Cozy Witch Tarot Coloring Book

By Amanda Lovelace

Award-winning poetess and author Amanda Lovelace brings fans the warmest activity book a witch could ask for. Whimsical black & white tarot illustrations by Brazilian illustrator Janaina Medeiros are paired with an exploration of each card and self-reflection prompts. Perfect for modern witches or mystical women!

0 - the cozy witch aka the fool

◊ key phrase ◊
"Take a chance, for each morning is a new beginning."

◊ card description ◊
 the cozy witch stands in front of her bedroom mirror as she adjusts her modern witch hat. she allows one last look at herself before heading out the door. a small smile grows on her face as she looks herself in the possibility of the day ahead, hardly noticing her cat limping across the floor. her legs, simple today and usually by the day that you, oh, give your very own little magical adventures.

◊ a closer look at the details ◊
 the enchanted white snow—enhance the magic of a new adventure. (the sun parting the clouds—there will be a new dawn after a period of uncertainty.) the hills—you'll inevitably face some challenges, but overcoming them will be worth it. (the cozy witch's mushroom tote bag—be open to gathering new experiences, but exercise some healthy caution, too.)

◊ cozy pondering ◊
 if you wake up tomorrow & were told that you had to go on an adventure to an uncharted destination, which 3 items would you pack in your mushroom tote bag, given that you would have all the money, food, & water you would need to survive?

1 - the magician

◊ key phrase ◊
"You have everything you need to do anything you want."

◊ card description ◊
 in the greenhouse, the magician gives a warm welcome; they have major big sibling vibes, & they are by far the biggest supporter of the people in their life. they hold a tiny wand with the tools they've used to accomplish their goals, which they're prepared to pass on to whoever needs them next. you're ready to give your own success as large & as tall as they've given their plants.

◊ a closer look at the details ◊
 the magician's tray of practical & magical objects—the tools you need to accomplish your goals are right at your fingertips. (their crown—ambition may need to be reexamined to get the job done.) their "plant parent" pin—this will be a chance for you to cultivate something amazing with your own two hands. (their plants & flowers—look farward to the long-term results of your hard work.)

◊ cozy pondering ◊
 this is a card about the alchemical act of manifestation, but, in my opinion, manifestations are nothing without the personal decisions & actions that move them forward. think of at least one small thing you can do today—or even better, right now—that will take you one step closer to achieving your ultimate goals.

Gouache in the Wild

A Guide to Painting with Opaque Watercolor in the Wild

By James Gurney

This comprehensive guide to gouache grew out of Dinotopia creator and New York Times bestselling author James Gurney's long-running love affair with opaque watercolor. Gurney's instructional videos on YouTube have attracted half a million subscribers and millions of views, and his decades of experience in artistic instruction make him the perfect ambassador and instructor for this rapidly growing, readily accessible, and artistically rewarding form of painting. In this book you'll learn the fine art of painting on location, the nuances of capturing still life as well as human subjects, and the joys and challenges of working with this lively, versatile, and vivid medium.

Sample chapters include:

- What is Gouache?
- Tips for Better Brushwork
- Five Common Drawing Errors
- Painting in Public
- The Beauty of the Commonplace
- Challenges of Sketching People
- Developing Memory Skills
- Tips for Social Media

Hone your skills with this groundbreaking guide by acclaimed painter and bestselling author James Gurney.

Your Life's a Hero's Journey!

An Illustrated Guide to Facing Life's Challenges

By Misha Blaise

The hero's journey is a timeless mythological framework found in literature, media, and storytelling from all over the world that follows our myriad of heroes from the call to adventure, through the metaphorical threshold, into and out of the all-encompassing void, and eventually back home again.

Author and illustrator Misha Maynerick Blaise uses whimsical art and humor to explore the stages of the hero's journey as a metaphor for personal growth and transformation. Blaise guides readers into a creative shift in perspective that aims to provide encouragement for facing the ever-present problems of life head-on!

You Can Rest Here

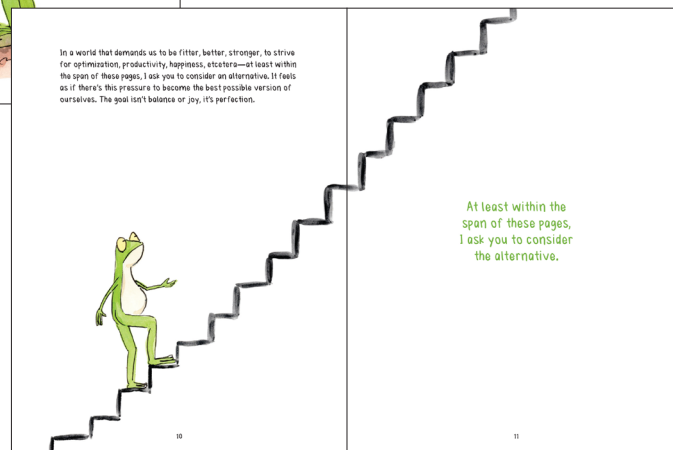

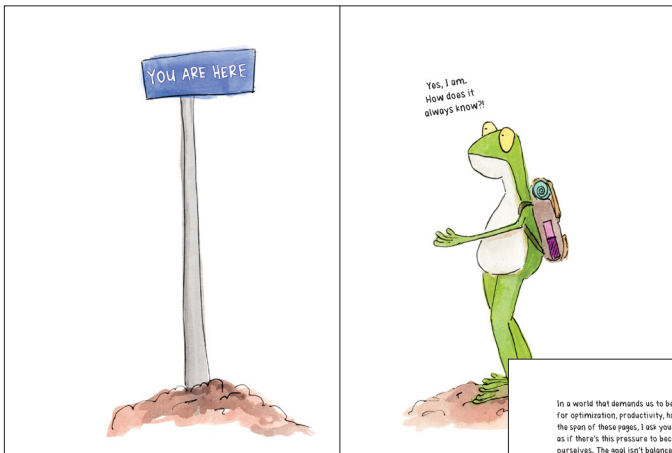

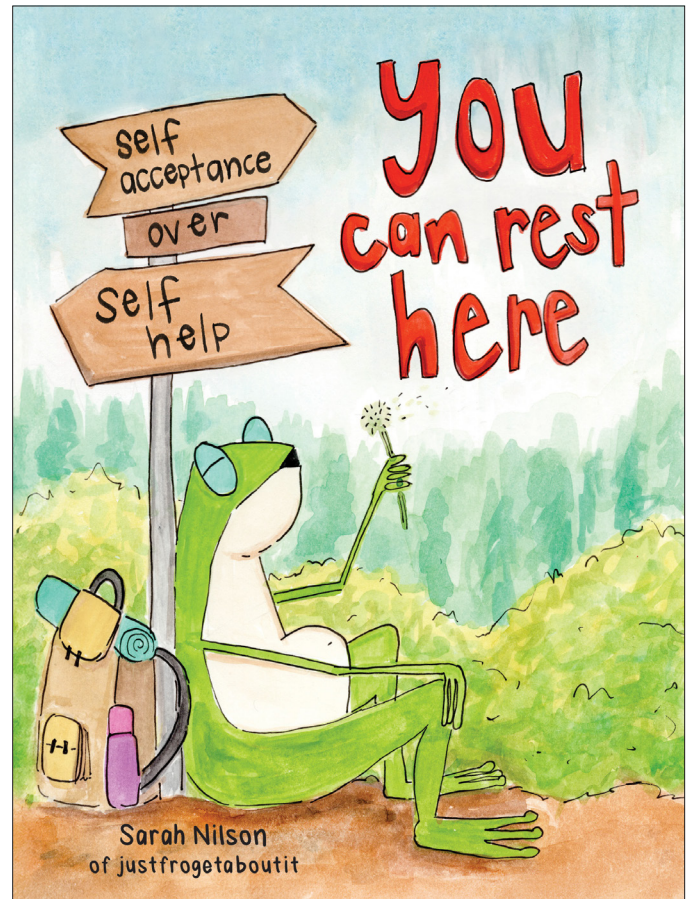

Self-Acceptance over Self-Help from JustFrogetAboutIt

By Sarah Nilson

You Can Rest Here is not your typical self-help book—and Gorf is not your typical self-help mascot. Flawed, fabulous, and fiercely relatable, Gorf (which is “Frog” backwards) leaps from viral comics into an illustrated journey of humor, heart, and hard-earned wisdom. With a watercolor wash of dry wit and messy feelings, this book is a balm for anyone who’s ever felt too weird, too much, or not enough.

Beloved by over half a million followers, Sarah Nilson’s frog alter ego tackles everything from anxiety spirals and creative burnout to self-worth and awkward hope.

A collection of fan-favorite comics paired with more than 50 percent exclusive never-before-seen material, You Can Rest Here is a heartfelt and hilarious ode to self-acceptance in all its imperfect glory.

Emotional Support Animals

Anonymous Fuzzball Comics & Workbook

By Nicole J. Georges

What if your therapist was a cardigan-wearing walrus sipping a cup of coffee? Emotional Support Animals answers this question in a series of sweet comics and engaging worksheets. Nicole Georges presents small doses of therapy in the form of humorous illustrations about serious subjects. Picture a pug assuring you that it's not cruel to say no or hold a boundary, or a crocodile reminding you that when you take care of yourself, you have more capacity to give. Inspired by Nicole's experiences with grief and healing, her Anonymous Fuzzball comics touch on themes of self-worth, boundaries, and balance. Using quirky animals as her subjects, she proves that hard truths are easier to digest in an adorable package.

Step into the soft, cozy world of Stanis, the beloved black cat whose gentle adventures and warm spirit have captured the hearts of hundreds of thousands online. In his first book, Stanis's Guide to a Purrfect Life, this charming feline invites readers to discover the simple pleasures that make each day feel calmer, sweeter, and more meaningful. Guided by the tender, expressive artwork of illustrator Elisa Colarossi, readers are welcomed into Stanis's everyday rituals—quiet mornings, homemade treats, rainy-day reading, peaceful strolls through Rome, and small celebrations shared with loved ones. Together, these moments form a comforting philosophy of slowing down, nurturing yourself, and finding delight in the world right around you.

Perfect for fans of cozy art, slow living, mindfulness, and all things feline, Stanis's Guide to a Purrfect Life is a soothing escape—an invitation to breathe, unwind, and find beauty in the quiet corners of your own everyday life.

Let the internet's coziest Italian cat, Stanis, show you how to slow down, savor simple joys, and embrace a softer, more mindful life—one purr at a time.

Before You Fly Away

Life Lessons from Home

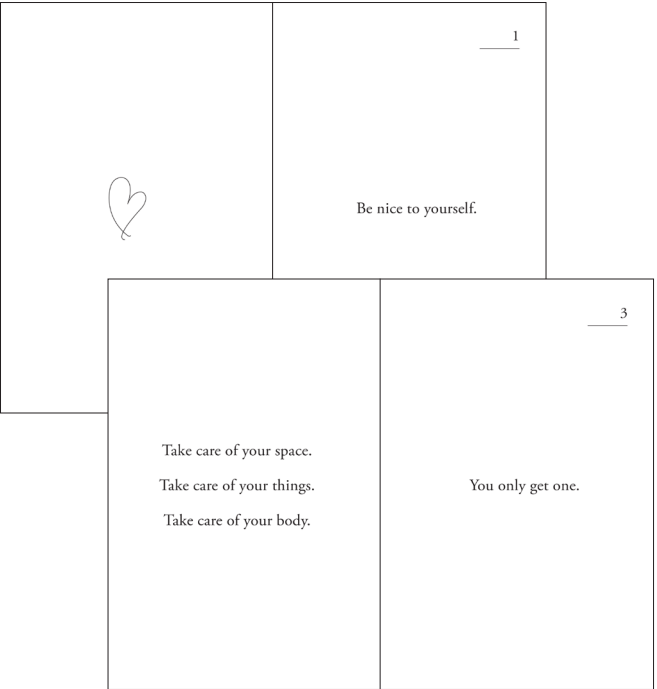

By Christina Geist

For the kids out there spreading your wings, making your way in the world, and leaving a loving adult behind, this book is for you.

For the grownups out there waving from doorways, looking back on millions of little moments, and wondering if you taught them the big, important stuff along the way, this book is for you.

This is a collection of life lessons. Some big. Some small. Some were learned the hard way, others by observation, while several are still a work in progress. Lesson number one, after all, is to be nice to yourself.

After only a few months, the original paperback edition of Before You Fly Away has sold over 12,000 copies, ranked #19 on Amazon overall, and #1 in Parenting & Relationships. Andrews McMeel's new edition will feature an upgraded case with debossed text and foil elements, along with new, colorful art and text in the interior and six bonus pages of new advice. This elevated version of the book will make it an ideal pick for graduation season, college send-offs, holiday gifting, and more! This book is positioned to become a perennial bestseller in the gift, parenting, and inspiration categories.

I'm Still Here:
A Cat's Purpose Forever

By Cathryn Michon., Michelle Detering

@milkmoachbear have over 1.8 million followers on Instagram!

The first book had over 5,000 preorders on Amazon!

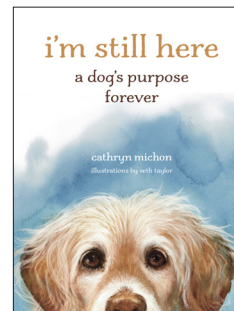

Cathryn Michon is the wife of W. Bruce Cameron, author of the acclaimed and wildly successful A Dog's Purpose. She co-wrote the screenplays for the film adaptations of his books.

Losing a cat—the most discerning and self-possessed of beings—means losing a companion who chose you, trusted you, and made your days brighter. I'm Still Here: A Cat's Purpose Forever offers tender comfort through the voice of a confident, clever, ever-loving feline speaking from beyond who wants you to know that the connection you shared will never fade and they still watch over you and guide you.

Paired with luminous watercolor illustrations by award-winning artist Michelle Detering, this collection of reflections becomes a soothing companion for anyone navigating loss. Author Cathryn Michon, co-writer of the hit film, A Dog's Purpose and author of the bestselling book I'm Still Here: A Dog's Purpose Forever brings her signature blend of empathy, hope, and heartfelt storytelling to this deeply comforting volume.

A perfect sympathy or remembrance gift, I'm Still Here: A Cat's Purpose Forever honors the cats we've loved—and reminds us that their spirits stay close, until we meet again.

Thinking of You

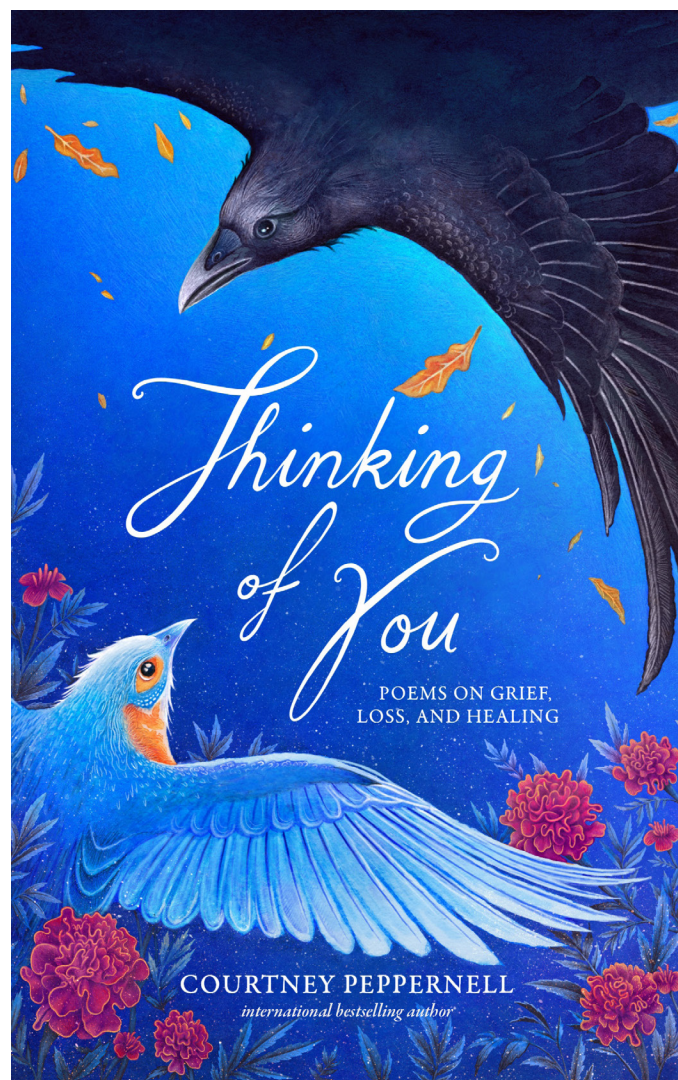

Poems on Grief, Loss and Healing

By Courtney Peppernell

Since debuting in 2017, Courtney Peppernell has remained a mainstay in modern poetry. Her books have collectively sold over 2 million copies and been translated into multiple languages.

Throughout life, we will all experience a great deal of grief. Whether through the loss of a loved one, the loss of a lifelong dream, or the loss of a picture-perfect life, it will arrive at different times and in different ways, but it will always reach us.

In Thinking of You, Courtney Peppernell takes you along on her own personal journey of loss, weaving stories of truth and fiction seamlessly as she writes her way through grief and healing. With poems of raw honesty, vulnerability, and hope, Thinking of You is both a standalone collection and a beautiful extension of Peppernell's novel The Last Poem—providing words of comfort you can return to, time and again, as you navigate grief and embrace the path toward healing.

Thinking of You Believe me I tried to bury it— the truth. Because I didn't want it to be so. I tried to keep the ache, the suffering, the hole in my heart. But I could no more deny the path laid out before me, than the sky can deny the sun in the morning.	Courtney Peppernell It's the kind of dance that made you feel alive, but no one else knew the name. One minute they were all you could think about and the next they stopped answering your calls. It's not as though the dance was simple one—it got fixed overtime. Perhaps the most difficult of all, the almost love, the almost togetherness, the almost you and me. The ache does not subside overnight, it's not a fading cavity hole, or a word easily spelt, there is no other way to describe what if. You will wonder how to say goodbye, what happens now when you exist outside of each other, you know where they keep their secrets, and they know your favorite constellation, but you both went in another direction.
Thinking of You And the day has come and gone for the hundredth time that week, and you realize life has been disappearing right before your eyes. All life seems to do is keep moving even when you have felt stuck for all this time. Those memories piled into the corner of your room, sweaters and old cards and postcards—what to do with all those moments—to keep them or to bury them, to remember or to forget. The world never teaches you what heartbreak wants you to know; holding on makes you ache as much as letting go.	Courtney Peppernell You are so far away now, as though we are in different lifetimes—split between the stars. I close my eyes and find forever with you.

The Witch Doesn't Drown in This One

By Amanda Lovelace

USA Today bestselling author!

In the witch doesn't drown in this one, celebrated poetess Amanda Lovelace revisits the titular voice behind her 2018 bestselling collection the witch doesn't burn in this one. With candor, honesty, and well-earned wisdom, Lovelace expounds on the roller coaster of feelings brought on by simply trying to exist as a woman in today's sociopolitical climate. Through poetry that encompasses a myriad of fem-centric themes, including queer love, trans rights, patriarchal oppression, and intersectional feminism, she demands that women of all backgrounds and lived experiences be seen, heard, defended, and loved.

In this one, the witch doesn't burn or die or drown. In this one, she rages.

Birbs ‘N’ Bread Lots of Loaf

By Kenny Mays/KennysGifs

Over 32 billion views on GIPHY and a collective following of 2.5 million across social media!

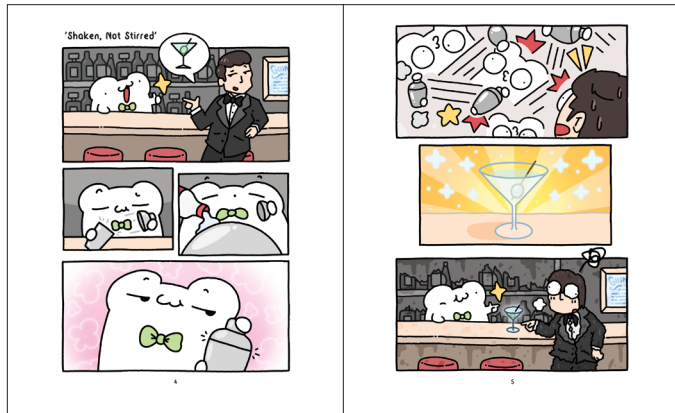

Includes never-before-seen comics and a bonus sticker sheet!

Birbs ‘N’ Bread: Lots of Loaf follows two very different kinds of creatures navigating the same world in totally different ways.

Birbs move through life thoughtfully—trying to do the right thing, staying gentle, and caring even when it costs them. They’re relatable in that “why does this always happen to me?” way, but they keep going anyway.

Bread barrels through life with carefree confidence and accidental chaos. They mean well, but their strange logic (and lack of awareness) turns everyday moments into misadventures. Somehow, they’re both the cause of the problem and the one having the best time.

Side by side, Birbs and Bread show how two hearts of gold can take completely different paths—one careful and earnest, the other chaotic and clueless—yet both end up telling the funniest, most human kind of story.

A delightfully chaotic and heartwarming comic collection starring the internet’s favorite feathered friends and their loafy sidekick

Books, Iced Coffee & a Side of Dragons: A Graphic Novel

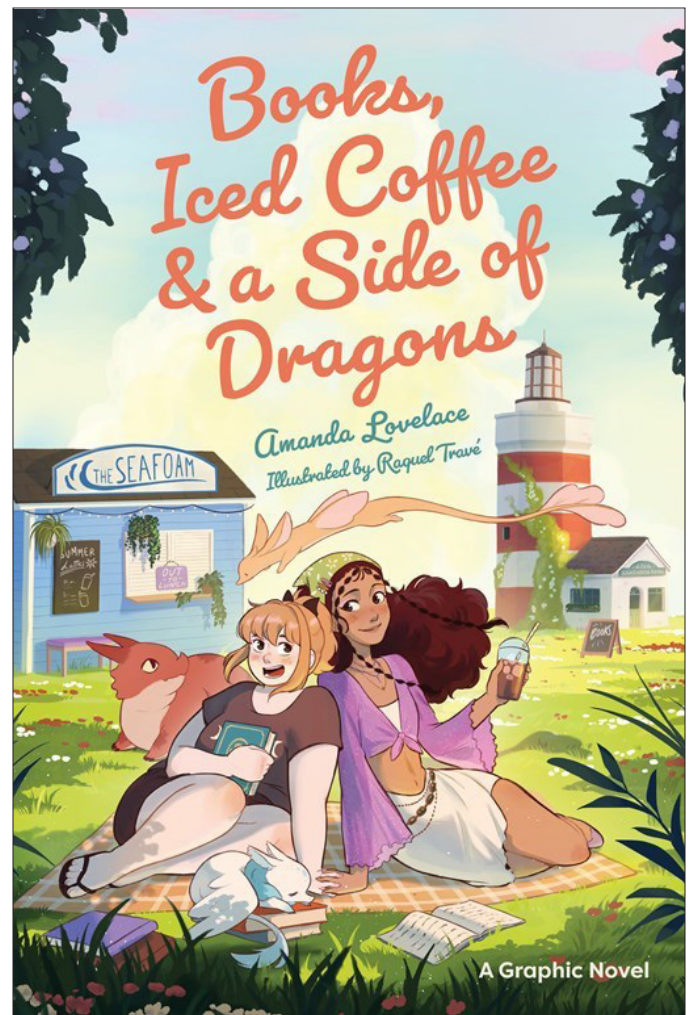

By Amanda Lovelace

Amanda Lovelace is a two-time Goodread's Choice Award winner for poetry and a USA TODAY bestselling author.

Welcome to Sea Witch Cove!

Lucinda (call her Luci!) is the owner of Little Lighthouse Books, an adorable bookstore in a defunct lighthouse in her small Jersey Shore town. Everything in her life would be perfect if only Aster, the trans woman who runs the coffee shop next door, would notice her. But with a little bit of luck—and the help of Dandelion, the tiny, curious wind dragon that Aster helps her rescue—this might be the summer that Aster and Luci finally find love.

Amanda Lovelace's debut graphic novel—brought to shimmering life by illustrator Raquel Trave—Books, Iced Coffee & a Side of Dragons is the perfect time capsule of sapphic summertime sweetness.

A struggling bookstore, a budding new romance, and a mischievous coven of dragons, what could possibly go wrong?

Gulsusan 귀수산

A divine turtle beast carrying a massive mountain on its back. It primarily inhabits the East Sea and appears only to deliver certain messages or revelations, making its sighting a rare occurrence. Its body is extremely large, and it rarely reveals its form beneath the rocky mountain it carries. It usually floats on the sea like an island with about half its body hidden underwater. Gulsusan is very gentle and will never cause harm unless attacked.

Various gods and fauns live in the mountain on the back of Gulsusan, most of which are rare beings that one might see once or not at all in a lifetime, rather than common animals or plants. The legendary state 'Mangakjeok' was made from bamboo that grew on Gulsusan's back. It was rare bamboo that was said to split into two during the day and merge into one at night.

* MANGAPJEOK, a legendary state from the Silla dynasty that could only be researched seven years after the kingdom's warlike, and bring peace

Nightmare Burger

By Joshua Pruett

New York Times bestseller and USA Today bestselling author!

Author of Gyro and the Argonauts YA novel published by Andrews McMeel!

For Gary Fletcher, life doesn't get much better than watching horror movies with his best friend Matty, staying up late, and eating "Nightmare Burgers" from their favorite fast-food joint, All Night Burger. But after a brutal encounter with unrequited love, Matty heads to All Night Burger alone, only to vanish without a trace.

Struggling with the loss of Matty as well as his own dead-end life, Gary takes a job at All Night Burger to get to the bottom of his friend's strange disappearance. As he starts work, he comes to suspect that there are deadly creatures behind the walls of the restaurant. Teaming up with his older sister Rachel and Matty's crush Linda, Gary must face down terrible monsters who can impersonate those closest to him, and whose hunger for human flesh has franchise ambitions.

JOSHUA PRUETT	NIGHTMARE BURGER
It may as well have been an alien from another world invading his body, or a zombie, or a nurse because that's what it felt like. Love was a horror movie. And Matty couldn't seem to get out of it, no matter how hard he tried. He pulled up to the backlot drive thru menu and stared at it as if he'd never read it before. There were piles of All Night Burger receipts on the floor of his car that testified otherwise. Proximity to All Night Burger was one of the few benefits to keeping his ambitions for college and beyond very local and not very ambitious at all, really. Matty adjusted the seat belt as it pulled taut over his single belly. He could hear his mother in his head, chastising him for making more poor choices about what he put in his body, and how often, and how poor Uncle Warren was almost three hundred pounds before he blab blab blab. Matty wasn't a fool. Food just made him feel better. Better about how crappy community college was ("High School without benefits," Gary called it), better about his disappointing complexion, better about love. And the absolute lack of love. He'd written a note expressing his undying devotion to Linda Levinson and made the cataclysmic mistake of actually giving it to her over winter break when he knew he might be able to catch her before she headed back to university. It had not gone well. And Uncle Warren's hereditary proclivity toward heart-disease be damned, Matty was going to mure his wounds with food. If a spoonful of sugar helped the medicine go down, a "Nightmare Burger," All Night Burger's nightmare-inducing specialty, would help the heartbreak go down. Down into his bowels and be converted into something he could deposit in an appropriate receptacle in the very near future. 2	There was at least some poetry in that, thought Matty. SKREEEEETCH. Suddenly, the speaker box embedded in the menu shrieked. It startled Matty so badly he leapt back, at a funky angle, then bounced off his passenger seat, even with his seat belt still on. "Hello?" he said. There was nothing, then static, then nothing again. Matty hit the button on his door and rolled the window down, crating his neck outside through the open window. "Hello?" he called again. The noises that came back through the speaker sounded at first like someone's voice, like the signal or speaker was breaking up somehow, but then the noise surged. It was as if the sound had become solid and was bending, but too far, like an ankle about to break. It hurt Matty's ears. Then the bright light behind the menu flickered and the sound finally stopped. It really had sounded like screaming for a moment there. Matty shook it off. Maybe his blood sugar was low (yes, Mom, I know). Maybe he needed to eat more than he thought he did. Finally, a voice came back over the speaker. "Thank you for All Night Burger. Coming. To. End. May I please have your? Your order. Speak. Your need." Then static again. Matty scratched up his nose. That was weird, he thought. But, you know, it was past eleven on a school night. Weird is relative. Matty figured, this late at night. And besides, beggars, and the broken hearted, can't be choosers. 3

Fangs

By Sarah Andersen

From the creator of the enormously popular Sarah's Scribbles comics.

New York Times* bestseller and sold over 100,000 in the first year of publication.

Elsie the vampire is three hundred years old, but in all that time, she has never met her match. This all changes one night in a bar when she meets Jimmy, a charming werewolf with a wry sense of humor and a fondness for running wild during the full moon. Together they enjoy horror films and scary novels, shady strolls, fine dining (though never with garlic), and a genuine fondness for each other's unusual habits, macabre lifestyles, and monstrous appetites.

First featured as a webcomic series on Tapas, Fangs chronicles the humor, sweetness, and awkwardness of meeting someone perfectly suited to you but also vastly different. This deluxe hardcover edition of Fangs features an "engraved" red cloth cover, dyed black page trim, and 25 exclusive comics not previously seen online. Filled with Sarah Andersen's beautiful gothic illustrations and relatable relationship humor, Fangs has all the makings of a cult classic.

Night at the Vampire Castle

A Choose-Your-Own Romance

By Hari Conner

Perfect game-in-a-book for fans of fantasy-set games with romance mechanics like, Fire Emblem, Dragon Age, and Baldur's Game III.

Fans of Interview with a Vampire, Dracula Daily, and Twilight will be excited embark on this thrilling adventure!

Stranded in rural Transylvania on a stormy night, you stumble upon an ominous castle, where the mysterious inhabitants seem keen to have you... for dinner.

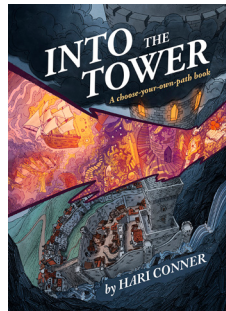

In Hari Conner's newest choose-your-own-path book, the reader chooses between exploring the gothic castle, partying with werewolves, or seducing one of the vampires into revealing their secrets. Get swept away from the 9-5 by a whirlwind romance or steamy encounters—if you can avoid meeting your end...

With three main vampire romance paths and multiple endings, this story has fun, lighthearted elements as well as gothic themes, with choices to explore characters' pasts in real European and queer history. Spend a Night at the Vampire Castle, if you dare.

Feeling adventurous? Check out these two choose-your-own path titles also by Hari Conner.

Mothman Is My Boyfriend

By McKayla Coyle

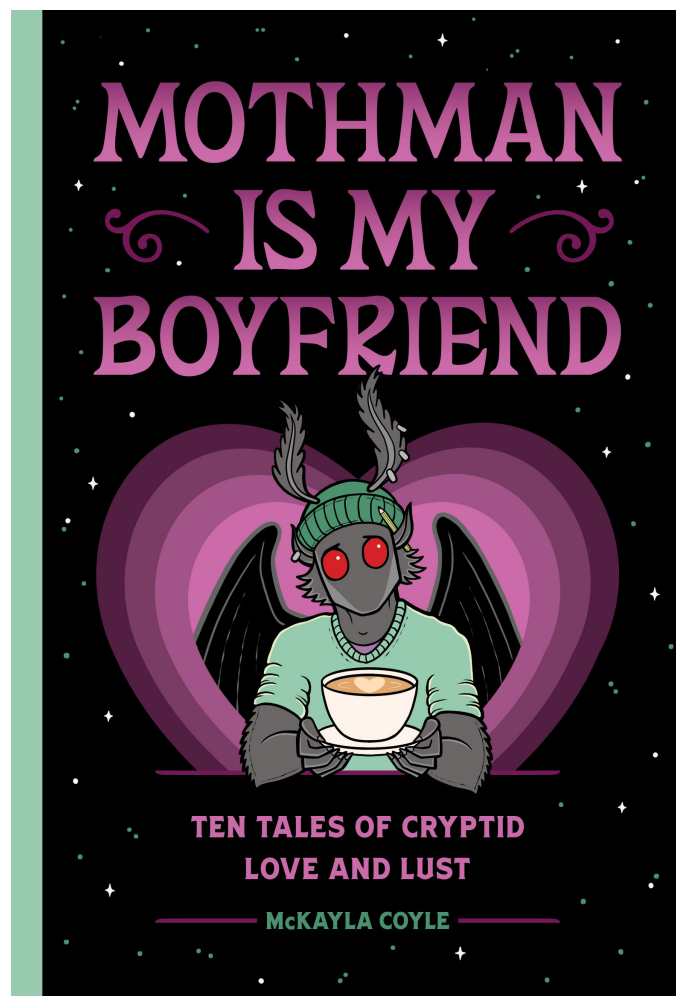

Welcome to Cryptid Creek, a hidden place full of undiscovered creatures, from yetis to lake monsters. Only certain humans can find their way here, but when they do stumble in, they can't resist the allure of this cozy locale—or its fascinating citizens.

Join the humans of this inclusive fantasy community as they hit the skate park with nightcrawlers, wander the botanical garden with the Jersey Devil, and go on other dream dates that offer new spins on classic romance tropes. Stories include:

- A friends-to-lovers slow burn with the Loveland Frog
- A butch/femme hookup with Sasquatch
- A second-chance ex drama with the Michigan Dogman
- And more heart-racing trysts!

If you loved Legends and Lattes and That Time I Got Drunk and Yeeted a Love Potion at a Werewolf, get ready to dust off your cryptozoology equipment and put on your cutest outfit—because monster-lovers, misfits, and cryptid fans will never want to leave this mountain town.

MCKAYLA COYLE (they/them) is a lesbian writer from Anchorage, Alaska and the author of Goblin Mode: How to Get Cozy, Embrace Imperfection, and Thrive in the Muck. They're the engagement editor for Literary Hub, and they hold an MFA in fiction from The New School. In their free time they read fantasy novels and make a lot of jam.

Stuff Every Bird Lover Should Know

By Alice Sun

This illustrated, accessible guide covers it all—from bird anatomy and behavior to migration patterns and bird-watching tips. Experts and bird beginners alike will learn:

- How Birds Navigate
- Birder Lingo to Know
- Common Backyard Birds
- Making Bird-Friendly Habitats
- What to Do If You Find an Injured Bird

With handy diagrams, helpful tips, and fun trivia, this handbook is the perfect companion for anyone looking to get a bird’s-eye view on our avian allies, whether in the great outdoors or at their window feeder.

ALICE SUN is a science journalist whose work has appeared in Scientific American, National Geographic, Nautilus, Science, Audubon, Live Science, and Inverse, among other outlets. She holds a bachelor’s degree in environmental biology and master’s in science, health and environmental reporting from New York University. She is also the author of Birds: An Illustrated Field Guide (Cider Mill Press, 2022).

This pocket-sized guide is the perfect gift for bird-watchers, bird owners, and anyone fascinated by our feathered friends

What Makes a Bird?

Perhaps we as humans are so fascinated by birds because they’re unlike any other creature on earth, from their feathers to their hollow bones to the diversity of their nests and eggs and beaks. Most of all, their ability to fly has inspired the awe and the curiosity of people for countless generations, culminating in the invention of the airplane in 1903. But to get a better understanding of what makes a bird, let’s look into the deep past: the Mesozoic, or the age of dinosaurs.

BIRDS ARE DINOSAURS

Birds are dinosaurs. Yes, you read that right. Although it may be hard to believe, the first modern-day chicken is a relative to the T. rex, modern-day avians are in fact the closest thing we have to Jurassic Park in the world today.

More specifically, birds are the descendants of a very particular branch of dinosaurs called theropods—a family which includes the T. rex! These dinosaurs were bipedal and primarily carnivorous. They were also—unlike many modern-day dinosaur depictions—covered in sheaths of colorful feathers. Thanks to feathered fossils discovered in China over the past three decades, these dinosaurs have been reimagined by scientists and artists in recent years.

Toward the end of the Cretaceous Period, the final era of dinosaurs, many birdlike species and early bird relatives flourished—until the fatal asteroid strike around 66 million years ago. Many of these dinosaurs perished in the mass extinction that followed, but curiously, some of them survived. How these feathered ancestors persisted is a subject of debate. Perhaps their ground-dwelling bodies were better adapted to using a wider variety of foods. Maybe it was just pure luck. Regardless, it was these survivors that eventually evolved into modern birds.

THE FIRST BIRD

Paleontologists generally accept that the earliest true bird is Archaeopteryx lithographica. It lived in the late Jurassic Period around 150 million years ago, and the first fossil of this species was found in limestone deposits in Germany in the nineteenth century.

Upon examination, Archaeopteryx had a number of birdlike traits that led to this conclusion. For instance, it had wings and feathers along its arms. But Archaeopteryx also had distinct dinosaur features, like a bony tail. This fossil—fossil that p on each wing—to maintain their ability to fly while avoiding imbalance (you may notice a gap in their wings is certain seasons). Ducks and geese are special cases. They undergo one molt a year, but they lose all their feathers at once. As a result, in the summer, waterfowl are rendered mostly flightless—and they look very drab and disheveled in the process (this is called the eclipse plumage). This is why you’ll see mallards molting without their characteristic green heads in the summer.

Some birds will also alternate between summer and winter plumage. For instance, snow buntings have breeding plumage that is pure white with black wingtips. But in the winter, their plumage is mottled with beige and brown to help them camouflage. Similarly, American goldfinches are bright yellow in the spring and summer but look drab in the colder months.

Decoding Beaks

Birds do not have teeth, so their beaks need to be specially adapted to process their meals and break down their food. Charles Darwin was one of the first biologists to note this. His famous Galápagos finches all had different beaks depending on the island that they lived on. This observation helped him form the theory of natural selection: the idea that an organism’s adaptations are shaped by its environment.

There are many types of bird beaks. Some are particularly noteworthy and adapted specifically to their primary food source.

This Is Terrible, This Is Wonderful

Dispatches from the Postpartum Universe
 Written and illustrated by Rani Ban

Combining the raw honesty and humor of Allie Brosh's Solutions and Other Problems with the warmth of classic parenting memoirs, Rani Ban's debut will reassure any new parent that they are not alone.

Designed to be read in stolen moments between feedings and diaper changings, this modern take on early parenthood offers a candid but validating perspective on the highs and lows of postpartum life.

With short, hand-lettered essays and poems and Ban's evocative mixed-media illustrations, This Is Terrible, This Is Wonderful is an affirming, unfiltered self-purchase or shower gift for new parents in the thick of it.

RANI BAN is a writer and artist based in the Hudson Valley, where she owns an art supply store called The Little Art Shop. She shares an old farmhouse with her partner, toddler, and a circus of rescue animals.

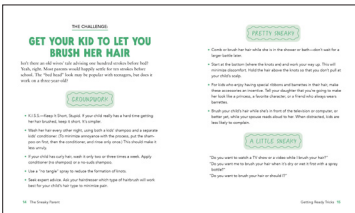

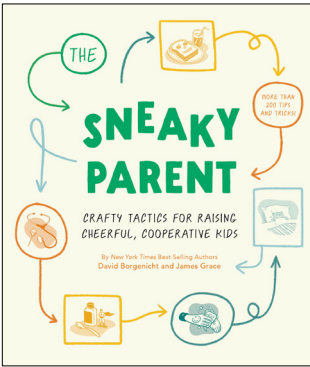

FOR ANYONE EXPERIENCING THE CONTRADICTION CHAOS AND JOY OF EARLY PARENTHOOD, ILLUSTRATOR RANI BAN OFFERS NO-BULLSHIT WISDOM AND SPARKS OF HOPE.

My Parents Are Dead: What Now?

By Becky Robison

Whether you've recently lost a parent or you're just trying to plan for the toughest day of your life so far, you're probably experiencing a lot of dizzying emotions. Unfortunately, our legal and financial systems don't care about your feelings. Whether you're holding it together or falling apart, you are going to need to enter an overwhelming labyrinth of paperwork and bureaucracy.

But you don't have to do it alone.

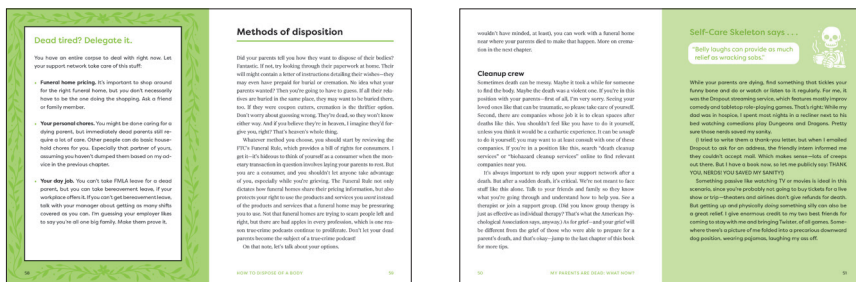

After losing both parents, Becky Robison devoted herself to making death and postdeath logistics easier on others—reading up on estate law, becoming a trained death doula, and starting the website deadparentswatnow.com. She draws on her own experience, plus interviews with experts ranging from monument makers to morticians, to hold your hand through:

- Asking your parents about their end-of-life wishes while you can
- Getting a body buried, cremated, or donated to science
- Planning a funeral
- Securing a death certificate
- Dealing with your parent's property—or debt
- Handling even more tricky issues you never wanted to be in charge of
- And still being able to laugh a little sometimes

Nothing about this is easy. The good news is you have someone on your side.

BECKY ROBISON is a writer living in Louisville, Kentucky. A graduate of UNLV's Creative Writing MFA program, she has been published in Salon, Slate, Juked, and elsewhere. After her parents died, she created My Parents Are Dead: What Now?—a website documenting her journey through the legal, financial, and bureaucratic aftermath in order to help others do the same. Now a certified death doula, she continues to educate others about death and dying through her writing and public speaking.

An approachable, expert-fueled guide to dealing with the legal, financial, and logistical hurdles of a parent's death—without losing your sense of humor.

Tiny Pep Talks For Teachers

Bite-Size Encouragement for the Classroom
By Paula Skaggs and Josh Linden

Teachers are constantly handing out reassurance, support, and inspiration. But who's boosting them through their everyday challenges—like waking a sleeping student, paying for supplies out of pocket, or fighting with the copy machine again? Frankly, sometimes an apple isn't enough!

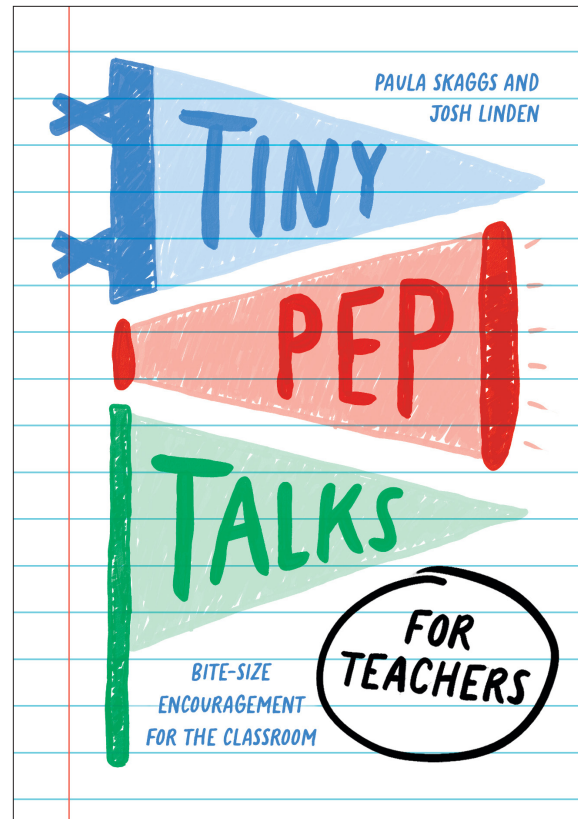

Comedians Paula Skaggs and Josh Linden are here to give teachers their due, with a hilarious compendium of over 75 pep talks for all the mundane struggles of the classroom. Let them cheerlead the beloved teachers in your life through those tough times at work:

- You don't get the students' references and now you feel old!
- Someone microwaved something gross in the teacher's lounge!
- A parent has strong opinions about their kid's grade!
- It's 9 p.m. and you still haven't planned tomorrow's lesson!
- Oops! You looked at your paycheck!
- And more low-stakes but all-consuming situations inside and outside of school!

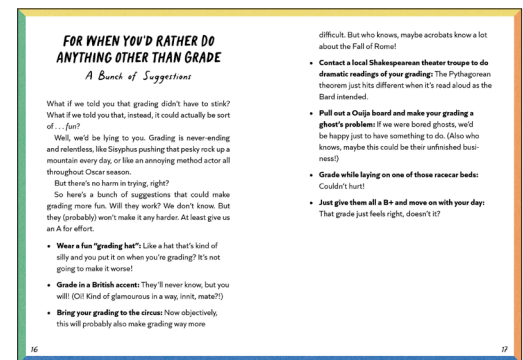

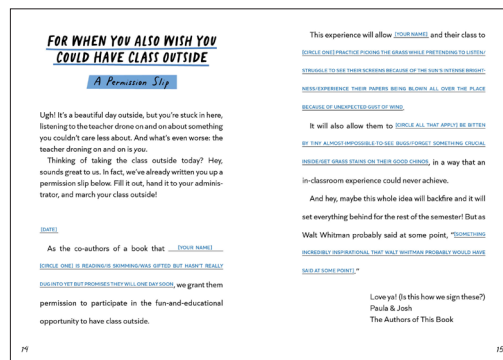

A teacher's support lasts for a lifetime. Let them know someone's rooting for them, too—and give them the belly laugh they probably need.

PAULA SKAGGS and JOSH LINDEN are Chicago-based writers, comedians, coauthors of Tiny Pep Talks: Bite-Size Encouragement for Life's Annoying, Stressful, and Flat-Out Lousy Moments, co-creators of the conversation game No Wrong Answers, and co-hosts of Being Earnest (A Very Sincere Podcast).

Don't Go There

A Tour of the World's Most Sinister Spots
By J. W. Ocker

Have you ever visited a forest or an abandoned building and gotten a bad vibe? There are places that are rife with rumors of hauntings, monsters, and sinister phenomena that can't be explained. And there are just as many sites that are the confirmed home of disasters, murders, and man-made mistakes. Everyone's heard about the Bermuda Triangle, but do you know these chilling sites?

- Roopkund: There's a lake tucked high in the frozen Himalayan Mountains . . . and it's full of skeletons.
- Mount Shasta: This mysterious mountain in California inspired the I AM cult and is said to host UFOs, bigfoots, and lizard people.
- Nahanni National Park: Called the "Valley of the Headless Men," this national park in northern Canada is famous for legends of a hidden gold mine . . . and a series of decapitated miners.
- Pine Barrens: Best known as the home of the Jersey Devil, this desolate pine forest has also hosted pirates, the mafia, and moonshiners.
- Ciudad Blanca: This fabled pre-Columbian "Lost City of the Monkey God" in Honduras doesn't want to be found, and explorers seeking it have met violent ends.

Award-winning travel writer and dark history expert J. W. Ocker explores these and many more locales around the world in this fascinating illustrated compendium that will ignite curiosity . . . and perhaps inspire some dubious travel plans.

J. W. (JASON) OCKER is an Edgar® Award winning travel writer, horror novelist, and blogger. His previous nonfiction books include Poe-Land, The New England Grimpendium and The New York Grimpendium, A Season with the Witch, the New York Times-reviewed Cursed Objects, and The United States of Cryptids. He is the creator of the blog and podcast OTIS: Odd Things I've Seen (oddtthingsiveseen.com).

REALITY TV for Snobs

The Outsider's Guide

Everything You Need to Know About the Shows You're Too Intellectual to Watch

Ali Barthwell

Turn skeptics into fans and fans into scholars with this smart, entertaining guide to 25 influential reality shows, from The Real World to The Traitors.

Reality TV For Snobs

By Ali Barthwell

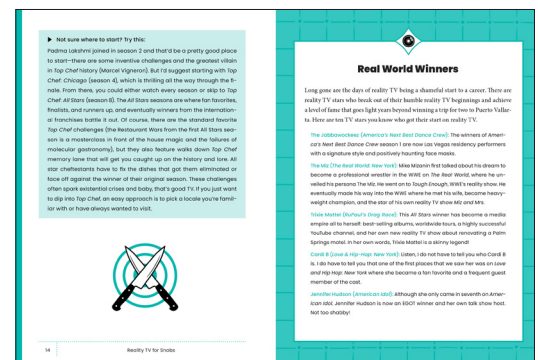

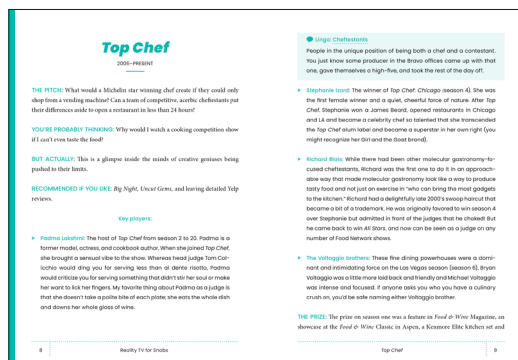

Much like reality itself, reality TV has one main problem: There's just too much of it. Whether you're a devoted fan who wants to explain your passion to your loved ones, a specialist who doesn't have time to watch every series of everything, or a skeptic who still wants to understand what all the references are about, you're going to need a guide.

Great news: Emmy-winning TV writer and critic Ali Barthwell has compiled a fun, highly informative primer that makes the vast field of reality television approachable. Reality TV for Snobs offers explanation and analysis of 25 influential shows to get newbies up to speed and give rabid fans something to chew on. Learn about:

- The massive cultural impact of The Bachelor
- The ultimate fate of all those "top models" from America's Next Top Model
- The genesis of that Real Housewives meme you keep seeing
- What really happened on the set of Survivor
- And many more secrets, facts, and insights about the shows you love—or don't love yet!

The Outsider's Guide series offers highly readable crash courses in major cultural phenomena, so you can catch the references and understand the big deal. Join the conversation—or convince your favorite snob to join it with you!

ALI BARTHWELL is a writer who has been recapping reality TV shows since 2015. She is an Emmy-winning writer for Last Week Tonight with John Oliver. Her work has been featured in the AV Club and Chicago magazine.
