the big screen. If you love contemporary love stories sprinkled with humor, you don't want to miss this one!" -5 star reader review

After a devastating breakup, instead of drowning in her tears, Amelia Day starts a new business. For a hefty fee, she uses the methods for training foster dogs to transform men into suitable marriage material. Her track record is impeccable until she meets perpetual bachelor Phin Baxtor. From the start, she's confused as to why this guitar-playing hunk would even want to hire her, but she needs the money, so she takes him on.

Phin is content with working in his food truck all day and playing the field at night. But his business partner, Jay, offers him a bet he can't refuse. If Phin can complete Amelia's program without changing his ways, he will win Jay's rare guitar. Certain his task will be easier than playing "Hound Dog," he agrees to enter the program.

With Phin and Amelia spending all their time together, her techniques begin to slip past his defenses. He might become her biggest success, but falling for a client isn't supposed to be part of the deal.

After several decades of writing medical research documents, Cindy Dorminy decided to switch gears and become an author. She wanted to write stories where the chances of happy endings are 100% and the side effects include satisfied sighs, permanent smiles, and a chuckle or two. Cindy was born in Texas and raised in Georgia. She enjoys gardening, reading, and bodybuilding. She can often be overheard quoting lines from her favorite movies. But her favorite pastime is spending time with Mark, her bass-playing husband, and Maddie Rose, the coolest girl on the planet. She also loves her fur child, Daisy Mae. She currently resides in Nashville, TN, where live music can be heard everywhere, even at the grocery store.

A PENNY EARNED

A MURDER MUTTS MYSTERY

M. RUTH MYERS

1950s Wyoming. An Ohio private eye.
A friend's murder.

Private investigator Heebbs Kelly, a breezy young WWII veteran, came to Cheyenne to work with his Army buddy, not find him murdered at his desk. The police are eager to write off attorney Paul Richardson's homicide as the work of a passing vagrant – or as proof the victim was mixed up in something shady. His grief stricken family beg Heebbs to find the killer and clear Paul's name.

Soon Heebbs and the tiny white dog he rescued from coyotes start stepping on the toes of influential people and threatening secrets someone wants to keep buried. When a pair of thugs jump him outside a bar to persuade him to keep his nose out, they find their would-be prey is tougher than his lack of cowboy boots and missing hand suggest.

Instead of backing off, Heebbs doubles down. He begins to uncover hints of corruption that reaches across the state, and maybe beyond. When another murder occurs, he faces the additional challenge of keeping a restless and supremely annoying witness alive long enough to cough up information that may or may not prove useful.

Aided by his Mexican secretary, a woman doctor, and his prickly landlady, who fascinates him as much as she baffles him, Heebbs picks out a trail that leads to a jarring connection. In an unfamiliar city, unsure who to trust, he risks his life to expose the truth and exact justice.

A native of Missouri, Ruth Myers grew up in Wyoming. After earning a journalism degree from the University of Missouri, she wrote for daily papers in Michigan and Ohio. She has also worked in public relations, association management and as a ventriloquist. She's happiest, however, when she's killing people in the privacy of her study. Her husband and cat give her sideways glances and twitch from time to time.

A FATAL OVERTURE

Kathleen Marple Kalb

During the first winter of the twentieth century, Gilded Age trouser diva Ella Shane refuses to dim the lights on her dazzling show business career for marriage—even to a dashing British duke. But the versatile mezzo-soprano may have to put it all on the line once murder takes centerstage...

New York City, 1900. Renowned opera singer and theatre company owner Ella may have both much to gain and much to lose by getting engaged to her courtly long-distance love, Gil Saint Auburn. But there's little time for romance or resolutions with Gil's aristocratic mother and aunts visiting Greenwich Village—especially when the ladies discover a dead man in the bathtub of their hotel suite.

The victim's disturbing background and subsequent demise at the elegant Waverly Place Hotel leave the group puzzled beyond the obvious certainty of an unnatural death. Adding to the confusion and mounting fear, danger explodes through Ella's close-knit circle after a friend makes a stunning confession and Gil becomes a fresh target for violence.

Now, with a London tour run fast approaching, prenuptial worries weighing heavily on her heart, and an intricate Joan of Arc aria to rehearse, can Ella decide what she's willing to sacrifice before confronting a relentless criminal bent on watching her entire life go up in smoke?

Kathleen Marple Kalb grew up in front of a microphone, and a keyboard. She's currently a weekend morning anchor at 1010 WINS New York, capping a career she began as a teenage DJ in Brookville, Pennsylvania. She, her husband, and son live in a Connecticut house owned by their cat.

A Fatal First Night

Kathleen Marple Kalb

Set in Gilded Age New York, Kathleen Marple Kalb's adventurous new historical mystery series returns for its second installment starring the swashbuckling opera singer Ella Shane, an Irish-Jewish Lower East Side orphan who finds fame and fortune singing male "trouser roles." But while her opera company's latest premier manages to attract adoring crowds and rave reviews, it also attracts a killer who's a real showstopper...

New York City, Fall 1899. Ahead-of-her-time coloratura mezzo Ella Shane has always known opening night to be a mess of missed cues and jittery nerves, especially when unveiling a new opera. Her production of The Princes in the Tower, based on the mysterious disappearance of Edward IV's two sons during the Wars of the Roses in England, concludes its first performance to thunderous applause. It's not until players take their bows that the worst kind of disaster strikes . . .

Flawless basso Albert Reuter is found lurching over a bloody body in his dressing room, seemingly taking inspiration from his role as the murderous Richard III. With a disturbing homicide case stealing the spotlight, Ella can't be so certain Albert is the one who belongs behind bars...

Now, Ella must think on her feet while sorting out a wild series of puzzling mishaps and interlocking mysteries. Yet even when sided with her aristocratic beau, does this scrappy diva have the chops to upstage the true criminal, or will this be the last time she headlines a Broadway marquee?

Kathleen Marple Kalb lives with her family in Cheshire, Connecticut. She's currently a weekend morning anchor at New York's 1010WINS Radio, capping a career she began as a teenage DJ in rural Western Pennsylvania. She's currently working on the next Ella Shane historical mystery.

FEED THEM SILENCE

LEE MANDELO

Lee Mandelo dives into the minds of wolves in Feed Them Silence, a novella of the near future.

What does it mean to “be-in-kind” with a nonhuman animal? Or in Dr. Sean Kell-Luden’s case, to be-in-kind with one of the last remaining wild wolves? Using a neurological interface to translate her animal subject’s perception through her own mind, Sean intends to chase both her scientific curiosity and her secret, lifelong desire to experience the intimacy and freedom of wolfishness. To see the world through animal eyes, smell the forest, thick with olfactory messages, even taste the blood and viscera of a fresh kill. And, above all, to feel the belonging of the pack.

Sean’s tireless research gives her a chance to fulfill that dream, but pursuing it has a terrible cost. Her obsession with work endangers her fraying relationship with her wife. Her research methods threaten her mind and body. And the attention of her VC funders could destroy her subject, the beautiful wild wolf whose mental world she’s invading.

As the harsh winter months threaten the pack’s survival and Sean’s marriage spirals down the drain, she’ll be faced with the consequences of her negligence—and be forced to choose whether she’ll let the world of wolves and the world she’s known both slip through her fingers.

LEE MANDELO is a writer, critic, and occasional editor whose fields of interest include speculative and queer fiction, especially when the two coincide. They have been a past nominee for various awards including the Nebula, Lambda, and Hugo; their work can be found in magazines such as Tor.com, Uncanny Magazine, Clarkesworld, and Nightmare. Aside from a brief stint overseas learning to speak Scouse, Lee has spent their life ranging across Kentucky, currently living in Lexington and pursuing a PhD at the University of Kentucky.

Blackout

M.J. SCHILLER

Faith

I froze when I saw him. It had been years, and he'd changed his physical appearance, but there's no way I wouldn't recognize Eli. We share a bond forged in childhood trauma. But are we just two drowning people who will pull each other under the surface?

Max loves me and makes me happy. I wear his ring.

But there's no denying the pull Eli has on me.

Max

I had it all with Hope. She made me a better man.

Then I opened the door to find him on the other side. Eli. No way was I going to let him waltz back into her life and hurt her like he did in the past. Then again, it's not exactly my call.

Eli

Not a day has gone by that I haven't thought about Faith. I probably don't even deserve another chance after all the pain I've caused her. But I have to try, don't I? What we had together...she changed my life. She saved me from myself. And I'm better now. I've made dramatic changes. But...what if I fail her again? Maybe the best thing I can do for her is walk away.

A blackout brought them together. A blackout tore them apart. Three people at a table for two. Who's the odd man out?

JUDITH ARNOLD

From the time they were eight years old, Kip Stroud and Shelley Ballard spent their summers together on Block Island, swimming, biking, exploring...and growing up. As teenagers, they argued about books, complained about chores and learned from each other a little about the way boys and girls viewed each other. They were best friends—until a tragedy in Shelley's life tore them apart.

Twelve years later, Kip has had to face his own tragedy. When he returns to the island to heal, he discovers that Shelley is now living there, older and wiser but bearing emotional scars. He is scarred, too—something they can share as they rediscover their friendship. But comfort and compassion aren't love.

Kip believes he will never love again. Shelley believes she can't love. Yet one night, their beliefs are shattered, and they realize they have a lot more to learn from each other.

USA Today bestselling author Judith Arnold knew she wanted to be a writer by the time she was four. Four of Judith's novels have received awards from RT Book Reviews Magazine (for Best Harlequin American Romance, Best Harlequin Superromance, Best Series Romance Novel and Best Contemporary Romance Novel) and she's a three-time finalist for Romance Writers of America's RITA Award. Messalina Claudia and Marcus Galerius Alexius, desperately search for Messalina's friend, Nonia Rosa. But this pursuit uncovers the political underbelly of greed, lust and violence from the first citizens in the ancient Roman city of Herculaneum. Messi and Alexius risk everything-- their families' reputation, his future as a Roman senator, and even their lives beneath the shadows of a very restless volcano...Vesuvius, where Vulcan's wrath simmers.

Ms Ridgley loves the ancient world. Even after years of researching and many trips to the sites of her stories, she is still fascinated by what she can use for her next story. One thing she does enjoy more is bringing this world to life in her award-winning stories of power, greed, violence, and love.

Rowena and the Dark Lord

Melodie Campbell

Dark magic...dark passions...

When Rowena is abducted from Arizona and taken back to medieval Land's End, one thing is clear: she must learn to control her powers of magic. It isn't easy being a modern girl in an archaic land, and when Rowena accidentally conjures up a Roman Legion in mid-battle, Land's End is on the brink of a war that could jeopardize everything and everyone she loves.

The stakes are raised when the Dark Lord reappears and traps Rowena in a cyclone of lust and passion. Once again she is torn between the man she loves and the mage who fires her desire.

Melodie Campbell experienced a personal best this year when Library Digest compared her to Janet Evanovich.

Melodie got her start writing comedy, so it's no surprise her fiction has been described as 'wacky' and 'hilarious.' In 1999, she opened the Canadian Humour Conference.

She has over 200 publications, including 100 comedy credits, 40 short stories and 4 novels. Her work has appeared in Alfred Hitchcock Mystery Magazine, Star Magazine, Canadian Living Magazine, The Toronto Star, The Globe and Mail, The Hamilton Spectator, Over My Dead Body, Flash Fiction Magazine, and many more. She has won 6 awards for fiction and was a finalist for both the 2012 Derringer and Arthur Ellis awards.

Melodie was invited into the Toronto Press Club in 1994. There is no truth to the rumour that she once did a somersault off the Press Club billiard table.

ROWENA THROUGH THE WALL

MELODIE CAMPBELL

When Rowena falls through her classroom wall and lands in an alternate world, she doesn't count on being kidnapped —not once, but twice, dammit— and the stakes get higher as the men get hotter. Unwanted husbands keep piling up, but that doesn't stop her from falling for the wrong brother. Not only that, she has eighteen year old Kendra to look out for and a war to prevent. Good thing she has the ability to go back through the wall. Or can she?

Melodie Campbell experienced a personal best this year when Library Digest compared her to Janet Evanovich.

Melodie got her start writing comedy, so it's no surprise her fiction has been described as 'wacky' and 'hilarious.' In 1999, she opened the Canadian Humour Conference.

She has over 200 publications, including 100 comedy credits, 40 short stories and 4 novels. Her work has appeared in Alfred Hitchcock Mystery Magazine, Star Magazine, Canadian Living Magazine, The Toronto Star, The Globe and Mail, The Hamilton Spectator, Over My Dead Body, Flash Fiction Magazine, and many more. She has won 6 awards for fiction and was a finalist for both the 2012 Derringer and Arthur Ellis awards.

SWORD ACROSS TIME

CATHY WALKER

When the legendary realm of Avalon disappears into the mist, it leaves behind a powerful and dangerous legacy of curses invoked in the heat of anger and passion. Over the centuries the words have faded to a mere whisper, yet their power remains strong and deadly.

Now, the Dark Lady, Morganna, seeks to claim the powerful Sword Excalibur for herself while the descendants of Merlin and the Lady of the Lake must deal with the repercussions of long ago betrayals.

Danger ensues when Gavin and Tamara discover journals written by their ancestors and embark on a search for the truth. Thrust together by fate and caught in circumstances beyond their control, the two find themselves attracted to and frustrated with each other.

Unaware that a blood sacrifice is needed to activate the power of the sword, Gavin and Tamara find themselves in a race against evil in order to defeat Morganna and save themselves.

Books have fueled Cathy Walker's imagination since reading the Black Stallion series when she was young. Never thinking about actually writing a book, she sat down and began anyway. Now she has 5 published books and more on the way, all of them with a theme of myths, legends, romance or fantasy.

Cathy is fortunate enough to live on a farm filled with animals to love and care for. Every morning she is greeted at the barnyard by dogs, cats, goats, and horses and time spent with all of them helps motivate her to write.

VAMPIRE Vintage

ASHLYN CHASE

Maura Keegan, addicted to vampire romance novels, decides to add a Gothic section to her vintage clothing store in SoHo. What better way to get a tax-deductible trip to Romania—and meet her future vampire mate?

Adrian, a sexy vampire living right under her nose in New York, owns a vineyard in France producing very special wine for exclusive clients. It allows him and others like him to walk in daylight and avoid snacking on strangers.

He's horrified to learn that the redhead he admires is planning to visit Romania to summon a 'real' vampire. Adrian has every intention of being that vampire. Only trouble is, she thinks he's a wino tourist intent on spoiling her fun. A visit to his wacky Romanian family might help convince her he's for real, or send her screaming into the night.

Ashlyn Chase describes herself as an Almond Joy bar. A little nutty, a little flaky, but basically sweet, wanting only to give her readers a satisfying experience. She holds a degree in behavioral sciences, worked as a psychiatric RN for 15 years and spent a few more years working for the American Red Cross. Most authors, whether they know it or not, have a theme—something that unifies their whole booklist. Ashlyn's identified theme has to do with characters who reinvent themselves. After all, she has reinvented herself many times. She is a multi-published, award-winning author of humorous erotic and mainstream paranormal romances, represented by the Seymour Agency. She lives in beautiful New Hampshire with her true-life hero husband who looks like Hugh Jackman with a salt and pepper dye job.

A U.S. spy plane crashes off the northern coast of Russia at the same time that a Mossad operative is abducted from a street in Kazakhstan. The two events seem unrelated, but as suspicions rise, the CIA calls in its premier operative, David Slaton.

When wreckage from the aircraft is discovered on a remote Arctic island, Slaton and a team are sent on a clandestine mission to investigate. While they comb a frigid Russian island at the top of the world, disaster strikes yet again: a U.S. Navy destroyer sinks in the Black Sea.

Evidence begins mounting that these disparate events are linked, controlled by an unseen hand. A mysterious source, code name Lazarus, provides tantalizing clues about another impending strike. Yet Lazarus has an agenda that is deeply personal, a thirst for revenge against a handful of clandestine operators. Prime among them: David Slaton.

"This is a fascinating novel by an author of consummate skill." -Publishers Weekly, starred review

-Library Journal

Meet Roger. Skilled with words, languages come easily to him. He instinctively understands how the world works through the power of story.

Meet Dodger, his twin. Numbers are her world, her obsession, her everything. All she understands, she does so through the power of math.

Roger and Dodger aren't exactly human, though they don't realise it. They aren't exactly gods, either. Not entirely. Not yet.

Meet Reed, skilled in the alchemical arts like his progenitor before him. Reed created Dodger and her brother. He's not their father. Not quite. But he has a plan: to raise the twins to the highest power, to ascend with them and claim their authority as his own.

Godhood is attainable. Pray it isn't attained.

The Empress of Salt and Fortune

NGHI VO

"Dangerous, subtle, unexpected and familiar, angry and ferocious and hopeful... The Empress of Salt and Fortune is a remarkable accomplishment of storytelling." -NPR

"The subtlety and nuance of Vo's evocative storytelling lend the novella an epic, timeless feel. Equal parts love and rage, this masterfully told story is sure to impress." -Publishers Weekly

With the heart of an Atwood tale and the visuals of a classic Asian period drama, Nghi Vo's The Empress of Salt and Fortune is a tightly and lushly written narrative about empire, storytelling, and the anger of women.

A young royal from the far north, is sent south for a political marriage in an empire reminiscent of imperial China. Her brothers are dead, her armies and their war mammoths long defeated and caged behind their borders. Alone and sometimes reviled, she must choose her allies carefully.

Rabbit, a handmaiden, sold by her parents to the palace for the lack of five baskets of dye, befriends the emperor's lonely new wife and gets more than she bargained for.

At once feminist high fantasy and an indictment of monarchy, this evocative debut follows the rise of the empress In-yo, who has few resources and fewer friends. She's a northern daughter in a mage-made summer exile, but she will bend history to her will and bring down her enemies, piece by piece.

Nghi Vo was born in central Illinois, and she retains a healthy respect of and love for corn mazes, scarecrows, and fifty-year floods. These days, she lives on the shores of Lake Michigan, which is less a lake than an inland sea that she is sure is just biding its time. Her short fiction has appeared in Strange Horizons, Uncanny Magazine, PodCastle, Lightspeed, and Fireside. Her short story, "Neither Witch nor Fairy" made the 2014 Otherwise (formerly Tiptree) Award Honor List. Nghi mostly writes about food, death, and family, but sometimes detours into blood, love, and rhetoric. She believes in the ritual of lipstick, the power of stories, and the right to change your mind.

"Some excruciatingly exquisite moments of parental love..."
-Publishers Weekly

All God needs is a willing heart.

On the night Leah Carpenter receives an award for her work on behalf of the less fortunate, her daughter publicly embarrasses her. HATCHER
BESTSELLING AUTHOR

Juliana is 44, and wishing she could start over with a clean slate. When, at an estate sale, she happens across a box of old trinkets marked 'My Life,' she hears firsthand the saga of Miriam, the owner of the box, from those who loved her best ... Hatcher progresses through Miriam's escapades as a teenager to her eventual death, interrupting her life story with the present-day reflections of Juliana, who comes to grips with her need for God. The writing is smooth, there's some nice historical detail and Hatcher manages the time switches with aplomb." -Publishers Weekly

-Carrie Turansky, award-winning author of No Journey Too Far and The Legacy of Longdale Manor

He has nothing to offer. She has everything to lose.

Despite the dishonorable circumstances of his own birth, Adam Faulkner has never begrudged his half-brother Sebastian's legitimate position as the Viscount Willowthorpe. Having a title and everything that goes with it never mattered to Adam—until "everything" became the hand of Miss Eliza Southwick. Adam knows, as the stable manager at Hooke Manor, he shouldn't hope to wed a well-born miss. After all, enchanting such a lady's heart would take a true gentleman...something he is not.

Eliza Southwick loves horses more than society and doesn't care a whit about status or titles. But her father has set his sights on the Viscount Willowthorpe for his future son-in-law and has brought his daughter to Hooke Manor in hopes of arranging a marriage contract. When a spark first kindled during a chance meeting between Eliza and Adam grows stronger, she doesn't dare tell her father how she feels. He will disown her entirely if she fails to do his will, and the cost of following her heart has never seemed higher.

WHEN LOVE BLOOMS

Robin Lee HATCHER

From the moment Gavin Blake set eyes on Emily Harris he knew she would never make it in the rugged high country where backbreaking work and constant hardship were commonplace. She would wilt there like a rose without water. He'd be sending her back to Boise before the first snows. He'd be willing to bet on it. She could say what she wanted. Emily Harris didn't belong in the hard life of the Blakes. Beautiful and refined, she was accustomed to the best life had to offer. Heaven only knew why she wanted to leave Boise to teach two young girls on a ranch miles from nowhere. He'd wager it had to do with a man. It always did when a beautiful woman was involved. Emily wanted to make some sort of mark on the world before marriage. She wanted to be more than just a society wife. Though she had plenty of opportunities back East, she had come to the Idaho high country looking to make a difference. Gavin's resistance to her presence made her even more determined to prove herself. Perhaps changing the heart of one man might make the greatest difference of all.

A VOTE OF CONFIDENCE

In A Vote of Confidence, the stage is set for some intriguing insight into what it was like during 1915 to be a woman in a 'man's world.' Guinevere Arlington is a beautiful young woman determined to remain in charge of her own life. For seven years, Gwen has carved out a full life in the bustling town of Bethlehem Springs, Idaho, where she teaches piano and writes for the local newspaper. Her passion for the town, its people, and the surrounding land prompt Gwen to run for mayor. After all, who says a woman can't do a man's job? But stepping outside the boundaries of convention can get messy. A shady lawyer backs Gwen, believing he can control her once she's in office. A wealthy newcomer throws his hat into the ring in an effort to overcome opposition to the health resort he's building north of town. When the opponents fall in love, everything changes, forcing Gwen to face what she may have to lose in order to win.

In this visionary sequel to Castro's Curveball, the former Washington Senators Minor League catcher has returned to Havana with a small role in a movie being filmed on location. Billy Bryan soon realizes that this place and his past remain as star-crossed as when he played winter ball in the Cuban capital decades before.

Against his better judgment, Billy becomes entangled in a scheme to spirit a top baseball prospect off the island. This pits him against his old friend Fidel Castro. Despite being in his final days, the dictator remains a dangerous adversary, as does the Cuban sports machine and the Mexican crime syndicates that now direct baseball talent toward the U.S. Major Leagues.

In Escape from Castro's Cuba, Billy must once again navigate the crosscurrents of the so-called City of Columns: a place where the sunsets from the Hotel Nacional along the Malecón breakwater are as beautiful as ever, but where the alleyways in Old Havana still fan out, crooked and broken, like an old catcher's fingers.

JUDITH ARNOLD

Winner of the Romantic Times Reviewers Choice Award!

Jamie McCoy is the ultimate guy: thirty years old, carefree, and the successful writer of a syndicated humor column called "Guy Stuff." Nine and a half months ago, he spent a week in Eluthera where he had a fling with a woman. He never expected the result to be a baby named Samantha—left on his back porch with a suitcase of diapers and clothes and a note telling Jamie that he's her father.

He's never fed a baby or changed a diaper in his life and, in a panic, phones the nearest hospital, where nurse Allison Winslow informs him of a class she teaches called the Daddy School.

Jamie certainly needs the classes, but when he attends for the first time and sees the tall, beautiful and amazingly competent Allison, he realizes that he might just need more from her than instructions on how to hold a baby.

Jamie's efforts to be a father to Samantha touch Allison, his sense of humor amuses her, his good looks excite her. But how can she trust a guy who'd sleep with a stranger without considering the consequences? How can she love such a man?

Father Christmas

He needs help, and fast.

Molly Saunders co-founded the Daddy School to help men become better fathers. Father of Two Book

Book 3 of The Daddy School

Dennis Murphy's rambunctious seven-year-old twins swear he's the best lawyer in Arlington, Connecticut, but they don't make his job easy. When the twins' nanny walks out on them one afternoon while Dennis is meeting with Gail Saunders, the opposing attorney in a libel case, Dennis is forced to bring his work home with him.

Gail's client is a Russian immigrant who's had a few scrapes with the law. She agrees to represent him, even though it means going up against Murphy and his prestigious law firm, and even if she has to deal with his wild children when the nanny goes AWOL. Gail isn't the sort to get warm and fuzzy around children—especially imps like Sean and Erin Murphy. She's missing the maternal gene. And just because Murphy is smart and funny and sexy as hell doesn't mean she's going to fall for him. She knows his seductive charms are merely tactics in his effort to win the libel suit.

Being the sister of one of the founders of the Daddy School, Gail thinks Murphy could use a few lessons in how to be a better father. But she's got a few things to learn too, and Dennis Murphy might be the man to teach her.

His quiet life in Connecticut takes a dramatic turn when Susannah Dawson moves into the house next door. Susannah isn't a doctor, but she played one on TV, starring in a popular television drama. Susannah has left Hollywood and stardom, and only wants peace and anonymity. But Lindsey and her friends have other ideas.

Toby has other ideas, too. Susannah is smart, beautiful, strong, and determined. And she's compassionate toward his difficult daughter. He needs more than Susannah's help with Lindsey, though. Evan Myers is overworked and stressed out, steering his sporting-goods stores through the hectic pre-holiday season while raising his young son and daughter single-handedly. He has no time to think about the woman who has taken up residence in the mysterious house in the forest.

But when Gracie's preschool teacher warns Evan that he'd better get some help, he turns to the Daddy School—and Filomena. She dazzles him with her intelligence, her energy, and her beauty, but she'll be gone with the new year. Corinne Lanier just wants Levi to come up with a design for her boss's vacation home in western Connecticut. That Kevin is a working-class guy who runs a lawn service and the Porters are outrageously wealthy, able to provide Alix with everything she could ever want, doesn't influence Hayley. That Kevin is strong and sexy and irresistibly attractive shouldn't influence her. But how objective can she be when talking to him, gazing at him, simply being with him turns her on in a crazy way?

MATERIAL WITNESS

LISA MONDELLO

Who does she trust when she's living the real life horror of one of her crime novels...Bestselling crime novelist, Cassie Alvarez, aka Cassie Lang, had murder on her mind when she walked into Rory's Bar under dressed and under cover to research her latest crime novel. Researching the cool, blue-eyed and dashing handsome man at the end of the bar stirred her senses more than she wanted to admit. But was this man of leather armor all he appeared to be? Playing White Knight to an innocent wasn't how Detective Jake Santos planned to spend his time under cover. But there was no way "CJ" was what she claimed to be and that nagging tightness in Jake's chest told him he'd better take her home to safety and leave it at that. Then the barroom exploded with gunfire, leaving a trail of dead that includes a notorious Providence crime boss and an undercover FBI agent. When Cassie's name is leaked to the media as the only witness to the grisly murders, Cassie insists she only trusts Jake to protect her. The FBI wants their star witness happy and will do anything to make sure Cassie testifies. But it is clear to Jake that the shooter isn't the only person who wants Cassie dead. Not knowing who to trust, he vows to protect Cassie at all cost despite the fact that guarding the beautiful novelist is a serious distraction.

SAFE HAVEN

Finding out her ex-husband hired a hitman to kill her didn't leave Daria Carlisle all warm and fuzzy. But Detective Kevin Gordon's suggestion she flee the only home that had ever truly been hers was downright crazy. Forget that the sexy police officer made her heart pound and her blood stir. She'd worked too hard to get what little she had. She wasn't leaving.

Kevin Gordon didn't make mistakes, but he'd made a big one in letting Daria's ex slip through his fingers. Although he tried to make it very clear to Daria that the fixer upper home, she considered a palace was no safe haven, she just dug in deeper and insisted on staying, leaving him no choice but to be her protector. Left on her own, she surely faced murder at an assassin's hand. But can Kevin spend every waking hour sleeping on her doorstep just to keep this stubborn woman alive without risking his heart to love?

RECKLESS HOURS

It was only supposed to be a random DNA test performed with her class. But it turned Professor Tammie Gardner's world upside down and proved to her that the tragic death of her parents was no accident. After rummaging through old files, she discovers one clue where it all started and decides to travel across the country to find answers. But is her curiosity more reckless than wise? What she finds is love in the arms of Providence police officer Dylan Montgomery who is searching for his missing brother. They both want to know the truth. But is the truth worth the danger they've put themselves in by uncovering secrets no one wants revealed?

DESPERATE HOURS

Bounty hunter, Gil Waite is after Sonny's brother. All he cares about is "finding the fugitive" and collecting his money. But Sonny Montgomery is after so much more. Her precious baby niece, Ellie, was kidnapped by a Colombian drug lord. She won't betray her family by falling in love with the one man who has the power to destroy her family. But she needs to escape Colombia and has no choice but to trust Gil, a man whose rugged exterior hides the heart of a hero she can't resist.

FINAL HOURS

Serena Davco's nightmare is almost over. Or so she thinks. Her baby has been returned to her and now she waits anxiously for her husband to return home safely after being imprisoned by Colombian gangsters. But her joy quickly brings her deeper into danger and despair when Cash returns and has no memory of her, the love they shared or the baby they created. But the danger from his escape has awoken a sleeping giant that could lead to murder for them all. Cash knew he had gone to Colombia to bring down a drug lord disguised as one of Colombia's prominent businessman. But three months of trying to survive their torture had stripped him of many of the details of his life. Now that he's been rescued by a covert team, he's shocked to see just how much of his life he doesn't remember. If he can't piece together his past, how can he possibly keep his family safe from the danger he knows still threatens them?

COLD HARBOR

FBI Agent, Charlotte "Charley" Tate has loved only one man in her life. The one man she betrayed, Tyler Jacobsen. Tyler had given up a career he loved as a Providence police detective after realizing how easily a beautiful face and sweet smile had led him astray. Now Charley is back in his life as they fight to undo the organized crime corruption that has infiltrated the city he loves by a Colombian drug lord. Can he work along side a woman he still loves without risking his life...and his heart?

ANGEL of the OVERPASS

SEANAN MCGUIRE

Lady of shadows, keeper of changes, plant the seeds of faith within me, that I might grow and flourish, that I might find my way through danger and uncertainty to the safety of your garden. Let my roots grow strong and my skin grow thick, that I might stand fast against all who would destroy me. Grant to me your favor, grant to me your grace, and when my time is done, grant to me the wisdom to lay my burdens down and rest beside you, one more flower in a sea of blooms, where nothing shall ever trouble me again.

Rose Marshall died when she was sixteen years old and on her way to her high school prom. She hasn't been resting easy since then—Bobby Cross, the man who killed her, got away clean after running her off the road, and she's not the kind of girl who can let something like that slide. She's been looking for a way to stop him since before they put her body in the ground.

But things have changed in the twilight world where the spirits of the restless dead continue their "lives." The crossroads have been destroyed, and Bobby's protections are gone. For the first time, it might be possible for Rose to defeat him.

Not alone, though. She'll need every friend she's managed to make and every favor she's managed to add to her account if she wants to stand a chance...and this may be her last chance to be avenged, since what is Bobby Cross without the crossroads?

Everything Rose knows is about to change."

"Truly intense: you can smell the blood, the sweat, and the petrol. It absolutely rips." -Tamsyn Muir

"At once a raw, beautifully written gothic and an adrenaline-fueled debut, Summer Sons heralds a rich new voice in speculative fiction. Lee Mandelo is for real." -Andy Davidson

Lee Mandelo's debut Summer Sons is a sweltering, queer Southern Gothic that crosses Appalachian street racing with academic intrigue, all haunted by a hungry ghost.

Andrew and Eddie did everything together, best friends bonded more deeply than brothers, until Eddie left Andrew behind to start his graduate program at Vanderbilt. Six months later, only days before Andrew was to join him in Nashville, Eddie dies of an apparent suicide. He leaves Andrew a horrible inheritance: a roommate he doesn't know, friends he never asked for, and a gruesome phantom that hungers for him.

As Andrew searches for the truth of Eddie's death, he uncovers the lies and secrets left behind by the person he trusted most, discovering a family history soaked in blood and death. Whirling between the backstabbing academic world where Eddie spent his days and the circle of hot boys, fast cars, and hard drugs that ruled Eddie's nights, the walls Andrew has built against the world begin to crumble, letting in the phantom that hungers to possess him.

LEE MANDELO is a writer, critic, and occasional editor whose fields of interest include speculative and queer fiction, especially when the two coincide. They have been a past nominee for various awards including the Nebula, Lambda, and Hugo; their work can be found in magazines such as Tor.com, Uncanny Magazine, Clarkesworld, and Nightmare. Aside from a brief stint overseas learning to speak Scouse, Lee has spent their life ranging across Kentucky, currently living in Lexington and pursuing a PhD at the University of Kentucky.

THE Apothecary's CURSE

Barbara BARNETT

A 2017 Bram Stoker Award nominee, The Apothecary's Curse is an alchemist's brew of historical fantasy and cutting edge genetics as a physician Simon Bell and apothecary Gaelan Erceldoune race against time to recover the ancient book that made them immortal centuries ago.

In Victorian London, the fates of physician Simon Bell and apothecary Gaelan Erceldoune entwine when Simon gives his wife an elixir created by Gaelan from an ancient manuscript. Meant to cure her cancer, it kills her. Suicidal, Simon swallows the remainder--only to find he cannot die. Years later, hearing rumors of a Bedlam inmate with regenerative powers like his own, Simon is shocked to discover it's Gaelan.

Two centuries later, a modern-day pharmaceutical company unearths diaries describing the torture of Bedlam inmates, and the company's scientists suspect a link between Gaelan and an unnamed inmate. But when Gaelan and Transdiff Genomics geneticist Anne Shawe are powerfully drawn to each other, her family connection to his manuscript leads to a stunning revelation. Will it bring ruin or redemption?

Always a pop-culture and sci-fi geek, Barbara was raised on a steady diet of TV, but she always found her way to the tragic antiheroes and misunderstood champions, whether on TV, in the movies or in literature. It was inevitable that she would have to someday create one of her own.

She's a professional member of both the Science Fiction and Fantasy Writers of America and the Horror Writers Association.

A life-long resident of the Chicago area, she lives with her husband Phil not far from the beautiful Lake Michigan coast of Chicago's North Shore that serves as the modern-day setting for 'The Apothecary's Curse'. She is the proud mother of Shoshanna and Adam, and the loving savta of Ari.

Highly recommended!" -Jay Bonansinga, New York Times–bestselling author of The Walking Dead: Search and Destroy and Self Storage

CLINICAL TRIAL

TAMMY PLUNKETT

"If you like Grey's Anatomy and on-the-edge suspense, this is your next read." -Lucy Farago, author of the Search and Recover series

Dr. Georgia Laurence's patient is going to die without an immediate heart transplant, and a rare blood type makes a donor nearly impossible. There's a sliver of hope when she learns about a clinical trial right at her hospital. The only problem is the stem cell researcher is Dr. Matt Mancini, a man from her past who has absolutely no reason to help her.

Matt could soon be sharing the cure for heart disease with the world and can't risk using such a sick patient as his first human candidate. While his attraction to Georgia tempts him to reconsider, the stem cells are stolen and his career is jeopardized.

Georgia and Matt must work together to save his study before her patient dies. As they get closer to the truth, they find the thief will stop at nothing, not even murder, and they'll have to decide what matters most: her patient, his study... or their lives.

Prior to becoming a certified life coach, Tammy Plunkett began her career as a Registered Nurse at The Royal Victoria Hospital in Montreal. After twelve years working mainly with transplant patients in cardiac intensive care units, she was ready to explore other areas of interest which included psychology, alternative healing modalities, and her childhood passion of writing. It was soon clear that writing was her life's blood. In 2013, Tammy launched her first book, Being Human: Inspiration for Balancing Mind Body and Spirit, on stage in front of 400 people at an event celebrating Oprah Winfrey's visit to Ottawa.

A KILLING FROST

SEANAN MCGUIRE

Praise for the October Daye series:

"The 13th outing for Daye is just as fresh and exciting as the first. McGuire has built a complex world, where seemingly loose ends are woven tightly into the series. Highly recommended." -Library Journal (starred)

"Toby's combination of pragmatic heroism and relentless self-destruction makes her a compelling heroine in a secret folklore-filled world that still feels fresh and dangerous after all this time." -Publishers Weekly

"The worldbuilding in this series has astonishing depth, and Night and Silence is no exception—12 books in, McGuire is still giving readers fascinating new pieces of the Faerie puzzle." -Booklist

Now in hardcover, the fourteenth novel of the Hugo-nominated, New York Times-bestselling Toby Daye urban fantasy series

When October is informed that Simon Torquill—legally her father, due to Faerie's archaic marriage traditions—must be invited to her wedding or risk the ceremony throwing the Kingdom in the Mists into political turmoil, she finds herself setting out on a quest she was not yet prepared to undertake for the sake of her future.... and the man who represents her family's past.

Seanan McGuire lives and works in Washington State, where she shares her somewhat idiosyncratic home with her collection of books, creepy dolls, and enormous blue cats. When not writing—which is fairly rare—she enjoys travel, and can regularly be found any place where there are cornfields, haunted houses, or frogs. A Campbell, Hugo, and Nebula Award-winning author, Seanan's first book (Rosemary and Rue, the beginning of the October Daye series) was released in 2009, with more than twenty books across various series following since. CALCULATED RISKS

The tenth book in the fast-paced InCryptid urban fantasy series returns to the mishaps of the Price family, eccentric cryptozoologists who safeguard the world of magical creatures living in secret among humans.

Just when Sarah Zellaby, adopted Price cousin and telepathic ambush predator, thought that things couldn't get worse, she's had to go and prove herself wrong. After being kidnapped and manipulated by her birth family, she has undergone a transformation called an instar, reaching back to her Apocritic origins to metamorphize. While externally the same, she is internally much more powerful, and much more difficult to control.

Even by herself. After years of denial, the fact that she will always be a cuckoo has become impossible to deny.

Now stranded in another dimension with a handful of allies who seem to have no idea who she is--including her cousin Annie and her maybe-boyfriend Artie, both of whom have forgotten their relationship--and a bunch of cuckoos with good reason to want her dead, Sarah must figure out not only how to contend with her situation, but with the new realities of her future. What is she now? Who is she now? Is that person someone she can live with?

And when all is said and done, will she be able to get the people she loves, whether or not they've forgotten her, safely home?

EVERY HEART A DOORWAY

SEANAN MCGUIRE

Eleanor West's Home for Wayward Children

No Solicitations...No Visitors...No Quests

Children have always disappeared under the right conditions; slipping through the shadows under a bed or at the back of a wardrobe, tumbling down rabbit holes and into old wells, and emerging somewhere... else.

But magical lands have little need for used-up miracle children. Nancy tumbled once, but now she's back. The things she's experienced... they change a person. The children under Miss West's care understand all too well. And each of them is seeking a way back to their own fantasy world.

But Nancy's arrival marks a change at the Home. There's a darkness just around each corner, and when tragedy strikes, it's up to Nancy and her new-found schoolmates to get to the heart of the matter... No matter the cost.

Seanan McGuire was born and raised in Northern California, where she has lived for the majority of her life. She spends most of her time writing or watching television, but also draws a semi-autobiographical comic strip and has released several albums of folk music (science fiction and fantasy themed folk music). To relax, Seanan enjoys travel, and frequents haunted corn mazes, aquariums with good octopus habitats, and Disney Parks. Seanan is remarkably good at finding reptiles and amphibians wherever she goes, sometimes to the dismay of the people she happens to be traveling with.

Praise for Every Heart a Doorway:

"With Every Heart a Doorway, McGuire has created her own mini-masterpiece of portal fantasy - a jewel of a book that deserves to be shelved with Lewis Carroll's and C. S. Lewis' classics, even as it carves its own precocious space between them." -NPR

A stand-alone fantasy tale from Seanan McGuire's Alex award-winning Wayward Children series, which began in the Alex, Hugo, Nebula, and Locus Award-winning, World Fantasy Award finalist, Tiptree Honor List Every Heart a Doorway

This fourth entry and prequel tells the story of Lundy, a very serious young girl who would rather study and dream than become a respectable housewife and live up to the expectations of the world around her. As well she should.

When she finds a doorway to a world founded on logic and reason, riddles and lies, she thinks she's found her paradise. Alas, everything costs at the goblin market, and when her time there is drawing to a close, she makes the kind of bargain that never plays out well.

SEANAN MCGUIRE is the author of the Hugo, Nebula, Alex and Locus Award-winning Wayward Children series, the October Daye series, the In-Cryptid series, and other works. A SHOPGIRL'S TALE

Elisa Donahue

At 30 years old Erika Leib's personal hardships have stalled her into a mundane life of safety and security. Not that she spends much time thinking about it like that. She's under-employed at a job that probably should appreciate her more but that is hardly uncommon. She's got a halfway decent, sort of relationship with no pressure to make a larger commitment and a family who loves her. Plus she's got Rachel- her best friend, confidant, the person who's always been there for her and always will be. It's not where she thought she'd be but she's content.

That all changed, however, after her chance meeting with actor, Xavier James. Soon Erika begins to re-evaluate her own worth and must decide if she's ready to rediscover the girl who once would leap without thinking or if she's prepared to stay just another shopgirl.

Loaded with good food and fueled by the importance of good friendships, the book is like Sex and the City for a generation that could never afford the extravagance Carrie and Co. promised.

Elisa Donahue was born and raised in the Bronx, NY. Having arrived well past her due date and via a C-section, the quintessentially Cancerian blonde continued her life thereafter longing to be in water and doing things best when it's in her own time.

Realizing early on that her passion was writing, she graduated from SUNY Purchase with a BA in Journalism in 2008, 22 years older but only slightly taller. The multifaceted millennial next went on to be a nanny for a wonderful family for three years and then her own shopgirl days after they moved out of state. When not penning her next novel or debating which is her favorite Mountain in Disney World, Elisa spends her days being taken on adventures by her cavapoo Graham, a muppet looking ray of sunshine.

It's been a winding road but, as always, she believes she's exactly where she is meant to be right now.

But as they begin to recognize the changes in their feelings, will the winds of scandal and gossip drag them down into dangerous depths, or will truth and love guide them home?

Myretta Robens has lived in Regency England since she was old enough to read Jane Austen. As no eligible peers presented themselves and she never could get vouchers for Almack's, she was forced to make her way by going into trade. She spent more years than she cares to count working in the field of information technology. It was rewarding in its own way but she never abandoned her first love. In 1997, She found an interesting way to insinuate the 19th century into the world of technology when she joined a friend in creating a Jane Austen web site. She still manages The Republic of Pemberley and invites you to visit if your obsession runs to Jane Austen.

When Myretta is not in the Regency, she lives outside Boston with her Australian Cattle Dog and a varying number of cats.

The Barefoot Stiff

M. Ruth Myers

Depression-era private investigator Maggie Sullivan knows how to be tough when she needs to and polish her nails when she doesn't. She's drawn into a stranger's murder in this SHORT STORY featuring characters from the Maggie Sullivan mystery novels.

A job offer from a blonde at a dime store lunch counter lures the detective to a still-warm corpse in an alley. His gold watch and cufflinks are still on him, but not his shoes and socks.

A night of grilling by homicide cops does nothing to improve Maggie's mood, which deteriorates further when they laugh off a lead she gives them and imply she solves cases by batting her eyes instead of using her brains.

Aided by a ragtag newsboy, Maggie baits a trap for the killer. He shows up with a knife. But Maggie wields a .38 as expertly as she does an emery board — and she doesn't back down for thugs or authorities when she's after answers.

This wonderful novel, perfect for theatre lovers and Downton Abbey enthusiasts, is set in Yorkshire, England, in 1885. Bertha Roundtree, wife of Anthony Roundtree, dies in childbirth, leaving her infant daughter Elisa behind.

Once wealthy, the Roundtree family is destitute after Anthony gambled away its fortune.

Anthony Roundtree is a cruel man. He has no interest in his infant daughter, leaving her to be raised by his spinster sister Lillian, a rather simple woman with no dowry and no prospects, and a cruel governess.

Anthony is determined to turn Elisa into a lady, and marry her off to Sir John Garingham, who wants the tomboy Elisa turned into the perfect lady – no matter what it takes.

But the betrothal goes awry when Elisa develops a mind of her own, a passion for her art teacher, and an obsession with the theatre.

And her youthful vigour is about to lead into a glamorous world with a dark underbelly...

BUT FROM THINE EYES

Book 2 of His Majesty's Theatre

CHRISTINA BRITTON CONROY

London, December, 1903. Seventeen-year-old Elisa Roundtree escapes her life in Yorkshire heading for His Majesty's Theatre, hoping to become an actress.

She is penniless, but educated by a family friend, and very beautiful. Betrothed since she was a child to a cruel older man named Sir John Garingham, Elisa decides she would rather live in poverty or die than marry him. While at school, she posed for her art-master, painter Robert Dennison, and the two had an affair. Now Robert wants to help Elisa escape the ugly life that lies before her in Yorkshire. He has a friend in the theatre, Michael Burns, and asks for his help with Elisa's escape.

Jeremy O'Connell is a famous actor-manager leasing His Majesty's Theatre. When he sees Elisa audition he knows she cannot act, but her beauty is exceptional, and he sees potential in how she carries herself. He offers her a non-speaking role in a play, and takes her on as an apprentice, renaming her Elly Fielding. However, when Jeremy learns that he might be harbouring a fugitive, he becomes curious. Why would Sir John Garingham want to marry a penniless young girl? And what about her German mother, who died in childbirth? And can they keep her safe in London, if her father really wants her back?

TRUTH AND BEAUTY

Book 3 of His Majesty's Theatre

CHRISTINA BRITTON CONROY

Lady Richfield's solicitors discover that Elly's real father is Charles Roundtree, Anthony Roundtree's older brother. Charles was murdered for his estate. Charles's wife, Elly's mother, was forced to marry Anthony on her deathbed, minutes before giving birth to Elly. When Elly is discovered missing, Lady Richfield calls Scotland Yard. The chase is on.

Peg McCarthy and Tommy Quinn have engineered Elly's abduction. Dragged back to her Yorkshire home, Sir John Garingham threatens to murder her unless she signs the marriage license. The elderly priest called to perform the ceremony was the young priest who married Elly's mother to her uncle, moments before Elly's birth. The priest refuses to marry Elly against her will, and Anthony Roundtree shoots him dead. During the scuffle, Elly pushes Lord Garingham out a window. He is killed in the fall.

To protect Elly from prosecution, everyone says that Garingham's death is accidental.

Elly is returned to London, injured in mind and body. Her new legal guardians become Lord and Lady Richfield. Elly now lives in luxury, rehearses at the theatre, but suffers excruciating nightmares. Jeremy O'Connell leads her through a sort of psychodrama, exorcising her fears and allowing her to perform on stage.

Her new-found happiness is overshadowed by the reminder that she may be called as a witness at Anthony Roundtree's trial for murdering the priest.

BEAUTY'S DOOM

Book 4 of His Majesty's Theatre

CHRISTINA BRITTON CONROY

Surrounded by wealth beyond her imagination, Elly balances the worlds of mannered, hypocritical London society, and brash theatre people.

All this time, Anthony Roundtree has been in a Yorkshire jail, awaiting the circuit judge. When he finally reaches Yorkshire, Elly is forced to go back and testify. The jury determines that the priest was shot intentionally. Anthony Roundtree is hanged.

Sir John Garingham's accidental death is questioned. Elly is arrested for his murder and taken to Holloway Prison. Conditions bring her to near madness. Her defense attorney is Sir Douglas Tanner, actor Rory Cook's aging law professor from Oxford. Sir Douglas suffers a minor heart attack and they must choose between two impossibilities; indefinitely postponing the trial and leaving Elly in prison, or letting Elly give up the right to council, publicly dismiss her barrister, and handle her own defense.

They devise a plan. Elly will defend herself, with clandestine help. Since Rory has a working knowledge of the law, but no accreditation, he will cue her. Sir Douglas will sit apart, within Rory's view, and signal with prearranged gestures. After a crash course, with Sir Douglas lecturing on the law, and Jeremy O'Connell scripting Elly's questions for the witnesses, Elly braves the fury of a judge who is horrified that a woman would dare to defend herself. Believing Elly is guilty, and furious he is missing a golf match, the judge wants her sent to the gallows. But unprecedented press attention and excellent witnesses win the jury over and Elly is acquitted in the end.

With the caliphate's very survival at stake, the leadership commits to a lost-ditch gambit: France must be attached on a massive scale, forcing the West into the battle of the Apocalypse.

Slaton keeps a breakneck pace, traveling to Tel Aviv, Paris, and the deserts of Syria. In the end, he uncovers a labyrinthine plot ... one that only he can stop.

ASSASSIN'S SILENCE

WARD LARSEN

Praise for the ASSASSIN SERIES:

"A must-read for anyone looking for the next great assassin saga." -Kirkus Reviews

"A tightly woven storyline that builds to a series of bombshell concluding twists . . ." -Publishers Weekly

When it comes to disappearing, David Slaton has few equals. Police in three countries have written off trying to find him. His old employer, Mossad, keeps no forwarding address. Even his wife and son are convinced he is dead. So when an assault team strikes, Slaton is taken by surprise. He kills one man and manages to escape.

Half a world away, in the baleful heat of the Amazon, an obscure air cargo company purchases a derelict airliner. Teams of mechanics work feverishly to make the craft airworthy. On the first flight, the jet plunges toward the ocean.

The CIA assesses the two spectacles: a practiced killer leaving a trail of bodies across Europe, and a large airplane disappearing without a trace. The two affairs are increasingly seen to be intertwined. Langley realizes the killer is a man long thought to be dead, and the lost airliner has been highly modified into a tool of unimaginable terror.

When their worst fears are realized, Langley must trust the one man who can save them: David Slaton, the perfect assassin.

"The Evil That Men Do is a roiling, in-your-face thriller ... all narrated in a fiery prose that eagerly details love scenes, torture scenes, and the explosive finale. Enjoy the action." -Booklist

"Stunningly effective ... Echoing the best of Tom Clancy ... Superb in all respects."
-Sunday Providence Journal

Income inequality and the offshore hoarding of illicit black funds have reached such extremes that the earth's democracies are in peril. The oligarchs are taking over. The People worldwide, however, are rising up, and they demand that the UN seize and redistribute all that illegal filthy lucre. But it will not be easy. The world's oligarchs will not go gentle.

Mikhail Putilov, Russia's strongman; J. T. Tower, the American president, and Wahid al-Waheed, the Saudi Ambassador to the US will do anything to stop and destroy this global expropriation moment—even if it means nuking the UN. Only three people can stop them: the crusading, muckraking, investigative journalist, Jules Meredith; ex-CIA agent, Elena Moreno; and her boyfriend, the ex-Special Forces Operative turned cybersecurity billionaire, John C. Jameson. If these three fail, democracies around the world will die; and the Age of the Great Global Oligarchs will begin.

If these the three friends fail, the nuclear fireballs will blaze, the UN will burn, and a New Dark Ages will ensue. People everywhere must hold their breath and wait.

ROBERT GLEASON is a highly regarded expert on nuclear terrorism. He's spoken on the topic at Harvard four times, and on the Sean Hannity and Lou Dobbs TV shows, and also starred in a two-hour History Channel special largely devoted to the subject. He has discussed it on George Noory's Coast to Coast AM, NPR, and many other shows. Gleason is the author of And Into the Fire, The Nuclear Terrorist, and End of Days. New York City named a day after him for his work in prison literacy, and he was instrumental in getting the 86-year-old anti-nuclear nun, Sister Megan Rice, out of prison. He lives in New York City.

The world's worst nightmare is coming to pass:
ISIS, al Qaeda and a group of mega-rich Saudi princes have joined forces.

In a daring raid on a Pakistani military site, terrorists seize several nuclear devices. They plan to nuke a Washington DC State of the Union address and a nuclear weapons lab on the edge of San Francisco. Their skilled commandos will also melt down a nuclear power plant in New York City's backyard. Such a disaster would make Chernobyl look like a day at the beach, kill as many as 20 million people and render the Tri-State Area, New York City included, uninhabitable. Their goal is to plunge the US into another Mideast war—a war that will radicalize Muslims worldwide and foment global nuclear Armageddon.

The clock is ticking... Only intrepid investigative reporter Julie Meredith and her sister, Vivian, a fearless CIA agent can stop them. But will a corrupt White House—obsessed with procuring Saudi oil money—believe the two women? And can they stop the nuclear attacks in time?

ROBERT GLEASON has dedicated nearly 30 years to researching the threat of nuclear terrorism and the possibility of nuclear annihilation. He was recently featured in the History Channel special "Prophets of Doom." He has also had a successful career as an acquisitions editor in New York publishing. Stephen King, Robert Heinlein, Harold Robbins, Father Andrew Greeley, Margaret Truman, Jack Anderson, Whitley Strieber, Ice-T, Reggie Jackson, and Former Secretary of Defense Casper Weinberger are among the notables and bestselling authors that Gleason has signed up and edited.

FINAL GIRLS

Mira Grant

What if you could fix the worst parts of yourself by confronting your worst fears?

Dr. Jennifer Webb has invented proprietary virtual reality technology that purports to heal psychological wounds by running clients through scenarios straight out of horror movies and nightmares. In a carefully controlled environment, with a medical cocktail running through their veins, sisters might develop a bond they've been missing their whole lives—while running from the bogeyman through a simulated forest. But...can real change come so easily?

Esther Hoffman doubts it. Esther has spent her entire journalism career debunking pseudoscience, after phony regression therapy ruined her father's life. She's determined to unearth the truth about Dr. Webb's budding company. Dr. Webb's willing to let her, of course, for reasons of her own. What better advertisement could she get than that of a convinced skeptic? But Esther's not the only one curious about how this technology works. Enter real-world threats just as frightening as those created in the lab. Dr. Webb and Esther are at odds, but they may also be each other's only hope of survival.

With her new novella Final Girls, bestselling, award-winning author Mira Grant has conjured a heart-stopping, gut-wrenching story filled with as many twists as it is versions of reality. Grant offers a chilling exploration of how surviving horrors might define us all.

Mira Grant lives in California, sleeps with a machete under her bed, and highly suggests you do the same. Mira Grant is the pseudonym of Seanan McGuire - winner of the 2010 John W. Campbell Award for best new writer. Find out more about the author at www.miragrants.com or follow her on twitter @seananmcguire.

But what we will tell you is that Mike is back at Carson Peak. And what he witnessed that night two years ago is about to become a reality . . .

David Lee Summers is an author, editor and astronomer living somewhere between the western and final frontiers in Southern New Mexico. He is the author of nine novels. He wants forever. She just wants his body.
Neither of them want to give in.

Mitch Harris has it all. As a successful music manager, who isn't hard to look at, he has women falling at his feet. And that's just the way he likes it. For years he's laughed as, one by one, his buddies have found their women and settled down. He vowed it would never happen to him. Until he sets eyes on the owner of the town's new spa. Jodie Miller is everything Mitch didn't think he wanted, but now desperately needs. She's tough, wicked, smart and so damn sexy it hurts to look at her. Mitch isn't sure if it's love at first sight, or just plain lust. All he knows is that Jodie is the woman for him and he'll do anything, and everything, to make her see that they are meant to be together.

Jodie Miller was inoculated against relationships when she divorced her ex. She learned the hard way that men might say they like strong, independent women, but in reality they'd rather tie themselves to someone who couldn't kick their ass. As a martial arts expert, spa owner and proud feminist (she's got the T-shirt to prove it), Jodie plans to pour her energy into her business instead of another relationship. She's happy to let Mitch play the part of her sex toy—after all, she isn't dead and he's hot as hell—but there's no way she's giving him her heart. No matter how dirty he plays to get it.

And it's all falling apart...

The Scottish Highlands are in the middle of the worst snow storm in decades. Cell towers are down, electricity is out and roads are closed.

In true Inverrary style the town's folk have decided to ignore the weather and carry on with the party. Kirsty is at the castle, in the middle of her hen-night and having second thoughts about the wedding. Lake is enduring his stag-do at the town's only pub, helpfully organised by his 'best man' eighty-nine year old Betty. Rainne, Lake's sister, has come back to town after three years away to not only attend the wedding, but to see if Alastair will give her a second chance to love him. Oh yeah, and a whole bunch of men with guns have surrounded the castle!

The castle is under siege. The town is under snow. The men are stuck at the pub and the women are on their own. With emotions running high, snow falling hard and lives on the line, the residents of Inverrary are about to stage the wedding of the century.

laura's big break

henderson

Laura needs to interview the hero of the moment to keep her new job with a women's magazine. She'd rather stick a fork in her eye. Twelve years have passed since her disastrous one night stand with Charlie and they've barely exchanged two civil words in that time. She calls him the Neanderthal and he calls her The Iron Maiden. If it wasn't for the fact his sister was Laura's best friend, she wouldn't have anything at all to do with him.

Charlie has come back from a stint in Afghanistan with a souvenir - nightmares. After one afternoon arguing with Laura, Charlie makes a wonderful discovery: she's so irritating, she scares away his dreams. So Charlie agrees to give her an interview - at a price. She has to accompany him on a two week cycling holiday in Holland, that way he might actually get the rest he needs. He takes particular delight in the plan because he knows that Laura hates exercise, loathes the outdoors and despises him. It feels good to have the upper hand for a change.

Laura needs an interview. Charlie needs sleep. And they both need to grow up and get over the past. But not before Laura cycles into a canal, sets fire to a tent and posts nude pictures of Charlie on the internet - all with the hope of getting her story.

JANET ELIZABETH HENDERSON

Every woman needs a warrior at her back

There's no hiding the fact that Julia Collins has issues. She's shy to the point of trying to become invisible. She has OCD tendencies--breaking out in hives if she loses control of her environment. She finds it hard to talk to intimidating men, or more accurately, to any men. A fact that makes working as the office manager for Benson Security particularly difficult--the company is made up almost entirely of huge, intimidating, ex-military men. But none of the men affect her the way Joe Barone does. The ex-marine is charming, confident, heroic and so sexy it hurts to look at him. Everything about Joe intimidates Julia. And that's why, when he declares his interest in her, she does the only sensible thing--she hides.

There's a limit to how long Joe Barone is going to tolerate Julia hiding. So what if she has a few issues? They don't detract from her many attributes. She's gorgeous, smart, generous and kind. Which guy wouldn't want a woman like that by his side? So when her grandmother gets arrested in South America, Joe sees a perfect opportunity to show Julia how good they'd be together. Julia needs someone to accompany her to Peru, someone who speaks Spanish and who doesn't crumble in the face of authority. Julia needs Joe.

But when they get to Lima, they discover things are much worse than they were led to believe. With danger at every turn and lives on the line, Julia is forced to get past her issues and trust in Joe--her life depends on it.

"Kimberly Kincaid knows how to whip up a delicious love story." -Susan Donovan

Looking for inspiration

Sloane Russo's turned a decade of crazy jobs and whimsical travel into a career writing steamy novels set in exotic places. Trouble is, Sloane's flat broke now--and she can't channel sun-drenched beaches in the Blue Ridge Mountains. The only fast cash in town comes with some seriously distracting temptation: Gavin Carmichael, hot, handsome and oh-so-hard-headed.

Gavin isn't the impulsive Don Juan of Sloane's novels. He's raising his thirteen-year-old half-sister, and he's pretty sure he's supposed to act like he's never heard of fun. Sloane is way too sexy and irresponsible to be his idea of a good tutor for Bree, but the unpredictable anti-nanny may be irresistible as well. . .

Or is this going to be just another Christmas past?

"An author on the rise." -RT Book Reviews

"A sweet and sexy treat!" -Bella Andre

If You Can't Stand The Heat...

Teagan O'Malley can handle a crisis. She's a paramedic, it's her job. But she never expected to land in the kitchen of her father's pub, with no notice, no cash, and no room for error. The kitchen is not her favorite place. Lucky for her, she just scraped a bad-boy chef off the pavement after a motorcycle accident—and something about him says he can turn up the heat in more ways than one.

Adrian Holt has had a rough few years, and he's not eager to get tangled up in anything more complicated than a good risotto. But with a broken arm and a head full of bad memories, he needs a challenge to keep him sane. Teagan's dare-me attitude and smoldering mess of a bar are just what the doctor ordered. And the two of them together might cook up some even better medicine...

First Book of the Zara Romano Mystery Series

Flirting WITH DEATH

PATRICIA GRASSO

Zara Romano sees dead people. New England's best mortician, Zara and two of her older brothers own Romano Funeral Home in Salem, Massachusetts. Zara is a mingling of two nationalities, Irish and Italian. She's Irish on the outside, complete with red hair, blue eyes and freckles, but she's Italian on the inside, with a temper to match.

The youngest sibling of seven and the only female, Zara loves her brothers but thinks they're too bossy. Two of her brothers serve on the Salem Police Force, one is police chief and the other a detective. Zara's two widowed nanas live next door. She can always rely on a home-cooked meal, unless her nanas are trolling funerals for new boyfriends.

Another bossy man in her life is Zara's ex-boyfriend, Marcello Ponti. A sinfully gorgeous police detective, Marcello makes a habit of appearing on her doorstep unannounced even though they broke up two years earlier when he wanted to "date" other women. Zara refuses to be a member of the Marcello Dating Club. Good thing she has her beloved dog Smooches to keep her company. Thankfully, Smooches is with her the night she finds the mayor hanging from a tree at a local park. Definitely a homicide, the mayor's blood was drained via two puncture wounds on his neck. When she discovers two more bodies in the same condition, Zara's own investigative instincts kick in, and she searches for the link between the three victims.

Does Salem have a vampire in its midst or a serial killer with a fetish for fang marks? More importantly is Zara marked as the murderer's next victim or is she merely flirting with death?

HIGHLAND BELLE

PATRICIA GRASSO

Wed through an arranged marriage to a tyrannical Scot, Brigette Devereux picked up her pride and left. Her hair was red as a fox, her skin smooth as silk. Her pure complexion belied her fiery heart and her turbulent past. Her quest for freedom flung her straight into the embrace of Lord Iain MacArthur.

She was rebellious; he was consuming. He was treacherous and she was no stranger to treachery. She was fair and he was darkness. Together they would set ablaze the time they had between them. Tossed from one tyrant to another, Brigette could not deny his evil ways nor could she deny her passion for him. His sweet-talking lips won her over and he brought his new bride to Dunridge Castle. But was this really a castle or would it be a prison?

Before Brigette was willing to find out she fled again. From Scottish countryside, through highlands, across lakes and down-country through England to the shadowy streets of London, Lord Iain MacArthur would chase his prize and Brigette would flee the man who loved her.

She was a free spirit and he was driven to capture her heart!

Love In A Mist

Patricia Grasso

The author of Highland Belle and Desert Eden offers a ... bawdy romp through Elizabethan England by way of Melrose Place.

Steeped in the Druidic lore of her dethroned Welsh ancestors, pagan princess Keely Glendower journeys to fulfill her mother's deathbed wish that she meet the powerful English duke who, unbeknownst to him, is her father.

Accompanied by her oafish cousins, Odo and Hew, whose misadventures as highwaymen nearly cost them their lives, Keely is taken to heart and hearth by her ducal sire, if not by her half-sister Morgana, who is aghast at being replaced by a bastard in both her father's and neighboring Richard Devereux's affections. Esteemed throughout England for his Midas touch with the queen's coffers, Richard is charmed by the eccentric, innocent Keely. And as she is beset by troubling prophecies, troublesome spirits, bed-sporting courtiers, her jealous half-sister and other lurking treacheries, they are married with due pomp, imperiled and impassioned.

Daughter of a wealthy duke, Blaze Flambeau has no shortage of gentlemen vying for her hand in marriage--yet all she desires is her independence. She'd much rather devote her energies to caring for her prized thoroughbred than to the fortune hunters who knock down her door. But her father is ready to see her wed, so he makes her a bargain: she may participate in the racing season only if she gives each suitor a fighting chance at her heart.

One man, however, makes Blaze a far more scandalous proposition: her reputation or his bed! For Ross MacArthur, Marquis of Awe, knows something that could ruin her, and he will not hesitate to use it to win her. Blaze cannot let the Scottish rogue have his way--or her innocence--but never in her life has she been so tempted. Perhaps the Marquis's scheme doesn't pose such a dilemma after all. . . .

He decides then and there that he will begin divorce proceedings and free himself and his daughter from his cold-hearted wife.
