ABANDONED IRELAND - Series

Publisher: Merrion Press

Genre: Travel, Photography

Material: Finished copies

Rights: Merrion Press

Abandoned Ireland travels the length and breadth of the island of Ireland visiting and documenting our forgotten buildings, highlighting their social importance, and bringing their stories back to life through the medium of photography

From Big Houses to humble cottages, schools to prisons, churches to dance halls, these buildings may now be abandoned, but they are far from empty. As a photographer, Brownlie's instincts are remarkable. In the seemingly ruined and mundane she finds diamonds in the rough; her images of the ordinary ephemera of past lives – dusty love letters, rusting spectacles, photographs yellowed and curled with age – paint the pictures of real people and full lives.

Rebecca Brownlie's photography reverberates with the echoes of our ancestors. Bursting with engaging and often surprising details, each haunting photograph is an invitation to immerse yourself in history, and an Ireland long gone.

REBECCA BROWNLIE won her first camera on a TV game show and her love of photography was sparked. From that day on, a camera is rarely far from her side. Her passion for abandoned buildings and love of photography have led her to appear on several local television shows featuring some of Ireland's lost buildings. She recently was the focus of a BBC documentary.

A millennia from now, Earth is uninhabitable. Our oceans have become the Caul – an annihilating liquid entity that no living thing can resist entering.

In facilities, scientists seek to understand the Caul.
Illegal rockets bring worshippers to submit to this entity.
And penitents, who resist its siren lure, scavenge the shores.

When eighty-year-old penitent Mae Jameson finds a lost young girl, she discovers the girl's father – a rogue scientist – has been murdered. His diaries reveal he's uncovered the Caul's true nature. But someone is killing to keep the secret for themselves . . .

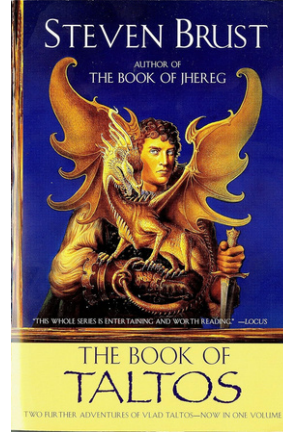

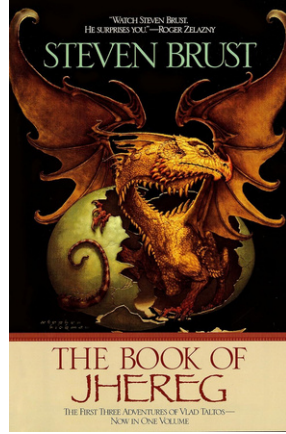

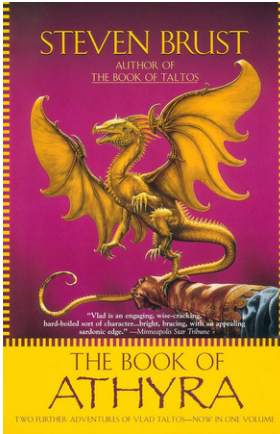

Brush keeps the pages turning with twisty conspiracy theories and exciting scenes with cinematic flourish. Earnest and detailed characterizations and worldbuilding mark Brush as a sci-fi writer worth keeping tabs on.”

BLACK SILK MASK

From the mastermind behind Doctor Who's Cartmel Masterplan comes a historical mystery about a missing heiress and a Hollywood startlett.

Publishing in Spring 2027.

The Year is 1932 and London is a hotbed of mysteries.

Damien Todhunter (Hunter) claims he was the sharpest detective Scotland Yard ever had. Until he wrote a tell-all memoir where he, conveniently, was the genius behind every case. The book was a huge success but ended his official police career pretty quickly. He was convinced he could ride that success for the rest of his life but somehow the movie business wasn't interested in a film with him in the starring role.

So now Hunter is back in London with his one souvenir from LA, Orla Carol. Orla washed up in Hollywood before she even started, but it turned out she had a real knack for following a lead. So now the two of them have had to put their pasts behind them and are determined to form London's premier detective agency.

But before they even leave the hotel, it looks like there's a murder to be solved. Now the pair have to find a premises, locate a missing heiress and, of course, hunt down whether London actually has any good coffee yet. All while trying to prove to anyone of note that their burgeoning new agency is the one to call when you have a mystery to be solved.

Starga is a vibrant, neon city built with magic and technology from a thousand unreachable worlds. Existing in a weird splinter of reality where people from across the universe fall out of the sky with no memory of their past lives, it is a mystery even to its own citizens.

No-one knows why Starga exists or what lies beyond it. No-one has ever been able to leave. And with more people falling from the sky every year, Starga's resources are at a breaking point.

Frey is a disillusioned office worker who once dreamed of being an archeologist—a scholar of fallen artefacts from the worlds above. When she gets the opportunity to salvage artefacts for a criminal organization, she knows it's a dangerous idea. But she can't resist the call of the unknown.

She explores the desert wasteland beyond the city walls in search of valuable artefacts. What she finds is a fuzzy black worm. Then the worm starts changing shape... and talking... and Frey's life suddenly gets a lot more complicated.

Because the worm is actually a shapeshifting dragon who knows the secret of what Starga really is—and how to escape from it. He just needs to get his memory back.

Lazar is one of the many cursed by the cosmic entity that appeared above the earth. From time to time, he is forced to shed his own skin and wear the skin of others. But people can get used to anything. Especially in a world that's being consumed by darkness, and where nothing makes sense anymore.

Lazar is no stranger to darkness. Not the one outside the city, nor the one within himself. After all, there isn't always a dead body available whose skin he can harvest. But he would never have expected to find a single bone of evil in Kresimir, his best friend...

It turns out that the kindest soul Lazar ever knew is working for an organisation that rescues people from the darkness, as long as they surrender one thing: their wombs.

To either save or stop the most important person in his life, Lazar will have to unveil a conspiracy connecting a city that preys on the beautiful parts of other cities, a man who emanates sunlight, and a pharmaceutical company whose employees have turned themselves into puppets.

WHO YOU ARE IN THE DARK is a weird fantasy novel about doing the right thing when no one is there to see it.

HUNGRY THIRSTY ROOTS

Coming of rage in a small town for fans of STRANGER THINGS, THE RAVEN BOYS & HAZELTHORN
by CG Drews

Genre: Young Adult,
Gothic, Horror

Material: PDF

Rights: Zeno

Dove has always known something was wrong with the town of Howlit— decaying, polluted, and stinking of death. Stark in comparison to lush and wealthy Beryl Creek, just over the river. What she never expected was to be marked for death by a centuries old curse that would keep things how they've always been— Beryl Creek thriving, while Howlit is dying, and all at the expense of her life.

The curse traps Dove in a haunted house that half exists between the two towns, intent on her death. Every night, she's drawn in an unwilling trance to its kudzu-covered doors alongside other unlucky sacrifices. They only survive the house's monsters with the help of a strange boy, caught somewhere between a Frankenstein-esque creature and a ghost, who is charged with keeping the cursed house alive against his will.

But this creature can only keep them alive for so long— the powers that be will eventually get their sacrifices, one way or another. With death on their heels, Dove and her friends will have to solve the mystery of this hellish house and these two fatefully intertwined towns before they become its next victims.

WHISKED AWAY

A whimsical middle grade cosy fantasy perfect for those who are glued to their screens every Bake Off season.

Genre: Fantasy, Cosy, Middle Grade

Material: PDF

Rights: Zeno

On an island kingdom, where sugar is currency, twelve-year-old Sundae secretly enters a life changing baking competition with a stolen thimble of sugar and her best friend, Basil the ferret, hidden in her pocket. Of course, entering the competition breaks her father's only rule: no baking, no matter what! But Sundae is determined to change his mind about her greatest passion, and is determined to win the competition and its prize—an endless sugar fortune.

Sundae brings a secret talent to the baking competition; the ability to weave the stories she loves into her recipes. As the contest picks up speed, Sundae is forced to bake at new and dizzying heights as she keeps her secret, even from friends that begin to feel like family. As the final draws closer Sundae finds herself facing her greatest rival—the kingdom's reclusive prince.

But when Sundae discovers that this year's winner will also be named heir apparent to the realm, the competition becomes more than the chance to win her fortune. Sundae isn't sure that she wants to rule, especially now that she's discovered a wide world outside her little village.

A story about the weight of generational trauma and the cycle of harm it creates inside a family

It's the wedding of the decade. The Petronios—a family as wealthy and influential as they are mysterious—gather at their ancestral villa for a grand wedding. But beneath the glittering surface is a venue steeped in centuries of tragic romance, strange secrets, and dangerous enchantments shaped by the family's long heritage.

Enter Kelly, a wedding planner. Able to see magic and no stranger to public façades and the dark truths they conceal, she's the perfect choice for the job—or so it seems. As the wedding day approaches, Kelly finds herself entangled in more than seating charts and floral arrangements.

VIDA CRUZ-BORJA is a Filipina fantasy and science fiction writer and editor. Her short fiction and essays have been published in F&SF, Fantasy, Strange Horizons, PodCastle, Expanded Horizons, and various anthologies. Her work in her different fields has been nominated, longlisted, and recommended for the Hugo Award, the British Science Fiction Award, and the James Tiptree Jr. Award.

Love doesn't die, people do . . .

At the edge of Chicago, nestled on the shores of Lake Michigan, there is a waystation for the dead. Every night, the newly-departed travel through the city to the Station, guided by its lighthouse. There, they reckon with their lives, before stepping aboard a boat to go beyond.

Nera has spent decades watching her father – the ferryman of the dead – sail across the lake, each night just like the last.

But tonight, something is wrong.

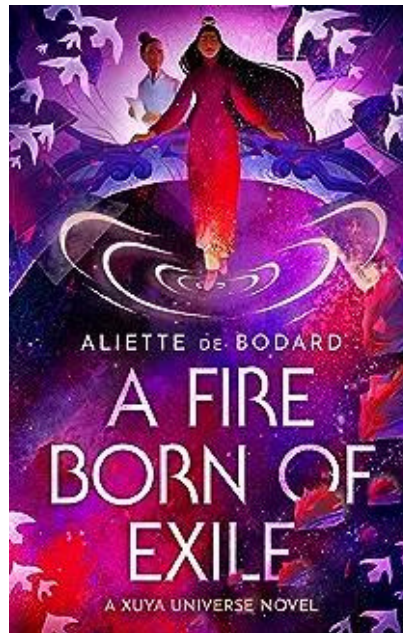

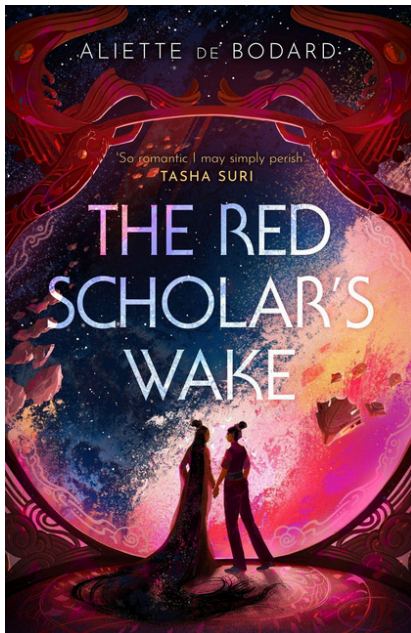

The Station's lighthouse has started to flicker out. The terrifying, ghostly Haunts have multiplied in the city. And now a person – a living person has found her way onto the boat.

Her name is Charlie. She followed a song. And she is searching for someone she lost.

"An earnest, heartfelt read set in a moody, otherworldly Chicago steeped in loss and history."

In 1912, Étienne Adenet de Bourbon fled his family home in France, choosing to make his way to America where he could live as the man he truly was instead of living a lie.

In New York he finds freedom from a past he would rather keep locked away, but when news of his father's death confronts him on his doorstep, he must sail across the Atlantic, back to that gilded cage he thought he had escaped.

Étienne learns that not only has his father kept him in the will, but he's also recognized him as a Bourbon son and heir to Chateau de Marielac—the only things he has ever wanted. But Étienne must remain in France for six months, or else the entire estate and all of the money go to his hated cousin.

But Montoneaux isn't the same town Étienne remembers. Creatures of the Devil stalk him. Threats from the holy Father shadow his every step. The ghost of his mother is intent on never letting him rest. Letters from Antonia never arrive and loneliness eats away at him.

His only solace from nightmares and hauntings? The manor across the lake and its parties, hosted by the mysterious yet beguiling Henri, a man whom the whole town appears to both fear and want in equal measure.

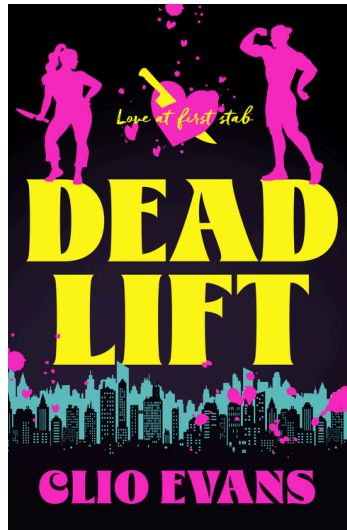

Chateau de Marielac is a graveyard of secrets, secrets Étienne wants to stay buried, but it seems the wealthy lord, with a knack for knowing things he shouldn't, is intent on unearthing them.

For fans of BUTCHER AND BLACKBIRD, a dark rom-com about finding the perfect partner to help you get that dead body into your truck.

Murdering a man isn't hard. Getting rid of the body properly? That's much harder.

Shelby's plan is simple. Kill the men who murdered her sister, exact her revenge and finally get justice. Her plans just hit a slight snag when she's caught loading the body of her latest victim into the trunk of her car... Even worse the guy who catches her seems totally oblivious, offering her tips on how not to strain her back carrying heavy loads and going so far as to lift the body in himself, hitting it against the trunk on the way in.

Shelby leaves hoping, praying that she never sees Brad again. There's one issue Brad can't get the sexy girl in a ski mask out of his head. When she returns to his life threatening him he comes up with a solution... Help her get rid of the men who killed her sister, all in the name of good personal fitness.

Somehow Shelby has ended up with a Himbo Henchman and with Brad seemingly as determined to get into her pants as she is to get revenge for her sister things just got a whole lot more complicated.

In the small West Texas town of Whynot, why not fall for your brother's two best friends—even if it means risking a broken heart?

Two years ago, I moved back to the dusty small town I used to call home. Every day that goes by is the same until two men I have no business wanting turn my life upside down.

Levi Rayburn. It's been a long time since I've seen the ex-hockey player, but now he's back in Texas—hotter and more rugged than ever.

Mateo Jimenez. The mustached firefighter is sexy, sweet, and has been there for me more times than I can count.

The only problem?

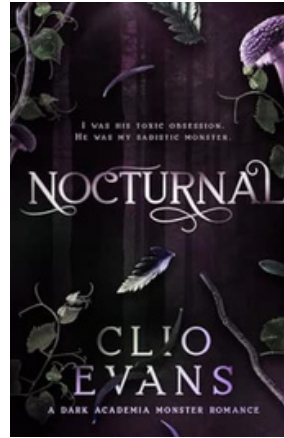

As my overprotective brother's best friends—Levi and Mateo are completely off limits.

At least, they should be...

“Why not fall in love with three kinky main characters who aren't afraid to get a little freaky? I mean.... it is the name of the town, after all.”

Great heroes fall and new heroes rise in this epic tale of tragedy, courage and love. The sequel to the Amazon Fantasy smash hit, BATTLE MAGE, which has now sold in excess of 200k copies worldwide.

Even among the Great Souls of Wrath, Aquila Danté is unique, the only battle mage to ever take a wife; the only battle mage with the courage to love and be loved. And every time Aquila flies into battle, he takes with him the love of his wife. But the path that Aquila walks is one of darkness, tragedy and loss.

With his great crimson dragon, Aquila confronts a new and terrifying demon known as Caim, the Cleaver of Souls. But such monsters are not the only dangers that Aquila must face. Doubt gnaws at his mind, grief tears at his soul and betrayal lurks in the shadows as corruption spreads through the ancient order of the Magi.

But even as everything seems hopeless, so new hope is born. Trapped in the Forsaken Lands of Beltane, a young woman called Ána gives birth to a child that wields a new and disturbing power.

PETER FLANNERY lives in a small village in the Scottish Borders. His epic fantasy, BATTLE MAGE, became an Amazon bestseller and has now been translated into six languages.

The world is falling to the burning shadow of the Possessed and only the power of a battle mage can save it. But the ancient bond with dragonkind is failing. Of those that answer a summoning too many are black. Black dragons are the enemy of humankind. Black dragons are mad.

Falco Dante is a weakling in a world of warriors, but worse than this, he is the son of a madman. Driven by grief, Falco makes a decision that will drive him to the brink of despair. As he tries to come to terms with his actions Falco follows his friends to the Academy of War, an elite training school dedicated to martial excellence. But while his friends make progress he struggles to overcome his doubts and insecurity. Even Queen Catherine of Wrath has her doubts about Falco's training.

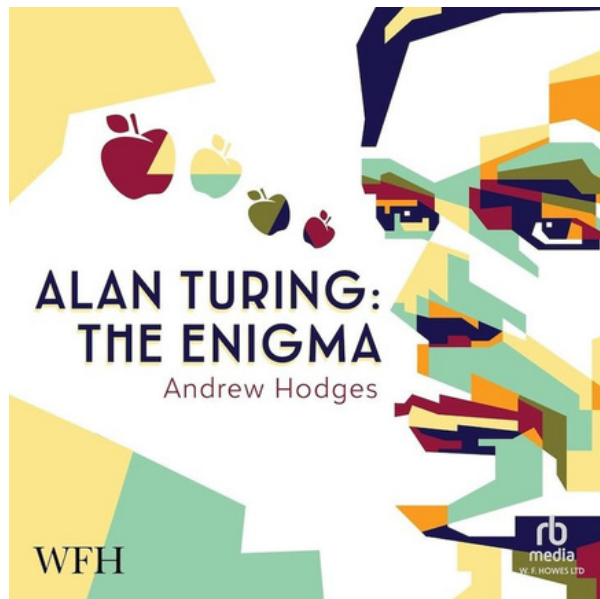

While the Queen tries to unite the Kingdoms against the Possessed, Falco struggles to overcome his fears. Will he unlock the power trapped inside him or will he succumb to madness and murder like his father?

A New Revised and Enhanced Edition Coming in 2027

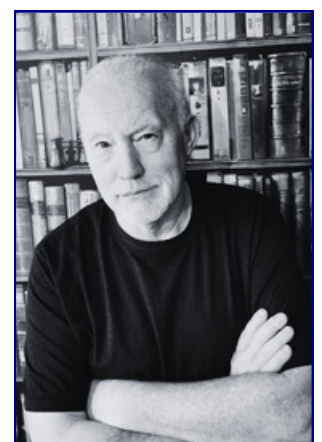

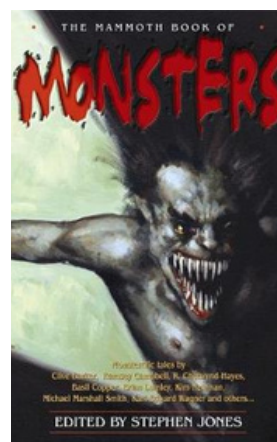

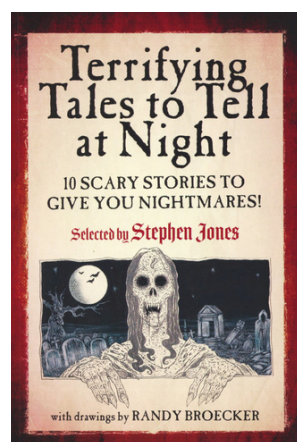

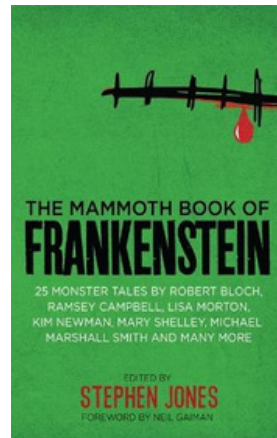

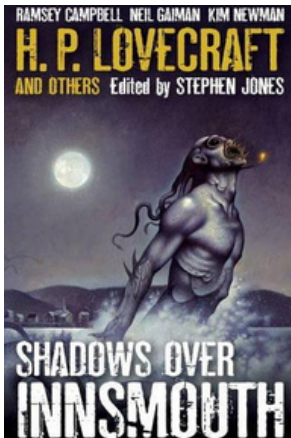

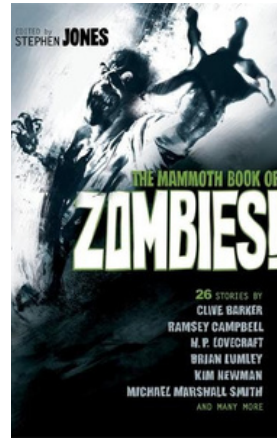

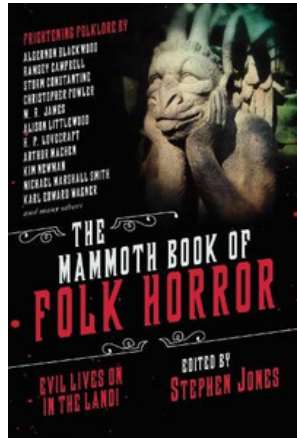

Andrew Hodges' acclaimed and spellbinding biography of Alan Turing, the code-breaking genius and father of modern computing whose work transformed the path of World War II was first published in the early 80s. It is considered the definitive work on Turing and was dramatised in 2014, for the Oscar winning film, THE IMITATION GAME.

Over the years, Turing's story has continued to develop and fascinate us. In 2026, Princeton (US) and Vintage (UK) will publish a revised and enhanced edition with new material uncovered, collated and edited by Hodges that will bring the story of Turing completely up to date

ANDREW HODGES is Professor Emeritus at Wadham College, Oxford University. His classic text of 1983, since translated into several languages, created a new kind of biography, with mathematics, science, computing, war history, philosophy and gay liberation woven into a single personal narrative. He is an active contributor to the mathematics of fundamental physics, as a follower of Roger Penrose. See www.turing.org.uk for further material.

Calling all fans of MIDSOMMAR and THE WICKER MAN

Strange things have been happening at Lough Carrow

Local villagers have told dark rumours about the vast peat bog ever since the huge project to rewild it began. Strange tracks have been seen leading into and out of the site. Livestock has been mutilated in the area. And on their trek to a camp site in the heart of the bog some of Lisa's group - five teenagers and three teachers she's guiding on a wilderness experience - spot wolves, wolverines, and something that looks older and scarier than either . . . even though Ireland's lost wild animals are yet to be introduced to the park . . .

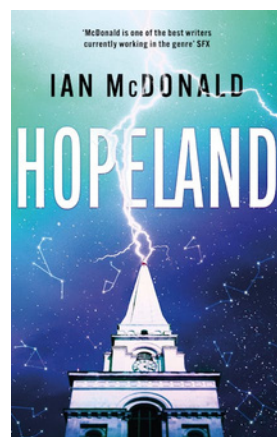

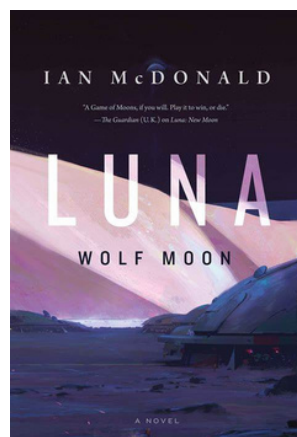

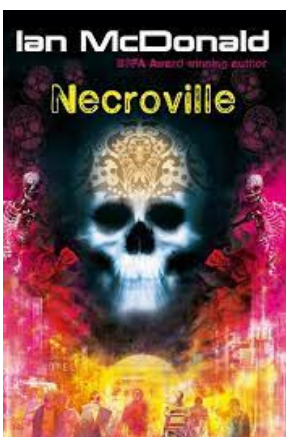

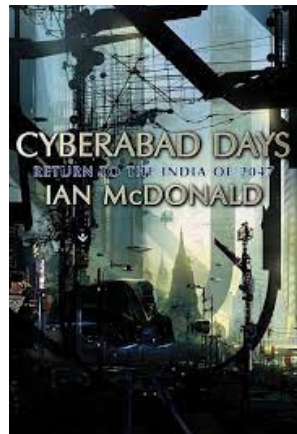

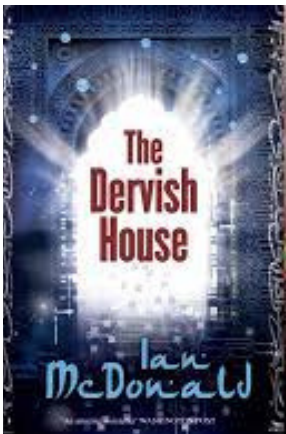

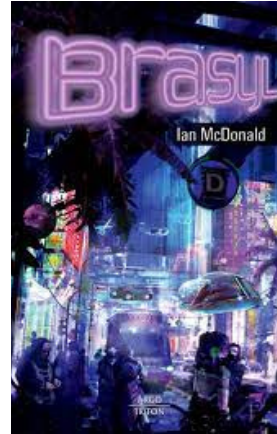

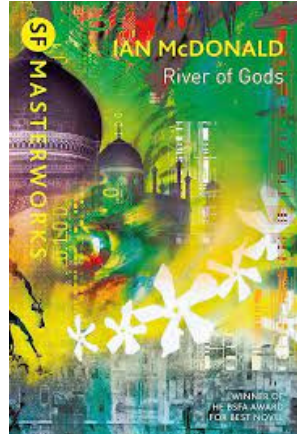

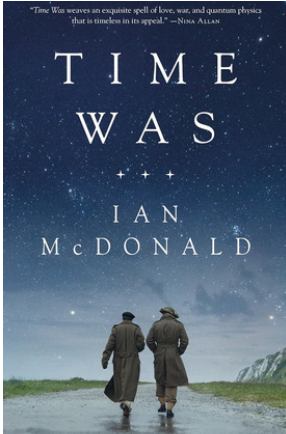

They have planned one cosy campout in this strange wilderness, where time and space themselves seems to be shifting, but as darkness falls it's clear they have a very different night ahead.

The camp is attacked. The campers are trapped. And something out there has only just begun to hunt . . .

‘[A] sharp thriller with a healthy dose of folk horror... With strong characterisation, a deep sense of place and real wit... entertaining and often surprising.’

Gary Kowalski goes on a solo mission out into the depths of space to discover aliens. He was never meant to actually find them.

When Gary crash-lands on a strange new world, he is rescued by an insectoid alien named Flower. Gary is already envisioning his triumphant return to earth as the hero who made first contact, when things with the aliens start to become creepy.

The aliens call themselves the Caretakers, and they're desperate for new people to serve after the deaths of all their previous masters.

Gary learns that he hasn't discovered new lifeforms at all, he's discovered the robots a now extinct alien species built to serve them. And now, in the absence of people to look after, the Caretakers' programming is driving them insane.

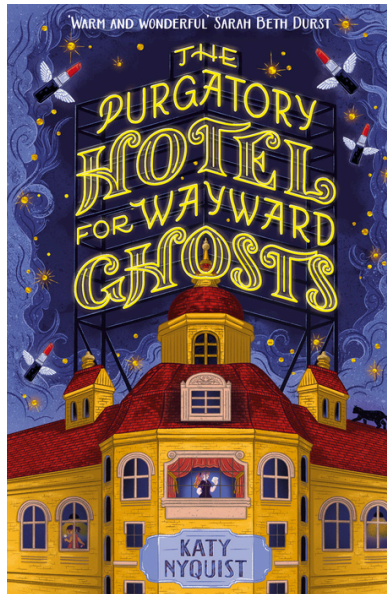

The Caretakers promise to find Gary's ship and help him return home, so they can offer their services to all of humanity.

But Gary starts to question what really happened to the Caretakers previous masters...And worries what would happen if they got their hooks in humanity

For Bonnie, there is nothing better than feeding someone a delicious meal. Her quest to connect people through food is only somewhat hampered by the fact that the world has ended. Every day she turns up to the pizza parlor, and every Wednesday she has a very special customer.

Rue Delacroix is the most beautiful woman Bonnie has ever seen, but there's definitely something odd about her and her family. The Delacroix live in a Victorian funeral home and they are universally hated by a town that relies on zombie hunting for their wages because the Delacroixes offer "good deaths". If you know the virus has got you, the Delacroix family will give you an end that won't involve you stalking the streets and trying to eat your loved ones brains.

But the Delacroix family also harbours a secret. Unbeknownst to the rest of society, they are stuck in some sort of half transformed state. They retain their minds but they still must fight a craving for human blood.

Rue's struggling with a craving of her own. She keeps being drawn back to the pizza parlor and the sweet girl behind the counter. Is she hung up on her blood or is the fact that she can't get her out of her head something far more human?

Rue - like a moth to a flame - can't stay away from the girl who is determined to find the bright side of the apocalypse. Can these two find love even as the world crumbles?

Seventeen-year-old Blake has spent her life studying magic at Holtsworth Academy with the hope of joining the ranks of the Royal Corps, an elite infantry comprised of Divine witches descended from the gods. There's only one problem: Blake isn't a Divine witch at all, she's a hedge witch; basically mortal

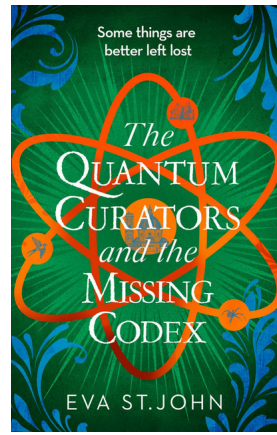

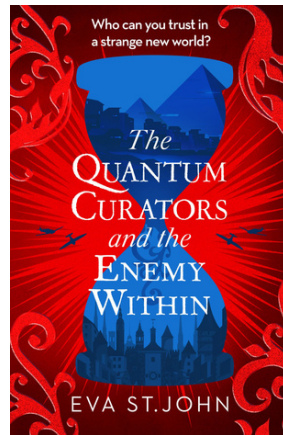

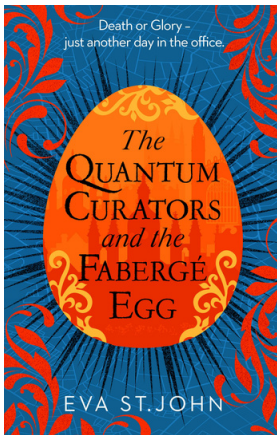

A spark of hope arrives during the Corps' annual visit to the academy, when Blake learns that the Grandwitch has brought along a secret necklace containing a volatile and immeasurable magic. Finally, Blake has a chance of wielding the power she has always longed for. But just as she finds a way to obtain it, the necklace disappears and Blake believes she knows exactly who stole it: Maeve Moram, the irritating but intriguing daughter of Death herself.

What begins as a quest to recover the necklace results in Blake unearthing not only the hidden truth of her fellow hedge witches but also a deeper and darker power that she can't begin to comprehend. Blake must decide who - and what - she really is before this ancient magic consumes her and the world she knows.

The universe: ancient, unpredictable and full of life. As civilisations rise and fall, one myth persists, capturing the imagination of successive eons. The Relic: an inexplicable artefact from the dawn of time that should not – cannot – exist. Those searching across the eons for the Relic are consumed by a single-minded passion.

On the world of the Library, under a mysterious alien invasion, a young librarian quests after a long-lost manuscript that might hold a clue to the Relic's whereabouts. A sentient flower is sent from the garden paradise of a galactic Flower Empire to seek similar answers, only to find a dark fate in the stars.

In a remote region of space, a lighthouse keeper and an insane alien machine lure ships to their deaths in the vast graveyard glare of three black holes, but find a clue that compels them, too, to seek the Relic.

Zinal, of an ancient civilisation, comes across the mystery millennia later and gets swept up in the search for the relic, while a strange force from the distant past is awakened, on its own secret mission to unite the searchers and bring them all together at last.

As the searchers assemble on the remote moon of a secretive order of alien nuns, will they finally find what their hearts desire?

In Guns and Sorcery, multiple award winning author Lavie Tidhar launches an ambitious new fantasy world

There is only one truth Gorel of Goliris – gunslinger, addict, touched by the Black Kiss – is interested in: finding a way back home, to the great empire from which he was stolen as a child and flung by sorcery far across the World.

But wherever Gorel goes, death doggedly follows. The World is vast – endless, some say –and dread Goliris is lost forever. And as Gorel journeys to find it, a new Dark Mage rises in the deadlands, who has a very special interest in Gorel and his quest. For an ancient threat is awakened, and the fate of the World and its gods lies in the balance. And as Kettle the mage and Gorel turn lovers, their futures become inexorably intertwined.

Set against the brutal background of an emerging Israel between 1882 to the present, the astonishing Maror Trilogy is the story of a war for a country's soul – a dazzling spread of narrative gunshots across multiple decades, all based on true accounts.

The asynchronous trilogy comprises MAROR (2022), ADAMA(2023) and GOLGOTHA (2025), stand-alone novels that together add to a larger tapestry that has been compared to the works of Balzac and Dickens – as well as Ellroy and Winslow.

In MAROR, the enigmatic Cohen weaves a web of corruption and lies across recent Israeli history; in ADAMA, a mobster returning to his old kibbutz uncovers a brutal family history stretching back decades; while in GOLGOTHA, a hitman and a policeman in separate centuries undertake the same doomed search for a mythic treasure as a country is born in blood.

'Comparisons to James Ellroy and Marlon James are valid... On every page we feel we're among real, breathing people... [a] compelling, unflinching roman-fleuve.'

Sherlock Holmes + Dracula = Judge Dee!

The delightful series of cosy vampire mysteries follows the ascetic vampire Judge Dee and his human assistant Jonathan as they travel across Medieval Europe and come face to face with fiendishly complicated puzzles – not least of all love!

Medieval Europe. A world of darkness. Of Gothic castles, isolated monasteries, of monks and knights and things that go bump in the night. A world where vampires can roam at will... At least, as long as they obey the rules! For a vampire may not murder another vampire. Not unless they have a really good reason to, anyway.

Enter Judge Dee. Ancient. Immortal. Ascetic. His cold intellect draws him wherever a mystery is present, and he will rest at nothing to solve the puzzle.

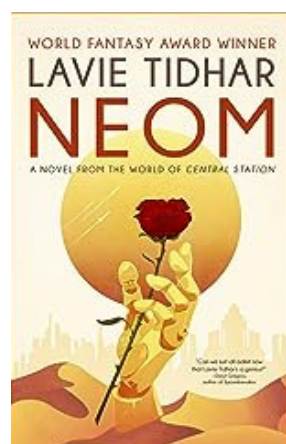

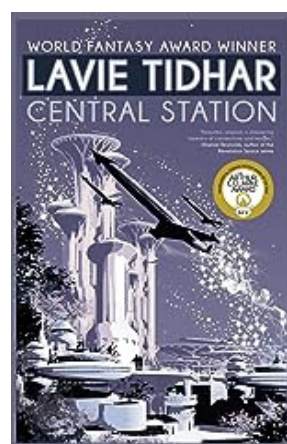

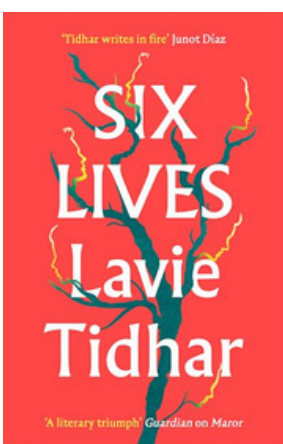

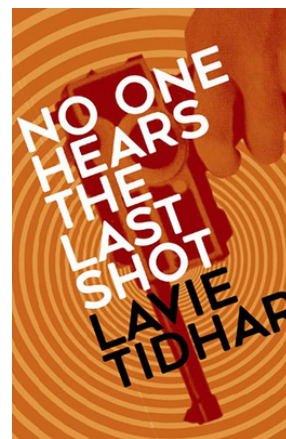

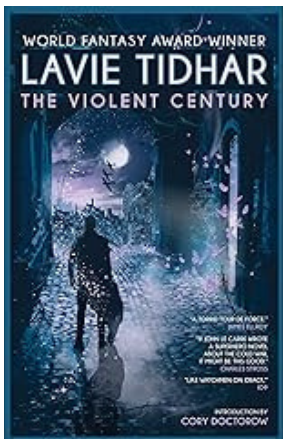

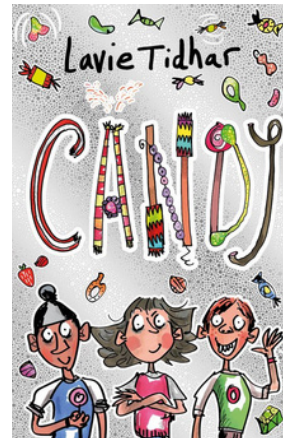

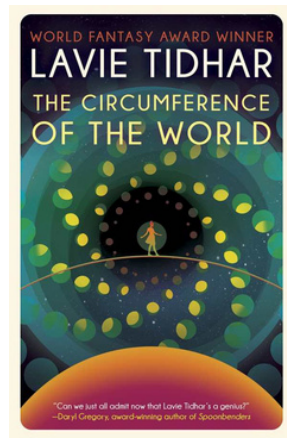

Each of their cases involves nasty, murderous vampires, and each one presents a more fiendishly complicated puzzle than the last. But Judge Dee always solves the case.

DATING & DRAGONS

A cosy, spicy romantasy perfect for fans of THE BABY DRAGON CAFE and LEGENDS AND LATTES

Publisher: Alcove Press (WAL)

Genre: Romance, Fantasy

Material: Manuscript

Simon Hartwell is about to lose everything. He already lost his husband, and now his dragon sanctuary—a rundown valley refuge for hurt and homeless dragons—is one eviction notice away from collapse.

He's lost. He's lonely. He's dangerously low on dragon feed.

What starts as a quick trip into the vibrant coastal capital of Valoria turns into something far more complicated when Simon meets Otto Tidelion. He's a charming half-elf with a too-easy smile, an unexpected love of dragons... and secrets he's not ready to share.

Falling for someone new isn't easy when you're nursing heartbreak, dodging debt collectors, and trying to keep seven dragons happy on a shoestring budget.

As Simon begins to open back up, the sanctuary becomes more than just a crumbling refuge, it starts to feel like a home again. Simon finds himself roped into plans for a dragon festival that could bring attention (and hopefully funding) to the sanctuary. It's messy, chaotic, and more than he thinks he can handle, but it's also the first time he's felt part of something in years.

Then just as things begin to feel possible again, a wealthy and ruthless entrepreneur sets his sights on the sanctuary's land. Simon must find the strength to fight not just for his dragons—but for a second chance at life. And maybe even love.

MAX WALKER writes queer, heart and heat-filled fiction across fantasy and romance. He loves creating comfort reads overflowing in found family feels, captivating magic, and swoony, hopeful love stories. He lives in Atlanta with his husband, who he's known since they were 14 and who's consistently inspiring him to create more happy ever afters.

THE FULL NELSON

A romance guaranteed to body slam your heart.

Nelson ‘Savvy’ McCallister is a charming, larger-than-life minor league wrestler with a quick wit and a heart as big as his biceps. Hailing from a small Southern town where everybody knows your business, Savvy is out, proud, and unapologetically himself. But what about Nelson? He doesn’t find things quite as easy. When he’s not throwing other men around in the ring, Nelson’s dodging nosy relatives and trying to figure out how to keep his two worlds from colliding.

Enter Drew Evans, a buttoned-up sports journalist from the big city who’s sent to cover a series of Savvy’s matches. The chemistry between them is undeniable, but Drew’s professional detachment and his own struggles with self- acceptance make it difficult for him to fully embrace the feelings growing between them.

As the two men navigate their blossoming relationship, they’re also forced to confront their pasts, their dreams, and the personal sacrifices they’re willing to make. For Savvy, it’s not just about winning in the ring—it’s about fighting for the people and places that have shaped him. And as Drew starts to understand what wrestling means to Savvy, he realizes that sometimes the biggest victories aren’t the ones you achieve in front of a crowd, but the ones that happen when you put everything on the line for love—and for the future.

A Victorian Fantasy Romance Perfect For Fans of Cassandra Clare or A TEMPEST OF TEA.

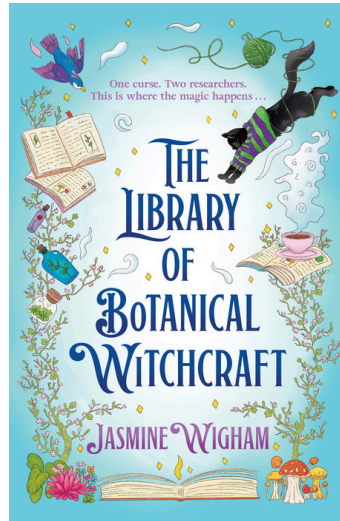

Jem has lied, cheated and stolen to make his way into the swankiest circles of London's elite. But Jem's about to realise the problem with inventing yourself an elaborate adventuring background is, it doesn't hold up very long when you're confronted with real monsters.

When a beautiful woman recruits him, Jem narrowly escapes with his life. But once Jem knows magic is real, he can't quite resist its pull. So alongside Felicity, a young woman cursed with immortality to watch everyone she loves grow up and leave her; Odessa, a witch with no magic; Rashid, a scientist who figured out how to turn people invisible but not how to turn them back; and McLaren, a Scotsman who may or may not be a werewolf – Jem must figure out who is creating monsters out of men.

“High action and intricate plot twists are woven through the magical tapestry that Wigham conjures here, but the real sorcery comes from how she brings the characters and their relationships to vivid life. A spellbinding start to a promising new horror/fantasy series.”

Rights: Headline

A whimsical and charming fantasy perfect for fans of EMILY WILDE'S ENCYCLOPAEDIA OF FAERIES

The Evergreen Conservatoire of Botanical Witchcraft is off limits to anyone without magical gifts. But Thalia Sylvestre has just landed herself a prestigious job as an assistant in Evergreen's library.

It's Thalia's perfect job: to be surrounded by tomes and enchanted plants. Most importantly, it gives her the resources she needs to research, in secret, a cure for the curse that afflicts her twin sister Hebe.

If only the place wasn't teeming with troublesome witches. Witches like August Hawthorne, a post-graduate student from a distinguished line of magical botanists. August is standoffish and clearly disdainful of Thalia. But his research could be the key to helping Hebe - if Thalia can stop acting so flustered around him for long enough to find out.

As Thalia and August grow closer, time is running out for Hebe. But within Evergreen are secrets yet to be unearthed...

JASMINE WIGHAM lives in Country Durham. After finishing a degree in History and English literature, she went on to become a finalist in Penguin Random House's 2020 'Write Now' scheme, which aims to champion promising new writers who are so far underrepresented in the publishing landscape.

Art is sort of a cat. He's definitely in the shape of a cat. He still has memories of university and a human family but they're getting fuzzier by the day. He may have done a deal with a demon.

Gary is sort of a paladin. He's definitely got the body for it, he doesn't quite have the armour but they can reforge some kettles and tin cans and make it look like he does. He's actually god-touched, able to produce the holy light. But he might have killed his master and been exiled in disgrace.

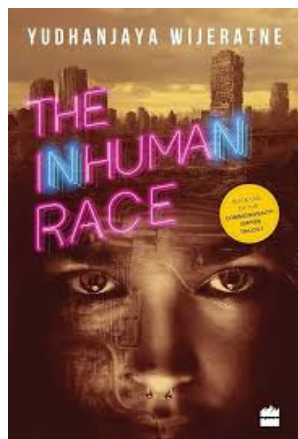

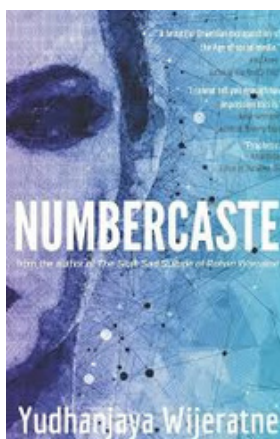

The one thing Art and Gary have in common is that they need each other. Gary is determined to go on a quest for redemption, and Art seems to know what to do. Art needs money. He's quite badly in debt, and a goody-two-shoes paladin seems the perfect way to con some townfolk.

As Art and Gary band together to not slay dragons and not save damsels, Art is convinced he's running the perfect game. All he has to do is not start caring about the stupid paladin.

YUDHANJAYA WIJERATNE is a Nebula-nominated science fiction author and data scientist from Colombo, Sri Lanka. Described as "Black Mirror meets the Circle meets 1984" by fans, NUMBERCASTE is an award-winning debut that looks out into an all-too-possible future - a future that's being built even as you read this.

The INHUMAN series imagines a alternative near future where colonialism never happened and India is a world power. It focuses on a Squid Games style competition where small children fights to survive, broadcast live on television. When the children are actually revealed to be AI, should our horror at their treatment change?

THE SALVAGE CREW is a space exploration adventure told from the perspective of a snarky artificial intelligence you won't soon forget about a C List salvage crew on a desolate planet where a secret that will change humanity forever is waiting in the darkness.

Yudhanjaya Wijeratne's stories have won the Gratian Prize, been nominated for the Nebula and Independent Games Festival awards, appeared in venues like Wired, ForeignPolicy and Slate, and been Washington Post and Audible bestsellers.
