As I wandered around, a voice called out to me.
"Hello there. Can I help you?"

The most fascinating person was standing in front of me.
She had birds perched on her shoulders and fluttering about her head, her hands and clothes were covered in dirt.
I thought to myself, I want to be happy like that.

This is an invitation to declare what no longer serves you, and step boldly into what does. Designed as a fill-in-the-blanks experience, I'm Not Doing That Anymore is part manifesto, part mirror: a place to stand up for what you believe in, and a space to see yourself more clearly. Each short, punchy prompt gives readers the space to claim their truth—and the courage to live by it. This unique book can be experienced in a variety of ways: Fill out every prompt to capture a moment in time, leave the pages blank and revisit them as your perspective evolves, read through it like an inspiring guide, or tear out the pages and display them as bold, personal declarations. However it's used, this fierce and liberating tool is a meaningful reminder to stay aligned with your deepest needs and most authentic self.

"I think it's grand all the memories we make... and the magic we find along the way. Even on the absolutely ordinary days."

A grandparent has a way of bringing magic to everyday moments—from afternoons of adventure to evenings enjoying tasty treats. This adorable, illustrated gift book is a chance for a grandchild to thank Grandpa or Grandma for all the memories they've created together and the lessons they've shared along the way. Artwork of a bighearted bear and their grand-cub pairs with sweet rhymes to highlight this special intergenerational relationship. Written from the perspective of a grandchild, this touching book can be given as a celebratory gift by younger grandchildren, as a nostalgic gift by older grandchildren, or as a unique baby announcement to a grandparent-to-be.

*"This isn't a book. It's my thanks in disguise.
Just because you are truly fantastic, that's why.
It's my thanks for the big stuff you work hard to do.
And my thanks for a whole bunch of smaller stuff too."*

This might look like a book but it's really oodles of gratitude you get to give! It's a chance to throw someone a tiny ticker-tape parade—one they can attend simply by turning the page. With the perfect blend of whimsy and wit, the illustrations and rhymes in this bighearted gift book are here to help you thank someone for the difference they make, in ways both big and small. Gift it to a generous volunteer, a great coworker, a much-loved pet sitter, a dependable neighbor—anyone who brightens your world just by being in it.

"I don't know what lies ahead—what challenges you'll navigate or moments you'll endure. But I do know I'm on this journey with you."

When a friend or loved one is going through a difficult time, it can be hard to know just what to say. There are big feelings and hard moments. This gentle book is intended to be a heartfelt gift—to let them know just how much they matter to you. Give it to support someone experiencing a breakup or divorce, navigating an unexpected medical diagnosis, grieving a loss, or dealing with a long-term life challenge. Filled with calming illustrated vignettes and comforting words, this gift book is a way to offer deep care and to let someone feel the love that surrounds them.

Amelia Riedler is a wordsmith and grammar lover living in Arizona. In addition to a passion for the written word, she has a deep and abiding love of animals. She draws her inspiration from the things she loves: her family, her home, and small dogs in sweaters—including her own small pooch, Molly B.

Dide Tengiz is an illustrator based in the UK. A graduate of the University of the West of England, she holds a degree in illustration and completed a master's in children's book illustration from the Cambridge School of Art. She loves the art of storytelling and finding narratives in everyday life.

We all matter much more than we realize. This is the story about finding something you care about and doing a little bit of good each day. Written by New York Times bestselling author Kobi Yamada and illustrated by award-winning artist Elise Hurst, it's a tale about the power we each have to create change when we decide the difference we want to make.

This enchanting book follows the exploration of a young boy as he encounters a gardener and listens to her stories of transforming a desolate piece of land into a lush natural oasis. It's a reminder that the ability to help heal and hold the world is in every one of us—and of the joy in doing, giving, and connecting. Because when you care about something, you owe it to yourself to give it your best. After all, the value of a life is measured by the lives it touches.

Kobi Yamada is the creator of many inspiring books, including New York Times bestselling What Do You Do With... series and Because I Had a Teacher. He is also the president of Compendium, a company of amazing people doing amazing things. Kobi feels grateful to share his life with his loving family in the Pacific Northwest where he can help good things grow.
